Proclamation

(Great Seal of Ontario) W. R. MACDONALD

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO

ELIZABETH THE SECOND, by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom, Canada and Her other Realms and Territories Queen, Head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith.

TO PROFESSOR MARTIN H. EDWARDS, of the City of Kingston, GREETING:

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS in and by Chapter 323 of The Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1960, entitled "The Public Inquiries Act", it is enacted that whenever Our Lieutenant Governor in Council deems it expedient to cause inquiry to be made concerning any matter connected with or affecting the good government of Ontario or the conduct of any part of the public business thereof or of the administration of justice therein in such inquiry is not regulated by any special law, he may, by Commission appoint one or more persons to conduct such inquiry and may confer the power of summoning any person and requiring him to give evidence on oath and to produce such documents and things as the Commissioner or Commissioners deems requisite for the full investigation of the matters into which he or they are appointed to examine;

AND WHEREAS Our Lieutenant Governor in Council of Our Province of Ontario deems it expedient to cause inquiry to be made concerning the matters hereinafter mentioned;

NOW KNOW YE that We, having and reposing full trust and confidence in you the said Professor Martin H. Edwards, of our City of Kingston, DO HEREBY APPOINT you to be our sole Commissioner and naming you, the said Professor Martin H. Edwards to be the Chairman thereof, to inquire into the relationship, if any between the use of diazinon or any other pesticide on the Toronto Islands during the period April 1st to August 1st, 1969, and the death of waterfowl at the Toronto Islands, and to make recommendations as the Commissioner deems necessary arising out of any such relationship.

AND WE DO HEREBY CONFER on you, Our said sole Commissioner, the power to summon any person and require him to give evidence on oath and to produce such documents and things as you Our said sole Commissioner deem requisite for the full investigation of the matters into which you are appointed to examine;

AND WE DO HEREBY FURTHER ORDER that all Government Departments, boards, commissions, agencies and committees shall assist the Commissioner to the fullest extent possible in order to assist him to carry out his duty and functions, and that the Commissioner shall have the authority to obtain such counsel, staff, technical advisers and clerical staff as he deems proper;

TO HAVE, HOLD AND ENJOY the said Office and authority of Commissioner for and during the pleasure of Our Lieutenant Governor in Council for Our Province of Ontario.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF We have caused these Our Letters to be made Patent, and the Great Seal of Our Province of Ontario to be hereunto affixed.

WITNESS:

THE HONOURABLE WILLIAM ROSS MACDONALD, A Member of Our Privy Council for Canada, Upon whom has been conferred Our Canadian Forces Decoration, A Colonel in Our Canadian Armed Forces Supplementary Reserve and One of Our Counsel Learned in the Law, Doctor of Laws, LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR OF OUR PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, at Our City of Toronto in Our said Province this twenty-fifth day of September in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and sixty-nine and in the eighteenth year of Our Reign.

BY COMMAND

ROBERT WELCH,
Provincial Secretary
and
Minister of Citizenship.

THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION ACT

O. Reg. 408/69.
Reimbursement for Cost of Education in Territorial Districts or Crown Lands.
Made—October 1st, 1969.
Approved—October 16th, 1969.
Filed—October 23rd, 1969.

REGULATION MADE UNDER
THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION ACT

1. Section 4 of Ontario Regulation 278/66 is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

4. Where a pupil,
(a) who is admitted to a training school under The Training Schools Act, 1965;
(b) who is detained in a correctional institution as defined in The Department of Correctional Services Act, 1968; or attends an elementary school, the Minister shall reimburse the board for the cost of education of the pupil.
(c) who is placed in an approved home as defined in The Mental Hospitals Act,

2. Section 5 of Ontario Regulation 278/66 is revoked.

3. Sections 6 and 7 of Ontario Regulation 278/66 are revoked and the following substituted therefor:

6. Where a pupil,
(a) resides in a territorial district;
(b) is not resident in a school division, a school section, a separate school zone, a secondary school district, or a Crown establishment;
(c) attends either an elementary school or a secondary school; and (d) is provided by an elementary school board with transportation to and from school, the Minister shall reimburse the board for its expenditure for the transportation of the pupil in an amount not in excess of the amount that would be eligible for general legislative grants in respect of transportation of the pupil if the jurisdiction of the board was considered to include the place of residence of the pupil, and the board may charge to the parent or guardian of such pupil the excess of the actual cost of transportation over the amount of the reimbursement provided by this section.

7. Where a pupil,
(a) resides in a territorial district;
(b) is not resident in a school division, school section or separate school zone;
(c) attends an elementary school in Ontario;
(d) is not provided with daily transportation to the school that he attends; and
(e) whose parent or guardian under the provisions of subsection 10 of section 37 of The Schools Administration Act is reimbursed by the board of the elementary school that he attends for the cost of board and lodging and transportation once a week from his residence to school and return, the Minister shall reimburse the elementary school board for the cost of board and lodging and transportation once a week from his residence to school and return in an amount not in excess of $3.50 for each day of attendance as certified by the principal of the school that the pupil attends.

4. Clause a of section 8 of Ontario Regulation 278/66 is revoked and the following substituted therefor:
(a) resides in a territorial district.

5. Section 10 of Ontario Regulation 278/66 is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

10. Where a pupil,
(a) who is admitted to a training school under The Training Schools Act, 1965; or
(b) who is detained in a correctional institution as defined in The Department of Correctional Services Act, 1968, attends a secondary school, the Minister shall reimburse the board for the cost of education of the pupil.

6. Section 11 of Ontario Regulation 278/66 is revoked.

7.—(1) Clause e of section 12 of Ontario Regulation 278/66 is revoked and the following substituted therefor:
(e) whose parent or guardian under the provisions of subsection 7 of section 37 of The Schools Administration Act is reimbursed by the board of the school that he attends for the cost of board and lodging and transportation once a week from his residence to school and return.

(2) The said section 12 of Ontario Regulation 278/66 is amended by striking out "lodging and weekly transportation in an amount not in excess of $3" in the eighteenth and nineteenth lines and inserting in lieu thereof, "and lodging and transportation once a week in an amount not in excess of $3.50".

8. Clause a of section 14 of Ontario Regulation 278/66 is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

(a) resides in a territorial district.

9. Sections 16 and 17 of Ontario Regulation 278/66 are revoked and the following substituted therefor:

16. In this Part,

(a) "divisional board" means a divisional board as defined in section 101 of The Secondary Schools and Boards of Education Act;

(b) "school" means a school in which classes for trainable retarded children are conducted by a divisional board;

(c) "trainable retarded child" means a trainable retarded child as defined in section 101 of The Secondary Schools and Boards of Education Act.

17. Where a trianable retarded child,

(a) resides with his parent or guardian in a territorial district but not in a school division, school section or separate school zone; or

(b) is placed in an approved home, as defined in section 1 of The Mental Hospitals Act; and the Minister shall reimburse the divisional board that operates the school for the cost of education of the child, such cost to be determined in accordance with the provisions of section 100*a* of The Schools Adminis-tration Act.

(c) attends a school,

17*a*. Where a trainable retarded child,

(a) resides with his parent or guardian in a territorial district but not in a school division, school section or separate school zone;

(b) attends a school;

(c) is not provided with daily transportation to the school that he attends; and

(d) whose parent or guardian under the provisions of subsection 3 of section 111 of The Secondary Schools and Boards of Education Act is reimbursed by the divisional board of the school that he attends for the cost of board and lodging and transportation once a week from his residence to school and return,

(5) Every oath taken and subscribed under section 13 of the Act shall be forwarded to the Director.

1*a*. An abstract furnished under subsection 1 of section 17 of the Act shall be in Form 1*c*.

2. Subsection 1 of section 5 of Ontario Regulation 157/64, as remade by section 2 of Ontario Regulation 361/66, is amended by striking out "Inspector" in the first line and inserting in lieu thereof "Director".

3. Ontario Regulation 157/64, as amended by Ontario Regulations 361/66, 348/67, 180/68, 435/68 and 256/69, is further amended by adding thereto the following section:

7*a*.—(1) A notice of,

(a) a lease;

(b) a sublease;

(c) an assignment of a lease;

(d) a mortgage of a lease;

(e) an assignment of the lessor's interest in a lease; or

(f) a determination or surrender of a lease, registered under subsection 7 of section 31 of the Act shall be in Form 7*a*.

(2) A notice of a lease shall not be registered unless the notice is signed by the owner of the land and by,

(a) the lessee named in the notice; or

(b) the solicitor for the lessee.

(3) A notice of a sublease shall not be registered unless the notice is signed by the owner of the land and the sublessor and by,

(a) the sublessee; or

(b) the solicitor for the sublessee.

(4) A notice of an assignment of a lease shall not be registered unless the notice is signed by the owner of the land and the assignor and by,

(a) the assignee; or

(b) a solicitor for the assignee.

(5) A notice of a mortgage of a lease shall not be registered unless the notice is signed by the owner of the land and the mortgagor and by,

(a) the mortgagee; or

(b) the solicitor for the mortgagee.

(6) A notice of an assignment of the lessor's interest in a lease shall not be registered unless the notice is signed by the assignor and by,

(a) the assignee; or

(b) the solicitor for the assignee.

(7) An attorney may sign on behalf of a person who is required by this section to sign a notice, in which case section 49 of the Act applies.

(8) Section 41 of the Act applies to a notice signed on behalf of a corporation.

(9) Subsection 1 of section 34 of the Act applies to notices registered under subsection 7 of section 31 of the Act.

(10) The affidavits that are required in respect of leases and assignments of leases by section 52 of the Act are required in respect of notices of leases and notices of assignments registered under subsection 7 of section 31 of the Act.

(11) A notice of a lease shall contain,

(a) the names of the parties;

(b) its date;

(c) the term and the expiry date of the lease;

(d) any right or option to purchase;

(e) any provision for renewal or extension and the conditions relating thereto; and

90.—(1) The grade for sour cherries for processing is as follows:

1. No. 1 Grade, consisting of cherries that are,

(a) sound, mature, hand-picked, clean, of one variety, of good colour, well formed and of fair size for the variety;

(b) free from decay, worms, pulled pits, doubles, sun-scald, stems, dirt or other foreign matter;

(c) free from insect injury and disease;

(d) free from softness, shrivelling and bruises;

(e) free from rain cracks or other skin breaks that exceed one-eighth of an inch in length other than a very thin line encircling the stem end of the cherry;

(f) free from superficial scars, hail marks, wind whip, limb rub, russeting and similar discolouration or scars that affect an aggregate area per cherry exceeding one-eighth of an inch in diameter;

(g) free from any scars that materially discolour the flesh;

(h) of a minimum size of five-eighths of an inch in diameter; and

(i) free from any damage, injury or defect or a combination thereof that is not referred to in clauses e, f or g and that materially affects their quality for canning or freezing.

(2) Subject to subsection 3, the minimum colour of sour cherries for processing shall be determined by a "B" or "No. 3" plastic colour comparator.

(3) Where a processor enters into a contract for sour cherries for processing with a grower thereof, the processor shall specify in the contract which type of colour comparator will be used.

(4) Tolerances by count or weight for variations incidental to commercial grading and handling of sour cherries for processing shall be not more than,

(a) 1 per cent affected by decay or worms;

(b) 5 per cent having the same grade defect; and

(c) 8 per cent having grade defects of any kind including those referred to in clauses a and b.

90*a*.—(1) The grade for sweet cherries for processing is as follows:

1. No. 1 Grade, consisting of cherries that are,

(a) sound, mature, hand-picked, clean, of one variety, of good colour, well formed and of fair size for the variety;

(b) free from decay, worms, pulled pits, doubles, sun-scald, stems, dirt or other foreign matter;

(c) free from insect injury and disease;

(d) free from softness, shrivelling and bruises;

(e) free from rain cracks or other skin breaks that exceed one-eighth of an inch in length other than a very thin line encircling the stem end of the cherry;

(f) free from superficial scars, hail marks, wind whip, limb rub, russeting and similar discolouration or scars that affect an aggregate area per cherry exceeding one-eighth of an inch in diameter;

(g) free from any scars that materially discolour the flesh;

(h) in the case of sweet cherries that are processed for canning, of a minimum diameter of three-quarters of an inch; and

(i) free from any damage, injury or defect or a combination thereof that is not referred to in clauses e, f or g and that materially affects their quality for canning or freezing.

(2) The minimum colour of sweet cherries for processing shall be determined by a "No. 6" plastic colour comparator.

(3) Tolerances by count or weight for variations incidental to commercial grading and handling of sweet cherries for processing shall be not more than,

(a) 1 per cent affected by decay or worms;

(b) 5 per cent having the same grade defect; and

(c) 8 per cent having grade defects of any kind including those referred to in clauses a and b.

90*b*.—(1) The grade for brine cherries for processing is as follows:

1. No. 1 Grade, consisting of cherries that are,

(a) sound, mature, hand-picked, clean, of one variety, of good colour, well formed and of fair size for the variety;

(b) free from decay, worms, pulled pits, doubles, sun-scald, dead stems, dirt or other foreign matter;

(c) free from insect injury and disease;

(d) free from softness, shrivelling and bruises;

(e) free from rain cracks or other skin breaks that exceed one-eighth of an inch in length other than a very thin line encircling the stem end of the cherry;

(f) free from superficial scars, hail marks, wind whip, limb rub, russeting and similar discolouration or scars that affect an aggregate area per cherry exceeding one-eighth of an inch in diameter;

(g) free from any scars that materially discolour the flesh;

(h) of a minimum size of nine-sixteenths of an inch in diameter; and

(i) free from any damage, injury or defect or a combination thereof that is not referred to in clauses e, f or g and that materially affects their quality for canning or freezing.

(2) Tolerances by count or weight for variations incidental to commercial grading and handling of brine cherries for processing shall be not more than,

(a) 1 per cent affected by decay or worms;

(b) 5 per cent having the same grade defect; and

(c) 8 per cent having grade defects of any kind including those referred to in clauses a and b.

90*c*. In sections 90, 90*a* and 90*b*,

(a) "double" means a cherry that has the appearance of attached twin cherries;

(b) "mature" means having reached the state of maturity at which the pit will separate cleanly from the flesh.

14.—(1) Clause d of paragraph 1 of subsection 2 of section 91 of Regulation 141 of Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1960, as made by subsection 1 of section 12 of Ontario Regulation 69/66, is amended by striking out "but not including that area of a cucumber occupied by striping characteristic of cucumbers" in the fourth, fifth and sixth lines.

(2) Clause g of paragraph 1 of subsection 2 of the said section 91, as made by subsection 1 of section 12 of Ontario Regulation 69/66, is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

(g) in the case of Long English type cucumbers, of a minimum length of twelve inches and, in the case of cucumbers other than Long English type, of a minimum length of six inches;

(3) Clause h of paragraph 1 of subsection 2 of the said section 91, as made by subsection 1 of section 12 of Ontario Regulation 69/66, is amended by inserting after "package" in the first line "respecting all of the cucumbers in the package but one".

(4) Clause d of paragraph 2 of subsection 2 of the said section 91, as made by subsection 1 of section 12 of Ontario Regulation 69/66, is amended by striking out "but not including that area of a cucumber occupied by striping characteristic of cucumbers" in the fourth, fifth and sixth lines.

(5) Clause g of paragraph 2 of subsection 2 of the said section 91, as made by subsection 1 of section 12 of Ontario Regulation 69/66, is amended by striking out "five" in the first line and inserting in lieu thereof "4½".

(6) Clause h of paragraph 2 of subsection 2 of the said section 91, as made by subsection 1 of section 12 of Ontario Regulation 69/66, is revoked.

(7) Clause b of subsection 3 of the said section 91, as remade by subsection 1 of section 12 of Ontario Regulation 69/66, is amended by striking out "or clause h of paragraph 2 of subsection 2" in the fifth and sixth lines.

(8) The said section 91, as amended by section 12 of Ontario Regulation 69/66 and section 21 of Ontario Regulation 7/67, is further amended by adding thereto the following subsection:

(3*a*) Notwithstanding clause m of subsection 1 of section 45, where greenhouse cucumbers of Canada No. 1 Grade are packed in a package that is not transparent, a total of 10 per cent of the packages may contain,

(a) fewer or more cucumbers than the number marked thereon; or

(b) cucumbers that exceed the size variations referred to in clause h of paragraph 1 of subsection 2.

15.—(1) Clause c of subsection 2 of section 97 of Regulation 141 of Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1960, as remade by section 25 of Ontario Regulation 7/67, is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

(c) 3 per cent of the heads affected by decay including those referred to in clause b; and

. . . . . .

(2) The said section 97, as remade by section 25 of Ontario Regulation 7/67, is amended by adding thereto the following subsection:

(3) Notwithstanding clause l of subsection 1 of section 45, where head lettuce is packed in a package that is not transparent, a total of 10 per cent of the packages may contain,

(a) fewer or more heads of lettuce than the number marked thereon; or

(b) heads of lettuce that exceed the size variations referred to in clause k of paragraph 1 of subsection 1.

16.—(1) Clause e of paragraph 1 of subsection 1 of section 99 of Regulation 141 of Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1960, as remade by section 3 of Ontario Regulation 12/66, is amended by inserting after "from" in the first line "specimens of ovoid shape the length of which is greater than 1½ times the diameter or".

(2) Clause g of paragraph 2 of subsection 1 of the said section 99, as made by section 3 of Ontario Regulation 12/66, is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

(g) of a minimum diameter of one-half of an inch and a maximum diameter of one inch or, where the onions are packed in a package on which is marked "½ inch to 1½ inches", of a minimum diameter of one-half of an inch and a maximum diameter of 1½ inches;

(3) Subsection 3 of the said section 99, as remade by section 3 of Ontario Regulation 12/66, is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

(3) In paragraph 3 of subsection 1, "free from damage" means free from any injury or defect or combination thereof that seriously affects their appearance, edibility or shipping quality.

(4) Subsection 6 of the said section 99, as made by section 3 of Ontario Regulation 12/66, is amended by striking out "2½" in the third line and inserting in lieu thereof "2¼".

17.—(1) Clause c of paragraph 1 of subsection 1 of section 103 of Regulation 141 of Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1960, as remade by section 7 of Ontario Regulation 12/66, is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

(c) not trimmed into the crown but are so trimmed that the length of the tops of 75 per cent of the parsnips in the lot does not exceed one-half of an inch and the length of the tops of the remaining parsnips does not exceed one inch;

(2) Clause c of paragraph 3 of subsection 1 of the said section 103, as remade by section 7 of Ontario Regulation 12/66, is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

(c) trimmed so that the tops do not exceed one inch in length but are not trimmed into the crown;

18. Section 109 of Regulation 141 of Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1960 is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

109.—(1) The grade for peaches for processing is as follows:

1. No. 1 Grade, consisting of peaches that are,

(a) uniformly mature, ripe or firm, not soft or hard, well formed, sound, clean, hand-picked, of good colour and of one variety;

(b) free from decay, worms, disease, skin punctures or skin breaks, growth cracks, split pits and gum;

(c) free from damage by insects;

(d) free from damage caused by russeting and limb rub that affects an aggregate area per peach that exceeds 5 per cent of the surface area of the peach;

(e) free from damage caused by hail marks and bruises other than such slight bruises as are incidental to the grading, packing and handling of peaches; and

(f) free from any damage, injury or defect that causes such waste as to not yield, after trimming, two well formed halves, or that materially affects the quality of the peach.

(2) In this section,

(a) "firm" means fairly solid but yielding very slightly to moderate pressure;

(b) "ripe" means yielding readily to moderate pressure;

(c) "soft" means, with respect to peaches that are not clingstone peaches, over-ripe, possessing very little resistance to slight pressure and having reached a stage of growth that is too far advanced to be desirable for canning;

(d) "well formed" includes being capable of yielding two well shaped halves.

(3) Tolerances by count for variations incidental to commercial grading and handling of peaches for processing shall be not more than,

(a) 3 per cent affected by decay;

(b) 5 per cent having the same grade defect; and

(c) 10 per cent having grade defects of any kind including those referred to in clauses a and b.

19. Subclause ii of clause e of paragraph 1 of subsection 1 of section 110 of Regulation 141 of Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1960, as made by section 33 of Ontario Regulation 7/67, is amended by striking out "three-quarters" in the fifth line and inserting in lieu thereof "one-half".

20. Section 118 of Regulation 141 of Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1960 is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

118.—(1) The grade for pears for processing is as follows:

1. No. 1 Grade, consisting of pears that are,

(a) mature, hand-picked, sound, firm, well formed, capable of yielding two well shaped halves and of one variety;

(b) free from scald, hard end, black end, internal breakdown, decay, worms, drought spots, soot blotch and ink spots; and

(c) free from damage that cannot be completely removed in the ordinary process of paring the pears for commercial use and that is caused by,

(i) bruises,

(ii) russeting that is not characteristic of the variety and that affects an aggregate area per pear that exceeds 5 per cent of the surface area of the pear,

(iii) insect injury,

(iv) limb rub or leaf marks other than limb rub or leaf marks of a russet character that do not harm the quality of the pear,

(v) hail marks,

(vi) sun scald or spray burns, other than sun scald or spray burns that have only slightly changed the normal colour of the pear and have caused no blistering or cracking of the skin,

(vii) skin punctures,

(viii) insects, other than leaf roller injury that is not more than one-half of an inch in diameter and does not deform the pear, or

(2) The pressure for No. 1 Grade pears for processing of the Bartlett variety shall be not less than sixteen pounds and not more than twenty pounds.

(3) Tolerances by count for variations incidental to commercial grading and handling of pears for processing shall be not more than,

(a) 1 per cent affected by worms;

(b) 3 per cent over-mature;

(c) 5 per cent having the same grade defect; and

(d) 10 per cent having grade defects of any kind including those referred to in clauses a, b and c.

21. Section 124 of Regulation 141 of Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1960 is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

124.—(1) The grade for plums and fresh prunes for processing is as follows:

1. No. 1 Grade, consisting of plums or prunes that are,

(a) well formed, mature, clean, of good colour and of one variety;

(b) free from plum rot, decay, insect injury, leaf marks, doubles, sun scald where the softening or collapse of the flesh is apparent, russeting and disease;

(c) free from skin breaks that are not healed other than those that are caused by pulled stems and do not extend beyond the stem basin;

(d) free from heat injury that is extensive or not light in colour;

(e) free from sunburn that has materially changed the normal colour of the plum or prune or that has caused the skin to blister or crack;

(f) free from growth cracks;

(g) free from split pits;

(h) free from drought spots and gum spots;

(i) free from insects;

(j) free from bruising other than slight bruising incidental to grading and handling of plums and prunes;

(k) free from hail marks or other similar depressions or scars that are not shallow or superficial or that affect an aggregate area per plum or prune exceeding one-quarter of an inch in diameter;

(l) free from any combination of two or more of the defects referred to in clauses c, d, e, f, g, h, i, j or k the seriousness of which exceeds the tolerance prescribed for any one defect in the combination; and

(m) free from any damage, injury or defect or a combination thereof that is not referred to in clauses c, d, e, f, g, h, i, j or k and that materially affects their appearance, edibility or canning quality.

(2) In subsection 1, "double" means a plum or a prune that has the appearance of attached twin plums or prunes.

(3) Tolerances by count for variations incidental to commercial grading and handling of plums and fresh prunes for processing shall be not more than,

(a) 3 per cent affected by decay;

(b) 4 per cent having the same grade defect; and

(c) 8 per cent having grade defects of any kind including those referred to in clauses a and b.

(4) Plums or fresh prunes in a lot do not meet the requirements for No. 1 Grade plums or fresh prunes for processing where,

(a) a contract between a grower and a processor for the plums or fresh prunes for processing provides that the plums or fresh prunes shall be without stems; and

(b) more than 4 per cent of the plums or fresh prunes in the lot have stems attached.

22.—(1) Subclause i of clause i of paragraph 1 of subsection 1 of section 125 of Regulation 141 of Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1960, as made by section 8 of Ontario Regulation 12/66, is amended by striking out "4 inches, except that in a package containing twenty-five pounds or less, the maximum diameter shall be" in the third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh lines.

Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31 and 32 in Concession VI;

Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32 and 33 in Concession VII;

Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32 and 33 in Concession VIII;

Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31 and 32 in Concession IX;

Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32 and 33 in Concession X;

Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32 and 33 in Concession XI;

Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31 and 32 in Concession XII; and all islands in the Township.

THE PUBLIC HOSPITALS ACT

O. Reg. 440/69.
Hospital Management.
Made—October 30th, 1969.
Filed—November 6th, 1969.

REGULATION MADE UNDER
THE PUBLIC HOSPITALS ACT

1.—(1) Clause a of subsection 2*b* of section 41 of Regulation 523 of Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1960, as made by subsection 3 of section 13 of Ontario Regulation 102/66, is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

(a) the registrar and the elected members of the Council of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario, ex officio, after giving prior notice to the Commission and to the administrator on each such occasion of his or their intention to inspect the medical records of a hospital; and

. . . . .

(2) Clause f of subsection 3 of the said section 41 is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

(f) the Director of the Research and Planning Branch or the Department or his authorized representative approved by the Commission or an officer or employee of the Commission who is designated by the Chairman,

. . . . .

(3) Subsection 4 of the said section 41 is revoked and the following substituted therefor:

(4) Any information received under clause f of subsection 3 shall not be used or disclosed to any person for any purpose other than the purposes of compiling statistics and carrying out medical and epidemiological research for or approved by the Department and the Commission.

THE POWER COMMISSION ACT

O. Reg. 441/69.
Electrical Safety Code.
Made—October 21st, 1969.
Approved—November 6th, 1969.
Filed—November 7th, 1969.

REGULATION MADE UNDER THE THE POWER COMMISSION ACT

SECTION 0—INTERPRETATION

0-002 In this Code:

1. "acceptable" means acceptable to an inspector;

2. "accessible" when applied to wiring methods means that the wiring is not permanently closed in by the structure or finish of a building and is capable of being removed without disturbing the building structure or finish;

3. "accessible" when applied to electrical equipment means that the equipment may be closely approached because it is not guarded by locked doors, elevation, or other effective means;

4. "alive" or "live" means electrically connected to a source of potential difference, or electrically charged so as to have a potential different from that of the earth; and in this Code "current-carrying" has the same meaning where the intention is clear;

5. "aluminum-sheathed cable" means a cable consisting of one or more conductors of approved type assembled into a core and covered with a liquid- and gas-tight sheath of aluminum or aluminum alloy;

6. "ampacity" means current-carrying capacity expressed in amperes;

7. "approved", when applied to electrical equipment, means that the advertisement, display, use, installation, sale, offer for sale or other disposal of the electrical equipment has been authorized under Section 2 of this Code, and when applied to any other articles, methods or things means that the articles, methods or things are approved by the inspection department for the particular use or purpose to which the articles, methods or things are put or for which they are employed;

8. "approved fire-door" means a fire-door including the hardware which has been approved and labelled by the Underwriters' Laboratories of Canada or Underwriters' Laboratories Incorporated, for the location in which it is used;

9. "armour" means a wrapping of galvanized interlocking steel strip or other approved metal, forming an integral part of the assembly of certain insulated cables, wires, or cords;

10. "armoured-cable" means a cable provided with a wrapping of metal tape other than lead, which wrapping forms an integral part of the assembly;

11. "authorized person" means a qualified person who by the nature of his duties or occupation is obliged to approach or handle electrical equipment, or a person who, having been warned of the hazards involved, has been instructed or authorized to do so by someone having authority to give the instruction or authorization;

12. "auxiliary gutter" means a raceway consisting of a sheet metal enclosure used to supplement the wiring space of electrical equipment and to enclose interconnecting conductors;

13. "AWG" means the American (or Brown and Sharpe) wire gauge as applied to non-ferrous conductors and non-ferrous sheet metal;

14. "branch circuit" means that part of a circuit extending beyond the final overcurrent devices in the circuit;

15. "building" means a structure that stands alone or which is cut off from adjoining structures by unpierced fire-walls or by openings protected by approved fire-doors;

16. "bus" means a conductor which serves as a common connection for the corresponding conductors of two or more circuits;

17. "busway" means a raceway consisting of a system of metal troughing, including its elbows, tees, crosses and straight runs, containing conductors supported on insulators;

18. "cabinet" means an enclosure of adequate mechanical strength, composed entirely of fire- and absorption-resistant material, designed either for surface or flush mounting and provided with a frame, matt, or trim, in which swinging doors are hung;

19. "cabletrough" means a raceway consisting of a system of metal troughing, and fittings therefor, so formed and constructed that insulated conductors and cables may be readily installed or removed after the system has been completely installed, without injury either to conductors or their covering; and

    (a) "ladder cabletrough" means a cabletrough with openings exceeding 2 inches in a longitudinal direction;

    (b) "non-ventilated cabletrough" means a cabletrough in which there are no ventilating openings in the bottom c sides;

    (c) "ventilated cabletrough" means a cabletrough having adequate ventilating openings with no opening exceeding 2 inches in a longitudinal direction;

20. "cell" means a single, enclosed tubular space in a cellular metal-floor member, the axis of the space being parallel to the axis of the metal-floor member;

21. "cellular" when applied to a metal-floor or part thereof means that the metal-floor or part thereof is so constructed as to contain one or more cells;

22. "cellular metal-floor raceway" means the cells of cellular metal-floors which, with suitable fittings, may be approved as enclosures for electrical conductors;

23. "circuit" means a path usually of metal through which electric current can flow;

24. "circuit-breaker" means an electro-mechanical device designed to automatically open a current-carrying circuit on a pre-determined over-current, under both overload and short-circuit conditions without injury to the device;

25. "communication circuit" means a circuit which is part of a communication system;

26. "communication system" means an electrical system whereby intelligence signals may be transmitted to or through a central station, including telephone, telegraph, district messenger, fire and burglar alarm, watchman or sprinkler supervisory-system, and other central station systems, which commonly receive the power supply necessary for their operation from central office or local power sources, but does not include radio communication equipment;

27. "concealed" means rendered permanently inaccessible by the structure or finish of a building;

28. "conductor" means a wire, cable or other form of metal installed for the purpose of conveying electric current from one piece of electrical equipment to another or to ground;

29. "conduit" means a raceway of circular cross-section into which it is intended that conductors be drawn, and includes metallic and non-metallic rigid conduit and flexible conduit; and,

    (a) "rigid conduit" means a rigid conduit of metallic or non-metallic material;

    (b) "rigid metal conduit" means a rigid conduit of metallic material having the same dimensions as standard pipe and suitable for threading with standard pipe thread;

    (c) "rigid non-metallic conduit" means a rigid conduit of non-metallic material which may not be threaded;

    (d) "rigid PVC conduit" means a rigid non-metallic conduit of unplasticized polyvinyl chloride;

    (e) "rigid Type I non-metallic conduit" means a rigid non-metallic conduit of bituminized fibre or asbestos cement which requires to be encased in concrete;

    (f) "rigid Type II non-metallic conduit" means a rigid non-metallic conduit of bituminized fibre or asbestos cement of heavier construction than Type I, which does not require to be encased in concrete;

    (g) "flexible conduit" means a conduit of metallic material which may be easily bent without the use of tools;

    (h) "liquid-tight flexible metal conduit" means a flexible metal conduit having an outer liquid-tight jacket;

30. "connection authorization" means written permission by the inspection department to a supply authority, or any other person or corporation, to supply electric energy to a particular electrical installation;

31. "contractor" means any person who as principal, servant or agent, by himself or his associates, employees, servants or agents performs or engages to perform either for his own use and benefit or for that of another and for or without remuneration or gain any work with respect to any electrical installation or any other work to which this Code applies;

32. "cut out box" means an enclosure of adequate mechanical strength, composed entirely of fire-resistant and absorption-resistant material, designed for surface mounting and having swinging doors or covers secured directly to, and telescoping with, the walls of the box proper;

33. "dead" when applied to electrical equipment means that the current-carrying electrical equipment is free from any electrical connection to a source of potential difference and from electrical charge or has not a potential different from that of earth;

34. "dead front" when applied to electrical equipment means that the electrical equipment is so constructed that all live parts, except the wells for plug fuses in panelboards and in enclosed branch-circuit cut-outs, are enclosed in such manner as to be inaccessible;

35. "different systems" means systems which derive their energy from different transformers or from different banks of transformers or from different generators or other sources;

36. "disconnecting means" means a device, group of devices, or other means whereby the conductors of a circuit can be disconnected from their source of supply;

37. "dust-tight" means an enclosure constructed so that dust cannot enter it;

38. "duty" means a requirement of service that specifies the degree of regularity of the load; and,

    (a) "continuous duty" means a requirement of service that demands operation at a substantially constant load for an indefinitely long time;

    (b) "short time duty" means a requirement of service that demands operation at a substantially constant load for a short and definitely specified time;

    (c) "intermittent duty" means a requirement of service that demands operation for definitely specified alternate intervals of,

        (i) load and no load,

        (ii) load and rest, or

        (iii) load, no load and rest;

    (d) "periodic duty" means a type of intermittent duty in which the load conditions are regularly recurrent;

    (e) "varying duty" means a requirement of service that demands operation at loads and for intervals of time, both of which may be subject to wide variation;

39. "electrical equipment" means any apparatus, appliance, device, instrument, fitting, fixture, machinery, material or thing used in or for, or capable of being used in or for, the generation, transformation, transmission, distribution, supply, or utilization of electric power or energy, and without restricting the generality of the foregoing, includes any assemblage or combination of materials or things which is used, or is capable of being used, or adapted to serve or perform any particular purpose or function when connected to an electrical installation, notwithstanding that any of such materials or things are mechanical, metallic or non-metallic in origin;

40. "electrical installation" means a system or part of a system of wiring installed or to be installed in or upon any land, building or premises from the point or points of delivery of electric power or energy therein or thereon, up to the point or points where the power or energy can be consumed or used therein or thereon by any electrical equipment, and the expressions "work on an electrical installation" or "make an electrical installation" include the installation, maintenance, alteration, extension and repair of the wiring and the connection of the wiring with any of the electrical equipment or with any other part of the wiring system;

41. "electrical metallic tubing" means a metal raceway into which it is intended that conductors shall be drawn, and which has a circular cross-section, a wall thinner than that of rigid metal conduit and an outside diameter sufficiently different from that of rigid conduit to render it impractible for threading it with standard pipe-thread;

42. "electric elevator" means an elevator in which the motion of the car or platform is obtained through an electric motor applied directly to the elevator machinery;

43. "elevator" means a hoisting and lowering mechanism equipped with a car or platform which moves in guides in a substantially vertical direction but not including tiering-machines or piling-machines which operate within one storey, or endless belts, conveyors, chains, buckets or similar devices used for the purpose of elevating materials;

44. "elevator machinery" means the machinery and its equipment used in raising and lowering the elevator car or platform;

45. "emergency and exit lights" means all lights required by law for the purpose of facilitating safe exit in case of fire or other emergency;

46. "enclosure" means a protective housing for switchgear, switches, air circuit breakers, panelboards, industrial control equipment and similar apparatus; and

(a) "enclosure I" means a general purpose enclosure of metal or other suitable material, designed to protect live parts from accidental contact, which is suitable for use indoors in ordinary locations;

(b) "enclosure II" means a drip-tight enclosure similar to an enclosure I but constructed or protected by the addition of drip shields or their equivalent capable of preventing moisture or dirt from accumulating on the enclosure and which is suitable for use indoors where the enclosure may be subject to falling moisture or dirt;

(c) "enclosure III" means a weatherproof enclosure constructed or protected so that exposure of the enclosure to weather, falling moisture or external splashing will not impair the effectiveness of the enclosed equipment and which is suitable for use outdoors;

(d) "enclosure IV" means a watertight enclosure constructed so that a direct stream of water from a hose cannot penetrate into the enclosure and which is suitable for use where the enclosure may be subject to direct streams of water;

(e) "enclosure V" means a dust-tight enclosure constructed so that dust, readily ignitible fibres or combustible flyings can not penetrate into the enclosure and which is suitable for use indoors in Class III hazardous locations or where the atmosphere may contain a substantial quantity of non-hazardous dust.

47. "explosion-proof" means enclosed in a case which is capable of withstanding without damage an explosion which may occur within it of a specified gas or vapour and which is also capable of preventing the ignition of a specified gas or vapour surrounding the enclosure from sparks, flashes or explosion of the specified gas or vapour within the enclosure;

48. "exposed" as applied to live parts means that a live part can be inadvertently touched or approached more closely than is safe by any person and the term is applied to parts not suitably guarded, isolated or insulated;

49. "exposed" as applied to wiring methods means not concealed;

50. "extra-low-voltage power circuit" means a circuit, such as valve operator and similar circuits, which is neither a remote control circuit nor a signal circuit, but which operates at not more than 30 volts and which is supplied from a transformer or other device restricted in its rated output to 1,000 volt-amperes and approved for the purpose, but in which the current is not limited in accordance with the requirements for a Class 2 circuit;

51. "feeder" means a conductor or group of conductors which transmits electrical energy from a service supply, transformer, switchboard, distribution centre, generator, or other source of supply to the branch-circuit over-current devices;

52. "fire resisting" as applied to buildings means constructed of masonry, reinforced concrete, or equivalent materials in accordance with the requirements of the fire underwriters;

53. "flame-retarding" when applied to a material means that the material will not burn for more than a specified period of time and will not permit flame to travel or extend beyond a specified distance;

54. "flammable" means capable of being easily set on fire;

55. "flexible tubing" means flexible non-metallic tubing commonly known as loom for the mechanical protection of insulated wires;

56. "garage" means a building or portion of a building in which one or more self-propelled vehicles carrying volatile, flammable liquid for fuel or power are kept;

57. "ground" means a connection to earth of electrical equipment by means of a ground electrode;

58. "ground electrode" means a metallic water-piping system, or a metallic object or device buried in, or driven into, the earth so as to make intimate contact therewith, to which a grounding conductor is electrically and mechanically connected;

59. "ground fault circuit interrupter" means a device which will interrupt the circuit to the load when the effective ground fault current is 5 milliamperes or more in a time;

(a) not greater than that calculated in accordance with the equation

where T is the time in milliseconds, and I is the effective ground fault current in milliamperes between the 5 and 260 milliamperes;

and

(b) not greater than 25 milliseconds for ground fault currents of over 260 milliamperes;

and which will interrupt the circuit to the load in accordance with the foregoing requirements in the event that the neutral conductor should become grounded between the ground fault circuit interrupter and the load;

60. "grounded" means connected effectually with the general mass of the earth through a grounding system of sufficiently low impedance and having current-carrying capacity sufficient at all times, under the most severe conditions which are likely to arise in practice, to prevent any current in the grounding conductor from causing a harmful voltage to exist;

(a) between the grounded conductors and neighboring exposed conducting surfaces which are in good contact with the earth; or

(b) between the grounded conductors and neighboring surfaces of the earth itself;

61. "grounding conductor" means a path of copper or other suitable metal specially arranged as a means whereby electrical equipment is electrically connected to a ground electrode;

62. "grounding system" means all conductors, clamps, ground clips, ground plates or pipes, and ground electrodes by means of which electrical equipment or an electrical installation is grounded;

63. "guarded" when applied to electrical equipment means that the electrical equipment is so covered, shielded, fenced, enclosed, or otherwise protected by means of suitable covers, casings, barriers, rails, screens, mats or platforms as to remove the likelihood of dangerous contact or approach by persons or objects;

64. "header" means a transverse raceway for electrical conductors, providing access to predetermined cells of a cellular metal-floor and permitting the installation of conductors from a distribution centre to the cells;

65. "hoistway" means a shaftway, hatchway, well hole, or other vertical opening or space in which an elevator, escalator or dumbwaiter operates or is intended to operate;

66. "identified" when applied to a conductor means that the conductor has a white or gray covering or separator, has a tracer in the outer braid or has some other approved means of identification indicating that the conductor is a grounded conductor, and when applied to other electrical equipment means that the terminals to which grounded conductors are to be connected have been distinguished for identification by being tinned, nickel-plated or otherwise suitably marked;

67. "inaccessible" when applied to a room or compartment means that the room or compartment is sufficiently remote from access or so placed or guarded that unauthorized persons cannot inadvertently enter the room or compartment, and when applied to electrical equipment means that the electrical equipment is covered by the structure or finish of the building in which it is installed or maintained or is sufficiently remote from access or so placed or guarded that unauthorized persons cannot inadvertently touch or interfere with the equipment;

68. "industrial establishment" means a building or part of a building in which any manufacturing process, assembling or handling of materials in connection with the manufacturing, preparing, treating or finishing of any goods or products, is carried on;

69. "inspection department" means The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario;

70. "inspector" means any person duly appointed by the inspection department for the purpose of enforcing this Code;

71. "insulated" means separated from other conducting surfaces by a dielectric material or air space having a degree of resistance to the passage of current and to disruptive discharge sufficiently high for the condition of use;

72. "insulating" as applied to non-conducting substances means that they are capable of bringing about the condition defined as insulated;

73. "lamp holder" means a device constructed for the mechanical support of lamps and for connecting them to circuit conductors;

74. "location",

(a) "ordinary location" means a dry location in which at normal atmosphere pressure and under normal conditions of use, electrical equipment is not unduly exposed to injury from mechanical causes, excessive dust, moisture, or extreme temperatures, and in which electrical equipment is entirely free from the possibility of injury through corrosive, flammable or explosive atmospheres;

(b) "damp location" means a location which is normally or periodically subject to condensation of moisture in, on or adjacent to electrical equipment;

(c) "wet location" means a location in which liquids may drip, splash or flow on or against electrical equipment;

(d) "hazardous location" means premises, buildings, or parts thereof in which there exists the hazard of fire or explosion because,

(i) highly flammable gases, flammable volatile liquids, mixtures or other highly flammable substances are manufactured or used or are stored in other than original containers,

(ii) combustible dust or flyings are likely to be present in quantities sufficient to produce an explosive or combustible mixture, or where it is impracticable to prevent such dust or flyings from being deposited upon incandescent lamps or from collecting in or upon motors or other electrical equipment in such quantities as to produce overheating by reason of the prevention of normal radiation,

(iii) easily ignitible fibres or materials producing combustible flyings are manufactured, handled or used in a free open state, or

(iv) easily ignitible fibres or materials producing combustible flyings are stored in bales or containers but are not manufactured, handled or used in a free open state;

75. "low-energy power circuit" means a circuit other than a remote control or signal circuit for which the power supply is limited in accordance with the requirements for Class 2 remote control circuits;

76. "low-voltage protection" means the effect of a device operative on the reduction or failure of voltage to cause and maintain the interruption of power to the main circuit;

77. "low-voltage release" means the effect of a device operative on the reduction or failure of voltage to cause the interruption of power to the main circuit, but not to prevent its re-establishment on the return of voltage to safe operating value;

78. "machine tool, metal cutting" means a power driven device, not portable by hand, used for the purpose of removing metal in the form of chips;

79. "machine tool, metal forming" means a power driven machine not portable by hand, used to press, forge, emboss, hammer, blank or shear metals;

80. "metallic water-piping system" means,

(a) an active, underground, public water supply system having metallic mains and services;

(b) an active, underground, private water supply system having at least 100 feet of metal pipe buried in the ground; or

(c) the metallic casing, not less than 3 inches in diameter, of an artesian well;

81. "mill construction" as applied to a building means one in which walls are of masonry or reinforced concrete and an interior framing of wood, with plank or laminated wood floors and roofs, and in which the interior structural elements are arranged in heavy solid masses and smooth flat surfaces assembled to avoid thin sections, sharp projections, and concealed or inaccessible spaces, but the interior framing may be partly or entirely of protected steel or concrete and the floors and roofs may be constructed in whole or in part of incombustible material;

82. "mineral-insulated cable" means a cable having one or more bare solid conductors supported and insulated by a highly compressed refractory material enclosed in a liquid-tight and gas-tight metallic tube sheathing and the term includes both the regular type (MI) and the light-weight type (LWMI) unless otherwise qualified;

83. "MSG" means the Manufacturer's Standard Gauge for uncoated steel;

84. "multi-outlet assembly" means a surface or flush enclosure carrying conductors for extending one branch-circuit to two or more receptacles of the grounding type which are attached to the enclosure;

85. "multi-wire branch circuit" means a branch circuit consisting of two or more ungrounded conductors having a potential difference between them and an identified ground conductor having equal potential between it and each ungrounded conductor, and in which the grounded conductor is connected to the neutral conductor of the system;

86. "neutral conductor" means that conductor of a polyphase circuit, or of a single-phase, 3-wire circuit having an approximately uniform potential difference and an equal spacing in phase with each of the other conductors;

87. "noncombustible" means incapable of sustaining combustion in air, either when ignited or when subjected to and maintained at a high temperature;

88. "non-incendive circuit" means a circuit or part of a circuit in which any sparking that may be produced by normally arcing parts is incapable, under normal operating conditions, of causing an ignition of the prescribed flammable gas or vapour;

89. "open" as applied to electrical equipment means that moving parts, windings or live parts are exposed to accidental contact;

90. "outlet" means a point on the wiring system at which current is taken to supply fixtures, lamps, heaters, motors and electrical equipment generally;

91. "out-of-reach" means that equipment is located more than 5 feet horizontally or more than 8 feet vertically from any floor, platform or other surface from which it would otherwise be readily accessible;

92. "over current device" means any device capable of automatically opening an electric circuit both under predetermined overload and short-circuit conditions, either by fusing of metal or by electro-mechanical means;

93. "overload device" means a device affording protection from excess current, but not necessarily short-circuit protection, and capable of automatically opening an electric circuit either by the fusing of metal or by electro-mechanical means;

94. "panelboard",

(a) "panelboard" means an assembly of buses and connections, over-current devices and control apparatus with or without switches, or other equipment, constructed for installation as a complete unit in a cabinet; and

(b) "enclosed panelboard" means an assembly of buses and connections, over-current devices and control apparatus with or without switches, or other equipment, installed in a cabinet;

95. "plenum" means a chamber associated with air-handling apparatus, for distributing the processed air from the apparatus (supply plenum) to the supply ducts, or for receiving air to be processed by the apparatus (return plenum);

96. "portable" when applied to electrical equipment means the equipment is specifically designed not to be used in a fixed position and receives current through the medium of a flexible cord or cable, and usually a detachable plug;

97. "potential",

(a) "extra low potential" means any potential up to and including 30 volts;

(b) "low potential" means any potential from 31 to 750 volts inclusive;

(c) "high potential" means any potential above 750 volts;

98. "protected" as applied to electrical equipment means the equipment is constructed so that the electrical parts are enclosed so as to protect the equipment against damage from the intrusion of foreign objects;

99. "qualified person" means a person familiar with the construction and operation of the apparatus and the hazards involved;

100. "raceway" means any channel for holding wires, cables or bus bars, which is designed expressly for and used solely for this purpose, and unless otherwise qualified in this Code, includes rigid, flexible, metallic and non-metallic conduit, electrical metallic tubing, underfloor raceways, cellular metal-floor raceways, surface raceways, wire-ways, cable-troughs, busways and auxiliary gutters;

101. "readily accessible" means capable of being reached quickly without climbing over or removing obstacles or resorting to portable ladders, chairs or similar aids;

102. "receptacle" means a contact device installed in an outlet for the connection of a portable lamp or appliance by means of a plug and flexible cord;

103. "remote control circuit" means any electrical circuit which controls any other circuit through a relay or an equivalent device;

104. "repellent" used as a suffix (such as moisture-repellent) means constructed, treated or surfaced so that liquid will tend to run off, and cannot readily penetrate the surface;

105. "resistant" used as a suffix means constructed, protected or treated so that it will not be injured readily when subjected to the specified material or condition;

106. "service",

(a) "consumer's service" means all that portion of the consumer's installation from the service box or its equivalent up to and including the point at which the supply authority makes connection;

(b) "supply service" means any one set of conductors run by a supply authority from its mains to a consumer's service;

(c) "service agreement" means a form of agreement prescribed or approved by the inspection department and pertaining to the labelling or re-examination of approved electrical equipment;

(d) "service box" means an approved assembly consisting of a metal box or cabinet constructed so that it may be effectually locked or sealed, containing either service fuses and a service switch or a circuit breaker and of such design that either the switch or circuit breaker may be manually operated when the box is closed;

107. "service or filling station" means premises or portions of premises on which are installed pumps or other devices used for the purpose of receiving or delivering volatile flammable liquids to or from vehicles;

108. "shock-proof" as applied to X-ray and high-frequency equipment, means that the equipment is guarded with grounded metal so that no person can come into contact with any live part;

109. "signal circuit" means any electrical circuit, other than a communication circuit, which supplies energy to a device which gives a recognizable audible or visible signal, such as circuits for doorbells, buzzers, code-calling systems, signal lights and similar devices;

110. "slow-burning" as applied to conductor insulation means the insulation has flame-retarding properties;

111. "soldered" means a uniting of metallic surfaces by the fusion thereon of a metallic alloy, usually of lead and tin;

112. "special permission" means the permission of an inspector;

113. "splitter box" means a metal troughing or box containing terminal blocks, or bus bars, having main terminals and distribution terminals, with bare live parts supported by insulating material;

114. "supply authority" means any person, firm, corporation, company, commission or other organization supplying electric power or energy;

115. "surface raceway" means a raceway in the form of a metal channel with a backing and capping for loosely holding conductors and cables in surface wiring;

116. "switch" means a device for making, breaking, or changing connection in a circuit; and

(a) "general use switch" means a switch intended for use in general distribution and branch-circuits and which is rated in amperes and capable of interrupting its rated current at rated voltage;

(b) "indicating switch" means a switch designed or marked to show readily whether the switch is in an "On" or "Off" position;

(c) "isolating switch" means a switch intended for isolating a circuit or electrical equipment from the source of supply of electrical power or energy, but does not include a switch intended for establishing or interrupting the flow of current in a circuit;

(d) "motor-circuit switch" means a fused or unfused manually-operated knife or snap switch rated in horsepower;

117. "switchboard" means a panel or assembly of panels on which is mounted any combination of switching, measuring, controlling and protective devices, buses, and connections, designed with a view to successfully carrying and rupturing the maximum fault current encountered when controlling incoming and outgoing feeders;

118. "system" means an electrical system in which all conductors and the apparatus are designedly capable of being readily connected electrically by metallic contact to a common source of potential difference;

119. "theatre" means a building, or any portion thereof, which is used for public dramatic, operatic, motion-picture or other performances;

120. "thermal cut out" means a device affording protection from excessive current but not necessarily short-circuit protection, and containing a heating element in addition to, and affecting, a fusible member which opens the circuit;

121. "underfloor-raceway" means a raceway suitable for use in the floor;

122. "utilization equipment" means equipment which utilizes electrical power or energy for mechanical, chemical, heating, lighting, or similar useful purposes;

123. "vault" means an isolated enclosure, either above or below ground, with fire-resistant walls, ceilings and floors, for the purpose of housing transformers or other electrical equipment;

124. "ventilated flexible cableway" (VFC) means a ventilated metal raceway into which conductors may be drawn, designed so as to be rigid in one plane and flexible in another plane at a 90 degree angle to the first plane and constructed so that approximately 30 per cent of its surface consists of ventilating openings;

125. "voltage of a circuit" means the greatest effective voltage between any two conductors of the circuit concerned.

126. "voltage to ground" means the voltage between any live ungrounded part and any grounded part in the case of grounded circuits, or the greatest voltage existing in the circuit in the case of ungrounded circuits;

127. "waterproof" when applied to electrical equipment means that the equipment is so constructed or protected that moisture cannot enter in quantity sufficient to interfere with the effective operation of the equipment, and when applied to a substance means that the substance is impervious to moisture;

128. "water-tight" when applied to enclosed electrical equipment means that the equipment is so constructed that moisture cannot enter the enclosing case;

129. "wire television distribution system" means a distribution system of coaxial or other suitable cable or wire, together with any necessary amplifiers, which is used in the transmission of television signals;

130. "wire-way" means a raceway consisting of a completely enclosed system of metal troughing, and fittings therefor, so formed and constructed that insulated conductors may be readily drawn in and withdrawn, or laid in and removed, after the system has been completely installed without injury either to conductors or their covering.

SECTION 2—GENERAL RULES

General

2-000 This Code does not apply to,

(1) electrical equipment and electrical installations used exclusively in the generation, transformation, or transmission of electrical power or energy intended for sale or distribution to the public subject to the requirements of Rules 10-004 to 10-018 inclusive;

(2) electrical equipment and electrical installations used by telephone and telegraph companies in the operation of communication facilities subject to the requirements of Section 60;

(3) electrical equipment and electrical installations in the cars, car-houses, passenger stations or freight stations used in the operation of an electric railway or electric street railway and supplied with electric current from the railway power-circuit;

(4) aircraft;

(5) a mine as defined in The Mining Act save only as regards any dwelling house or other building not connected with or required for mining operations or purposes or used for the treatment of ore or mineral;

(6) a ship as defined by the Canada Shipping Act unless it is connected to a shore supply of electricity for a period exceeding five months.

2-002 Special Requirements. Sections devoted to rules governing particular types of installations are not intended to embody all rules governing these particular types of installations, but cover only those special rules or regulations which are additional to or amendatory of those prescribed in other sections covering installations under ordinary conditions.

2-004 Inspection

(1) A contractor shall file with the inspection department a completed application for inspection of any work on an electrical installation:

(a) Before the commencement of the work where electrical power or energy has not been previously supplied to the land, building or premises on which the work is to be performed; or

(b) Before the electrical installation is used for any purpose where electrical power or energy has been previously supplied to the land, building or premises on which the work was performed; and

(c) Pay the fees prescribed by the inspection department therefor.

(2) An application for inspection which has been refused in accordance with the provisions of Rule 2-008 shall, for purposes of Subrule (1) hereof, be deemed not to be a completed application.

(3) Subject to the provisions of Rule 2-008, payment of the fees prescribed by the inspection department entitles the contractor to one complete inspection of the installation.

(4) Every contractor who makes an electrical installation is responsible for procuring its inspection by the inspection department before the installation is used for any purpose.

(5) The contractor shall give to the inspection department at least forty-eight hours' notice in writing that the work on the electrical installation has been completed and that the installation is ready for inspection but where the work is being performed in a remote district or is not immediately accessible for any other reason the notice shall be of such greater length as is necessary to accommodate the inspection schedule of the inspection department.

(6) The inspection shall be made at such time and in such manner as the inspection department determines.

(7) No electrical installation shall be concealed or rendered inaccessible, until it has been inspected by the inspection department and found to conform to this Code.

2-006 Annual Inspection

(1) An annual application for inspection may be made by the owner or occupant of any manufacturing, mercantile or other building where in the opinion of the inspection department electrical installation work of a routine nature in connection with the maintenance or operation of the building or the plant therein is required to be performed at frequent intervals, and where the owner or occupant employs his own electricians for the purpose.

(2) Acceptance of the application by the inspection department shall authorize the commencement and carrying out of such work during the year for which the acceptance is issued and Rule 2-004 does not apply.

(3) The owner or occupant shall as the work is performed record it on a form provided by the inspection department which shall be produced to any inspector of the inspection department at any time and from time to time upon request and the inspection shall be made at such time and in such manner as the inspection department determines.

2-008 Right of Refusal. The inspection department may refuse an application for inspection to any person who has failed to pay any fees or dues owing to the inspection department for a period of more than thirty days or who has failed to remedy defects in any electrical work or installation after having been notified by the inspection department that the defects exist, until the fees have been paid or the defects have been remedied.

2-010 Plans and Specifications. No contractor shall commence work on any electrical installation consisting of:

(a) The installation of a wiring system in any public building, commercial or industrial establishment, apartment house or other building in which the public safety may be involved;

(b) A large light-and-power installation; or

(c) The installation of generators, transformers, switchboards, large storage batteries and similar equipment, or that in the opinion of the inspection department is of special magnitude or nature without first filing with the inspection department in duplicate, or in greater number if required, complete wiring plans and specifications relating to the proposed work and obtaining the written approval of the inspection department thereof.

2-012 Connection Authorization

(1) Where any electrical installation or part thereof to which electric power or energy has not previously been supplied is made in or upon any land, building or premises or where any electrical installation or part thereof has been disconnected or cut off from any service or other source of supply under this Code, no supply authority, contractor or other person shall connect or re-connect the installation or part thereof to any service or other source of supply unless:

(a) The installation and all work in respect thereof have been inspected by the inspection department and found to conform to this Code; and

(b) A connection authorization has been issued by the inspection department in respect of the installation.

(2) Where any electrical installation or part thereof has been disconnected or cut off from a source of supply by a supply authority for non-payment of rates or because of a change of occupancy of premises for six months or less, the supply authority may reconnect the installation or part thereof without obtaining a connection authorization.

2-014 Temporary Connection Authorization

(1) Notwithstanding the provisions of Rule 2-012 the inspection department may issue a temporary connection authorization authorizing a supply authority to connect its lines for a stated length of time to a temporary electrical installation or to a permanent but unfinished electrical installation and may renew the connection authorization from time to time.

(2) Issuance of a temporary connection authorization does not obligate the inspection department to issue a permanent connection authorization where a contractor has not complied with this Code.

2-016 Re-inspection. The inspection department may at any time re-inspect any electrical installation notwithstanding any previous inspection and acceptance of the installation.

2-018 Defects

(1) Every contractor who has performed work on an electrical installation and has been notified by the inspection department that the installation does not conform to this Code shall remedy all defects in workmanship and replace all electrical equipment that is not approved within such time and in such manner as the notice from the inspection department directs.

(2) The inspection department may by notice in writing require any owner or occupant of land, buildings or premises upon or within which is found an electrical installation in which in the opinion of the inspection department a condition dangerous to persons or property has developed to make such changes in the electrical installation as are necessary to remedy the condition.

(3) Upon receipt of the notice the owner or occupant of the lands, buildings or premises shall cause the installation to be changed in the manner and to the extent prescribed by the notice within the time limited therein.

(4) Where:

(a) A contractor refuses or neglects to comply with a notice given under Subrule (1); or

(b) The owner or occupant of lands, buildings or premises refuses or neglects to comply with a notice given under Subrule (2), the inspection department, if it deems such course necessary for purposes of safety, may:

(c) Cut off the supply of electrical power or energy to the lands, buildings or premises in which is contained the electrical installation that was the subject of the notice; or

(d) Require the supply authority to cut off the supply, and in either event the supply shall not be re-connected until full compliance with the notice has been made.

2-020 Sale or Other Disposal and Use

(1) No person shall advertise, display or offer for sale or other disposal, or sell or otherwise dispose of any electrical equipment unless it has been approved in accordance with Rule 2-024.

(2) No person shall use any electrical equipment unless it has been approved in accordance with Rule 2-024.

(3) Where an approvals report in respect of any approved electrical equipment requires that a notice indicating the proper and safe manner of use of the equipment be affixed thereto or furnished therewith, no person shall sell or otherwise dispose of the equipment without affixing or furnishing the notice in the manner required by the approvals report.

2-024 Approval of Electrical Equipment

(1) Electrical equipment of a regular line of manufacture for which approval is sought shall be submitted to Canadian Standards Association for examination and testing.

(2) The electrical equipment referred to in Subrule (1) shall be deemed to be approved when:

(a) An approvals report has been issued by Canadian Standards Association in respect of the equipment;

(b) The approvals report has been adopted by the inspection department;

(c) The manufacturer of the equipment or his agent has entered into a service agreement with Canadian Standards Association;

(d) The equipment, if so required by the service agreement, bears an approval label supplied under the terms of the service agreement; and

(e) The equipment meets all standards of design and construction prescribed by the approvals report and complies with all terms and conditions contained therein.

(3) As an alternative to the requirements of Subrules (1) and (2), electrical equipment consisting of an assemblage or combination of component parts intended for use solely in conjunction with or as an integral part of any appliance within the meaning of The Energy Act, 1964 shall be deemed to be approved when:

(a) An approvals report has been issued by an organization designated to test the appliance by section 6 of Ontario Regulation 166/66;

(b) The approvals report has been adopted by the inspection department;

(c) The equipment meets all standards of design and construction prescribed by the approvals report and Canadian Standards Association specifications relating thereto and complies with all terms and conditions contained in the report and the specifications;

(d) The seal of the organization has been affixed permanently to the equipment verifying compliance with Canadian Standards Association specifications; and

(e) The manufacturer of the equipment, or his agent, has entered into a service agreement with the organization.

(4) Electrical equipment of other than a regular line of manufacture, electrical equipment built to customer's order, electrical equipment manufactured or produced singly or in small quantities and electrical equipment that in the opinion of the inspection department cannot be conveniently examined and tested by submission of samples shall be submitted to the inspection department for examination and testing in conformance with the procedure from time to time prescribed by the inspection department.

(5) The prescribed equipment referred to in Subrule (4) shall be deemed to be approved when:

(a) The electrical equipment or a sample thereof has been examined and tested by the inspection department and found to conform to this Code and to present no undue hazard to persons or property;

(b) A certificate or other writing evidencing the conformity has been issued by the inspection department;

(c) All fees payable to the inspection department in respect of the examination, testing and certification have been paid;

(d) The equipment, if so required by the inspection department, bears an approval label supplied by the inspection department; and

(e) The equipment, in the case of examination and test by sample, is of the same standard of design and construction as the standard of the sample referred to in the certificate or writing.

(6) Where any electrical equipment is used in, or connected to, an electrical installation or is about to be so used or connected, and it appears to the inspection department that, having regard to public safety and protection of property, it would be sufficient to have the equipment inspected under Subrule (3), (4) and (5) of Rule 2-004 instead of being approved under the foregoing provisions of this Rule, the inspection department may direct accordingly and thereupon the equipment shall be deemed to form a part of the electrical installation.

(7) Approval of any electrical equipment shall be evidenced by a certificate or other writing to that effect issued by the inspection department but, where electrical equipment is approved under Subrule (2) the approval-record guide-card issued by the Canadian Standards Association shall have the same force and effect as a certificate or writing of the inspection department.

(8) No person shall affix to any electrical equipment other than the electrical equipment referred to in Subrule (3) any label indicating or intended to indicate that the electrical equipment is approved other than an approval label that has been supplied by the inspection department or under a service agreement.

(9) No person shall affix any approval label to any electrical equipment other than the approved electrical equipment for which the label was issued.

(10) No person to whom approval labels have been supplied, either by the inspection department or under a service agreement, shall sell, give, transfer or permit any other person to have possession of the labels without first obtaining the consent in writing of the inspection department.

2-026 Cancellation of Approval

(1) The inspection department may cancel the approval of any electrical equipment where:

(a) The equipment is not being manufactured or produced in conformance with the standards, design and construction prescribed by the approvals report or certificate of approval relating thereto;

(b) In the opinion of the inspection department field experience has shown the equipment to be unduly hazardous to life or property; or

(c) The manufacturer of the equipment makes default in observing or performing any of the terms of the service agreement to which he is a party.

(2) When an approval has been cancelled, the equipment shall be deemed to be not approved.

2-028 Miscellaneous

(1) The testing and inspection by the inspection department of any electrical equipment under Subrules (4) and (5) of Rule 2-024 may be carried out by such inspectors at such times and places and in such manner as the inspection department from time to time determines.

(2) Subject to Subrule (6) of Rule 2-024, any electrical equipment used or capable of being used or adapted to serve or perform any particular purpose or function when connected to an electrical installation shall be approved before being so connected unless the connection is made for the purpose of inspection or testing of the equipment under this Code.

(3) Any electrical equipment that consists of an assembly or combination of other electrical equipment is subject to this Code respecting approval, and is not approved by reason only that any or all of the component parts thereof have been individually approved.

2-030 Deviation or Postponement

(1) In any case where deviation from or postponement of these rules and regulations may be necessary, special permission shall be obtained before proceeding with the work, but such special permission shall apply only to the particular installation for which it is given.

(2) By special permission, the requirments of this Code may be varied for installations associated with fire pumps.

2-500 General

(1) No contractor shall perform any work on an electrical installation in any manner contrary to the requirments of this Code.

(2) No contractor in performing any work on an electrical installation shall use therein any electrical equipment other than approved electrical equipment of a kind or type and rating approved for the specific purpose for which it is to be employed.

(3) In any case in which for a given purpose no standard electrical equipment of the exact size or rating required is procurable, equipment of the next larger size or rating shall be used unless permission of an inspector is obtained to use equipment of a smaller size or rating.

(4) If in the opinion of an inspector an electrical installation has been badly arranged or poorly executed, either generally or in any particular, the inspector shall reject the electrical installation.

(5) No contractor shall use wood for plugging for the support of any electrical equipment.

(6) No contractor shall use as a solder any so-called solder consisting of a metallic powder mixed with an adhesive vehicle in the use of which fusion of a metal is not involved.

(7) No contractor shall use for soldering copper aluminum or their alloys a soldering flux corrosive to those metals.

2-502 Rebuilt Equipment

(1) Where any electrical machine or apparatus is re-built or re-wound with any change in its rating or characteristics it shall be provided with a name plate giving the name of the person, or firm, by whom such change was made, together with the new marking.

(2) Where the original name plate is removed the original manufacturer's name and any original identifying data, such as serial numbers, shall be added to the new name plate.

2-504 Use of High Potentials. Potentials exceeding 15,000 volts shall not be employed without the permission of an inspector designated by the inspection department for the purpose of this Rule except in the case of equipment covered by Sections 34, 52 and 54.

2-506 Interference. No person shall:

(a) Cut, damage or interfere with any electrical equipment; or

(b) Place or install any equipment or material near installed electrical equipment, so as to create a condition which an inspector deems dangerous.

2-508 Use of Thermal Insulation. Where the hollow spaces between studding, joists, or rafters of buildings are to be filled with thermal insulation, the following restrictions, as applicable, shall apply to the installation of electric wiring in such spaces:

(a) If the space is to be filled with an approved loose or free flowing material which is non-corrosive, fire-resisting, and non-conducting, any type of wiring system recognized by this Code may be used, but special care shall be taken to ensure that there will be no strain on the conductors due to the weight or pressure of such material;

(b) If approved material in the form of batts, or the equivalent, is installed prior to the installation of the wiring and secured in place so that there will be no undue pressure on the conductors, no special precaution need be observed;

(c) If the space is to be filled with combustible thermal insulation, the wiring shall conform to the following requirements:

(i) The wiring method shall be rigid conduit, electrical metallic tubing, lead-sheathed cable in flexible conduit, lead-sheathed armoured cable, mineral-insulated cable, aluminum-sheathed cable, or non-metallic-sheathed cable having conductors of not less than No. 12 AWG;

(ii) The conduit or electrical metallic tubing shall be sealed off as required by Rule 22-016;

(d) If thermal insulation made of or faced with metal is installed, the wiring shall conform to the following requirements:

(i) A one-inch separation shall be provided between the thermal insulation and the knob-and-tube wiring;

(ii) Non-metallic sheathed cable may be in contact with the insulation;

(e) Mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable shall not be used with any thermal insulation which is liable to have a corrosive action on the sheath.

2-510 Fire Spread. Every electrical installation shall be made in such manner as to reduce to a minimum the probability of spread of fire through fire-stopped partitions, floors, hollow spaces, fire walls, fire partitions, vertical shafts and ventilating and air-conditioning ducts.

Maintenance and Operation

2-512 General Requirements for Maintenance and Operation

(1) All electrical equipment shall be so installed and guarded as to afford provision for the safety of persons and property and for the protection of the electrical equipment from mechanical or other injury to which it is likely to be exposed.

(2) Every owner and tenant of a factory, workshop or other premises on or in which employees are engaged in operating or using any electrical equipment shall keep the electrical equipment and the electrical installation in safe operating condition at all times.

(3) No person shall use any electrical equipment that is not in safe and proper working condition.

(4) Electrical equipment that is not in regular use shall not be used until it has been thoroughly examined by a qualified person and is found fit for service.

(5) Electrical equipment that is kept in reserve for emergency service shall be examined and tested by a qualified person at regular and frequent intervals.

(6) Defective equipment shall either be put in good order or permanently disconnected.

2-514 Guarding of Bare Live Parts

(1) Bare live parts shall be guarded against accidental contact by means of approved cabinets or other forms of approved enclosures except where the bare live parts are:

(a) Located in a suitable room, vault, or similar enclosed area which is accessible only to qualified persons; or

(b) Located in a manner permitted by this Code.

(2) Where electrical equipment has mounted on it, within 3 feet of bare live parts, non-electrical components which require servicing by unqualified persons, suitable barriers or covers shall be provided for the bare live parts.

(3) Entrances to rooms and other guarded locations containing exposed bare live parts shall be marked with conspicuous warning signs forbidding entry to unqualified persons.

2-516 Maintenance in Hazardous Locations. In locations where explosive or highly flammable materials or gases are present, special precautions shall be observed as follows:

(a) Repairs or alterations shall not be made on any live equipment; and

(b) Fits or seals in enclosures shall be maintained in their original safe condition.

2-518 Disconnection

(1) No person shall make repairs or alterations to live equipment unless complete disconnection of the equipment is impracticable.

(2) For the purpose of Subrule (1), three-way or four-way switches shall be deemed not to be a means of disconnection.

(3) Adequate precautions, such as locks on circuit breakers or switches, warning notices, sentries, or other equally effective means, shall be taken to prevent electrical equipment from being electrically charged when work is being done thereon.

2-520 Maintenance of Live Equipment. No person shall work on any live equipment unless protected by approved insulated or insulating devices such as tongs, rubber gloves, boots, mats, or other like appliances, which shall always be maintained in proper condition for use.

2-522 Accessibility for Maintenance. All passageways and working space around generators, transformers, switchboards and similar equipment shall not be used for storage and shall be kept clear of any obstruction and so arranged as to give authorized persons ready access to all parts requiring attention.

2-524 Illumination of Equipment. Adequate illumination shall be provided to allow for proper operation and maintenance of electrical equipment.

2-526 Flammable Material Near Electrical Equipment. Flammable material shall not be stored or placed in dangerous proximity to electrical equipment.

2-528 Ventilation. Adequate ventilation shall be provided so as to prevent the development about electrical equipment of ambient air temperatures in excess of those normally permissible for such equipment.

Enclosures

2-530 Enclosures, Designations and Use

(1) The following designations of enclosures for switchgear, switches, air circuit breakers, panelboards, industrial control equipment and similar apparatus shall be recognized for the purpose of this Code for the intended use as specified:

(a) Enclosure 1: A general purpose enclosure, for use indoors in ordinary locations, designed to protect live parts from accidental contact and constructed of metal or other suitable material;

(b) Enclosure 2: A drip-tight enclosure for use indoors where enclosure may be subject to drops of falling liquid due to severe condensation or other causes and similar to a general purpose enclosure but constructed or protected by the addition of drip shields or their equivalent so as to exclude falling moisture or dirt;

(c) Enclosure 3: A weatherproof enclosure, for use outdoors, constructed or protected so that exposure to the weather, to falling moisture, or to external splashing, will not impair the effectiveness of the enclosed equipment;

(d) Enclosure 4: A watertight enclosure for use where the enclosure may be subject to direct streams of water and constructed so that a stream of water from a hose cannot enter the enclosure;

(e) Enclosure 5: A dust-tight enclosure for use indoors where the atmosphere may carry considerable non-hazardous dust or in Class III locations, but not in Class II locations, and constructed so that dust, readily ignitible fibres, or combustible flyings cannot enter the enclosure.

(2) An enclosure may be constructed so as to comply with two or more of the designations described in Subrule (1) hereof.

(3) Enclosures of equipment for use in hazardous locations shall be designated in accordance with Rule 18-012.

2-532 Marking of Enclosures. General purpose enclosures need not be marked to indicate the enclosure designation.

2-534 Circuit Voltages-to-Ground—Residential Occupancies.

Branch circuits in residential occupancies shall not have a voltage exceeding 150 volts-to-ground except that where the calculated load on the service conductors exceeds 250 kilovolt-amperes and where trained maintenance personnel are available, higher voltages not exceeding the voltage-to-ground of a nominal system voltage of 347/600Y may be used to supply the following fixed (not portable) equipment:

(a) Space heating;

(b) Water heaters;

(c) Air conditioning.

2-536 Corrosion Protection for Materials used in Wiring

(1) Metallic materials used in wiring, such as raceways, cable sheaths and armour, boxes and fittings shall be suitably protected against corrosion for the environment in which they are to be used or shall be made of suitable corrosion-resistant material.

(2) Where practicable, dissimilar metals shall not be used where there is a possibility of galvanic action.

2-538 Working Space about Electrical Equipment (Low Potential).

A minimum unobstructed working space of three feet with secure footing shall be provided and maintained about all electrical equipment which may require adjustment amd maintenance, except that working space is not required behind assemblies such as dead-front switchboards or control centres where there are no renewable parts such as fuses or switches on the back and where all connections are accessible from other locations than the back.

2-540 Entrance to Working Space

(1) At least one entrance of sufficient area shall be provided to give access to the working space about electrical equipment.

(2) Doors or gates of suitable material may be provided but they shall be capable of being readily opened from the equipment side without the use of a key or tool.

2-542 Marking of Equipment

(1) Each piece of electrical equipment shall bear such of the following markings as may be necessary to identify the equipment and insure that it is suitable for the particular installation:

(a) The maker's name, trade mark, or other recognized symbol of identification;

(b) Catalogue number or type;

(c) Voltage;

(d) Rated load amperes;

(e) Watts, volt amperes, or horsepower;

(f) Whether for ac, dc, or both;

(g) Number of phases;

(h) Frequency in cycles per second;

(i) Rated load speed in revolutions per minute;

(j) Designation of terminals;

(k) Whether for continuous or intermittent duty;

(l) Evidence of approval; and

(m) Such other marking as may be necessary to ensure safe and proper operation.

(2) Each service box, at the time of installation, shall be marked in a conspicuous, legible, and permanent manner, to indicate clearly the maximum rating of the overcurrent device which may be used for this installation.

(3) At each distribution point, circuit breakers, fuses, and switches shall be marked, adjacent thereto, in a conspicuous and legible manner to indicate clearly:

(a) Which installation or portion of installation they protect or control; and

(b) The maximum rating of overcurrent device that is permitted.

2-544 Space for Service and Distribution Equipment.

The space provided for electrical service and distribution equipment shall be satisfactory to the inspection department.

SECTION 4—CONDUCTORS

4-000 Size of Conductors. Except for flexible cord, fixture wire, control circuit wire and cable, and grounding conductors as permitted by Table 16, conductors shall be not smaller than No. 14 AWG when of copper and not smaller than No. 12 AWG when of aluminum.

4-002 Control-Circuit Wire and Cable. When used in communication, control and signalling systems, control-circuit wire and cable shall have an ampacity not less than that of a No. 18 AWG copper conductor.

4-004 Ampacity of Wires and Cables

(1) The maximum current which a copper conductor of a given size and insulation may carry shall be as follows:

(a) Single conductor, and single-conductor metal-sheathed or armoured cable, in a free air run, as specified in Table 1;

(b) 1, 2, or 3 conductors in a run of raceway, or 2- or 3-conductor cable, as specified in Table 2;

(c) 4, 5, or 6 conductors in a run of raceway or cable, 80 per cent of that specified in Table 2;

(d) 7 to 24 conductors, inclusive, in a run of raceway or cable, 70 per cent of that specified in Table 2;

(e) 25 to 30 conductors, inclusive, in a run of raceway or cable, 60 per cent of that specified in Table 2.

(2) The maximum current which an aluminum conductor of a given size and insulation may carry shall be as follows:

(a) Single conductor, and single-conductor metal-sheathed or armoured cable, in a free air run, as specified in Table 3;

(b) 1, 2, or 3 conductors in a run of raceway, or 2- or 3-conductor cable, as specified in Table 4;

(c) 4, 5, or 6 conductors in a run of raceway or cable, 80 per cent of that specified in Table 4;

(d) 7 to 24 conductors, inclusive, in a run of raceway or cable, 70 per cent of that specified in Table 4;

(e) 25 to 30 conductors, inclusive, in a run of raceway or cable, 60 per cent of that specified in Table 4.

(3) The ampacity of armoured cable having two or more conductors shall be the same as for the same size and number of conductors in a raceway.

(4) A neutral-conductor which carries only the unbalanced current from other conductors, as in the case of normally balanced circuits of three or more conductors, shall not be counted in determining ampacities as provided for in Subrules (1), (2), and (3).

(5) A common conductor of a three-wire circuit, consisting of conductors connected to two phase wires and the neutral conductor of a four-wire, three-phase system, carries approximately the same current as the other conductors, and shall not be considered as a neutral conductor.

(6) The maximum allowable ampacity of neutral supported cable shall be as specified in Table 36.

(7) For the purposes of this Rule a wireway or auxiliary gutter shall not be considered as a raceway and the ampacity of one or more conductors in a wireway or in an auxiliary gutter shall be as specified in Tables 2 or 4 as applicable.

(8) A grounding conductor shall not be counted in determining the ampacities as provided for in Subrules (1), (2), and (3).

(9) The derating factors specified in this Rule apply only to, and shall be determined from, the number of power and lighting conductors in a cable or raceway.

4-006 Insulated Conductors

(1) Insulated conductors shall be of types specified in Table 19 for each specific condition of use, except as may be otherwise required by other Sections of this Code.

(2) Where harmful condensed vapours or liquids of either an acid or alkaline nature or organic solvents such as hydrocarbons, ketones, esters, alcohols, or liquid derivatives thereof, may collect on or come in contact with insulation on conductors, such insulation shall be of a type approved for the application, or the insulation shall be protected by a sheath of lead or by other approved means.

4-008 Sheath Currents in Single-Conductor Metallic-Sheathed Cables

(1) Where sheath currents in single-conductor cables having continuous sheaths of lead, aluminum, or copper are likely to cause the insulation of the conductors to be subjected to temperatures in excess of the insulation ratings, the cables shall be:

(a) Derated to 70 per cent of current-carrying rating which would otherwise apply;

(b) Derated in accordance with the manufacturer's recommendations by special permission; or

(c) Installed in such a manner as to prevent the flow of sheath currents.

(2) Circulating currents in single-conductor armoured cable shall be treated in the same manner as sheath currents in Subrule (1).

4-010 Uses of Flexible Cord

(1) Flexible cord shall be of the types specified in Table II for each specific condition of use.

(2) Flexible cord may be used for:

(a) Electrical equipment for domestic or similar use having a rating of 15 amperes or less at voltages not exceeding 250 volts and which is intended to be:

(i) Moved from place to place, or

(ii) Detachably connected according to a Part II Standard;

(b) Electrical equipment for industrial use which must be capable of being moved from place to place for operation;

(c) Pendents;

(d) Elevator cables;

(e) Wiring of cranes and hoists;

(f) The connection of stationary equipment to facilitate its interchange, by special permission;

(g) The prevention of transmission of noise and vibration;

(h) The connection of electrical components between which relative motion is necessary; and

(i) The connection of appliances such as ranges and clothes dryers.

(3) Flexible cord shall not be used:

(a) As a substitute for the fixed wiring of structures and shall not be:

(i) Permanently secured to any structural member,

(ii) Run through holes in walls, ceilings, or floors, or

(iii) Run through doorways, windows, or similar openings;

(b) At temperatures sufficiently low as to be liable to cause damage to the insulation or jacket;

(c) For the suspension of any device weighing more than 5 pounds.

(4) Flexible cord shall be protected by an insulating bushing or in some other acceptable manner where it enters or passes through a wall or partition of a device or enters a lampholder.

(5) Where a flexible cord is used as an extension cord or to plug into an appliance or other device, no live parts shall be exposed when one end is connected to a source of supply and the other end is free.

4-012 Sizes of Flexible Cord. Flexible cord shall be not smaller than a No. 18 AWG copper conductor except for:

(a) Tinsel cord, which may be No. 27 AWG;

(b) Types X and TX Christmas-tree cords, which may be No. 20 AWG; and

(c) Cords approved for use with domestic electric clocks of the wall or mantel types, or indoor individual decorative lighting devices, which may be No. 20 AWG.

4-014 Ampacity of Flexible Cords. The maximum current which 2 or more copper conductors of given size contained in a flexible cord may carry, shall be as follows:

(a) 2 or 3 conductors—as specified in Table 12;

(b) 4, 5, or 6 conductors—80 per cent of that specified in Table 12.

4-016 Flexible Cord Used in Show Windows or Show Cases

(1) Flexible cord used in show windows or show cases shall, except for chain fixtures, be at least of types approved for hard usage.

(2) The use of flexible cord to supply current to portable lamps and other devices for exhibition purposes shall be permitted.

4-018 Fixture Wire and Christmas-Tree Wire

(1) Fixture wire and Christmas-tree wire shall be of types specified in Table 11 for each specified condition of use.

(2) Fixture wire shall not be smaller than a No. 18 AWG copper conductor.

(3) Christmas-tree wire shall not be smaller than a No. 20 AWG copper conductor.

(4) The maximum current which a fixture wire or a Christmas-tree wire of a given size may carry shall be that specified in Table 12.

4-020 Insulation of Neutral Conductors. Except as permitted by Rules 6-004, 6-018, 6-024, 12-250, and 12-266 neutral conductors shall be insulated.

4-022 Size of Neutral Conductor

(1) The neutral conductor shall have sufficient ampacity to carry the unbalanced load.

(2) The maximum unbalanced load shall be the maximum connected load between the neutral conductor and any one ungrounded conductor as determined by Section 8 but subject to the following:

(a) For a 5-wire 2-phase system the maximum unbalanced load shall be 140 per cent of that determined as above;

(b) For a feeder supplying electric ranges, the maximum unbalanced load for the ranges shall be considered as 70 per cent of the load on the ungrounded conductors as determined by Rule 8-032;

(c) In a feeder where the load consists of 50 per cent or more of electric discharge lamp ballasts, there shall be no reduction in size of the neutral conductor below the size of the ungrounded conductors;

(d) Except as required otherwise by paragraph (c), a demand factor of 70 per cent may be applied to that portion of the unbalanced load in excess of 200 amperes and, where applicable, this shall be applied to the currents determined by paragraphs (a) or (c).

(3) The size of an uninsulated neutral conductor used in services shall be not smaller than the size of an insulated neutral conductor selected in accordance with Subrule (1) and shall be:

(a) Not smaller than No. 10 AWG copper or No. 8 AWG aluminum; and

(b) Not smaller than the size of a grounding conductor required by Rule 10-102(1), except in approved service entrance cable, or where the circuit conductors are No. 10 AWG copper or No. 8 AWG aluminum.

(4) In determining the ampacity of an uninsulated neutral conductor run in a raceway, it shall be considered to be insulated with insulation having a temperature rating not higher than that of the adjacent circuit conductors.

4-024 Common Neutral Conductor. Provided that when in metal enclosures all conductors of feeder circuits employing a common neutral conductor are contained within the same enclosure, a common neutral conductor may be employed for:

(a) Two or three sets of three-wire, single-phase feeders; or

(b) Two sets of four-wire, three-phase feeders.

4-026 Installation of Neutral Conductor and Branch Connections. The neutral conductor of feeders shall be run directly from the service box to all centres of distribution and all branch connections to this conductor shall be made at such centres.

4-028 Identification of Insulated Neutral Conductors Up to and Including No. 2 AWG

(1) All insulated neutral conductors up to and including No. 2 AWG and all flexible cords permanently attached thereto shall be identified.

(2) The covering of the other conductor or conductors shall show a continuous colouring contrasting with that of the identified conductor.

4-030 Identification of Insulated Neutral Conductors Larger Than No. 2 AWG. For insulated neutral conductors larger than No. 2 AWG and for those having other than rubber or thermoplastic insulation, identification shall either be continuous, as for No. 2 AWG and smaller, or else each continuous length of conductor shall be suitably labelled or otherwise clearly marked at each end at the time of installation, so that it can be readily identified.

4-032 Identification of Type MI Neutral Conductors. Where mineral-insulated cable is used for neutral conductors, and where continuous identification of this type of conductor is, at present, technically impossible in manufacture, each continuous length of conductor shall be permanently and clearly marked at each end at the time of installation, so that it can be readily identified.

4-034 Use of Identified Conductors

(1) An identified conductor shall not be used as a conductor for which identification is not required by these Rules except that in armoured cable, aluminum-sheathed cable, and non-metallic sheathed cable work, the identified conductor may be rendered permanently unidentifiable by painting or other suitable means at every point where the separate conductors have been rendered accessible and visible by removal of the outer covering of the cable.

(2) Where armoured cable, aluminum-sheathed cable, or non-metallic sheathed cable containing an identified conductor is used for single-pole 3-way or 4-way switch loops, it shall not be necessary to render the identified conductor permanently unidentified at the switch if the connections are made so that an unidentified conductor is the return conductor from the switch to the outlet.

(3) Where armoured cable, aluminum-sheathed cable or non-metallic sheathed cable is used so that the identified conductor forms no part of the circuit, the identified conductor shall be cut off short or other suitable means shall be employed to indicate clearly that the identified conductor does not form part of the circuit, and this shall be done at every point where the separate conductors have been rendered accessible and visible by removal of the outer covering of the cable.

4-036 Colour Coding of Circuit Conductors. Where colour coded circuits are required, the following colour coding shall be used, except in the case of service-entrance cable and insofar as Rules 4-030, 4-032, 6-024, and 12-028 may modify these requirements:

single phase ac or dc (2-wire)	— 1 black and 1 red or 1 black and 1 white* (where identified conductor is required)
single phase ac or dc (3-wire)	— 1 black, 1 red, and 1 white*
3 phase ac	— 1 red (phase A), 1 black (phase B), 1 blue (phase C), and 1 white* (where neutral is required).

SECTION 6—LOW-POTENTIAL SERVICES AND SERVICE EQUIPMENT

General

6-000 Scope. This Section applies to services, service equipment, and metering equipment for installation operating at potentials of 750 volts or less.

6-002 Number of Supply Services Permitted

(1) Two or more supply services of the same potential and characteristics shall not be run to any building from the same system of any one supply authority except by special permission.

(2) Equipment of such services shall be grouped if practicable.

(3) The supply for fire-alarm systems shall be taken from the load side of the consumer's service at the first point of distribution after any transformation.

6-004 Aerial Conductors. Conductors run aerially between buildings or structures shall be not less than No. 10 AWG, and shall by of types suitable for exposure to the weather as indicated in Table 19.

6-006 Underground Services

(1) Service conductors run underground from an underground supply system or from a pole line to a building shall be installed in conduit, or as mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type, or as aluminum-sheathed cable, except that, by special permission, conductors or cable assemblies acceptable for direct earth burial may be used.

(2) Conductors installed in conduit shall be of types acceptable for use in wet locations as indicated in Table 19.

(3) Conductors or cable assemblies acceptable for direct earth burial as indicated in Table 19 shall:

(a) Be without splice or joint from the point of connection to the supply service to the service equipment in the building; and

(b) Be installed in accordance with Rule 12-006, with rigid conduit being used for mechanical protection at the point of entrance to the building and, where the supply service is on a pole, from the service fitting on the pole to approximately the bottom of the trench with the conduit formed so as to prevent damage to the emerging conductors in the trench.

(4) Service conduit entering a building underground shall be suitably drained.

(5) Service conduit connected to an underground supply system shall be sealed with a suitable compound to prevent the entrance of moisture or gases.

6-008 Service from an Electric Railway System.

A supply service shall not be run to a building from an electric railway system using a ground return, unless the building is connected with the operation of an electric railway.

6-010 Service Head Location. The supply end of a service shall be installed:

(a) In a location satisfactory both to the inspection department and to the supply authority;

(b) Not less than 15 feet nor more than 30 feet above sidewalk or grade level;

(c) In such a way that the supply service wires can be maintained at the required ground clearances; and

(d) So that open conductors, which are not higher than windows, doors, and porches shall have a clearance of not less than 3 feet, therefrom.

6-012 Type of Service Head. The supply end of a service shall be equipped with an approved raintight service-entrance cap, except that the cap may be dispensed with where mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable is used provided that:

(a) The cable terminates in a fitting suitable for exposure to the weather; and

(b) The cables are bent, as may be necessary, so that the emerging conductors point downward.

6-014 Condensation in Service Conduit

(1) Where in the opinion of the inspection department condensation is likely to occur due to changes in temperature, service conduit or the equivalent shall be either effectively drained or sealed.

(2) The service conduit shall not be terminated on top of the service box except where drained outdoors.

6-016 Support for the Attachment of Service Wires

(1) Where the exterior wall of any building consists of metal sheathing, or of hollow tile or other form of hollow building block, the wiring contractor shall provide acceptable means for attachment of the supply service wires.

(2) Where service masts are used they shall be assembled from components approved for service mast use and shall be installed in an acceptable manner.

6-018 Service Conductors

(1) Conductors of a consumer's service which are connected to an overhead supply service at any point above ground on a building shall be installed in rigid metal conduit or in one of the following ways if acceptable:

(a) Other types of rigid conduit;

(b) Busway;

(c) Flexible conduit, the conductors being lead-sheathed;

(d) Armoured lead-sheathed cable;

(e) Mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type;

(f) Aluminum-sheathed cable;

(g) Type ACWU cable;

(h) Type TECK cable;

(i) Service entrance cable, Type ASE;

(j) Service entrance cable, Types SE and USE, provided that:

(i) It is protected by approved means if within 7 feet of the ground;

(ii) The potential does not exceed 300 volts between conductors and 150 volts to ground;

(iii) It is supported at intervals not exceeding 3 feet; and

(iv) For aluminum-sheathed service entrance cable, it is mounted on insulating supports which hold it not less than 2 inches from a conducting surface if adjacent to such a surface.

(2) That portion of the consumer's service conductors on the supply side of the service head run on the outside walls of buildings may be run as open wiring using types of conductors suitable for exposure to the weather.

(3) Consumer's service conductors shall each extend not less than 30 inches beyond the supply end of the consumer's service head and be provided with drip loops.

(4) Consumer's service conductors shall be not less than No. 10 AWG copper wire, nor less than No. 8 AWG aluminum wire.

6-020 Use of Mineral-Insulated and Aluminum-Sheathed Cable

(1) Mineral-insulated cable and aluminum-sheathed cable may be used for services as specified in Rule 6-018:

(a) In a multi-conductor construction; or

(b) In single-conductor construction in sizes larger than No. 4 AWG.

(2) Mineral-insulated cable and aluminum-sheathed cable may be exposed and secured directly to the surface over which it is run, but subject to protection as specified in Rule 6-022(c).

6-022 Service Conduit, Steel Electrical Metallic Tubing. Service conduit and steel electrical metallic tubing shall:

(a) Have an internal diameter of not less than ¾ inch electrical trade size;

(b) Contain no other than service conductors and except by special permission only the conductors of one consumer's service; and

(c) If installed in lanes or driveways less than 6 feet above the grade, be protected by an iron guard of not less than No. 10 MSG secured by bolts or lag screws not less than ⅜ inch by 2½ inches.

6-024 Neutral Service Conductors. The neutral conductor of a consumer's service may by special permission be bare, subject to the following conditions:

(a) The supply is ac and 150 volts or less to ground;

(b) The neutral conductor of the supply system is grounded in addition to being grounded at the consumer's service; and

(c) The bare neutral conductor is run in the same protective covering as the other conductors of the service.

6-026 Services Encased in Concrete or Masonry. Where service and other conductors are installed in conduit or duct which is run beneath a building or within a wall of concrete or masonry and is surrounded by not less than 2 inches of concrete, masonry or its equivalent, the conductor shall be considered as being outside the building.

6-028 Service Equipment Location. Service boxes or other approved service equipment shall be installed in a location satisfactory to both the inspection department and the supply authority and shall be:

(a) Readily accessible, or have the means of operating them readily accessible;

(b) Not located in coal bins, clothes closets, bathrooms, stairways, dangerous or hazardous locations, nor in any similar undesirable places;

(c) Except by special permission, placed within the building;

(d) If placed on the outside of a building or on a pole:

(i) Protected from the weather, or be weather-proof, and

(ii) Protected from mechanical injury if less than six feet above ground; and

(e) As close as practicable to the point where the service conductors enter the building.

Control and Protective Equipment

6-030 Service Boxes. Service boxes shall consist of a device, manually operable when the box is closed, which will disconnect all ungrounded conductors of the circuit simultaneously at the point of supply, and shall be of a type approved for the use.

6-032 Overcurrent Devices. Overcurrent devices shall be connected on the load side of the service box or other approved service equipment.

6-034 Service Boxes, Sealed or Locked. Where service boxes are sealed or locked by the supply authority they shall not be opened except by an electrical inspector or by an authorized agent of the supply authority.

6-036 Three-Phase Service Divided into Single-Phase Services. A two- or three-phase consumer's service may be sub-divided into single-phase subservices provided that the voltage to ground does not exceed 150 volts from any wire of a single-phase service.

6-038 Overcurrent Devices Accessible to the Consumer. If a service supplies one branch circuit only and the service box containing the fuse is to be locked or sealed, overcurrent devices accessible to the consumer shall be inserted in series with the service overcurrent device and on the load side of the meter, but they shall be of a smaller ampacity than the service overcurrent devices, unless the latter be not more than 15 amperes.

6-040 Current Supply from More Than One System. Where an installation, or portion thereof, is to be supplied, with current from two or more different systems, the switching equipment controlling the various supplies shall be constructed or arranged so that it will be impossible to accidentally switch on current from one source before that from another has been cut off.

6-042 Service Equipment

(1) Every consumer's service shall be provided with a main service box except as provided in Subrule (2).

(2) Where the supply is ac, and not more than 150 volts to ground and there are two or more subdivisions of the main service, the main service box is not required if:

(a) There are not more than six subdivisions of the main service; and

(b) The subdivision service boxes are grouped.

(3) In Subrule (4), "single-family dwelling" means a house or housing unit that was not previously permanently supplied with power and that provides facilities ordinarily required for the accommodation of one family and has a separate basement or separate heating system.

(4) Where a single-family dwelling has five or more rooms or 800 or more square feet of floor space exclusive of basement floor space:

(a) The service box shall contain a service switch and overcurrent devices rated or set at not less than 100 amperes, and that part of the electrical equipment extending from the service box to the point at which the supply authority makes connection shall have a like ampacity; and

(b) The distribution panelboard shall have space for the equivalent of twenty-four 120-volt branch circuits including at least two 120/240-volt branch circuits for which overcurrent protection shall be at least 35 amperes.

(5) Where Subrule (4) does not apply the consumer's service of any single family residence shall have a capacity of at least 50 amperes, and space shall be provided in the panelboard of the single family residence, supplied by a three-wire single-phase service, for at least 12 branch-circuit overcurrent devices and 1 range-circuit overcurrent device.

6-044 Oil Switches and Oil Circuit Breakers Used as Service Switches

(1) Isolating switches shall be installed on the supply side and interlocked with oil switches and oil circuit breakers except in the case of metal clad equipment where the primary isolating device shall be considered to be the equivalent of an isolating switch or link.

(2) Where overcurrent trip coils are used for breakers, one shall be installed on each ungrounded conductor of the circuit except that if the capacity of the transformers and the extent of the network supplying the service is sufficiently small, by special permission two trip coils, one in each phase of a four-wire two-phase ungrounded service, may be used.

6-046 Subdivision of Main Service. Where there are two or more subdivisions of a main service, each subdivision shall be provided with a separate service box except that a number of service boxes may be combined in an approved assembly.

6-048 Marking of Service Boxes. If there be more service boxes than one, each such box shall be labelled in a conspicuous, legible and permanent manner to indicate clearly which installation or portion of an installation it controls.

6-050 Fuse Enclosures on Service Boxes. If a service box embodies one or more fuse receptacles, access to which may be had without opening the door, such receptacles and their fuses shall be completely enclosed by a separate door, spring-closed, or having a substantial catch.

6-052 Wiring Space in Enclosures. Enclosures for circuit breakers and externally-operated switches shall not be used as junction boxes, troughs, or raceways for conductors feeding through or tapping off to other apparatus.

Metering Equipment

6-054 Metering Equipment. Metering equipment includes any current and potential transformers as well as the associated measuring instruments.

6-056 Method of Installing Meter Loops

(1) Meter loops shall be installed so that:

(a) Conductors between the service box and the meter are inaccessible to unauthorized persons;

(b) The wiring method is rigid conduit, flexible conduit, electrical metallic-tubing, aluminum-sheathed cable, or armoured cable, except where equivalent protection is provided;

(c) Spare conductors not less than 18 inches in length are provided at meter or current transformer connection points; and

(d) A suitable fitting, or service box with meter backplate is provided.

(2) Metering equipment shall be connected on the load side of the service box except that it may be connected on the supply side where:

(a) No live parts or wiring are exposed;

(b) The supply is ac and the potential does not exceed 300 volts between conductors; and

(c) The rating of the service does not exceed 200 amperes.

(3) Instrument transformers used in connection with meters shall be installed in metal enclosures except when mounted on switchboards or in electrical equipment vaults or otherwise rendered inaccessible to unauthorized persons.

6-058 Disconnecting Provisions for Meters. In multiple occupancy and in single occupancy multi-rate service where individual metering is required the conductors to each meter shall be provided with one of the following:

(a) A separate service box or service equipment; or

(b) A sealable meter fitting.

6-060 Location of Meters

(1) Meters and metering equipment shall be installed in locations satisfactory to both the inspection department and the supply authority and shall be:

(a) Located as near as practicable to the service box except as provided for in Subrule (2);

(b) Grouped where practicable;

(c) Readily accessible;

(d) Not located in coal bins, clothes closets, bathrooms, stairways, dangerous or hazardous locations, nor in any similar undesirable places; and

(e) If mounted outdoors, of weatherproof construction or in weatherproof enclosures.

(2) Instrument transformers may be outside the consumer's premises and the meter inside the premises, providing the secondary leads between the instrument transformers and the meter terminal box or test links are continuous and are installed in the same manner as service entrance conductors, with the exception that a service box with disconnecting switch is not required.

6-062 Minimum Space Required for Meters. The minimum space provided for meters shall be 12 inches wide, 22 inches high, and be acceptable to the supply authority and the inspection department.

SECTION 8—CIRCUIT LOADING AND DEMAND FACTORS

General

8-000 Scope. This Section covers the conductor ampacities required for services, feeders, and branch circuits.

8-002 Currents Based on Wattage Requirements

When calculating currents which will result from wattages to be supplied by a single-phase system, the voltage divisors to be used shall be either 115 or 230.

8-004 Use of Demand Factors

(1) Since the use of demand factors less than 100 per cent has the effect of reducing the size of conductors that would be otherwise required, the size of conductors, and switches, computed in accordance with this Section shall be the minimum used except that, if the next smaller standard size in common use has an ampacity not more than 5 per cent less than this minimum, the inspection department may, at its discretion, permit the use of the smaller size.

(2) In any case other than a service calculated in accordance with Rules 8-006 and 8-008, where the design of an installation is based on requirements in excess of those given in this Section, the service and feeder capacities shall be increased accordingly.

(3) Where two or more loads are so installed that only one can be used at any one time, the one providing the greatest demand shall be used in determining the calculated demand.

Services

8-006 Single Family Residences.

(1) Except as provided in Subrule (4) of Rule 6-042, the minimum ampacity of the consumer's service shall be based on the following:

(a) A basic load of:

(i) 5,000 watts for residences having up to and including 1,000 square feet of living area (see Rule 8-018); plus

(ii) An additional 1,000 watts to be added for each 1,000 square feet or portion thereof by which the living area exceeds 1,000 square feet; plus

(b) The sum of the ratings of:

(i) Any surface and space heating loads provided for with demand factors as permitted in Section 62; and

(ii) Any air conditioning loads provided for with individual ratings in excess of 1,500 volt-amperes, with a demand factor of 100 per cent, except that where it is known that equipment with loads as provided for in Subparagraphs (i) and (ii) are installed and will not be used simultaneously, whichever is the greater of these loads may be used; plus

(c) Any electric range load provided for as follows:

(i) 6,000 watts for a single range having a rating of 12 kilowatts or less; or

(ii) 6,000 watts plus 25 per cent of the rating that is in excess of 12 kilowatts for a single range having a rating of more than 12 kilowatts; or

(iii) 6,000 watts plus 25 per cent of the amount by which the sum of the ratings of two or more ranges exceeds 12 kilowatts; the minimum rating of a range being considered to be 12 kilowatts; plus

(d) Any loads provided for in addition to those outlined in paragraphs (a) (b) and (c) of this Subrule as follows:

(i) 25 per cent of the rating of each load, with a rating in excess of 1,500 watts if an electric range has been provided for; or

(ii) 100 per cent of the rating of each load, with a rating in excess of 1,500 watts up to a total of 6,000 watts plus 25 per cent of the load in excess of 6,000 watts if an electric range has not been provided for.

(2) Notwithstanding the requirements of Subrule (1) the minimum ampacity of a consumer's service or a feeder to a residential unit shall be not less than 50 amperes.

8-008 Apartments, Motels, and other Multi-Family Residences

(1) The ampacity of service conductors, or of feeder conductors from a main service, supplying loads in individual residential units shall comply with Rule 8-006.

(2) The ampacity of service conductors or of feeder conductors from a main service, supplying a load in an individual residential unit not over 1,000 square feet shall be 50 amperes plus any electrical space heating load.

(3) The minimum ampacity of main service conductors, or of feeder conductors from a main service, supplying two or more residential units shall be based on the following:

(a) If there is no electric space heating or air conditioning the total load shall be considered to be:

(i) 65 per cent of the sum of the loads in the two units having the heaviest loads; plus

(ii) 25 per cent of the sum of the loads in the next 18 units; plus

(iii) 10 per cent of the sum of the loads in the remaining units;

(b) If electric space heating is used, the sum of all the space heating loads, as determined in accordance with the requirements of Section 62, shall be added to the load determined in accordance with paragraph (a);

(c) If electrically operated air conditioning is used, the sum of all the air conditioning loads with a demand factor of 100 per cent shall be added to the load determined in accordance with paragraphs (a) and (b); and

(d) In addition, any lighting, heating, and power loads not located in individual units shall be added with a demand factor of 75 per cent.

8-010 Schools. The minimum ampacity of service conductors shall be based on the following:

(a) A basic load of 3 watts per square foot of classroom area plus 1 watt per square foot of the remaining area of the building based on the outside dimensions; plus

(b) Heating and power loads based on the rating of the equipment installed;

(c) A demand factor of 75 per cent may be applied to the total load for buildings with an area up to and including 10,000 square feet based on the outside dimensions; or

(d) For a building with an area exceeding 10,000 square feet, the total load may be divided by the number of square feet to obtain a total-load-per-square-foot rating and the demand load for the purpose of calculating the minimum ampacity of service conductors may be considered to be the sum of:

(i) 75 per cent of the total-load-per-square-foot multiplied by 10,000, and

(ii) 50 per cent of the total-load-per-square-foot multiplied by the area of the building in excess of 10,000 square feet.

8-012 Hospitals. The minimum ampacity of service conductors shall be based on the following:

(a) A basic load of 1 watt per square foot of the area of the building based on the outside dimensions; plus

(b) 10 watts per square foot for high-intensity areas, such as operating rooms; plus

(c) Heating and power loads based on the rating of the equipment installed;

(d) A demand factor of 80 per cent may be applied to the total load for a building with an area up to and including 10,000 square feet based on the outside dimensions;

(e) For a building with an area exceeding 10,000 square feet, the total load may be divided by the number of square feet to obtain a total-load-per-square-foot rating and the demand load for the purpose of calculating the minimum ampacity of service conductors may be considered to be the sum of:

(i) 80 per cent of the total-load-per-square-foot multiplied by 10,000, and

(ii) 65 per cent of the total-load-per-square-foot multiplied by the area of the building in excess of 10,000 square feet.

8-014 Hotels, Dormitories, and Buildings of Similar Occupancy. The minimum ampacity of service conductors shall be based on the following:

(a) A basic load of 1.5 watts per square foot of the area of the building based on the outside dimensions; plus

(b) Lighting loads for special areas such as ballrooms, etc., with a demand factor of 100 per cent; plus

(c) Heating and power loads based on the rating of the equipment installed;

(d) A demand factor of 80 per cent may be applied to the total load for a building with an area up to and including 10,000 square feet based on the outside dimensions;

(e) For a building with an area exceeding 10,000 square feet, the total load may be divided by the number of square feet to obtain a total-load-per-square-foot rating and the demand load for the purpose of calculating the minimum ampacity of service conductors may be considered to be the sum of:

(i) 80 per cent of the total-load-per-square-foot multiplied by 10,000, and

(ii) 65 per cent of the total-load-per-square-foot multiplied by the area of the building in excess of 10,000 square feet.

8-016 Other Types of Occupancy. The minimum ampacity of service conductors shall be based on the following:

(a) A basic load to be calculated on the basis of wattage per square foot required by Table 14 with application of demand factors as indicated therein; plus

(b) Heating and power loads based on the rating of the equipment installed with such demand factors as are permitted by this Code for the specific types and number of equipments.

8-018 Determination of Areas

(1) The living area designated in sub-paragraphs (i), and (ii) of paragraph (a) of Rule 8-006 shall be determined from the outside dimensions of the ground floor of the residence plus 75 per cent of the basement area, based on the inside dimensions, plus any area which might normally be used for living purposes on the upper floors.

(2) The square-footage referred to in paragraph (a) of Rule 8-016 shall be determined from the outside dimensions of all floors on or above grade and the inside dimensions of all floors below grade, according to the type of occupancy of individual floors

Feeders and Branch Circuits

8-020 General

(1) The ampacity of feeder or branch circuit conductors shall be as required by this or other Sections of this Code for the specific type of load supplied.

(2) Where a feeder supplies loads of a cyclic or similar nature such that the maximum connected load will not be supplied at the same time, the ampacity of the feeder conductors may be based on the maximum load that may be connected at any one time.

(3) Notwithstanding the requirements of this Section, the ampacity of the conductors of a feeder, or of a branch circuit, need not exceed the ampacity of the conductors of the service, or of the feeder, from which they are supplied.

8-022 Schools. The minimum ampacity of feeder conductors for schools shall be based on:

(a) A basic load of 3 watts per square foot of classroom area plus 1 watt per square foot of any additional area served by the feeder; plus

(b) An ampacity sufficient for any heating or power loads.

8-024 Hospitals. The minimum ampacity of feeder conductors for hospitals shall be based on:

(a) A basic load of 1 watt per square foot of the area plus 10 watts per square foot of any high-intensity area served by the feeder; plus

(b) An ampacity sufficient for any heating or power loads.

8-026 Hotels, Dormitories, and Buildings of Similar Occupancies and Demands. The minimum ampacity of feeder conductors for hotels, dormitories and buildings of similar occupancies and demands shall be based on:

(a) A basic load of 1.5 watts per square foot of the area served by the feeder; plus

(b) Lighting loads for special areas such as ball rooms, etc., served by the feeder with a demand factor of 100 per cent; plus

(c) Ampacity sufficient for any heating or power loads.

8-028 Other Types of Occupancy. The minimum ampacity of feeder conductors for the types of occupancies specified in Table 14 shall be based on:

(a) A basic load to be calculated on the wattage per square foot required by Table 14 for the area served by the feeder; plus

(b) An ampacity sufficient for any special loads, such as heating, air conditioning, power loads, show window lighting, stage lighting, etc.

8-030 Special Lighting Circuits. Where a panel is supplying special types of lighting, such as exit lights or emergency lights, which may be located throughout a building so that it is not possible to calculate the area served, the connected load of the circuits involved shall be used in determining a feeder size.

8-032 Conductors Supplying Electric Ranges

(1) Conductors of a branch circuit supplying a range in a residential occupancy shall be considered as having a demand load as follows:

(a) 8 kilowatts where the range has a rating of 12 kilowatts or less;

(b) 8 kilowatts, plus 5 per cent for each kilowatt or fraction thereof, by which the rating exceeds 12 kilowatts.

(2) For the purpose of Subrule (1), two or more separate built-in cooking units in a single-family residential occupancy may be considered as one range.

(3) Conductors of a branch circuit supplying ranges or cooking units installed in commercial, industrial and institutional establishments shall be considered as having a demand load not less than the rating of the ranges or cooking units.

(4) Ranges approved for use in residential occupancies shall not be used in other occupancies without special permission.

(5) The demand loads prescribed by this Rule do not apply to cord connected hot plates, rangettes, or other appliances used in residential occupancies.

8-034 Branch Circuit Connected Loads

(1) For show window lighting installations the number of branch circuits and size of conductors shall be determined on the assumption that not less than 200 watts will be required per lineal foot, measured along the base of the window, except that a lower figure may be used by special permission where circumstances warrant such a reduction.

(2) The connected load of a circuit shall not exceed 80 per cent of the circuit capacity unless it can be shown that, in normal operation, the loading is of an intermittent nature.

(3) Branch circuits supplying loads which are not specifically permitted to have a lower demand factor in this or other Sections of this Code shall not be allowed a demand factor of less than 100 per cent, except by special permission.

8-036 Minimum Number of 15-Ampere Branch Circuits. The minimum number of 15-ampere branch circuits to be provided for in an installation shall be calculated on the basis of a maximum loading of 12 amperes for each such circuit.

8-038 Conductors in Cabletroughs. The ampacity of conductors in cabletroughs shall be decreased, where necessary, as required by Rule 12-436.

8-040 Motor Feeders and Branch Circuits. The ampacity of conductors of motor feeders or branch circuits shall be in accordance with the requirements of Section 28.

8-042 Conductors for Capacitors. The ampacity of conductors supplying capacitors shall be as required in Section 26.

8-044 Conductors for Welders. The ampacity of conductors supplying welders shall be as required by Section 42.

8-046 Conductors for Fixed Electric Heating Equipment. The ampacity of conductors of feeders or branch circuits supplying fixed electric heating equipment shall be in accordance with the requirements of Section 62.

8-048 Conductors for Induction and Dielectric Heating Equipment. The ampacity of conductors of feeders or branch circuits supplying induction or dielectric heating equipment shall be in accordance with the requirements of Section 64.

SECTION 10—GROUNDING

Scope and Object

10-000 Scope

(1) This Section covers the protection of electrical installations by grounding.

(2) Insulating, isolating, and guarding may be used as acceptable means of affording supplemental protection to grounding or, where permitted in this Code, as a suitable alternative.

10-002 Object. Grounding as required by this Code shall be done in such a manner as to efficiently serve the following purposes:

(a) To protect life from the danger of electric shock, and property from damage;

(b) To limit the voltage upon a circuit when exposed to higher voltages than that for which the circuit is designed;

(c) In general to limit ac circuit voltages to ground to 150 volts or less on circuits supplying interior wiring systems;

(d) To facilitate the operation of electrical apparatus and systems;

(e) To limit the voltage on a circuit which might otherwise occur through exposure to lightning.

Systems and Circuits

10-004 Circuits. Circuits shall be grounded as necessary in accordance with this Section.

10-006 Two-Wire Direct-Current Systems

(1) Two-wire direct-current systems supplying interior wiring and operating at not more than 300 volts or not less than 50 volts between conductors shall be grounded, unless such system is used for supplying industrial equipment in limited areas and the circuit is equipped with a ground detector.

(2) If such a circuit operates at more than 300 volts between conductors and a neutral point can be established so that the maximum difference of potential between the neutral point and any other point on the system does not exceed 300 volts, the neutral conductor may be grounded.

10-008 Three-Wire Direct-Current System. The neutral conductor of all three-wire direct-current systems supplying interior wiring shall be grounded.

10-010 Alternating-Current Systems

(1) Except as otherwise provided for in this Code, secondary ac systems supplying interior wiring and interior wiring ac systems shall be grounded if:

(a) By so doing, their maximum potential to ground does not exceed 150 volts; or

(b) The system incorporates a neutral conductor.

(2) It is recommended that systems exceeding 150 volts to ground either be grounded or provided with a suitable ground detection device to indicate operation of the system with an accidental ground on one phase.

10-012 Electric Arc Furnace Circuits. Circuits for electric arc furnaces may, but need not be grounded.

10-014 Electric Crane Circuits. Circuits for electric cranes operating over combustible fibres in Class III hazardous locations shall not be grounded.

10-016 Isolated Circuits. Special circuits supplied from the secondaries of isolating transformers and used where there is particular accident and fire hazard may be ungrounded.

10-018 Circuits of Less than 50 Volts. Circuits of less than 50 volts shall be grounded:

(a) Where run overhead outside of buildings;

(b) Where supplied by transformers energized from:

(i) Systems of more than 150 volts to ground, or

(ii) Ungrounded systems unless the circuits are provided in accordance with Rule 10-016.

Location of Grounding Connections

10-020 Current Over Grounding Conductors

(1) Where wiring systems, circuits, electrical equipment, arresters, cable armour, conduit and other metal raceways are grounded as a protective measure, the grounding shall be arranged so that there is no objectionable passage of current over the grounding conductors.

(2) The temporary currents which are set up under accidental conditions while the grounding conductors are performing their intended protective functions shall not be considered as objectionable.

(3) Where through the use of multiple grounds an objectionable flow of current occurs over the grounding conductor:

(a) One or more of the grounds shall be abondoned;

(b) The location of the grounds shall be changed;

(c) The continuity of the conductor between the grounding connections shall be suitably interrupted; or

(d) Other effective action shall be taken to limit the current.

10-022 Grounding Connection for Direct-Current Systems. Direct-current systems which are to be grounded shall have the grounding connection made at one or more supply stations but not at individual services or elsewhere on interior wiring.

10-024 Grounding Connections for Alternating-Current Systems

(1) Secondary alternating-current circuits which are to be grounded shall have:

(a) A connection to a grounding electrode at each individual service, except as provided for in Rule 10-020;

(b) The grounding connection made on the supply side of the service disconnecting means;

(c) At least one additional connection to a grounding electrode at the transformer or elsewhere; and

(d) No connection between the grounded circuit conductor on the load side of the service disconnecting means and the grounding electrode, except as provided for in Rule 10-026.

(2) Where the system is grounded at any point, the conductor shall be run to each individual service and be not smaller than the required grounding conductor specified in Table 17 and where the grounded circuit conductor also serves as the neutral conductor, the requirements of Rule 4-022 shall be met.

10-026 Two or More Buildings Served by a Single Service

(1) Where two or more buildings are served by one service, the grounded circuit conductor of the wiring system of any of the buildings shall be connected to a grounding electrode at any building which:

(a) Uses two or more branch circuits supplied from the service; or

(b) Houses livestock.

(2) Where a building uses one branch circuit supplied from the service, the grounded circuit conductor may be connected to a grounding electrode at the building.

10-028 Conductor to be Grounded

(1) For alternating-current interior wiring systems the conductor to be grounded shall be as follows:

(a) Single-phase, 2-wire—the identified conductor;

(b) Single-phase, 3-wire—the identified neutral conductor;

(c) Multi-phase systems having one wire common to all phases—the identified neutral conductor;

(d) Multi-phase systems having one phase grounded —the identified conductor;

(e) Multi-phase systems in which one phase is used as in (b)—the identified conductor.

(2) In multi-phase systems in which one phase is used as a single-phase 3-wire system, only one phase shall be grounded.

10-030 Isolated Systems. For an interior wiring system or circuit which is required to be grounded, and which is not connected to an exterior distribution system, the grounding connection shall be made at the transformer, or other source of supply, or on the supply side of the first switch controlling the system, and:

(a) The grounding conductor shall be not smaller than that specified in Table 17; and

(b) If two or more systems are employed, a common system grounding conductor shall be installed unless separate grounding is supplied for each such system, in which case the grounding for the individual systems shall be interconnected.

Conductor Enclosures

10-032 Conductor Enclosures. Raceways, cable sheaths or armouring, if of metal, shall be grounded.

10-034 Other Conductor Enclosures. Where by reason of the elimination of sheath currents, the sheaths of single conductor metallic sheathed cables are grounded at the supply end only, and cannot be employed for bonding non-current carrying metal parts of a wiring system, a conductor selected in accordance with Table 16 shall be installed for the purpose of providing a continuous bond in the system.

Equipment

10-036 Fixed Equipment, General. Exposed, non-current-carrying metal parts of fixed equipment shall be gounded if the equipment is:

(a) Supplied by means of metal-clad wiring;

(b) Located in a wet location and is not isolated;

(c) Located within reach of a person who can make contact with any grounded surface or object;

(d) Located within reach of a person standing on the ground;

(e) In a hazardous location;

(f) In electrical contact with metal, metal foil or metal lath; or

(g) To operate with any terminal at more than 150 volts to ground, except:

(i) Enclosures for switches or circuit breakers which are accessible to qualified persons only,

(ii) Metal frames of electrically-heated devices which have been exempted by special permission and are permanently and effectively insulated from ground, and

(iii) Transformers mounted on wooden poles at a height of more than 8 feet from the ground subject to the acceptance of the inspection department and the requirements of the supply authority.

10-038 Fixed Equipment, Specific. Exposed, non-current-carrying metal parts of the following kinds of fixed equipment shall be grounded:

(a) Frames of motors operating at 50 volts or more;

(b) Cases of controllers for motors, except lined covers of snap switches;

(c) Electric equipment of elevators and cranes;

(d) Electrical equipment in garages, theatres and motion picture studios, except pendent lampholders on circuits of not more than 150 volts to ground;

(e) Motion-picture projection equipment;

(f) Electric signs and associated equipment;

(g) Generator frames in an electrically-operated organ, unless the generator is effectively insulated from the ground;

(h) Switchboard frames and structures supporting switching equipment, except that frames of direct-current, single polarity switchboards need not be grounded if effectively insulated;

(i) X-Ray equipment used in therapy;

(j) Equipment supplied by Class 1 and 2 circuits falling within the scope of Section 16 where such circuits require grounding to meet the intent of Rules 10-004 to 10-018.

10-040 In Non-metallic Wiring Systems. Where a non-metallic wiring system is used:

(a) A ground connection shall be provided at all outlets; and

(b) Metallic boxes shall be grounded.

10-042 Non-Electrical Equipment

(1) The following metal parts of non-electrical equipment shall be grounded:

(a) Frames and tracks of electrically-operated cranes;

(b) The metal frame of a non-electrically-driven elevator car to which electric conductors are attached;

(c) Hand-operated metal shifting ropes or cables of electric elevators;

(d) Metal enclosures such as partitions or grillwork around equipment.

(2) Where a private metallic water-supply system is used in connection with premises supplied with electrical power or energy, the water-supply system shall be bonded to a neutral conductor of not less than No. 8 AWG copper wire by means of a bonding conductor of not less than No. 8 AWG copper wire attached to the water suppply system:

(a) At a point as close as is practicable to the consumer's service entrance; and

(b) At the point where the sub-feeder enters a barn or other building.

10-044 Portable Equipment

(1) Exposed non-current-carrying metal parts of portable equipment shall be grounded under the following conditions:

(a) When used in hazardous locations unless supplied through an isolating transformer having an ungrounded secondary of not over 50 volts;

(b) When the inspection department requires the appliance or equipment to be provided with grounding means;

(c) When the equipment is used in damp or wet locations, or by persons standing on the ground, on metal floors, inside metal tanks or boilers, except where such equipment is supplied through an isolating transformer having an ungrounded secondary of not more than 50 volts;

(d) When the equipment operates with any terminal at more than 150 volts to ground except:

(i) Motors, where guarded; and

(ii) By special permission, the metal frames of electrically heated appliances which are impractical to ground but which are permanently and effectively insulated from ground.

(2) Exposed non-current-carrying metal parts of enclosures of portable X-ray equipment used in therapy shall be grounded except by special permission.

(3) Notwithstanding Subrules (1) and (2), tools and appliances approved with a protective system of double insulation, or its equivalent, and so marked, need not be grounded.

10-046 Spacing or Bonding of Electrical and Lightning Rod Systems. Where practicable, a clearance of at least six feet shall be provided between lightning rod conductors and electrical conductors and equipment, but where this separation is not possible, the ground electrodes for the two systems shall be connected together, at or below ground level, with a copper conductor of a size not less than that of the grounding conductor for the electrical system and in no case shall the bonding conductor be smaller than No. 6 AWG copper.

Methods of Grounding

10-048 Effective Grounding. The path to ground from circuits, equipment, or conductor enclosures shall be permanent and continuous and shall have ample carrying capacity to conduct safely any currents liable to be imposed on it, and shall have impedance sufficiently low to limit the potential above ground, and to facilitate the operation of the over-current devices in the circuit.

10-050 Grounding Conductor to Circuit. The grounding conductor may be connected to the grounded circuit conductor at any convenient point on the premises on the supply side of the service disconnecting means, or in other suitable service equipment if provided.

10-052 Common Grounding Conductor. The grounding conductor for circuits may also be used as a common grounding conductor for grounding equipment, conduit, and other metal raceways or enclosures for conductors, including service conduit or cable sheath and service equipment.

10-054 Common Grounding Electrode. Where the alternating-current system is connected to a grounding electrode in or at a building as specified in Rules 10-024 and 10-026, the same electrode may be used to ground conductor enclosures and equipment in or on that building.

10-056 Underground Service

(1) Where an underground service cable is served from a continuous underground metal-sheathed cable system and the sheath or armour of the service cable is metallically connected to the underground system the sheath or armour of the service cable shall not be required to be grounded at the building if it is insulated from the interior conduit or piping.

(2) Where a metal-sheathed service cable is served from a continuous underground metal-sheathed cable system, is bonded to the underground system and is contained in an underground service conduit, the conduit shall not be required to be grounded at the building if it is insulated from the interior conduit or piping.

10-058 Short Section of Raceway. Isolated sections of metal raceway or cable armour, if required to be grounded shall preferably be grounded by connecting to other grounded raceway or armour, but may be grounded in accordance with Rule 10-060.

10-060 Fixed Equipment

(1) Fixed equipment as specified in Rules 10-036 and 10-038 shall, subject to the provisions of Rule 10-096, be grounded in one of the following ways:

(a) An effective metallic connection to grounded metal raceways or cable armour, except:

(i) Armour as specified in Subrules (2) and (3);

(ii) Where the raceways or cables are run underground, in locations coming within the scope of Section 22, or otherwise subject to corrosion;

(b) A grounding conductor which is run with circuit conductors as a part of a cable assembly and which may be uninsulated, but, if provided with an individual covering, the covering shall be finished to show a green colour;

(c) A separate grounding conductor installed in the same manner as a grounding conductor for conduit and the like; or

(d) Other acceptable means, subject to special permission.

(2) The armour of those constructions of armoured cables incorporating a grounding conductor shall not be considered as fulfilling the requirements of a grounding conductor for the purpose of this Rule, and the grounding conductor provided in these cables shall comply with paragraph (b) of Subrule (1).

(3) The armour of flexible metal conduit shall not be considered as fulfilling the requirements of a grounding conductor for the purpose of this Rule, and a separate grounding conductor shall be run within the conduit.

10-062 Equipment on Structural Metal

(1) Electrical equipment secured to and in contact with the grounded structural metal frame of a building, shall be deemed to be grounded.

(2) Metal car frames supported by metal hoisting cables attached to or running over sheaves or drums of elevator machines shall be deemed to be grounded if the machine is grounded in accordance with this Code.

10-064 Portable Equipment. Where the non-current-carrying metal parts of portable equipment are required to be grounded, such grounding shall be obtained by:

(a) Connection of the equipment to a permanent outlet provided with a grounding medium as required by Rule 10-060 for fixed equipment;

(b) The use of one of the following means to obtain continuity between the non-current-carrying metal parts of the equipment and the permanent grounding medium:

(i) The metal enclosure of the conductors feeding the equipment,

(ii) A bare conductor, or a green, or green yellow combination, coloured conductor run with the circuit conductors in flexible cords or power supply cables; and

(c) The use of an approved multi-prong plug by which grounding is automatically established.

10-066 Pendent Equipment

(1) Where the non-current-carrying metal parts of pendent equipment are required to be grounded, such grounding shall be obtained by:

(a) Connection of the equipment to a permanent outlet provided with a grounding medium as required by Rule 10-060 for fixed equipment; and

(b) The use of one of the following means to obtain continuity between the non-current-carrying metal parts of the equipment and the permanent grounding medium:

(i) The metal enclosure of the conductors feeding the equipment,

(ii) A bare conductor, or a green, or green yellow combination, coloured conductor run with the circuit conductors in flexible cords or power supply cables.

(2) Chains which support electric lighting equipment shall not be used as a means of grounding the non-current-carrying metal parts of the equipment.

10-068 Grounding Equipment to Circuit Conductor

(1) The grounded circuit conductor on the load side of the connection to ground shall not be used for grounding equipment, cable armour, or metal raceways, except by special permission.

(2) The grounded service conductor on the supply side of the service disconnecting means may be used for grounding meter housing and service equipment.

10-070 Electrolytic Type Water Heaters. Electrolytic type water heaters connected to a grounded single-phase ac circuit may be used provided that:

(a) A copper grounding conductor of a size given in the second column of Table 16 but in no case less than No. 12 AWG is run connecting the frame of the heater to the grounded conductor of the circuit at the service box; and

(b) The grounded conductor of the circuit is grounded at the service box to a grounding system.

Bonding

10-072 Bonding at Service Equipment. The electrical continuity of the grounding circuit at the service equipment shall be assured by one of the means given in Rule 10-074 for the following equipment and enclosures if metallic:

(a) Service raceways or service armour or sheaths;

(b) All service equipment enclosures containing service entrance conductors including meter fittings, boxes, or the like, interposed in the service raceway or armour; and

(c) Any conduit or armour which forms part of the grounding conductor to the service raceway.

10-074 Means of Assuring Continuity at Service Equipment

(1) Electrical continuity at service equipment shall be assured by:

(a) The use of threaded couplings and threaded bosses on enclosures with joints made up tigh where metallic rigid conduit is used;

(b) The use of threadless couplings made up tigh where electrical metallic tubing is used;

(c) The use of bonding jumpers meeting the requirements of Rules 10-084 and 10-116; or

(d) Other devices, except standard locknuts and bushings, such as grounding bushings specifically approved for the purpose, equipped with bonding jumpers meeting the requirements of Rule 10-084.

(2) Where a non-conductive protective coating such as paint or enamel is used on equipment, conduit couplings or fittings, such coating shall be removed from threads and other contact surfaces in order to ensure a good electrical connection.

10-076 Metal Armour or Tape of Service Cable

Where service cable has an uninsulated grounded service conductor in continuous electrical contact with its metallic armour or tape, the metal covering shall be considered to be adequately grounded.

10-078 Bonding at Other than Service Equipment

The electrical continuity of metal raceway or metal-sheathed cable shall be assured by one of the methods specified in paragraphs (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) of Rule 10-074 (1), or by the use of:

(a) Threadless fittings, made up tight with conduit or armoured cable;

(b) Two locknuts, one inside and one outside of boxes and cabinets; or

(c) One locknut and a metal conduit bushing provided the bushing can be installed so that it is mechanically secure and makes positive contact with the inside surface of the box or cabinet.

10-080 Loosely Jointed Metal Raceways

(1) Expansion joints and telescoping sections of raceways shall be made electrically continuous by bonding jumpers or other approved means.

(2) Metal trough raceways used in connection with sound recording and reproducing equipment made up in sections, shall contain a grounding conductor to which each section shall be bonded.

10-082 Hazardous Locations. In hazardous locations, regardless of the voltage involved, the electrical continuity of metallic raceway, boxes and the like shall be assured by one of the methods specified in paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) of Rule 10-074 (1).

10-084 Bonding Jumpers. Bonding jumpers shall be:

(a) Of copper or other corrosion-resistant material

(b) Of sufficient size to have an ampacity not less than that required for the corresponding grounding conductor except that this ampacity may be determined on the basis of:

(i) Table 41, where the conducting path is supplemented by the use of two locknuts and a grounding bushing; or

(ii) The maximum size that the terminal on the grounding bushing will accommodate where single conductor metallic-sheathed cables are employed and the sheaths are attached to a grounded metallic plate by connectors, each fitted with a locknut and a grounding bushing;

(c) Attached to cabinets and similar equipment in a manner specified in Rule 10-118; and

(d) Attached in a manner specified in Rule 10-120 where used between grounding electrodes or around water meters and the like.

Grounding Electrodes

10-086 Grounding Electrodes

(1) Where a continuous electrically conductive underground public water main system, including conductive service piping run therefrom to premises, is available, it shall be used as the grounding electrode.

(2) Where a continuous electrically conductive underground public water main system is not available, a service water pipe from the public water main to premises, if available, shall be used as the grounding electrode provided:

(a) It is continuously electrically conductive;

(b) It is placed underground at least 10 inches below the normal permanent moisture level;

(c) The underground portion extends at least 10 feet beyond the extremities of the premises served; and

(d) It is supplemented by one or more grounding electrodes referred to in Rule 10-088 if the metallic water piping does not have a ground resistance of 25 ohms or less.

(3) Where a system of the types listed in Subrules (1) or (2) is not available, a multiple grounded neutral grid or an acceptable artificial ground electrode or electrodes shall be used as the grounding medium.

(4) In any case where two or more of the grounding mediums listed in this Rule appear at premises, the main grounding electrode for the system shall be selected in the order of preference outlined with bonding provided between the available electrodes in accordance with Rule 10-102.

10-088 Artificial Electrodes. An artificial ground electrode shall consist of driven rods, buried plates, or other devices acceptable for the purpose and which conform to the following requirements:

(a) Rod electrodes shall be not less than:

(i) 5/8 inch in diameter if of iron or steel, and

(ii) 1/2 inch in diameter if of non-ferrous metal;

(b) Plate electrodes shall:

(i) Present not less than 2 square feet of surface to exterior soil,

(ii) Be not less than 1/4 inch in thickness if of iron or steel, and

(iii) Be not less than 0.06 inch thick if of non-ferrous metal;

(c) Rods shall:

(i) Be preferably of one piece where of less than standard commercial length; and

(ii) Have a clean metal surface which is not covered with paint, enamel, or other poor conducting material;

(d) Artificial ground electrodes shall, as far as practicable, be buried at least 10 inches below permanent moisture level;

(e) Where rock bottom is encountered at a depth of less than 4 feet, the electrodes shall be buried in a horizontal trench;

(f) Rods shall be driven to a depth of at least 10 feet regardless of the size or number used, except that:

(i) Where rock bottom is encountered at a depth of 4 feet or more, they shall be driven to rock bottom; or

(ii) Where rock bottom is encountered at a depth of less than 4 feet, they shall be buried in a horizontal trench and shall be not less than 10 feet long;

(g) Each electrode shall be separated at least 6 feet from any other electrode including an electrode used for signal circuits, radio, lightning rods, or any other purpose;

(h) Where any or all of the separate ground electrodes are bonded together, the bonding conductor shall be:

(i) At least No. 6 AWG,

(ii) Installed so as not to be subject to mechanical damage, and

(iii) Attached to electrodes for power systems in accordance with Rule 10-120 and preferably be attached to other electrodes in the same manner.

10-090 Resistance of Electrodes

(1) Buried or driven electrodes shall, if practicable, have a combined resistance to ground not greater than 25 ohms.

(2) Where the resistance to ground of any electrode is higher than 25 ohms, two or more electrodes connected in parallel shall be used.

10-092 Railway Track as Electrodes. Rails or other grounded conductors of electric railway circuits shall not be used as a ground for other than railway lightning arresters and railway equipment, conduit, armoured cable, metal raceway, and the like; and in no case shall such rails or other grounded conductors of railway circuits be used for grounding interior wiring systems other than those supplied from the railway circuit itself.

10-094 Use of Lightning Rods. Lightning rod conductors and driven pipes, rods or other electrodes, excluding buried metallic water-piping systems, used for grounding lightning rods shall not be used for grounding wiring systems or other electrical equipment.

Grounding Conductors

10-096 Material for Grounding Conductors

(1) The grounding conductor of a wiring system, whether also used for grounding electrical equipment or not, may be insulated or bare, and shall be:

(a) Of copper; and

(b) Without joint or splice throughout its length, except in the case of bus bars or thermit welded joints.

(2) The grounding conductor for equipment and for conduit and other metal raceways and enclosures for conductors shall be:

(a) Of copper or other corrosion-resistant material, insulated or bare; or

(b) A bus bar or steel pipe;

(c) Rigid metal conduit or electrical metallic tubing, except where used underground or in any other locations where materials having a deteriorating effect may come in contact with the metal in which case a separate conductor as required by paragraph (a) shall be provided;

(d) The sheath of mineral-insulated cable or any conductor of a mineral-insulated cable if it is permanently marked at the time of installation so that it can be readily distinguished from conductors which are not used as grounding conductors;

(e) The sheath of aluminum-sheathed cable, but if used for underground runs or in locations where materials having a deteriorating effect may come in contact with the metal, corrosion resistant protection suitable for the corrosive conditions encountered shall be provided; or

(f) Other metallic raceways or cable armour as provided for in Rule 10-060.

10-098 Installation of Grounding Conductors

(1) A grounding conductor No. 4 AWG or larger may be attached to the surface on which it is carried without the use of knobs, tubes, or insulators, and it need not be protected unless it is exposed to severe mechanical injury.

(2) A No. 6 AWG grounding conductor which is free from exposure to mechanical injury may be run along the surface of the building construction without metal covering or protection, if it is rigidly stapled to the construction; otherwise it shall be in conduit, electrical metallic tubing, or cable armour.

(3) Grounding conductors smaller than No. 6 AWG shall be installed and protected in the same manner as the circuit conductors for a given installation.

(4) Metallic enclosures for grounding conductors shall be continuous from the point of attachment to cabinets or equipment to the grounding electrode, and shall be securely fastened to the ground clamp or fitting.

(5) Where rigid metallic conduit or steel pipe is used as a grounding conductor, the installation shall comply with Section 12.

(6) The grounding conductor for equipment may be spliced or tapped as may be required, but such splices or taps shall only be made within boxes except in the case of open wiring where they may be made externally from boxes and covered with insulation.

(7) Where more than one grounding conductor enters a box, all such conductors shall be in good electrical contact with each other by means of securing all grounding conductors under grounding screws, or by connecting them together with an acceptable solderless connector and connecting one conductor only to the box by a grounding screw or an approved grounding device, and the arrangement shall be such that the disconnection or removal of a receptacle, fixture, or other device fed from the box will not interfere with or interrupt the ground continuity.

(8) Where a grounding conductor is run in the same raceway with other conductors of the system to which it is connected, it shall be insulated, except that where the length of the raceway does not exceed 50 feet and does not contain more than the equivalent of two quarter bends from end to end, an uninsulated grounding conductor may be used.

(9) Grounding continuity between a grounded outlet box and the grounding circuit of the receptacle shall be established by means of a bonding jumper between the outlet box and the receptacle grounding terminal.

10-100 Grounding Conductor Size for DC Circuits

(1) The ampacity of the grounding conductor for a direct-current supply system or generator shall be not less than that of the largest conductor supplied by the system, except that where the grounded circuit conductor is a neutral conductor derived from a balancer winding or a balancer set, the size of the grounding conductor shall be not less than that of the neutral conductor.

(2) The grounding conductor shall in no case be smaller than No. 8 AWG copper.

10-102 Grounding Conductor Size for AC Systems and Fixed Equipment. When connected to a grounding electrode of a type specified in Rule 10-086 (1), (2), or (3), the size of grounding conductor shall be:

(a) Not less than that given in column 2 of Table 17 for an alternating-current system or for a common grounding conductor;

(b) Not less than that given in column 2, 3, or 4 of Table 18, as applicable for a service raceway, for the metal sheath or armour of a service cable, and for service equipment, where the alternating-current system is not grounded at the premises; and

(c) Not less than that given in column 2, 3, 4, or 5 of Table 16, as applicable, for conduit, cable sheath, or armour, other metal raceways or enclosures for conductors, outlets which supply portable or pendent equipment, and fixed equipment.

10-104 Grounding Conductor Size for Portable and Pendent Equipment

(1) For grounding portable or pendent equipment supplied by circuits having overcurrent protection not exceeding 15 amperes, the size of the grounding conductor between the device and the permanent wiring outlet shall be:

(a) Not smaller than No. 16 AWG if uninsulated, or No. 18 AWG if insulated; and

(b) At least the same size as the current-carrying conductors except that in cords of No. 12 AWG and larger it may be two AWG sizes smaller than the other conductors.

(2) For grounding portable or pendent equipment protected at more than 15 amperes, the size of the grounding conductor shall be not less than that specified in Table 16.

10-106 Grounding Conductor Size for Outline Lighting. Isolated non-current-carrying metal parts of outline lighting systems may be bonded together by a No. 14 AWG copper conductor protected from mechanical injury, if a conductor other than a common grounding conductor complying with Rule 10-102 is used to ground the group.

10-108 Common Raceway for Grounding and Other Conductors. A grounding conductor may be run in the same raceway with other conductors of the system to which it is connected and shall be insulated, except that where the length of the raceway does not exceed 50 feet and does not contain more than the equivalent of two quarter-bends from end to end, an uninsulated grounding conductor may be used.

10-110 Continuity of Grounding Conductor. No automatic cutout or switch shall be placed in the grounding conductor of an interior wiring system unless the opening of the cutout or switch disconnects all sources of energy.

Grounding Conductor Connections

10-112 Grounding Conductor Connection to Raceway. The point of connection of the grounding conductor to interior metal raceways, cable armour and the like shall be as near as practicable to the source of supply and shall be chosen so that no raceway or cable armour is grounded through a run of smaller size than s called for in Rule 10-102.

10-114 Grounding Conductor Connection to Water Pipe Electrodes

(1) Where the grounding electrode is a metallic water-piping system to which a common grounding conductor or the grounding conductor of a system is attached, the point of attachment shall be:

(a) On the street side of the water meter; or

(b) On a cold-water pipe of adequate ampacity and as near as practicable to the point of entrance of the water service in the building.

(2) Where practicable, the point of attachment shall be accessible.

(3) Where the point of attachment is not on the street side of the water meter, the metallic water-piping system shall be made electrically continuous by bonding together all parts thereof between the point of attachment and the street side of the water meter or the pipe entrance, if these parts contain insulating sections or are liable to become disconnected, as at meters, valves, and unions.

(4) Equipment may be grounded to a cold-water pipe which is near the equipment.

10-116 Grounding Conductor Connection to other than Water Pipe Electrodes

(1) Where a metallic water-piping system is not available, the grounding conductor shall be attached to other electrodes at a point which will assure a permanent ground.

(2) Where practicable, the point of attachment shall be accessible.

10-118 Grounding Conductor Connection to Circuits and Equipment

(1) The grounding conductor, bond, or bonding jumper shall be attached to circuits, conduits, cabinets, equipment, and the like, which are to be grounded by means of suitable lugs, pressure wire connectors, clamps, or other approved means.

(2) Connections which depend upon solder shall not be used.

(3) The grounding conductor shall be secured to every metallic box by means of a grounding screw, which shall be used for no other purpose.

(4) The grounding conductor shall be brought into every non-metallic outlet box in such a manner that it can be connected to any fitting or device which may require grounding.

(5) A grounding conductor shall be connected to the grounding terminal of receptacles in such a manner that disconnection or removal of the receptacle will not interfere with, or interrupt, grounding continuity.

10-120 Grounding Conductor Connection to Electrodes

(1) The grounding conductor shall be attached to the grounding electrode by means of:

(a) An approved bolted clamp, of cast bronze or brass or of plain or malleable cast iron;

(b) A pipe fitting plug or other approved device screwed into the pipe or into the fitting;

(c) Copper welding by the thermit process; or

(d) Other equally substantial approved means.

(2) The grounding conductor shall be attached to the grounding fitting as required by Rule 10-118 (1).

(3) Connections which depend on solder shall not be used.

(4) Not more than one conductor shall be connected to the grounding electrode by a single clamp or fitting, unless the clamp or fitting is of a type approved for multiple conductor connection.

Instrument Transformers, Relays, etc.

10-122 Instrument Transformer Circuits

(1) Where the primary windings of current and potential instrument transformer are connected to circuits of 300 volts or more to ground, the secondary circuits of the transformer shall be grounded.

(2) Where the transformers are on switchboards, the secondary circuits shall be grounded irrespective of the voltage of the circuits.

10-124 Instrument Transformer Cases. The cases and frames of instrument transformers shall be grounded but where the primary circuit of a current transformer is not over 150 volts to ground and the transformer is used solely to supply current to meters, the case or frame of the current transformer need not be grounded.

10-126 Cases of Instruments, Meters and Relays —Operating Voltage 750 Volts or Less

(1) Where instruments, meters and relays:

(a) Are not located on switchboards;

(b) Operate with windings or working parts at between 300 and 750 volts to ground; and

(c) Are accessible to other than qualified persons, the cases and other exposed metal parts of the instruments, meters and relays shall be grounded.

(2) Where instruments, meters and relays:

(a) Operate with windings or working parts at 750 volts or less to ground;

(b) Are on switchboards having no live parts on the front of the panels; and

(c) Are operated from current and potential transformers or are connected directly in the circuit, the cases of the instruments, meters and relays shall be grounded.

(3) Where instruments, meters and relays:

(a) Operate with windings or working parts at 750 volts or less to ground;

(b) Are on switchboards having exposed live parts on the front of the panels; and

(c) Operate from current and potential transformers or are connected directly in the circuit, the cases of the instruments, meters and relays shall not be grounded and, where the voltage to ground exceeds 150 volts, mats of insulating rubber or other suitable floor-insulation shall be provided for the operator.

10-128 Cases of Instruments, Meters and Relays —Operating Voltage over 750. Where instruments, meters and relays have current-carrying parts over 750 volts to ground, they shall be isolated by elevation or protected by acceptable barriers, grounded metal or insulating covers or guards and their cases shall not be grounded, except that in electrostatic ground detectors the internal ground segments of the instrument shall be connected to the instrument case and grounded, and the detector shall be isolated by elevation.

10-130 Instrument Grounding Conductor. The grounding conductor for secondary circuits of instrument transformers and for instrument cases shall be not smaller than No. 12 AWG if of copper, or of equal conductance if of other metal.

Lightning Arresters

10-132 Lightning Arresters on Secondary Services —750 Volts or Less

(1) Where a lightning arrester is installed on a secondary service, the connections to the service conductors and to the grounding conductor shall be as short as possible.

(2) The grounding conductor may be:

(a) The grounded service conductor;

(b) The common grounding conductor;

(c) The service equipment grounding conductor; or

(d) A separate grounding conductor.

(3) The bonding or grounding conductor shall be of copper not smaller than No. 6 AWG or of equivalent corrosion-resisting material.

10-134 Lightning Arresters on Primary Circuits

The grounding conductor of a lightning arrester protecting a transformer which supplies a secondary distribution system may be interconnected as follows:

(a) A metallic interconnection may be made to the secondary neutral conductor provided that, in addition to the direct grounding connection at the arrester, the grounded conductor of the secondary has elsewhere a grounding connection to a continuous metallic underground water-piping system;

(b) In urban water pipe areas where there are at least four water pipe connections on the neutral conductor and not less than four such connections in each mile of neutral conductor, the metallic interconnection may be made to the secondary neutral conductor with omission of the direct grounding connection at the arrester;

(c) Where the secondary is not grounded as in (a) above but is otherwise grounded as in Rule 10-088, such interconnection, if made, shall be through a spark gap having a 60 cycle breakdown voltage of at least twice the primary circuit voltage but not necessarily more than 15 kilovolts, and there shall be at least one other ground on the grounded conductor of the secondary at least 20 feet distant from the lightning arrester grounding electrode.

10-136 Installation Requirements and Guarding for Lightning Arrester Grounding Conductors. The grounding conductor for lightning arresters shall:

(a) When enclosed in metallic material be connected to the guard at both ends; and

(b) Be installed and protected to meet the requirements of Rule 10-098.

SECTION 12—WIRING METHODS—LOW POTENTIAL 750 VOLTS OR LESS

12-000 Scope

(1) The provisions of Section 12 apply to all wiring installations operating at 750 volts or less, except for:

(a) Class 2 circuits as provided for in Section 16;

(b) Communication circuits as provided for in Section 60;

(c) Conductors which form an integral part of factory built equipment.

Conductors

12-002 Types of Conductors. Conductors installed in any location shall be suitable for the condition of use as indicated in Table 19 for the particular location involved and with particular respect to:

(a) Moisture, if any;

(b) Corrosive action, if any;

(c) Temperature;

(d) Degree of enclosure; and

(e) Mechanical protection.

12-004 Thermoplastic-Insulated Conductors

(1) Conductors having thermoplastic insulation shall not be installed during any time when the ambient temperature is sufficiently low as to be liable to cause damage to the insulation.

(2) Such conductors shall not be so installed as to permit flexing or movement of the conductors after installation if the ambient temperature is liable to become low enough to damage the insulation during flexing or movement.

12-006 Conductors Buried in Earth

(1) Single conductors and cable assemblies, which do not contain metal sheath or armour in their construction and which are indicated in Table 19 as suitable for direct burial or for use on service entrances below ground and which are so used, shall be installed:

(a) In a trench which shall be:

(i) Not less than 3 feet deep with suitable mechanical protection for high voltage cables; and

(ii) Not less than 3 feet deep where cable passes under an area subject to public vehicular traffic with mechanical protection in the form of non-metallic duct, embedded in concrete or rigid conduit;

(b) With a layer of sand at least 3 inches deep both above and below the conductors, if in rocky or stony ground;

(c) So that they do not cross over each other in the trench;

(d) With mechanical protection in the form of treated planking, a layer of concrete, or other acceptable material which shall be placed over the conductors after first back-filling with 3 inches of sand or earth containing no rocks or stones; and

(e) With acceptable mechanical protection, as necessary, from the bottom of the trench to at least 12 inches above finished grade, and beyond that as may be required for mechanical protection by other Rules of this Code.

(2) Single conductors and cable assemblies, other than lead-sheathed single conductors and cable assemblies, which contain metal sheath or aluminum armour in their construction, and which are indicated in Table 19 as suitable for direct earth burial, or for use on services below ground and which are so used, shall be installed in accordance with Subrule (1), paragraphs (a), (b), (c), and (e).

(3) Single conductors and cable assemblies which contain steel armour in their construction and which are indicated in Table 19 as suitable for direct earth burial or for use on services below ground and which are so used shall be installed:

(a) In a trench which shall be:

(i) Not less than 18 inches deep unless rock bottom is encountered at a lesser depth, in which case a minimum depth of not less than 6 inches deep and grouted with concrete to the level of the rock surface shall be permitted; and

(ii) Not less than 24 inches in any case under an area which is subject to vehicular traffic; and

(b) In accordance with Subrule (1), paragraphs (b), (c), and (e).

(4) Lead-sheathed single conductors and cable assemblies which contain no armour in their construction, and which are indicated in Table 19 as suitable for direct earth burial and which are so used, shall be installed in accordance with Subrule (1), paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (d), and (e).

12-008 Conductors in Hoistways

(1) Where, by special permission, conductors other than those used to furnish energy to the elevator or dumbwaiter are installed in hoistways, they shall be mineral-insulated cable, aluminum-sheathed cable, or be run in rigid conduit or flexible conduit or electrical metallic tubing.

(2) The cable, conduit, or tubing referred to in Subrule (1) shall be:

(a) Securely fastened to the hoistway construction; and

(b) Arranged so that terminal, outlet, or junction boxes open outside the hoistway except that pull boxes may be installed in long runs for the purpose of supporting or pulling-in conductors.

12-010 Wiring in Ducts and Plenum Chambers

(1) No wiring system of any type shall be installed in or run through ducts used for the removal of dust, loose stock, or vapour.

(2) Where wiring is run through an air-conditioning duct or plenum chamber or in the duct or plenum chamber to connect to integral fan systems specifically approved for the purpose, the wiring method shall be in accordance with the requirements of Rule 12-002 and, except as noted in Subrule (3) below, shall be rigid metal conduit, flexible steel conduit, armoured cable, electrical metallic tubing, aluminum-sheathed cable, or mineral-insulated cable.

(3) Where a furnace cold-air return duct is formed by boxing in between joists, wiring methods approved for use in the particular location may be used.

12-012 Flame-Retardant Coverings

(1) Where the insulation on a conductor has a flame-retardant covering, the covering shall be removed sufficiently at terminals and splices to prevent creepage of current over it.

(2) Where insulated conductors are closely grouped behind switchboards and in like places, they shall have a flame-retardant covering.

12-014 Conductors Between Generators, Transformers, Switchboards, and Other Apparatus

Conductors between generators, transformers, switchboards, and other apparatus used in connection therewith shall be:

(a) Exposed to view and supported on noncombustible absorption resisting insulators;

(b) Run in raceways, tile, or other fireproof duct;

(c) In the form of mineral-insulated cable, aluminum-sheathed cable; or

(d) By special permission only, armoured cable.

12-016 Radii of Bends in Conductors. The radii of bends in conductors shall be sufficiently large to ensure that no injury is done to the conductors or their insulation, covering, or sheathing.

12-018 Lightning Rod Conductors. Where lightning rod conductors are installed, electrical wiring shall, where practicable, be kept at least 6 feet from such conductors except where bonding is provided in accordance with Rule 10-046.

12-020 Conductor Joints and Splices

(1) Unless made with approved solderless wire connectors, joints or splices in insulated conductors shall be soldered, but they shall first be made mechanically and electrically secure.

(2) Joints or splices shall be covered with an insulation approved for the purpose.

(3) Joints or splices in wires and cables shall be accessible.

12-022 Ends of Insulated Conductors. Where the ends of insulated conductors at switch and fixture outlets and in like places are not in use, they shall be insulated in the manner prescribed for joints and splices.

12-024 Terminating of Conductors

(1) The portion of stranded conductors to be held by wire-binding terminals or solderless wire connectors shall have the strands confined so that there will be no stray strands to cause either short-circuits or grounds.

(2) Stranded and solid conductors of greater current-carrying capacity than No. 10 AWG copper shall be soldered into lugs at terminals unless solderless wire connectors are used.

12-026 Supporting of Conductors

(1) Conductors shall be supported so that no injurious strain is imposed on the terminals of any electrical apparatus or devices or on any joints or taps.

(2) Conductors in vertical raceways shall be supported independently of the terminal connections and at intervals not exceeding those specified in Table 21, and such supports shall maintain the continuity of the raceway system without injury to the conductors or their covering.

(3) Conductors in raceways shall not hang over the edges of bushings, bends or fittings of any kind in such a manner that the insulation may be damaged.

12-028 Colour of Conductors

(1) No conductor finished to show a green colour shall be used for any purpose other than a grounding conductor.

(2) Where the mid-point of one phase of a 4-wire delta-connected secondary is grounded to supply lighting and similar loads, that phase conductor having the higher voltage to ground shall be indicated by painting or other effective means at any point where:

(a) A connection is to be made; and

(b) The grounded conductor is present.

12-030 Conductors in Multiple. Conductors of similar conductivity in sizes No. 1/0 AWG and upwards may be run in multiple, provided they are:

(a) Free of splices;

(b) The same circular mil area;

(c) The same type of insulation;

(d) The same length; and

(e) Terminated at both ends in a wire connector specifically approved for use with conductors in parallel.

Open Wiring

12-032 Open Wiring Rules. Rules 12-034 to 12-056 apply only to single conductors run as open wiring.

12-034 Types of Conductors. Conductors shall be of types specified in Rules 12-002 and 12-004.

12-036 Spacing of Conductors

(1) Spacings between conductors and between conductors and adjacent surfaces shall, except as otherwise provided for in this Rule, comply with the following:

(a) For normally dry locations the spacings shall be not less than those specified in Table 20;

(b) Where circuits of different voltages are run parallel to each other, the separation between adjacent conductors of the different circuits shall be not less than that specified in Table 20 for conductors of the circuit having the higher voltage;

(c) In damp locations, a separation of at least 1 inch shall be maintained between conductors and adjacent surfaces.

(2) In all locations, a separation of at least 1 inch shall be maintained between conductors and adjacent metallic piping or conducting materials.

(3) Where conductors are run across the open faces of joists, studs, or timber, the separation between conductors shall be as specified in Rule 12-044.

(4) At connections to fittings and devices or in other cases where it is not practical to maintain the spacings specified above, individual conductors shall be encased in porcelain tubes or continuous lengths of flexible tubing, but:

(a) The porcelain tubes or flexible tubing shall extend the full length of the conductor between points of support; and

(b) The flexible tubing shall not be used in damp locations, unless a spacing of not less than 1 inch can be maintained between the tubing and any wet or conducting surfaces.

12-038 Provision for Grounding

Where open wiring is used, provision for grounding shall be made in accordance with Section 10.

12-040 Conductor Supports

(1) Conductors shall be supported rigidly on incombustible, absorption-resisting insulators.

(2) Split knobs shall not be used to support conductors larger than No. 8 AWG.

(3) Conductors supported on solid knobs shall be securely tied thereto by tie wires having insulation of the same type as that on the conductors which they secure.

(4) Where used on metal surfaces, thermoplastic-insulated conductors shall not be mounted in split knobs or cleats.

12-042 Conductors on Flat Surfaces. Where conductors are run on flat surfaces, they shall be supported rigidly at intervals of not more than 4½ feet.

12-044 Protection from Mechanical Injury

(1) Where conductors are supported on or run across the open faces of joists, wall-studs, or other timber, or on walls where exposed to mechanical injury, they shall be protected by running-boards, guard-strips, wooden boxing or sleeves of iron pipe.

(2) Where conductors are not exposed to mechanical injury, they may be run directly from timber to timber, but shall be:

(a) Of not less than No. 8 AWG;

(b) Separated from each other by not less than 6 inches; and

(c) Supported at each timber.

(3) Open wiring shall not be run across the tops of ceiling joists in unfinished attics or like places.

12-046 Material for Running-Boards, Guard-Strips and Boxing

(1) Material for running-boards, guard-strips and boxing shall be at least ⅞ inch thick and the edges of running-boards shall project at least ½ inch beyond the insulators on both sides.

(2) Guard-strips shall be at least as high as the insulators and placed as close to the conductors as Table 20 permits.

(3) In wooden boxing, there shall be a clear space of at least 1 inch between conductors and adjacent surfaces, and the ends of boxing not abutting on the structure of the building shall be closed.

12-048 Ends of Conductors

(1) Conductors shall not be brought to a dead-end at any fitting distant more than 12 inches from the last supporting insulator.

(2) Where conductors of No. 8 AWG or larger are run as open wiring, solid knobs or strain insulators shall be used at the ends of the run.

12-050 Material for Attachment of Conductor Supports. Knobs and cleats shall be fastened securely with screws.

12-052 Maintaining Clearances. Sub-bases shall be installed under all surface-mounted snap switches and receptacles unless adequate clearances are otherwise maintained.

12-054 Where Open Wiring Connects to Other Systems of Wiring. Where open wiring is connected to conductors in raceways, armoured cable, or non-metallic sheathed cable, the junction shall be made in a box, or at, or in, a fitting having a separately bushed hole for each conductor.

12-056 Conductors Passing Through Walls or Floors

(1) Where a conductor passes through walls, floors, timbers, or partitions, it shall be bushed:

(a) Where not exposed to mechanical injury, with a continuous porcelain tube; or

(b) Where exposed to mechanical injury, with a single sleeve of iron pipe enclosing all conductors of the circuit and each conductor shall be separately encased in a continuous length of flexible tubing extending the full distance between the insulators next adjacent to the ends of the sleeve.

(2) The bushing shall be secured in place and shall project at least ½ inch beyond the finished surface from which it issues.

Concealed Knob-and-Tube Wiring

12-058 Concealed Knob-and-Tube Wiring Rules

Rules 12-060 to 12-080 apply only to concealed knob-and-tube wiring.

12-060 Maximum Potential. Knob-and-tube wiring shall not be used for potentials exceeding 150 volts to ground or 300 volts between any two conductors.

12-062 Types of Conductors. Conductors shall be of types acceptable for concealed knob-and-tube wiring as indicated in Table 19.

12-064 Spacing of Conductors. Conductors shall be separated from each other by a distance of at least 4 inches and from adjacent surfaces by a distance of at least 1 inch, except that:

(a) At distribution centres, meters, outlets, switches, and places where 4-inch separation cannot be maintained between conductors, each conductor shall be encased in a continuous length of flexible tubing extending from within the distribution box, meter, outlet box, or switch box to the nearest supporting knob; or

(b) Where conductors approach at any point within 1 inch of other electrical conductors or of metallic piping or other conducting material, they shall be protected in the manner prescribed by Rule 12-036 (4).

12-066 Conductors Passing Through Walls or Floors. Where conductors pass through walls, floors, timbers, or partitions, they shall be protected in the manner prescribed by Rule 12-056.

12-063 Conductor Supports

(1) Conductors shall be supported separately on incombustible, absorption-resisting insulators.

(2) Split knobs shall not be used to support conductors larger than No. 8 AWG.

(3) Conductors supported on solid knobs shall be securely tied thereto by tie-wires having insulation of the same type as that on the conductors which they secure.

12-070 Conductors on Flat Surfaces

(1) Conductors shall be run singly on separate timbers or studding where practicable and shall be supported rigidly at intervals of not more than 4½ feet.

(2) Where conductors of No. 8 AWG or larger are run as knob-and-tube wiring, solid knobs or strain insulators shall be used at the ends of the run.

12-072 Material for Attachment of Conductor Supports. Knobs shall be fastened securely with screws.

12-074 Conductors in Plastered Partitions. Where conductors pass through or near cross-timbers in spaces behind plastering, the parts of the conductors which are within a distance of 3 inches measured vertically above the upper surface of the cross-timbers shall be protected by porcelain tubes.

12-076 Where Conductor Supports Cannot Be Attached

(1) Where it is impracticable to use insulating supports in any portion of an installation and the conductors are in a dry location, they may be fished, and shall be run separately, in flexible tubing extending in continuous lengths between supports, from a support to an outlet or between outlets; or some other wiring method providing mechanical protection for the conductors shall be used.

(2) There shall be no joints or splices in the conductors within their protective coverings.

12-078 Where Knob-and-Tube Wiring Connects to Other Systems of Wiring. Where knob-and-tube wiring is connected to conductors in raceways, armoured cable, or non-metallic sheathed cable, the junction shall be made in a box having a separately bushed hole for each conductor.

12-080 Provision for Grounding

Where knob-and-tube wiring is used, provision for grounding shall be made in accordance with Section 10.

Non-metallic Sheathed Cable

12-082 Non-metallic Sheathed Cable Rules.

Rules 12-084 to 12-108 shall apply only to conductors run as non-metallic sheathed cable.

12-084 Maximum Potential. Non-metallic sheathed cable shall not be used where the potential exceeds 300 volts between any two conductors.

12-086 Use. Non-metallic sheathed cable may be installed in or on buildings of combustible (ordinary or wood frame) construction, and in or on buildings of other types of construction as the inspection department may permit.

12-088 Method of Installation

(1) The cable shall be run in continuous lengths between outlet boxes, junction boxes, and panel boxes as a loop system, and the joints, splices, and taps shall be made in the boxes.

(2) Where concealed wiring is connected to non-metallic sheathed cable, the junction shall be made in a box.

(3) Where open wiring is connected to non-metallic sheathed cable, the junction shall be made in a box or at or in a fitting having a separately bushed hole for each conductor.

12-090 Bending of Cable. The cable shall not be bent or handled so that the covering is damaged.

12-092 Cable Supports. Where the cable is run between outlets, it shall be secured by straps or other approved devices located within 12 inches of every box or fitting and at intervals of not more than 4½ feet throughout the run.

12-094 Not to be Embedded. The cable shall not be buried in plaster, cement, or similar finish.

12-096 Protection on Joists and Rafters. Cables shall not be run on or across:

(a) The upper faces of ceiling joists or the lower faces of rafters in attic or roof spaces, where the vertical distance between the joists and the rafters exceeds three feet; or

(b) The lower faces of basement joists, unless suitably protected from mechanical injury.

12-098 Concealed Cable Installations

(1) Where the cable is run through studs, joists, or similar wooden members, the outer surfaces of the cable shall be kept distant at least 1¼ inches from the edges of the wooden members, or the cable shall be effectively protected from mechanical injury.

(2) Where the cable is installed immediately behind a baseboard, it shall be effectively protected from mechanical injury from driven nails.

12-100 Exposed Cable Installations. Cable used in exposed wiring shall be adequately protected against mechanical damage where it passes through a floor, is less than 5 feet above a floor, or where exposed to mechanical damage.

12-102 Fished Cable Installation. Where the cable is used in concealed wiring and it is impracticable to provide the supports required by Rule 12-092, the cable may be fished.

12-104 Where Outlet Boxes Are Not Required

(1) Where the cable is exposed, approved switch, outlet, and tap devices of insulating material may be used without boxes.

(2) The openings in the devices shall fit closely around the outer covering of the cable.

(3) The device shall fully enclose any part of the cable from which any part of the covering has been removed.

(4) Where the conductors are connected to the devices by binding-screw terminals, there shall be as many screws as there are conductors unless the cables are clamped within the device or the terminals are of a type approved for the purpose.

12-106 Types of Outlet Boxes

(1) Boxes and fittings shall be of a type approved for use with non-metallic sheathed cable.

(2) Where grounded metal boxes are not required by these rules, outlet and switch boxes may be of fire-resisting moulded composition insulating material, furnished with a cover of the same material.

12-108 Provision for Grounding. Where non-metallic sheathed cable is used, provision for grounding shall be made in accordance with Section 10.

Raceway and Armoured Cable Work

12-110 Raceway and Armoured-Cable Work Rules. Rules 12-112 to 12-148 apply only to conductors in raceways.

12-112 Formed Raceways

(1) By special permission and using special means, raceways may be formed in concrete during the pouring and setting operations.

(2) Non-metallic raceways shall be of a flame-retardant type.

12-114 Mechanical Continuity of Raceways

Raceways shall be mechanically continuous throughout and mechanically secured to all equipment to which they are attached.

12-116 Support of Raceways

(1) Raceways shall be supported independently of equipment forming part of the raceway system.

(2) Type I bituminized fibre and asbestos-cement conduits shall be laid with their entire lengths in a 2-inch minimum envelope of concrete.

12-118 Removal of Fins and Burrs of Raceways

Fins and burrs shall be removed from the ends of raceways.

12-120 Electrical Continuity of Raceways. Metal raceways shall be electrically continuous throughout and electrically secured to all equipment to which they are attached.

12-122 Protection of Conductors at End of Raceways

(1) Bushings or equivalent means shall be used to protect conductors from abrasion where they issue from raceways.

(2) Where conductors are No. 4 AWG or larger, such protection shall consist of:

(a) Insulated type bushings, unless the equipment is equipped with a hub having a smoothly rounded throat; or

(b) Insulating material fastened securely in place which will separate the conductors from the raceway fittings and afford adequate resistance to mechanical injury.

12-124 Accessibility. Joints in wires and cables shall be accessible.

12-126 Junction of Open Wiring and Raceways.

Where conductors connected to open wiring issue from ends of raceways, they shall be protected with approved boxes or with fittings having a separately bushed hole for each conductor.

12-128 Types of Conductors. Conductors shall be of types suitable for use in raceways as indicated in Table 19.

12-130 Stranding of Conductors. Except in the case of conductors used as busbars and mineral-insulated cables, single or multiple conductor cables No. 8 AWG or larger, when installed in raceways, shall be stranded.

12-132 Inserting Conductors in Raceways

(1) Cleaning agents or lubricants of an electrical conducting nature or that might have a deleterious effect on conductor coverings shall not be used when inserting conductors in raceways.

(2) Lubricants used when inserting conductors in raceways shall be either talc or soapstone or an approved compound.

12-134 Entry of Raceway into Buildings

(1) Holes in outer walls of buildings through which raceways pass shall be filled to prevent the infiltration of moisture.

(2) Where a conduit or duct enters a building from an underground distribution system, the end of the conduit or duct within the building shall be sealed with a suitable compound to prevent the entrance of moisture and gases.

12-136 Conductors in Raceways

(1) All conductors of a circuit shall be contained in the same raceway, or in the same channel of a multiple channel raceway, except that where it is necessary to run conductors in multiple due to the capacity of an alternating-current circuit, additional enclosures may be used, provided the conductors in any one enclosure:

(a) Are balanced in size, length, and type of insulation; and

(b) Include an equal number of conductors from each phase and the neutral conductor.

(2) The same raceway or channel shall not contain circuits of different systems except as permitted by Rule 12-302.

12-138 Joints or Splices Within Raceways. There shall be no joints or splices in conductors or cables within raceways, except in the case of busways, wireways, and cabletroughs.

12-140 Radii of Bends in Raceways and Armoured Cable

(1) Where raceways of the type into which conductors are drawn are bent during installation, the radius of the curve of the inner edge of the bends shall be at least 6 times the internal diameter of the raceway except that the radius shall be increased to 10 times where lead-sheathed cable or varnished-cambric-insulated conductors are used.

(2) Bends shall be made without undue distortion of the raceways and without injury to its inner or outer surfaces.

12-142 Concrete, Cinder Concrete, and Cinder Fill

(1) Raceways made wholly or in part of aluminum shall not be embedded in concrete containing reinforcing steel unless:

(a) The concrete is known to contain no chloride additives; or

(b) The raceway has been treated with an approved bituminous base paint or other approved means to prevent galvanic corrosion of the aluminum.

(2) Where metal raceways are laid in or under cinders or cinder concrete, they shall be protected from corrosive action by a grouting of non-cinder concrete at least one inch thick entirely surrounding them unless they are 18 inches or more under the cinders or cinder concrete.

12-144 Raceways Installed Underground or Where Moisture May Accumulate

(1) The requirements for Category 1 locations as specified in Section 22 shall be complied with where raceways are installed:

(a) Underground;

(b) In concrete slabs or other masonry in direct contact with moist earth; or

(c) In other locations where the conductors are subject to moisture.

(2) Where lead-sheathed conductors are used in such locations, a pothead or equivalent device shall be used to protect them from moisture and mechanical injury at their point of issue from the lead sheathing.

(3) Where raceways are installed underground, they shall be buried to a depth of not less than 18 inches or, if in an area subject to vehicular traffic, to a depth of not less than 24 inches unless rock bottom is encountered at a lesser depth, in which case the raceway shall be entrenched into the rock in a trench not less than 6 inches deep and grouted with concrete to the level of the rock surface.

12-146 Metal Raceways in Plaster. In buildings of fire-proof construction where branch-circuits run in metal raceways other than metal moulding have conductors not larger than No. 10 AWG, the branch circuits may be laid on the face of the masonry or other material of which the walls and ceiling are constructed and may be buried in the plaster finish.

12-148 Protection for Raceways in Lanes. If subject to mechanical injury and unless otherwise protected, acceptable steel guards of not less than No. 10 MSG, adequately secured, must be installed to protect conduits less than 6 feet above grade in lanes and driveways.

Rigid and Flexible Conduit

12-150 Rigid and Flexible Conduit Rules. Rules 12-152 to 12-166 apply only to conductors run in rigid and flexible conduit.

12-152 Use. Rigid and flexible conduit may be installed in or on buildings or portions of buildings of either combustible or other than combustible types of construction.

12-154 Minimum Size of Conduits. No conduits having an internal diameter of less than ½ inch, electrical trade size, shall be used except that:

(a) 7/16 inch and ⅜ inch flexible conduit may be used for runs of not more than 5 feet for the connection of equipment; and

(b) ⅜ inch liquid-tight flexible metal conduit may be used as permitted by this Code.

12-156 Field Cut Conduit Threads. Rigid conduit threads which are cut in the field shall comply with Table 40.

12-158 Conduit Completely Installed Before Conductors are Installed

(1) Conduits of the draw-in type shall be installed as a complete system before the conductors are drawn into them.

(2) Rigid metal conduit used in damp or wet locations shall be threaded and the joints and fittings shall be made watertight.

(3) Conductors shall not be drawn into conduits in a building under construction until the conduit fittings and conductors are reasonably safe from damage from construction operations.

12-160 Maximum Number of Bends in Conduit.

A run of conduit between outlets or between draw-in points shall not contain more than the equivalent of 4 quarter-bends.

12-162 Conductors in Conduit

(1) Conduits shall be of sufficient size to permit the conductors to be drawn in and withdrawn without injury to the conductors.

(2) Subrules (3), (4), and (5) refer only to complete systems and not to short sections of conduit used for the protection of portions of open wiring which would otherwise be exposed to mechanical injury.

(3) The minimum size of conduit for a given number of conductors or multi-conductor cables shall be such that the conductors or cables and their coverings will not result in a greater conduit fill than that specified in Table 8, and, in this determination:

(a) The interior cross-sectional area for various sizes of conduit shall be those specified in Table 9;

(b) The cross-sectional areas to be used for all types of insulated conductors not exceeding 600 volts shall be the area for rubber-insulated conductors as specified in Column 3 of Table 10;

(c) The cross-sectional areas for insulated conductors rated over 600 volts, if larger than the corresponding outside diameter of rubber-insulated conductors as given in Column 3 of Table 10, shall be calculated from the nominal outside diameter of the conductor and its coverings, and if less than this shall be in accordance with paragraph (b);

(d) The cross-sectional area for bare conductors shall be the area for rubber-insulated conductors as specified in Column 3 of Table 10;

(e) The cross-sectional area for multi-conductor cables shall be the area of the cable based on its overall diameter, or the area of the equivalent round construction based on its maximum dimensions.

(4) The maximum number of conductors in a conduit, whether single or cabled together, shall be 30 except as permitted in paragraph (c) of Subrule (5).

(5) The maximum number of conductors of a given size in one conduit, based on the requirements of Subrule (3), shall not exceed that shown as follows:

(a) In Table 5 for a given number of 600-volt rubber- or thermoplastic-insulated conductors, except those covered in paragraph (c) below;

(b) In Table 7 for lead-sheathed conductors or cables;

(c) In Table 6 for motor control conductors and conductors for stage pockets, border lights, sign flashers, elevator control and signal circuits.

12-164 Maximum Spacing of Conduit Supports

(1) All rigid conduit of one size shall be securely attached to hangers or to a solid surface with the maximum spacings of the points of support not greater than:

(a) 5 feet for ½- and ¾-inch conduit;

(b) 6 feet for 1- and 1¼-inch conduit;

(c) 10 feet for 1½-inch conduit and larger.

(2) Where rigid metal conduits of mixed sizes are run in a group, the conduit supports shall be so arranged that the maximum support spacing will be that shown in Subrule (1) for the smallest conduit.

(3) When flexible metal conduit is installed, it shall be secured by approved means at internals not exceeding 4½ feet and within 12 inches on each side of every outlet box or fitting, except where flexible conduit is fished, and except for lengths of not over 36 inches at terminals where flexibility is necessary.

12-166 Expansion and Contraction of Conduits

(1) In locations subject to extreme temperature changes, provision shall be made for expansion and contraction in long runs of rigid conduit in the form of:

(a) Approved expansion joints; or

(b) In the case of surface-mounted rigid metal conduit only, two ninety-degree bends in the conduit run.

(2) If expansion joints are used with metallic raceways bonding jumpers shall be provided in accordance with Rule 10-084.

Electrical Metallic Tubing

12-168 Electrical Metallic Tubing Rules. Rules 12-170 to 12-186 apply only to electrical metallic tubing.

12-170 Use

(1) Electrical metallic tubing may be used for exposed and concealed work except that it shall not be used:

(a) Where it will be subject to mechanical injury either during installation or afterwards;

(b) In any hazardous location;

(c) Where exposed to corrosive vapour except as permitted by Rule 12-174;

(d) Underground.

(2) Electrical metallic tubing may be installed in or on buildings or portions of buildings of either combustible or other than combustible types of construction.

12-172 Supports. Electrical metallic tubing shall be installed as a complete system and shall be securely fastened in place within 3 feet of each outlet box, junction box, cabinet, coupling or fitting, and the spacing between supports shall be in accordance with those given in Rule 12-162.

12-174 Where Corrosive Fumes are Encountered

(1) Where electrical metallic tubing and fittings are exposed to corrosive fumes or vapours, they shall be of a corrosion-resistant material suitable for the conditions to which they are exposed.

(2) Where practicable, dissimilar metals shall not be used in an electrical metallic tubing system where there is a possibility of galvanic action.

12-176 Where Moisture is Encountered. In parts of dairies, laundries, canneries, and other places where a high degree of moisture is present, and in places where walls are washed frequently the entire tubing system including all boxes and fittings used therewith shall be made water-tight.

12-178 Minimum and Maximum Tubing Size

The tubing shall have an internal diameter of not less than ½ inch and not more than 2 inches, electrical trade size.

12-180 Maximum Number of Conductors. A tube shall not contain more conductors of a given size than are specified in Rule 12-162.

12-182 Connections and Couplings. Where lengths of electrical metallic tubing are coupled together or connected to boxes, fittings or cabinets, fittings approved for the purpose shall be used and they shall be of the:

(a) Dry type for ordinary locations and where buried in plaster or masonry block walls;

(b) Raintight type for exposure to the weather or in wet locations; or

(c) Concrete-type for installations in concrete or masonry.

12-184 Radii of Bends in Tubing

(1) Bends in the tubing shall be made so as not to injure the tubing or reduce its internal diameter.

(2) Where conductors which are not lead-sheathed are used, the radius of the curve of the inner edge of bends made during installation shall be at least 6 times the internal diameter of the tubing.

(3) Where lead-sheathed conductors are used, the radius of the curve of the inner edge of bends made during installation shall be at least 10 times the internal diameter of the tubing.

12-186 Number of Bends in Tubing. Where the tubing is run between outlets or fittings, or between outlets and fittings, the run shall not contain more than the equivalent of 4 quarter-bends including the bends located at an outlet or fitting.

Armoured-Cable Work

12-188 Armoured-Cable Work Rules. Rules 12-190 to 12-206 apply only to armoured-cable work.

12-190 Use

(1) Armoured-cable may be installed in or on buildings or portions of buildings of either combustible or other than combustible types of construction.

(2) Except as noted in Subrule (3), armoured-cable shall be of the type listed in Table 19 as suitable for direct burial if used:

(a) For underground runs;

(b) For circuits embedded in masonry, concrete, or fill in buildings in course of construction; or

(c) In locations where it will be exposed to weather, continuous moisture, excessive humidity, or to oil or other substances having a deteriorating effect on rubber insulation.

(3) Armoured-cable which has the armouring made wholly or in part of aluminum shall not be embedded in concrete containing reinforcing steel unless:

(a) The concrete is known to contain no chloride additives; or

(b) The armour has been treated with an approved bituminous base paint or other approved means to prevent galvanic corrosion of the aluminum.

(4) Where armoured-cables are laid in or under cinders or cinder concrete, they shall be protected from corrosive action by a grouting of non-cinder concrete at least one inch thick entirely surrounding them unless they are 18 inches or more under the cinders or cinder concrete.

(5) In buildings of fire-proof construction where branch circuits of armoured-cable have conductors not larger than No. 10 AWG, the branch circuits may be laid on the face of the masonry or other material of which the walls and ceiling are constructed and may be buried in the plaster finish.

12-192 Protection for Armoured-Cables in Lanes If subject to mechanical injury and unless otherwise protected, acceptable steel guards of not less than No. 10 MSG, adequately secured, must be installed to protect armoured-cables less than 6 feet above grade in lanes and driveways.

12-194 Use of Thermoplastic Covered Armoured Cable. Armoured cable of the type listed in Table 19 as suitable for direct earth burial and which has a thermoplastic outer covering, shall only be used where the outer covering will not be subjected to mechanical injury.

12-196 Continuity of Armoured Cable. The armour of cables shall be mechanically and electrically continuous throughout and shall be mechanically and electrically secured to all equipment to which it is attached, except that the lead-sheath of lead-sheathed armoured cable need not be bonded.

12-198 Terminating Armoured Cable

(1) Where conductors issue from armour, they shall be protected from abrasion:

(a) By acceptable bushings of insulating material or equivalent devices; or

(b) By the sheath of lead-sheathed armoured cable.

(2) Where conductors are No. 4 AWG or larger, such protection shall consist of:

(a) Insulated type bushings, unless the equipment is equipped with a hub having a smoothly rounded throat; or

(b) Insulating material fastened securely in place which will separate the conductors from the armoured cable fittings and afford adequate resistance to mechanical injury.

(3) Where armoured cable is fastened to equipment, the connector or clamp shall be of such design as to leave the insulating bushing or its equivalent, or the end of the lead sheath, visible for inspection.

(4) Where conductors connected to open wiring issue from the ends of armouring, they shall be protected with approved boxes or with fittings having a separately bushed hole for each conductor.

(5) Where lead-sheathed armoured cables are used in locations where moisture may accumulate, a pothead or equivalent device shall be used to protect the conductors from moisture and mechanical injury at their point of issue from the lead-sheathing.

12-200 Proximity to Knob-and-Tube and Non-metallic-Sheathed Cable Systems. Where armoured cable is used in a building in which concealed knob-and-tube wiring or concealed non-metallic sheathed-cable wiring is installed, the cable shall not be fished if there is a possibility of damage to the existing wiring.

12-202 Radii of Bends in Armoured Cables

(1) Where armoured cables are bent during installation, the radius of the curve of the inner edge of the bends shall be at least 6 times the internal diameter of the armoured cable.

(2) Where lead-sheathed armoured cable is used, the radius of the curve of the inner edge of the bends shall be at least 10 times the internal diameter of the armoured cable.

(3) Bends shall be made without undue distortion of the armour and without injury to its inner or outer surfaces.

12-204 Concealed Armoured-Cable Installation

(1) Where armoured cable is run through studs, joists, or other wooden members, it shall be:

(a) Located so that its outer circumference is at least 1¼ inches from the nearest edge of the wooden members; or

(b) Protected from mechanical injury where it passes through the holes in the wooden members.

(2) Where armoured cable is installed immediately behind baseboards, it shall be protected from mechanical injury from driven nails.

12-206 Supports for Armoured-Cable Installations. Armoured cables shall be supported independently of equipment to which they are fastened and shall be secured in place by approved fastenings located not more than 1 foot from the equipment and not more than 4½ feet apart, except where the armoured cable is fished.

12-208 Conductors in Armoured Cables

(1) All conductors of a circuit shall be contained in the same armoured cable except that where it is necessary to run conductors in multiple due to the capacity of an alternating-current circuit, additional armoured cables may be used provided the conductors in any one such cable:

(a) Are balanced in size, length, and the type of insulation; and

(b) Include an equal number of conductors from each phase and the neutral conductor.

(2) An armoured cable shall not contain circuits of different systems except as permitted in Rule 12-302.

Surface Raceway Work

12-210 Surface Raceways in Damp Places. Surface raceways shall not be installed in damp places and shall not be concealed except as permitted in Rule 12-146.

12-212 Gauge of Surface Raceways

(1) Surface raceways, if of steel, shall be not less than 0.0309 inch (No. 20 MSG) thick.

(2) Approved metal moulding less than 0.0309 inch thick may be used for extensions to wiring systems where:

(a) The voltage between conductors contained therein is not in excess of 300 volts; and

(b) The voltage to ground is not in excess of 150 volts.

12-214 Supports of Surface Raceways. The backing of a surface raceway shall be secured in position by screws or bolts having heads flush with the metal.

12-216 Restrictions of Surface Raceways. Surface raceways shall not be used for:

(a) Conductors larger than No. 6 AWG;

(b) A greater number of conductors than that for which they are approved; or

(c) More than 10 conductors.

12-218 Surface Raceways Through Walls and Floors

(1) Surface raceways may be extended through dry walls or partitions.

(2) Where the wall or partition is not constructed wholly of incombustible material, no joint in the raceway shall be concealed within the wall or partition.

(3) Where a raceway passes through a floor, wall or partitions, and protection from mechanical injury is necessary, a sleeve of iron pipe shall be placed over the raceway and shall extend beyond the outer surfaces of the floor, wall or partition.

12-220 Multiple-Channel Surface Raceways

(1) Where multiple-channel surface raceways are used to carry the conductors of different systems, each compartment shall contain only the conductors of one system and the compartments shall maintain the same position in relation to each other throughout the length of the raceway.

(2) One or more of the systems may be communication systems.

Underfloor Raceways

12-222 Where Underfloor Raceways Are Permitted

(1) Underfloor raceways may be installed under the surface of concrete or other flooring material.

(2) Underfloor raceways shall not be used:

(a) Where they will be exposed to corrosive vapours;

(b) In a hazardous location;

(c) In commercial garages; or

(d) In storage-battery rooms.

12-224 Method of Installing Underfloor Raceways

(1) Underfloor raceways shall be laid so that their centre line coincides with a straight line drawn between the centres of successive junction boxes.

(2) The raceways shall be mechanically secured to prevent disturbance of the alignment during construction.

(3) The joints along the edges of the raceways and between the raceways, couplings, and junction boxes, and between the junction box cover-plates and coverings shall be filled with an approved waterproof cement.

(4) The raceways shall be arranged so that there are no low points or traps at the fittings or in the raceway run and crossings shall be avoided where possible.

12-226 Fittings for Underfloor Raceways

(1) Where underfloor raceways are run at other than right angles, special fittings shall be provided if required by an inspector.

(2) The raceways shall be connected to distribution centre and wall outlets by conduit or approved fittings.

(3) Dead-ends of the raceways shall terminate in junction boxes or other approved fittings.

12-228 Taps and Splices in Underfloor Raceways.

Taps and splices in underfloor raceways shall be made only in header access units or in junction boxes.

12-230 Inserts and Junction Boxes for Underfloor Raceways

(1) Inserts and outlets in underfloor raceways shall be made electrically and mechanically secure.

(2) Inserts in fibre raceways shall be screwed into the fibre and, where they are not made mechanically secure by being grouted in separately, they shall not be set until the floor is laid.

(3) Inserts and junction boxes shall be levelled to the grade of the floor and sealed with water-tight plugs.

12-232 Setting of Inserts. When setting inserts or cutting through the walls of underfloor raceways, adequate precautions shall be taken to prevent chips and dirt from falling into the raceway, and special tools designed for the purpose and for preventing the tools from entering the raceway and injuring the conductors shall be used.

12-234 Protection Against Corrosion. Metal underfloor raceways and metal fittings used therewith shall be protected from corrosion.

12-236 Multiple Channel Underfloor Raceways.

Where interior wiring systems are not connected electrically to each other within a building, their respective conductors shall be contained in separate raceways or, subject to the provisions of Rule 12-220, in separate channels of multiple channel underfloor raceways.

12-238 Discontinued Outlets in Underfloor Raceways. Where an outlet in an underfloor raceway is discontinued, the conductors supplying the outlet shall be removed from the underfloor raceway.

12-240 Area of Conductors in Underfloor Raceways.

(1) The aggregate cross-sectional area of the conductors and their insulation in an underfloor raceway shall not exceed 40 per cent of the interior cross-sectional area of the raceway.

(2) Subrule (1) shall not apply where the raceway contains only mineral-insulated cable, aluminum-sheathed cable, armoured cable, or non-metallic sheathed cable.

12-242 Underfloor Raceways Completely Installed Before Installation of Conductors. Conductors shall not be drawn into underfloor raceways in a building under construction until the raceway, fittings and conductors are reasonably safe from damage from construction operations.

12-244 Underfloor Raceway Junction Boxes. Junction boxes shall not be used as outlet boxes in underfloor raceways.

12-246 Gauge of Metal Underfloor Raceways

(1) Steel underfloor raceways shall have a thickness not less than 0.0528 inches (No. 16 MSG), except that the upper element for an underfloor raceway unit may be less than 0.0528 inches, but not less than 0.0418 inches (No. 18 MSG), provided that the unit is covered with concrete to a depth of not less than 2½ inches and is marked as being approved for such application.

(2) Where wiring feeder-ducts are exposed to damage during installation, they shall have a thickness of not less than 0.0667 inches (No. 14 MSG).

Open Wiring on Exteriors of Buildings and Between Buildings on the Same Premises

12-248 Exterior Open Wiring Rules. Rules 12-250 to 12-266 apply only to open wiring run on the exterior surfaces of buildings or between buildings on the same premises.

12-250 Types of Conductors. Conductors shall be of types suitable for exposure to the weather as indicated in Table 19.

12-252 Location of Conductors

(1) Subject to the provisions of Rule 6-010, where the conductors are supported on or in close proximity to the exterior surfaces of buildings they shall be installed and protected so that they shall not be a hazard to persons or be exposed to mechanical injury, and they shall not, without special permission, be less than 15 feet from the ground.

(2) Where the conductors are exposed to mechanical injury from awnings, swinging signs, shutters, or other movable objects, they shall be run in rigid conduit made water-tight.

12-254 Conductor Supports

(1) Conductors on the exterior surfaces of buildings shall be supported by brackets, racks, insulators, or other acceptable means at intervals of not more than 9 feet and the individual conductors shall be distant at least 6 inches from one another and at least 2 inches from the adjacent surfaces.

(2) Where petticoat insulators are used, they shall be installed at intervals of not more than 15 feet under normal conditions and at smaller intervals where the conductors are subject to disturbance, and shall be located so as to hold the individual conductors at least 12 inches apart and at least 2 inches from adjacent surfaces.

(3) Where the conductors are not exposed to the weather, they may be supported on glass or porcelain knobs placed at intervals of not more than 4½ feet and holding the conductors at least 1 inch from adjacent surfaces.

(4) Where conductors having a voltage of 220 volts or less and conductors of more than 220 volts but not exceeding 750 volts are mounted on the same pole, the conductors of higher voltage shall be mounted above, and kept distant at least 12 inches from, the conductors of lower voltage.

12-256 Minimum Size of Overhead Conductors

Single conductors run aerially between buildings or otherwise on the same premises:

(a) Where the span exceeds 15 feet, but does not exceed 50 feet, shall be at least No. 10 AWG copper;

(b) Where the span exceeds 50 feet, but does not exceed 100 feet, shall be at least No. 8 AWG copper;

(c) Where the span exceeds 100 feet, shall be at least No. 6 AWG copper; and no span shall exceed 135 feet.

12-258 Clearance of Conductors. The conductors shall be located or guarded so that they cannot be reached by a person standing on a fire escape, flat roof, or other portion of a building, and they shall be at least 8 feet above the highest point of a flat roof or roof that can be readily walked upon and at least 3 feet above peaked roofs or the highest point of roofs that cannot be readily walked upon except that, by special permission, they may be less than 8 feet but not less than 6 feet above the highest point of a flat roof or roofs that can be readily walked upon.

12-260 Conductors over Buildings. Conductors shall not be carried over buildings without special permission, and work shall not be begun until the plans and specifications for the work are approved by the inspection department.

12-262 Conductors on Trestles. Where the conductors pass over buildings, they shall, where practicable, be supported on structures not connected to the building but, where not practicable, they shall be supported on and secured to trestles constructed of steel or other acceptable material.

12-264 Power Supply Conductors. The conductors of a power supply system attached to the exterior surfaces of buildings shall be at least 4 inches from the conductors of a communication system unless one system is in conduit or is permanently separated from other systems by a continuous fixed non-conductor other than the insulation on the conductors.

12-266 Use of Neutral Supported Cables. When neutral supported cables are used the following requirements shall apply:

(a) They shall not be mounted directly on any surface;

(b) They shall be secured so that they will be not less than:

(i) 3 feet from a building in the case of Type NS-1, and

(ii) 2 inches from a building in the case of Type NSF-2;

(c) They shall be supported in spans of not more than 125 feet in length;

(d) The conductors shall be secured to the messenger at all terminations; and

(e) Where aluminum conductors are used, wire connectors approved for use with such conductors shall be used.

(f) The messenger cable, when used as a neutral conductor forming part of an electrical circuit, shall be:

(i) Supplied from a grounded ac system;

(ii) Attached to an insulator at points of support and at terminations; and

(iii) Not connected to or in contact with any grounded surface except as permitted by other Rules of this Code

Installation of Boxes, Cabinets, Outlets and Terminal Fittings

12-268 Maximum Number of Outlets per Circuit

(1) There shall be not more than 12 outlets on any 2-wire branch circuit except as permitted by other Rules of this Code.

(2) Such outlets shall be considered to be rated at not less than one ampere per outlet except as permitted by Subrule (3).

(3) Where the connected load is known, the number of outlets may exceed 12 provided the load current does not exceed 80 per cent of the rating of the overcurrent device protecting the circuit.

(4) Where fixed multi-outlet assemblies are used, each 5 feet or fraction thereof of each separate and continuous length shall be counted as one outlet, but in locations where a number of electrical appliances are likely to be used simultaneously, each 1 foot or fraction thereof shall be counted as one outlet.

12-270 Maximum Number of Mogul Outlets per Circuit. There shall not be more than 8 mogul lampholders connected to any two wires of a branch circuit.

12-272 Outlet Boxes

(1) An approved box or an equivalent device shall be installed at every point of outlet, switch or junction of conduit, raceways, armoured cable, or non-metallic sheathed cable, and at every point of outlet and switch of concealed knob-and-tube work.

(2) Non-metallic outlet boxes shall not be used in wiring methods using metallic raceways and armourings.

(3) The box shall be provided with a cover or a fixture canopy.

(4) Shallow boxes and plates shall not be used without special permission.

(5) At least 6 inches of free conductor shall be left at each outlet for making of joints or the connection of fixtures, unless the conductors are intended to loop through lampholders, receptacles, or similar devices without joints.

12-274 Terminal Fittings

(1) Where conductors are run from the ends of conduit, armoured cable, surface raceways, or non-metallic sheathed cable to appliances or open wiring, an outlet fitting or terminal fitting may be used instead of the box required by Rule 12-272, and the conductors shall be run without splice, tap, or joint within the fitting.

(2) The fittings shall have a separately bushed hole for each conductor.

(3) The fittings shall not be used at outlets for fixtures.

12-276 Terminal Fittings Behind Switchboards

(1) Where conductors issue from conduit behind a switchboard or more than 8 conductors issue from a conduit at control apparatus or a similar location an insulating bushing may be used instead of the box required by Rule 12-272.

12-278 Distribution Centre. At a distribution centre where conductors larger than No. 6 AWG are used, there shall be installed, in a readily accessible location, a busway or splitter box equipped with terminal blocks or bus bars having a separate screw or stud for each connection but where a splitter box exceeds 6 feet in length or the connected load exceeds 600 amperes a splitter box, if used, shall be provided with bus bars extending approximately the full length of the enclosure.

12-280 Boxes in Concrete Construction

(1) Where used in concrete slab construction, ceiling outlet boxes shall have knockouts spaced above the face or lower edge of the boxes a distance of at least twice the diameter of the steel reinforcing bars so that conduit entering the knockouts shall clear the bars without off setting.

(2) Sectional boxes shall not be embedded in concrete or masonry construction.

(3) Boxes made wholly or in part of aluminum shall not be embedded in concrete containing reinforcing steel unless:

(a) The concrete is known to contain no chloride additives; or

(b) The box has been treated with an approved bituminous base paint or other approved means to prevent galvanic corrosion of the aluminum.

12-282 Outlet Box Supports

(1) Boxes and fittings not secured to studs, joists, or similar fixed structural units other than wooden, metal, or composition lath, shall be supported on metal supports or on a wooden board at least ⅛ inch thick rigidly secured to the structural unit.

(2) Subrule (1) shall not apply to boxes and fittings installed after the studs, joists, or structural units have been concealed.

12-284 Boxes, Cabinets, and Fitting Supports

(1) Boxes, cabinets, and fittings shall be fastened securely in place.

(2) Boxes and fittings having a volume of less than 100 cubic inches may be attached to a firmly secured exposed raceway by threading or other acceptable means of connection.

12-286 Accessibility of Junction Boxes

(1) Pull-in, junction, and outlet boxes, cabinets and gutters, and joints in wires and cables shall be accessible.

(2) A vertical space of 3 feet or more shall be required to provide ready access.

12-288 Flush Boxes, Cabinets, and Fittings

(1) The front edges of boxes, cabinets, and fittings installed in walls or ceiling shall not be set in more than ¼ inch from the finished surface, and where the walls or ceilings are of wood or other combustible material, shall be flush with the finished surface or shall project therefrom.

(2) Gaps or open spaces in plaster surfaces of walls or ceilings shall be filled in around the front edges of boxes, cabinets, and fittings.

12-290 Outlet Boxes Attached to Existing Plaster Work. Where outlet boxes installed as additions to existing work are mounted directly upon existing plaster surfaces, they shall be fastened securely in place.

12-292 Outlet Boxes, etc., in Damp Places. Where boxes, cabinets, and fittings are installed in damp places, they shall be so placed or constructed as to prevent moisture from entering and accumulating therein.

12-294 Entrance of Conductors into Boxes, Cabinets, and Fittings

(1) Where conductors pass through the walls of boxes, cabinets, or fittings, provision shall be made to:

(a) Protect the insulation on the conductors from injury;

(b) Protect terminal connections from external strain;

(c) Provide electrical continuity between a metal box, cabinet, or fitting and conduit, armour, or metal sheathing of conductors, whether or not the armour or metal sheathing is to be used as a grounding conductor;

(d) Prevent injury to a non-metallic sheath applied over armour or metal sheathing for protection against moisture or corrosion; and

(e) Close the openings through which the conductors pass in such a manner that any remaining opening will not permit entrance of a test rod ⅛ inch in diameter.

(2) Where conductors, run as open wiring, enter a metal box, cabinet, or fitting, they shall either pass through insulating bushings, firmly secured in the opening, with the last external point of support sufficiently close to the opening to avoid strain on the conductor termination, or the conductor shall be encased in a flexible tubing which shall enter the opening and be secured in place.

(3) Where non-metallic sheathed cable enters a box, cabinet, or fitting, a box connector, either as a separate device approved for use with such cable or as a part of the box, cabinet, or fitting, shall be used to secure the cable in place adequately and without injury to the conductors.

(4) Where rigid or flexible metal conduit, electrical metallic tubing, or armoured cable enter boxes, cabinets, or fittings, they shall be secured in place in accordance with the requirements of Section 10.

(5) Where metal-sheathed conductors enter boxes, cabinets, or fittings, the box connector shall be installed in a manner which will meet the requirements of Section 10 without injury to the conductors and shall be of a type approved specifically for the cable.

(6) Where liquid-tight flexible metal conduit or where flexible conduit, armoured cable, or metal-sheathed cable of a type having a non-metallic sheath over the armour or metal sheath enters a box, cabinet, or fitting, the box connector shall be of a type specifically approved for the purpose and shall ensure electrical continuity without injury to the non-metallic sheath unless the point of connection is in a dry location free from corrosive atmosphere, where the non-metallic sheath may be stripped back a sufficient distance.

(7) Where single conductor cables enter metal boxes through separate openings, precaution shall be taken to prevent overheating of the metal by induction if the current carried per conductor exceeds 200 amperes.

12-296 Unused Openings in Boxes, Cabinets, and Fittings. Unused openings in boxes, cabinets, and fittings shall be effectively closed by metal plugs or plates affording protection substantially equivalent to that of the wall of the box, cabinet, or fitting.

12-298 Extensions From Existing Outlets

(1) Where a surface extension is made from an existing outlet of concealed wiring, a box or an extension-ring shall be mounted over the original box and electrically and mechanically secured to it.

(2) The extension shall then be connected to the box or extension-ring in the manner prescribed by this Section for the method of wiring employed in making the extension.

12-300 Multi-Outlet Assemblies

(1) Multi-outlet assemblies shall only be used in normally dry locations as extensions to wiring systems.

(2) Multi-outlet assemblies shall not be used in any bathroom, kitchen, or any place where in the opinion of the inspection department the assembly would be subject to mechanical injury.

(3) Multi-outlet assemblies may be carried through but not run within dry partitions provided that:

(a) No outlet falls within the partition;

(b) The removal of any cap or cover necessary for proper installation is not prevented; and

(c) The assembly is of metallic construction or, if of non-metallic construction, is surrounded by a metal duct or the equivalent.

(4) Multi-outlet assemblies shall not be concealed within the building finish but:

(a) The back and sides of metal assemblies may be set in plaster applied after the assembly is in place; or

(b) The back and sides of non-metallic assemblies may be set in a performed recess in the building finish; and

(c) Either may be recessed in a baseboard or other wood trim member.

12-302 Conductors of Different Systems in Boxes, Cabinets, or Fittings

(1) Conductors of different systems shall not be installed in the same box, cabinet, or auxiliary gutter unless:

(a) A barrier of sheet steel not less than 0.0528 inch (No. 16 MSG) thick or an equivalent device of acceptable insulating material is used to divide the space into separate compartments for the conductors of each system; or

(b) The conductors are intended for the supply and control of remotely-controlled devices where the voltage does not exceed 4,500 volts between conductors, and they are insulated for at least the same voltage as that of the circuit having the highest potential and none of the conductors of the circuits of lower potentals are directly connected to a lighting branch circuit.

(2) Where a barrier is used, it shall be fastened rigidly to the box, cabinet, or gutter, or an approved device assuring positive separation of the conductors shall be used.

(3) By special permission, the provisions of Subrule (1) may be varied in the case of:

(a) A double-throw switch used in an emergency lighting system;

(b) The supply and control conductors of remotely-controlled devices where the conductors are not insulated for the maximum voltage; and

(c) The supply and control conductors of remotely-controlled devices where the voltage exceeds 4,500 volts between conductors.

12-304 Wiring Space in Enclosures

(1) Enclosures for overcurrent devices, controllers, and externally operated switches shall not be used as junction boxes, troughs, or raceways for conductors feeding through to other apparatus.

(2) Notwithstanding Subrule (1), where such an enclosure is approved with connectors or the equivalent, each providing an independent clamping means for each conductor and each clamping means being independently accessible for tightening or inspection, a single feeder supplying another enclosure may be tapped from it.

12-306 Maximum Number of Conductors in a Box

(1) Boxes shall be of sufficient size to provide usable space for all insulated conductors contained in the box, subject to the following:

(a) A conductor running through a box with no connection therein shall be considered as one conductor;

(b) Each conductor entering or leaving a box and connected to a terminal or connector within the box shall be considered as one conductor;

(c) A conductor of which no part leaves the box shall not be counted; and

(d) No. 18 and No. 16 AWG fixture wires supplying a lighting fixture mounted on the box containing the fixture wires shall not be counted.

(2) Subject to the details given in Subrule (1), boxes of the nominal dimensions given in Table 23 shall not contain more insulated conductors of a given size than permitted by the Table, and the number of conductors shall be reduced by one for each of the following conditions as applicable:

(a) If the box contains one or more fixture studs, built-in cable clamps, or hickeys;

(b) If the box contains one or more flush devices mounted on a single strap, except that a flush device box of minimum dimensions of 2⅞ inches in length, 1-13/16 inches in width and 2-7/16 inches in depth, in which is installed a flush device or cable clamps, may contain a maximum number of 6 No. 14 AWG copper conductors, or 5 No. 12 AWG aluminum conductors.

(3) Subject to the details given in Subrule (1), boxes having nominal dimensions other than those shown in Table 23 shall have the amount of usable space per insulated conductor as specified in Table 22, but the number of conductors so calculated shall be reduced by one for each of the conditions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of Subrule (2) as applicable.

(4) Where a box contains a transformer, relay, or other device not considered as falling within the classifications shown in Subrule (2), the number of insulated conductors permitted shall be in accordance with Table 22, after the space occupied by the device has been deducted from the space within the box.

(5) The total usable space in a box considered under Table 22 shall be considered to be the internal volume of the box and shall disregard any space occupied by locknuts, bushings, cable connectors, or clamps.

(6) Where single flush boxes are ganged, each section shall be considered to be a separate box for the purpose of this Rule.

12-308 Motor Terminal Housings and Outlet Boxes with Hubs. Tables 22 and 23 shall not apply to terminal housings supplied with motors, nor to boxes or fittings without knockouts and having hubs or recessed parts for bushings and locknuts, but such boxes shall be of sufficient size to provide usable space for all conductors enclosed in the box.

12-310 Pull Box Sizes. Where pull boxes are used with raceways of 1¼ inches trade size or larger, the boxes shall, for straight pulls, have a length of at least 8 times the trade diameter of the largest raceway and, for angle- and U-pulls, have a distance between each terminal fitting of the raceway inside the box and the opposite side of the box of at least 6 times the trade diameter of the raceway and the distance shall be increased for each additional raceway entry by the amount of the sum of the diameters of the other raceway entries.

12-312 Panelboards Supplying Branch Circuits

(1) Panelboards having more than 42 overcurrent devices shall not be used to supply branch circuits having 30-amperes ampacity or less, except as permitted in Subrule (2).

(2) Notwithstanding Subrule (1) panelboards supplying motor-loads only may provide more than 42 overcurrent devices.

(3) The cabinets and cutout boxes which house the panelboards shall not contain more than one panelboard unless the cabinet is divided between panelboards by a barrier of non-combustible material pierced only for the passage of supply conductors.

(4) At the time of installation, the ampere rating of overcurrent devices shall be prominently marked adjacent to the respective branch circuit they protect.

(5) For the purpose of this Rule each fuse shall be considered an overcurrent device and in the case of multi-pole circuit breakers a two-pole breaker shall be considered two overcurrent devices; a three-pole breaker shall be considered three overcurrent devices.

Auxiliary Gutters

12-314 Where Auxiliary Gutters are Used to Supplement Wiring Spaces

(1) Where auxiliary gutters are used to supplement wiring spaces at meter centres, distribution centres, switchboards, and similar points in interior-wiring systems, the gutters may enclose conductors and cables but they shall not be used to enclose bus bars, switches, overcurrent devices, or other appliances or apparatus.

(2) The auxiliary gutters shall not extend more than 20 feet beyond the equipment which they supplement, and thereafter the conductors may be contained in approved wireways of busways.

12-316 Auxiliary Gutter Supports. Auxiliary gutters shall be securely supported throughout their entire length at intervals of not more than 5 feet unless the gutter is plainly marked to indicate a greater distance.

12-318 Auxiliary Gutter Cross-Sectional Area

(1) The aggregate cross-sectional area of the conductors and their insulation at a cross-section of an auxiliary gutter shall not exceed 20 per cent of the cross-sectional area of the gutter at that point.

(2) A single compartment of an auxiliary gutter shall not contain more than 30 conductors at a cross-section.

Busways and Splitter Boxes

12-320 Where Busways and Splitter Boxes May Be Used

(1) Busways and splitter boxes may be used only for exposed work, except as permitted by Subrules (5) and (6) of this Rule.

(2) Busways and splitter boxes shall not be installed outdoors or in wet or damp locations, unless specifically approved for use in such locations.

(3) Splitter boxes, busways, and fittings shall not be placed:

(a) Where subject to mechanical injury;

(b) Where subject to corrosive vapours;

(c) In hoistways;

(d) In hazardous locations; or

(e) In storage battery rooms.

(4) Busways may be used as risers in buildings of fire-resisting construction when provided with acceptable fire stops.

(5) Busways may be installed in false ceiling spaces, provided that:

(a) Ventilation is adequate to limit the busway temperature to 90C;

(b) All joints of the busway are accessible;

(c) The area through which the busway runs is not a part of the building ventilation system;

(d) Any take-off devices are non-fusible if the busway is of the plug-in type;

(e) Adequate working space exists between the busway and other services or structural parts; and

(f) The busway is of the totally-enclosed type except that ventilated type may be used provided that, in addition:

(i) The bus bars are insulated for their full length, including joints between sections;

(ii) The false ceiling is not combustible; and

(iii) No combustible material is located within 6 inches of the busway.

(6) Splitter boxes may be installed flush in a wall, provided they are accessible by removable covers.

12-322 Extensions from Busways and Splitter Boxes. Rigid conduit, flexible conduit, surface raceways, cabletroughs, electrical metallic tubing, armoured cable, metal-sheathed conductors or cable, or, where necessary, acceptable cord assemblies approved for hard usage, shall be used in extensions from busways and splitter boxes and shall be connected to the busway or splitter box in a manner appropriate to the material used in accordance with Rule 12-294.

12-324 AC Circuits in Busways and Splitter Boxes. Where alternating current is used, all conductors of a circuit shall be placed within the same busway, splitter box, or section thereof, if the latter is made of magnetic material.

12-326 Busway and Splitter Box Supports. Busways and splitter boxes shall be securely supported at intervals of not more than 5 feet unless they are plainly marked to indicate a greater distance.

12-328 Method of Installation of Busways

(1) Where busways extend transversely through dry walls or partitions, they shall pass through the walls or partitions in unbroken lengths and shall be totally enclosed where passing through walls or partitions constructed of combustible materials or masonry walls containing voids at the point where the busway passes through.

(2) Busways may extend vertically through dry floors if they are:

(a) Totally enclosed where passing through such floors and for the first 12 inches above any floor; and

(b) Provided with acceptable fire stops.

(3) Busways shall be provided with adequate protection against mechanical injury and personal contact with live parts for a distance of 6 feet above any floor in an area accessible to other than qualified persons.

(4) Dead ends of busways shall be closed by approved fittings.

(5) Busways installed outdoors in areas accessible to other than authorized persons shall be totally enclosed.

12-330 Conductors of Different Systems in Busways. Conductors of different systems shall not be installed in the same busway unless the conductors are separated from each other by suitable barriers.

12-332 Plug-In Devices for Busways

Where busways supply machine tools, a switch need not be furnished on the machine tool if:

(a) A plug-in device having a horsepower rating is used; and

(b) The means of operating the plug-in device is readily within reach of the operator.

12-334 Reduction in Size of Busways. Overcurrent protection may be omitted at points where busways are reduced in size, provided that the smaller busway:

(a) Does not extend more than 50 feet;

(b) Has a current rating at least equal to one-third the rating or setting of the overcurrent devices next back on the line; and

(c) Is free from contact with combustible material.

12-336 Length of Busways Used as Branch Circuits

(1) Busways which are used as branch circuits, and which are designed so that loads can be connected at any point, shall be limited to such lengths as will provide that in normal use the circuits will not be overloaded.

(2) In general, the length of such run in feet should not exceed 3 times the ampere rating of the branch circuit.

12-338 Manufacturer's Identification on Busways and Splitter Boxes. Busways and splitter boxes shall be marked so that the manufacturer's name, trade mark, or other recognized symbol of identification shall by readily legible when the installation is completed.

12-340 Taps in Splitter Boxes. Taps from bus bars or terminal blocks in splitter boxes shall issue from the box on the side thereof nearest to the terminal connections and the conductors shall not be brought into contact with uninsulated current-carrying parts of opposite polarity.

12-342 Circuit Restrictions in Splitter Boxes.

Splitter boxes shall be used only for the purpose of making connections to the bus bars or terminal blocks and shall not be used as a pull box for the conductors of other circuits not connected to the main or distribution terminals within the box.

Wireways

12-344 Where Wireways May Be Used

(1) Wireways may be used only for exposed work and shall not be installed outdoors, or in wet or damp locations, unless specifically approved for such locations.

(2) Wireways and fittings shall not be placed:

(a) Where subject to mechanical injury;

(b) Where subject to corrosive vapours;

(c) In hoistways;

(d) In hazardous locations; or

(e) In storage battery rooms.

(3) Wireways may be used as risers in buildings of fire-resisting construction when provided with acceptable fire stops.

12-346 Method of Installation of Wireways

(1) Runs of wireways shall be continuous throughout their entire length and shall be installed as a complete system without conductors.

(2) Conductors shall not be laid in wireways in buildings under construction, until the wireways and conductors are reasonably safe from damage from construction operations.

(3) Where wireways extend transversely through dry walls or partitions, they shall pass through the walls or partitions in unbroken lengths.

(4) Wireways shall be securely supported at intervals of not more than 5 feet, unless they are plainly marked to indicate greater distances.

(5) Dead ends of wireways shall be closed by approved fittings.

(6) Wireways shall be provided with adequate protection against mechanical injury for a distance of 6 feet above any floor in an area accessible to other than qualified persons.

12-348 Conductors in Wireways

(1) Conductors used in wireways shall be the insulated types indicated in Table 19 as being suitable for use in raceways.

(2) Except as permitted in Subrule (4) of this Rule, wireways shall contain not more than 30 conductors unless the permission of an inspector designated by the inspection department for the purpose of this Subrule is obtained for the use of a greater number, and the aggregate cross-sectional area of the conductors and their insulation shall not exceed 20 per cent of the interior cross-sectional area of the wireway.

(3) No conductors larger than 500,000 circular mils shall be contained in a wireway.

(4) Wireways containing only signal and control conductors may contain more than 30 conductors but the aggregate cross-sectional area of the conductors and their insulation shall not exceed 40 per cent of the interior cross-sectional area of the wireway.

12-350 Taps and Splices in Wireways. Where splices and taps are made on feeders or branch circuits within wireways, they shall be made and insulated by acceptable methods and shall be made accessible through hinged covers or at pull boxes.

12-352 Extensions from Wireways. Rigid conduit, flexible conduit, surface raceways, cabletroughs, electrical metallic tubing, armoured cable, metal-sheathed conductors or cable, or, where necessary, acceptable cord assemblies approved for hard usage, shall be used in extensions from wireways and shall be connected to the wireway in a manner appropriate to the material used in accordance with Rule 12-294.

12-354 Conductors of Different Systems in Wireways. Conductors of different systems shall not be installed in the same wireway unless:

(a) The conductors are intended for the supply and control of remotely controlled devices and are insulated for at least the same voltage as that of the circuit having the highest potential, and none of the conductors of the circuits of lower potentials are directly connected to a lighting branch circuit; or

(b) The conductors are separated from each other by suitable barriers.

12-356 AC Circuits in Wireways. Where alternating current is used, all conductors of a circuit shall be placed within the same wireway, or section thereof, if the latter is made of magnetic material.

12-358 Manufacturer's Identification on Wireways. Wireways shall be marked so that the manufacturer's name, trade mark, or other recognized symbol of identification shall be readily legible when the installation is completed.

Cellular Metal-Floor Raceways

12-360 Circuits in Cellular Raceways. All conductors of a circuit shall be contained in the same enclosure of a cellular metal-floor raceway and except as permitted by Rule 12-302, the circuits of different systems shall not be contained therein.

12-362 Conductors in Cellular Raceways

(1) Conductors shall not be installed in a cellular metal-floor raceway:

(a) Where they will be exposed to corrosive vapours;

(b) In a hazardous location;

(c) In commercial garages; or

(d) In storage-battery rooms.

(2) Conductors shall not be installed in any cell or header which contains a pipe for steam, water, air, gas, drainage, or other non-electrical service.

(3) Where the cell or header contains such non-electrical services, the cell or header shall be sealed, where practicable, in a manner satisfactory to the inspection department.

12-364 Maximum Conductor Size in Cellular Raceways. No conductor larger than No. 0 AWG shall be installed in a cellular metal-floor raceway unless special permission is obtained.

12-366 Cross-Sectional Area of Cellular Raceways

Where a cellular metal-floor raceway contains other than mineral-insulated cable, aluminum-sheathed cable, armoured cable, or non-metallic sheathed cable, the aggregate cross-sectional area of the conductors in the raceway shall not exceed 40 per cent of the interior area of the header feeding the individual cells.

12-368 Taps and Splices in Cellular Raceways

Splices and taps in cellular raceways shall be made only in header access-units or in junction boxes.

12-370 Cellular Raceway Markers. Where cellular metal-floor raceways are used, a suitable number of markers shall be installed for the future location of cells and for system identification, and the markers shall extend through the floor.

12-372 Cellular Raceway Junction Boxes

(1) Junction boxes used in cellular metal-floor raceways shall be levelled to floor grade and sealed against the entrance of water.

(2) The junction boxes shall be constructed of metal and shall be electrically continuous with the raceway.

(3) Electrical conductivity of raceway sections shall be obtained by spot welding or other equivalent means.

12-374 Cellular Raceway Inserts

(1) Inserts in cellular metal-floor raceways shall be levelled to floor grade and sealed against entrance of water.

(2) Inserts shall be made of metal and shall be electrically continuous with the raceways.

(3) When setting inserts or cutting through cell walls adequate precautions shall be taken to prevent chips and dirt from falling into the raceway and for preventing tools from entering the cells and injuring the conductors therein.

12-376 Cellular Raceway Extensions. Connections from cellular metal-floor raceways to cabinets and extensions from cells to outlets shall be made by means of rigid conduit, flexible conduit or fittings approved for the purpose.

12-378 Cellular Raceway Discontinued Outlets

Where an outlet is discontinued the conductors supplying the outlet shall be removed from the cellular raceway.

12-380 Gauge of Cellular Raceway

(1) Steel cellular floor sections shall have a thickness not less than 0.0528 inch (No. 16 MSG), except that the upper element of a cellular floor unit may be less than 0.0528 inch, but not less than 0.0418 inch (No. 18 MSG), provided that the unit is covered with concrete to a depth of not less than 2½ inches and is marked as being approved for such application.

(2) Where wiring feeder-ducts are exposed to damage during installation, they shall have a thickness of not less than 0.0667 inch (No. 14 MSG).

12-382 Protection Against Corrosion. Cellular floor sections, feeder-ducts, and access-units shall be adequately protected by a finish of lacquer, paint, enamel or material furnishing equivalent protection.

Bare Bus Bars and Risers

12-384 Where Bare Bus Bars May Be Used

(1) Bare conductors shall not be used as main risers or feeders in buildings unless special permission is obtained.

(2) Special permission shall not be granted unless:

(a) The building is of fire-proof construction;

(b) The conductors are placed in a chase, channel, or shaft located or guarded so that the conductors are inaccessible;

(c) The premises do not constitute a hazardous location;

(d) Suitable cut-offs to protect against the vertical spread of fire are provided where floors are pierced; and

(e) The mechanical and electrical features of the installation and the conductor supports are, in the opinion of an inspector, appropriate to the operating and maintenance conditions likely to occur.

Auto-Transformers and Circuits Derived Therefrom

12-386 Definition of an Auto-Transformer. In Rule 12-388 "auto-transformers" means transformers in which part of the turns are common to primary and secondary alternating-current circuits.

12-388 Where Auto-Transformers Can be Used

(1) Auto-transformers shall not be connected to interior-wiring systems other than a wiring system or circuit used wholly for motor purposes unless:

(a) The system supplied contains an identified grounded conductor solidly connected to a similar identified grounded conductor of the system supplying the auto-transformer;

(b) The auto-transformer is used for starting or controlling an induction motor;

(c) The auto-transformer supplies a circuit wholly within the apparatus which contains the auto-transformer; or

(d) The auto-transformer is used for fixed voltage adjustment on an existing power circuit having no identified grounded conductor.

(2) Where an auto-transformer is used for starting or controlling an induction motor it may be included in a starter case or it may be installed as a separate unit.

Insulation Resistance

12-390 Wiring System to be Free of Short Circuits and Grounds

(1) All wiring shall be so installed that when completed the system shall be free from short circuits and grounds.

(2) Subject to the provisions of Rules 12-394 and 12-396, every installation shall have at least the insulation resistance specified in Table 24.

12-392 Method of Taking Insulation Resistance Tests. The value of the insulation resistance of an electrical installation shall be determined with all switchboards, panelboards, fuse holders, switches, and overcurrent devices forming part of or used with the installation in place and connected.

12-394 Allowance If Fixtures, Appliances, Etc. are Connected. Where lampholders, receptacles, fixtures or appliances are connected to the installation, the branch circuits shall have at least one-half of the insulation resistance specified in Table 24.

12-396 Allowance for Excessive Humidity. Where the wiring of equipment is exposed to excessive humidity through climatic conditions, an inspector may authorize an insulation resistance lower than that specified in Table 24.

Use of Mineral-Insulated and Aluminum-Sheathed Cable

12-398 Mineral-Insulated and Aluminum-Sheathed Cable Rules. Rules 12-400 to 12-416 cover the installation of mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable and are amendatory of the other rules of this Code where they apply.

12-400 Use

(1) Mineral-insulated cable and aluminum-sheathed cable may be installed in or on buildings or portions of buildings of either combustible or other than combustible types of construction.

(2) Light-weight mineral-insulated cable shall be used only in multi-conductor assemblies.

12-402 Corrosion Resistant Protection. Mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable, unless provided with suitable corrosion resistant protection, shall not be used where materials having a deteriorating effect on the metal sheath may come in direct contact with the cable.

12-404 Mechanical Protection

(1) Where subject to mechanical injury, mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable shall be suitably protected.

(2) Where mineral-insulated or aluminum-sheathed cable is installed on the face of a wall, partition, ceiling, or structural member within 5 feet of the door, and in all locations where subject to mechanical injury as for instance from industrial tractors, other vehicles, equipment, stock piling, or excessive vibration, a suitable safeguard against such injury shall be provided.

(3) Mineral-insulated or aluminum-sheathed cable shall be protected, located, or arranged so that a 2½ inch common nail cannot be driven into it, where the cable is:

(a) Run through bored or notched holes or grooves in wooden structural members;

(b) Secured directly to the underside of wooden flooring;

(c) Located behind baseboards or casings.

(4) In order to comply with Subrule (3), the hole, groove, or supporting strap containing the cable may be sufficiently oversized to permit the cable to move a distance equal to at least the radius of the cable.

(5) Where mineral-insulated or aluminum-sheathed cable passes from a point above grade to direct earth burial and is not otherwise protected against mechanical injury, a suitable pipe stubup shall be arranged to encase the cable to a point where practicable at least 12 inches above grade and, in locations where frost heaving may occur, the encasement shall slide freely on the cable, so as to avoid injury thereto.

12-406 Radii of Bends

(1) The radius of the curve on the inner edge of bends made on mineral-insulated cable shall not be less than six times the external diameter of the sheath and shall be made so as not to damage the outer sheath.

(2) The radius of the curve on the inner edge of bends made on aluminum-sheathed cable shall not be less than:

(a) Ten times the external diameter of the sheath for cable not more than ¾ inch in external diameter;

(b) Twelve times the external diameter of the sheath for cable more than ¾ inch but not more than 1½ inches in external diameter; and

(c) Fifteen times the external diameter of the sheath for cable more than 1½ inches in external diameter.

12-408 Termination of Mineral-Insulated Cable

At all points where mineral-insulated cable terminates:

(a) The end of the cable shall be sealed immediately after stripping to prevent entrance of moisture to the insulation;

(b) Each conductor extended beyond the sheath shall be provided with the proper insulation; and

(c) Box connectors used with mineral-insulated cable shall be of types approved specifically for use with this cable.

12-410 Connection to Other Forms of Wiring

Where mineral-insulated or aluminum-sheathed cable is connected to other forms of wiring, the junction shall be made in a box, or at, or in, a fitting having a separately bushed hole for each conductor.

12-412 Method of Supporting

(1) Mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable shall be securely supported by staples, straps, hangers, or similar fittings in such a manner as not to:

(a) Injure the sheath of the cable; or

(b) Subject the cable or its termination fittings to undue strain.

(2) Mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable shall be secured at intervals not exceeding 6 feet, except where the cable is fished and adequate supports are installed, if needed, adjacent to termination fittings.

(3) When settlement of a structure may occur due to weight of contents as in certain grain storage occupancies, provision shall be made so that mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable runs, including their termination fittings, will not be subjected to undue strain.

(4) Mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable may be run on the surface of walls, partitions, ceilings, or on or across structural members, subject to the applicable requirements of Rule 12-404.

12-414 In Ducts or Plenum Chambers. Mineral-insulated and aluminum-sheathed cable may be used in air-conditioning ducts and plenum chambers when provided with acceptable fittings.

12-416 Use When Imbedded

(1) Mineral-insulated cable and, except as noted in Subrule (3), round aluminum-sheathed cable may be used for under-plaster extensions or where embedded in plaster, masonry, or concrete.

(2) Except as noted in Subrule (3), flat two-conductor aluminum-sheathed cable may be used for under-plaster extensions or where embedded in plaster, masonry, or concrete, by special permission only.

(3) Aluminum-sheathed cable shall not be embedded in concrete containing reinforcing steel unless:

(a) The concrete is known to contain no chloride additives; or

(b) The sheath has been treated with an approved bituminous base paint or other approved means of preventing galvanic corrosion of the aluminum.

Liquid-Tight Flexible Metal Conduit

12-418 Use of Liquid-Tight Flexible Metal Conduit

(1) Liquid-tight flexible metal conduit may be used in short lengths, where a flexible connection is required in ordinary locations and where permitted by other Sections of this Code.

(2) Liquid-tight flexible metal conduit shall not be used:

(a) Where subject to mechanical injury;

(b) As a general-purpose raceway;

(c) In lengths greater than that essential for the degree of flexibility required;

(d) Where exposed to gasoline or similar light petroleum solvents, or corrosive liquids or vapours having an injurious effect on the thermoplastic jacket;

(e) Under conditions such that the jacket temperature will exceed 60° C. (140° F.), or 75° C. (167° F.) if the jacket is approved for this higher temperature; or

(f) Where flexing at low temperatures may cause injury to the jacket.

(3) ⅜ inch liquid-tight flexible metal conduit may be used for runs of not more than five feet for the connection of equipment.

12-420 Size of and Conductors for Liquid-Tight Flexible Metal Conduit

(1) The maximum size of liquid-tight flexible metal conduit shall not exceed 3 inch electrical trade size.

(2) A separate grounding conductor shall be installed in accordance with the rules of Section 10 in liquid-tight flexible metal conduit.

(3) The maximum size of conductors which may be installed in sizes 1¼ inch and smaller shall not exceed:

(a) No. 14 AWG in ⅜ inch trade size;

(b) No. 12 AWG in ½ inch trade size;

(c) No. 8 AWG in ¾ inch trade size;

(d) No. 6 AWG in 1 inch trade size;

(e) No. 2 AWG in 1¼ inch trade size.

(4) Conductors need not be lead sheathed but shall be of the moisture-resistant types when used in Category 1 locations as covered by Section 22.

(5) The maximum per cent fill shall be in accordance with Rule 12-162 and for this purpose the cross-sectional area of the ½ inch trade size shall be considered as 0.184 square inches.

Cabletroughs

12-422 Restriction of Use. Cabletroughs shall not be used in any hazardous location except as permitted by Rule 18-030.

12-424 Method of Installation

(1) Cabletroughs shall be installed as a complete system before the conductors are laid in.

(2) The maximum loading of any cabletrough shall not exceed the loading as specified in Table 42.

(3) Cabletroughs shall not pass through walls except where the walls are constructed of incombustible material.

(4) Cabletroughs may extend vertically through dry floors if provided with acceptable fire stops and if totally enclosed where passing through and for a minimum distance of 6 feet above the floor to provide adequate protection from mechanical injury.

(5) Conductors or cables shall not be laid in cabletroughs until the conductors or cables will be reasonably safe from damage from construction operations.

(6) Cabletroughs shall be adequately supported by non-combustible supports.

(7) Dead ends of cabletroughs shall be closed by the use of proper fittings.

(8) Conductors in vertical runs of cabletroughs shall be supported independently of the terminal connections, and at intervals not exceeding those specified in Table 21.

12-426 Conductors for Use in Cabletroughs

(1) Conductors for use in ventilated, non-ventilated, and ladder type cabletroughs shall be enclosed in a continuous metal sheath or of the interlock metal-armour type as specified in Table 19, except that for ventilated and non-ventilated cabletroughs, conductors having moisture-resistant insulation and flame-retarding non-metallic coverings or sheaths may be used in electrical equipment vaults, fire-resisting switchrooms, and, by special permission, in other similar locations.

(2) Where a non-metallic outer covering is supplied with armoured or metal-sheathed conductors or cable, it shall be flame retardant.

(3) Where the conductors of different systems are installed in cabletroughs the requirements of Rule 12-354 shall apply.

12-428 Joints and Splices Within Cabletroughs

Where joints and splices are made on feeders or branch circuits within cabletroughs, they shall be made and insulated by acceptable methods and shall be in accessible locations.

12-430 Connection to Other Wiring Methods.

Where cabletroughs are connected to other wiring methods, the arrangement shall be such that the conductors will not be subject to mechanical damage or abrasion, and where connected to raceways, such that effective ground continuity will be maintained.

12-432 Manufacturer's Identification on Cabletrough. The manufacturer's identification marking on cabletrough shall be readily visible when the installation is completed.

12-434 Grounding. All metal sections of a cabletrough system shall be bonded together and connected to the electrical system ground by a conductor selected in accordance with Rule 10-102 (c) (Table 16) for the largest conductor installed in the cabletrough.

12-436 Ampacity of Conductors Used in Cabletroughs

(1) Where the air space between conductors, cables, or both, in ventilated and ladder type cabletroughs is not less than 25 per cent nor more than 100 per cent of the conductor or cable diameter, the ampacity of the conductor or cable shall be the value specified in paragraph (a) or (b) below, multiplied by the correction factor specified in Table 39 for the arrangement and number of conductors or cables involved, unless special permission is obtained for other spacings and correction factors:

(a) Single conductors, single conductor aluminum-sheathed cable, and single conductor mineral-insulated cable, as specified in Tables 1 or 3;

(b) Multi-conductor cables as specified in Subrule (1) (b) or (2) (b) of Rule 4-004 for three wires in conduit, multiplied by the factors in Table 38 for the number of conductors in each cable.

(2) Where the spacings of Subrule (1) are not maintained in ventilated and ladder-type cabletroughs, or for any spacing in a non-ventilated cabletrough, the ampacity of the conductor of cable shall be the value specified in Subrule (1) (b) or (2) (b) of Rule 4-004 multiplied by the correction factor specified in Table 38 for the total number of conductors in the cabletrough.

(3) Where cabletroughs are located in room temperatures above 30° C. (86° F.) the temperature correction factors of Tables 1, 2, 3 and 4 shall be applied to the ampacities determined from Subrules (1) and (2) as applicable.

Rigid PVC (Unplasticized) Conduit

12-438 Use

(1) Rigid PVC conduit may be used for exposed or concealed work above or below ground in accordance with the rules for threaded rigid metal conduit subject to the provisions of Rules 12-440 to 12-456.

(2) Rigid PVC conduit may be used in cinders or cinder concrete without the grouting referred to in Rule 12-142 being required.

12-440 Restrictions On Use. Rigid PVC conduit shall not be used:

(a) In hazardous locations as covered by Section 18;

(b) With wiring for exit and fire escape lights;

(c) As risers in buildings of fire-resisting construction unless suitable fire stops are provided at each floor level or a fire-resisting enclosure is built around the vertical conduit risers; or

(d) Where enclosed in thermal insulation.

12-442 Temperature Limitations. Rigid PVC conduit shall not be used where normal conditions are such that any part of the conduit is subjected to a temperature in excess of 75° C.

12-444 Mechanical Protection. Rigid PVC conduit shall be protected where exposed to mechanical injury either during installation or afterwards.

12-446 Field Bends Prohibited. Rigid PVC conduit shall not be bent in the field.

12-448 Fittings. Rigid PVC conduit including elbows and bends shall not be threaded but shall be used with approved adapters and couplings which shall be applied in an acceptable manner with approved solvent cement.

12-450 Maximum Spacing of Supports

(1) All rigid PVC conduit of one size shall be securely attached to hangers or to a solid surface with the maximum spacing of the points of supports not greater than:

(a) 2½ feet for ½-, ¾-, and 1-inch conduit;

(b) 4 feet for 1¼-, and 1½-inch conduit;

(c) 5 feet for 2-inch conduit;

(d) 6 feet for 2½- and 3-inch conduit;

(e) 7 feet for 3½-, 4-, and 5-inch conduit; and

(f) 8 feet for 6-inch conduit.

(2) Where conduits of mixed sizes are run in a group, the conduit supports shall be arranged so that the maximum support spacing will be that shown in Subrule (1) for the smallest conduit.

(3) Except where embedded in concrete, rigid PVC conduit shall not be clamped tightly but shall be supported in such a manner as to permit adequate lineal movement to allow for expansion and contraction of the conduit due to temperature change.

12-452 Grounding Continuity. A separate grounding conductor shall be installed in rigid PVC conduit in compliance with Rule 10-040.

12-454 Support of Equipment. Rigid PVC conduit shall not be used to support fixtures or other equipment except as permitted by Rule 12-284 (2).

12-456 Expansion Joints. Unless the conduit is grouted in concrete, at least one expansion joint shall be installed in any conduit run where the expansion of the conduit due to maximum probable temperature change during and after installation will exceed 1¾ inches.

Ventilated Flexible Cableway

12-458 Restriction of Use. Ventilated flexible cableway shall not be used in any hazardous location except as permitted by Rule 18-030.

12-460 Method of Installation

(1) Ventilated flexible cableway shall not pass through walls except where the walls are constructed of non-combustible material.

(2) Ventilated flexible cableway may extend vertically through dry floors, if totally enclosed where passing through and for a minimum distance of 6 feet above the floor to provide adequate protection from mechanical injury.

(3) Conductors or cables shall not be drawn into ventilated flexible cableway until conductors or cables will be reasonably safe from damage from construction operations.

(4) Ventilated flexible cableway shall be supported by non-combustible supports.

(5) Conductors in vertical runs of ventilated flexible cableway shall be supported independently of the terminal connections, at intervals not exceeding those specified in Table 21, and the supports shall maintain the continuity of the ventilated flexible cableway system without injury to the conductors or their covering.

(6) All ventilated flexible cableway shall be securely attached to hangers or to a solid surface with the maximum spacings of the points of support:

(a) 7 feet for 2-, 3-, and 4-inch trade sizes not under tension;

(b) 10 feet for 2-inch trade size under a minimum tension of 100 pounds;

(c) 12 feet for 3-inch trade size under a minimum tension of 200 pounds; and

(d) 14 feet for 4-inch trade size under a minimum tension of 250 pounds.

(7) A run of ventilated flexible cableway between outlets or between draw-in points shall not contain more than the equivalent of 4 quarter-bends.

12-462 Conductors for Use in Ventilated Flexible Cableway

(1) Conductors for use in ventilated flexible cableway shall be enclosed in a continuous metal sheath or of the interlocked metal-armour type as specified in Table 19, except that conductors having moisture-resistant insulation and flame-retardant non-metallic coverings or sheaths may be used in electrical equipment vaults, fire-resisting switch rooms and, by special permission, in other similar locations.

(2) Where a non-metallic outer covering is supplied with armoured or metal-sheathed conductors or cable, it shall be flame retardant.

(3) Where conductors of different systems are installed in the same ventilated flexible cableway, the requirements of Rule 12-354 shall apply.

12-464 Connection to Other Wiring Methods

Where ventilated flexible cableway is connected to other wiring methods, the connection shall be made:

(a) By means of approved fittings;

(b) Electrically continuous; and

(c) In such a manner as to ensure that the conductors will not be subject to mechanical damage.

12-466 Manufacturer's Identification on Ventilated Flexible Cableway. The manufacturer's identification marking on ventilated flexible cableway shall be readily visible when the installation is completed.

12-468 Grounding. All metal sections of a ventilated flexible cableway system shall be bonded together and connected to the electrical system ground by a conductor selected in accordance with Rule 10-102 (c) (Table 16) for the largest conductor in the ventilated flexible cableway.

12-470 Ampacity of Conductors and Cables Used in Ventilated Flexible Cableway

(1) The ampacity of single or multi-conductor cables shall be the value specified in paragraph (a) or (b) below, multiplied by the correction factor specified in Table 38 for the total number of conductors involved unless special permission is obtained for other correction factors:

(a) Single conductors, as specified in Tables 2 or 4;

(b) Multi-conductor cables, as specified in Tables 2 or 4 multiplied by the factor of Table 38 for the number of conductors in each cable.

(2) Where ventilated flexible cableway is located in room temperatures above 30° C. (86° F.) the temperature correction factors of Tables 1, 2, 3, and 4 shall be applied to the current-carrying capacities determined from Subrule (1).

12-472 Maximum Number of Conductors. The maximum number of conductors in ventilated flexible cableway shall be determined as for conduit in accordance with Rule 12-162.

Rigid Types I and II Non-metallic Bituminized-Fibre and Asbestos-Cement Conduits

12-474 Scope. Rules 12-462 to 12-468 apply to the installation of rigid non-metallic conduits, Types I and II made of bituminized-fibre or asbestos-cement.

12-476 Use Permitted. Types I and II rigid non-metallic conduit and fittings approved for the purpose may be used:

(a) For installation underground in accordance with Rule 12-140 for raceways, except that Type I conduit shall be laid with its entire length in a two-inch envelope of concrete; or

(b) In concrete walls, floors, and ceilings where surrounded by at least two inches of concrete.

12-478 Use Prohibited. Types I and II rigid non-metallic conduit shall not be used:

(a) Above ground except as permitted by paragraph (b) of Rule 12-462;

(b) Where subject to physical damage; or

(c) In hazardous locations as covered by Section 18.

12-480 Method of Installation

(1) All cut edges shall be trimmed inside and outside to remove rough edges.

(2) Types I and II rigid non-metallic conduit including elbows and bends shall not be threaded but shall be used with approved adapters and couplings

(3) All joints between the conduit and couplings, fittings and boxes shall be made by a method and with tools specified for the purpose.

(4) Types I and II rigid non-metallic conduit shall be secured mechanically to prevent disturbance of the alignment during construction.

12-482 Split Straight Conduit. In existing underground or concrete embedded installations only, raceways may be formed using split straight conduit, provided that:

(a) Both halves of each conduit length are properly matched and clamped together to form a close-fitting concrete-tight joint;

(b) Each length of conduit is tightly clamped at each end, with additional clamps spaced not more than three feet apart; and

(c) Clamps made of stainless steel or other corrosion-resistant material acceptable to the inspection department are used when not embedded in concrete.

SECTION 14—PROTECTION AND CONTROL

General

14-000 General Requirements

(1) Electrical equipment and ungrounded conductors shall, except as otherwise provided for in this Section or in other Sections dealing with specific equipment, be provided with:

(a) Approved devices for the purpose of automatically opening the electrical circuit thereto if the current therein reaches a value which will produce a dangerous temperature in the equipment or conductor;

(b) Approved manually-operable devices which will safely disconnect all ungrounded conductors of the circuit at the point of supply simultaneously, except for multi-wire branch circuits which supply fixed lighting loads only, and have each lighting load connected to the neutral and one ungrounded conductor; and

(c) Approved devices which, when necessary, will open the electrical circuit thereto in the event of failure of voltage in such circuit.

(2) Electrical equipment shall also be provided with a readily-accessible disconnecting means capable of opening all ungrounded conductors of the supply simultaneously, and which shall be installed within sight of the equipment unless otherwise permitted by an inspector.

14-002 Types and Ratings of Protective and Control Devices.

(1) Circuit breakers, fuses, and switches shall be of types and ratings acceptable to the inspection department.

(2) Interrupting ratings of overcurrent protection shall ensure safe operation and co-ordination.

14-004 Connection of Devices. Devices required by this Section shall not be connected in any grounded conductors except where:

(a) The devices simultaneously or previously disconnect all ungrounded conductors;

(b) An overcurrent device is in a 2-wire circuit having one wire grounded, and there is a possibility that the grounded conductor may assume a potential difference between itself and ground, due to unreliable grounding conditions, of sufficient magnitude to create a dangerous condition; or

(c) Overcurrent devices are located in that part of a circuit which is connected by an unpolarized attachment plug.

Protective Devices

14-006 Location and Grouping. Overcurrent devices shall be located in readily accessible places, except as provided for elsewhere in this Code, and shall be grouped where practicable.

14-008 Enclosure of Overcurrent Devices

(1) Overcurrent devices shall be enclosed in cutout boxes or cabinets, unless they form a part of an approved assembly which affords equivalent protection, or unless mounted on switchboards, panelboards, or controllers located in rooms or enclosures free from easily ignitible material and dampness, and accessible only to authorized persons.

(2) Operating handles of circuit breakers shall be made accessible without opening any door or cover giving access to live parts.

14-010 Mounting of Enclosures. Enclosures for overcurrent devices shall be mounted in a vertical position unless, in individual instances, this is clearly impracticable.

14-012 Grouping of Protective Devices at Distribution Centres

(1) Where the number of lighting branch circuits exceeds four, overcurrent devices protecting such circuits shall consist of an approved assembly.

(2) Individual overcurrent devices, suitably enclosed, may be used at such centres if the number of lighting branch circuits does not exceed four.

(3) For the purpose of this Rule a 3-wire circuit shall be classed as 2 circuits.

14-014 Time-Delay Fuses

(1) Plug and cartridge fuses of the time-delay type shall be marked so as to be readily distinguishable.

(2) The marking referred to in Subrule (1) shall be the letter "D".

14-016 Use of Plug Fuses. Plug fuses and fuseholders shall not be used in circuits exceeding 125 volts between conductors except in circuits supplied from a system having a grounded neutral conductor and no conductor operating at more than 150 volts to ground.

14-018 Rating of Fuses

(1) Plug fuses shall be rated at not more than 30 amperes.

(2) Standard cartridge fuses shall not be used in capacities larger than 600 amperes or in circuits at more than 600 volts.

(3) HRC (High Rupturing Capacity) fuses used in circuits rated at 750 volts or less are not limited as to current rating.

(4) Fuses for use in circuits of more than 750 volts are not limited in current or voltage ratings.

14-020 Tamper-Resistant. Where plug fuses are used, the inspection department may require that they be of the tamper-resistant type.

14-022 Cutout Bases for Plug Fuses. Cutout bases for plug fuses shall be of the so-called "covered" type where readily accessible to unauthorized persons.

14-024 Open-Link Fuses. Open-link fuses shall not be used.

14-026 Short-Circuiting of Fuses. Short-circuiting or bridging of fuses, or the use of anything but an approved fuse and fuse holder of proper rating, is strictly prohibited.

14-028 Overcurrent Devices in Parallel. Overcurrent devices shall not be connected in parallel in circuits of 750 volts or less.

14-030 Use of HRC (High Rupturing Capacity) Fuses. HRC fuses, which have a rupturing capacity in excess of that required for standard fuses, may be used as follows:

(a) HRC Form I fuses, in lieu of standard fuses;

(b) HRC Form II fuses, for overcurrent protection only where circuit overload protection is provided by standard fuses, circuit-breakers, or overload devices;

(c) HRC Form II fuses, in lieu of standard fuses in those applications where this Code permits the installation of fuses greater than the ampere rating of the load, provided that the rating of the HRC Form II fuses does not exceed 85 per cent of the maximum rating permitted for standard fuses.

14-032 Construction of Circuit Breakers. Where circuit breakers are provided for the protection of apparatus or ungrounded conductors, or both, they shall open the circuit in all ungrounded conductors by the manual operation of a single handle and by the action of overcurrent, except:

(a) Where single-pole circuit breakers are permitted by paragraph (b) of Subrule (1) of Rule 14-000; or

(b) In branch circuits derived from a 3-wire grounded neutral system two single-pole manually-operable circuit breakers may be used in lieu of a 2-pole breaker, provided that:

(i) Their handles are so interlocked that all ungrounded conductors will be opened by the manual operation of either handle; and

(ii) Each breaker has voltage ratings not less than that of the 3-wire grounded neutral system.

14-034 Non-tamperable Circuit Breakers. Branch-circuit breakers unless accessible only to authorized persons, shall be of such design that any alteration by the user of either tripping current or time will be difficult.

Control Devices

14-036 Location of Isolating Switches. Isolating switches shall be plainly marked so as to make it unlikely that they will be opened under load, unless:

(a) They are located or guarded so as to render them inaccessible to unauthorized persons; or

(b) They are interlocked so that they cannot normally be opened under load.

14-038 Maximum Rating of Switches

(1) Knife switches rated at more than 600 amperes at 750 volts or less shall be used only as isolating switches.

(2) Notwithstanding Subrule (1), switches of special design and approved for such purpose may be used to interrupt currents greater than 600 amperes at 750 volts or less.

14-040 Operation of Switches. Knife switches and other control devices, unless located or guarded so as to render them inaccessible to unauthorized persons, shall be constructed so that they may be switched to the "off" position without exposing live parts.

14-042 Mounting of Knife Switches

(1) Single-throw knife switches shall be mounted with their bases in a vertical plane.

(2) Single-throw knife switches shall be mounted so that gravity will not tend to close them.

(3) Double-throw knife switches may be mounted so that the throw will be either vertical or horizontal but, if the throw is vertical, a positive locking device or stop shall be provided so as to ensure the blades remaining in the open position when so set, unless it is not intended that the switch be left in the open position.

14-044 Connection of Switches. Manual single-throw switches, circuit breakers, or magnetic switches, shall be so connected that the blades or moving contacts will be dead when the device is in the open position, except that the following need not comply:

(a) Branch-circuit breakers which have all live parts other than terminals sealed, and which are constructed so that the line and load connections may be interchanged;

(b) Switchgear which is provided for sectionalizing purposes and has a suitable caution notice attached to the assembly;

(c) Switches which are immersed in a liquid and have a suitable caution notice attached to the outside of the enclosure;

(d) Switches which are designed so that all live parts are inaccessible when the device is in the open position;

(e) Magnetic switches, when preceded by a circuit breaker or manual switch which is located in the same enclosure or immediately adjacent and is marked to indicate that it controls the circuit to the magnetic switch, unless this is obvious.

14-046 Location of Control Devices

(1) Control devices, with the exception of isolating switches, shall be readily accessible.

(2) Remotely controlled devices shall be considered to be readily accessible if the means of controlling them are readily accessible.

(3) Isolating switches may be located so as to require the use of a hook stick to operate them.

14-048 Enclosure of Control Devices. Control devices, unless they are located or guarded so as to render them inaccessible to unauthorized persons and to prevent fire hazards, shall have all current-carrying parts in enclosures of metal or other fire-resisting material.

14-050 Control Devices to be Indicating. Manually-operable control devices shall indicate the on and off position, unless the application of the devices is such as to make this requirement unnecessary.

14-052 Control Devices Ahead of Overcurrent Devices. Control devices used in combination with overcurrent devices or overload devices for the control of circuits or apparatus shall be connected so that the overcurrent or overload devices will be dead when the control device is in the open position, except where this is impracticable.

Protection and Control of Circuits

14-054 Overcurrent Devices Required. Each ungrounded conductor shall be protected by an overcurrent device at the point where it receives its supply of current, and at each point where the size of conductor is decreased, except that such protection may be omitted:

(a) Where the overcurrent device in a larger conductor adequately protects the smaller; or

(b) Where the smaller conductor:

(i) Has an ampacity not less than the sum of the allowable ampacities of the conductors of the one or more circuits or loads which it supplies, and not less than 1/10 that of the larger conductor from which it is supplied;

(ii) Is not over 5 feet long;

(iii) Does not extend beyond the switchboard, panelboard, or device which it supplies;

(iv) Is enclosed in conduit, or in metal gutters when not a part of the wiring of the switchboard, panelboard, or other device; and

(v) Terminates in a single set of overcurrent devices except where the tap conductors supply panelboards installed in accordance with Rule 14-090; or

(c) Where the smaller conductor:

(i) Does not exceed No. 10 AWG;

(ii) Terminates in a single overcurrent device that will safely interrupt any fault current which may occur on the load-side of the device;

(iii) Has an ampacity equivalent to that of the device it supplies;

(iv) Does not exceed 5 feet in length; and

(v) Is enclosed in metal conduit or in metal gutters; or

(d) In other than residential occupancies where each smaller conductor:

(i) Has an ampacity of at least 1/3 the ampacity of the larger conductor from which it is supplied; and

(ii) Is suitably protected from mechanical injury, is not more than 25 feet long and terminates in a single set of overcurrent devices which will limit the load on the tap to that allowed by Tables 1, 2, 3, or 4, but, beyond the single set of overcurrent devices, the conductors may supply any number of overcurrent devices.

14-056 Disconnecting Means Required for Fused Circuits. Circuits protected by fuses shall be equipped with disconnecting means integral with, or adjacent to, the fuseholders whereby all live parts for mounting fuses can be readily and safely made dead, except that such disconnecting means may be omitted in the case of:

(a) Instrument and control circuits on switchboards where the potential does not exceed 250 volts;

(b) Primary circuits of potential transformers having a primary potential of 750 volts or less, on switchboards; and

(c) A circuit having only one ungrounded conductor where a plug fuse is used, as a plug fuse can be safely handled while alive in such a circuit.

14-058 Rating of Overcurrent Devices, General.

The rating or setting of overcurrent devices shall not exceed the allowable ampacity of the conductors which they protect except:

(a) Where a fuse or circuit breaker having a rating or setting of the same value as the ampacity of the conductor is not available, in which case the ratings or settings given in Table 13 may be used within the maximum value of 600 amperes;

(b) In the case of fixture wire, flexible cord in sizes Nos. 16, 18, and 20 AWG, and tinsel cord, which will be considered as protected by 15-ampere overcurrent devices; or

(c) As provided for by other rules of this Code.

14-060 Tripping Elements for Circuit Breakers. Circuit breakers shall be equipped with tripping elements as specified in Table 25.

14-062 Rating of Control Devices. Control devices shall have ratings suitable for the connected load of the circuits which they control and, with the exception of isolating switches, shall be capable of safely establishing and interrupting such loads.

14-064 Grouping of Control Devices. Control devices controlling feeders and branch circuits shall be grouped where practicable.

14-066 Rating of Snap Switches. Snap switches shall be rated as follows:

(a) For non-inductive loads other than tungsten-filament lamps, switches shall have an ampere rating not less than the ampere rating of the load;

(b) For tungsten-filament lamp loads, and for combined tungsten filament and non-inductive loads, switches shall be "T" rated, except where:

(i) The switches are used in branch-circuit wiring systems in private homes; in rooms in multiple-occupancy dwellings used only as living quarters by tenants; in private hospital or hotel rooms; or in similar locations but not in public rooms or places of assembly;

(ii) The switch controls permanently connected fixtures or lighting outlets in one room only, or in one continuous hallway where the lighting fixtures may be located at different levels or in attics or basements not used for assembly purposes; and

(iii) The switch is rated at not less than 10 amperes, 125 volts; 5 amperes, 250 volts; or for the 4-way types, 5 amperes, 125 volts; 2 amperes, 250 volts;

(c) Canopy switches controlling a tungsten-filament lamp load shall be "T" rated or shall have an ampere rating at least three times the ampere rating of the load;

(d) For inductive loads, switches shall have an ampere rating of twice the ampere rating of the load unless:

(i) They are of a type approved as part of an assembly or for the purpose employed; or

(ii) The inductive load is ac with a power factor between unity and 0.75 lag in which case a switch having an "F" rating at 10 amperes, 125 volts may be used.

14-068 Use and Rating of Manually-Operated General-Purpose Alternating-Current Switches

(1) Manually-operated, general-purpose switches intended for alternating-current systems and constructed so that they can be installed readily in wiring systems for making and breaking tungsten-filament lighting and power circuits shall be rated as follows:

(a) For tungsten-filament lamp loads at 120 volts maximum, switches shall have an ampere rating not less than the current rating of the load;

(b) For non-inductive loads and for inductive loads at not less than 75 per cent power factor lag, switches shall have an ampere rating not less than the current rating of the load.

(2) The current rating of the switches shall be not less than 15 amperes in conjunction with a voltage rating of 120 or 277 volts.

(3) Switches shall be adapted for mounting in flush-device boxes, surface-type boxes, special boxes, or have complete self enclosures.

14-070 Manually Operated Specific-Use AC Switches

(1) Manually operated specific-use ac switches shall be used only for the control of non-inductive loads other than tungsten-filament lamps, and for inductive loads where the power factor is not less than 75 per cent lagging.

(2) The current rating of the switches shall be not less than 15 amperes in conjunction with a volatge rating of 347 volts.

(3) The switches designed for mounting in boxes shall not be readily interchangeable with switches referred to in Rules 14-066 and 14-068.

(4) Switches controlling voltage exceeding 150 volts to ground shall not be ganged or grouped in the same enclosure unless they meet the requirements of Rule 14-094.

Protection and Control of Generators

14-072 Protection of Constant-Potential Generators

(1) Constant-potential generators, whether direct-current or alternating-current, shall be protected from excessive current by overcurrent devices, except that:

(a) Where an inspector is of the opinion that the type of apparatus used and the nature of the system operated make protective devices inadvisable or unnecessary, the protective devices may be dispensed with;

(b) Where an alternating-current generator and a transformer are located in the same building and are intended to operate as a unit for stepping up or stepping down voltage, the protective device may be connected to the primary or to the secondary of the transformer.

(2) Subrule (1) shall not apply to exciters for alternating-current machines.

14-074 Generator Not Driven by Electricity.

Where a generator not driven by electricity supplies a 2-wire grounded system, the protective device shall be capable of disconnecting the generator from both conductors of the circuit.

14-076 Balancer Sets. Where a 3-wire direct-current system is supplied by 2-wire generators operated in conjunction with a balancer set to obtain a neutral, the system shall be equipped with protective devices which disconnect the system in the event of an excessive unbalancing of voltages.

14-078 Three-Wire Direct-Current Generators

(1) Three-wire direct-current generators, whether shunt or compound wound, shall be equipped with:

(a) A 2-pole circuit breaker with 2 tripping elements; or

(b) A 4-pole circuit breaker connected in the main- and equalizer-leads and tripped by 2 tripping elements.

(2) The circuit breaker shall be connected so as to be actuated by the entire armature current.

(3) One tripping element shall be connected in each armature lead.

14-080 Disconnecting Means Required for Generators. Generators shall be equipped with an indicating switch or a circuit breaker by means of which the generator and all protective devices and control apparatus may be entirely disconnected from the circuits supplied by the generator, unless the driving means for the generator is such that it may be readily shut down.

Protection and Control of Apparatus on Lighting and Appliance Branch Circuits

14-082 Protection of Lampholders

(1) Medium-base lampholders and fluorescent light-fixtures shall not be connected to a branch circuit protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at more than 15 amperes except that where the fixture wiring and ballasts, if any, are enclosed in metal, the rating of the overcurrent devices may exceed 15 amperes, but shall not exceed 20 amperes.

(2) Subrule (1) does not apply to medium-base lampholders which form an integral part of a single lighting unit having mogul-base lampholders.

(3) Mogul-base lampholders shall not be connected to a branch circuit protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at more than 40 amperes.

14-084 Protection of Circuits Supplying Receptacles. Receptacles shall not be connected to a lighting and appliance branch circuit having overcurrent protection rated or set at more than the rated ampere capacity of the receptacle.

14-086 Additional Control Devices Not Necessary.

Portable appliances need not be equipped with additional control devices where the appliances are:

(a) Rated at not more than 1500 watts; and

(b) Provided with approved cord connectors, attachment-plug caps or other approved means by which they can be disconnected readily from the circuits.

14-088 Outlet Control From More Than One Point. Where switches are used to control an outlet or outlets from more than one point, the switches shall be wired and connected so that the grounded conductor runs directly to the outlet or outlets controlled by the switches.

14-090 Panelboard Overcurrent Protection. Panelboards supplied by conductors having overcurrent protection greater than 200 amperes shall be protected on the supply side by overcurrent devices having a rating not greater than that of the panelboard.

Protection and Control of Miscellaneous Apparatus

14-092 Remote-Control Circuits. Remote-control circuits of remotely controlled apparatus shall be arranged so that they may be conveniently disconnected from their source of supply at the controller, but as an alternative it may be arranged that the disconnecting of the apparatus from the supply circuit also disconnects the remote-control circuit from the supply cercuit.

14-094 Connection to Different Circuits.

(1) Where electrical equipment is supplied by more than one circuit:

(a) A single disconnecting means, which will effectively open all ungrounded conductors supplying the equipment, shall be provided integral with, or installed adjacent to, the equipment; or

(b) Each circuit shall be provided with an isolating means integral with or adjacent to the equipment.

(2) The isolating means referred to in Subrule (1) (b) shall consist of barriers, individual disconnecting means or multi-pole relays.

(3) Where individual disconnecting means are used, suitable warning signs shall be placed on, or adjacent to, each disconnecting means to the effect that any one disconnecting means will not completely de-energize the equipment.

(4) The barriers referred to in Subrule (2) shall consist of:

(a) A minimum clearance of 6 inches between parts connected to different circuits;

(b) Dead front construction;

(c) Recessing; or

(d) Other acceptable means.

(5) Barriers shall effectively isolate live parts from contact from any angle by a ¾-inch diameter probing rod having a length of 3 inches and a spherical tip.

SECTION 16—REMOTE-CONTROL CIRCUITS, SIGNAL CIRCUITS, EXTRA-LOW-VOLTAGE POWER CIRCUITS AND LOW-ENERGY POWER CIRCUITS

16-000 Scope. This Section applies to remote-control circuits, signal circuits, extra-low-voltage power circuits, and low-energy power circuits, other than:

(a) Circuits forming an integral part of a device; and

(b) Remote-control circuits and signal circuits which use conductors in a cable assembly with other conductors forming parts of communication circuits.

16-002 Hazardous Locations. Where the circuits or apparatus within the scope of this Section are installed in hazardous locations, they shall also comply with the applicable rules of Section 18.

Classifications

16-004 Classifications. Circuits within the scope of this Section shall be classified as follows:

(a) Class 1 circuits are circuits in which power is not limited in accordance with Rule 16-006;

(b) Class 2 circuits are circuits in which power is limited in accordance with Rule 16-006.

16-006 Limitation of Class 2 Circuits

(1) Class 2 circuits, depending upon the voltage, shall have the current limited as follows:

(a) 0 to 15 volts. Circuits in which the open-circuit is not greater than 15 volts shall have overcurrent protection of not more than 5-ampere rating, except that the overcurrent protection may be omitted if the current is supplied from:

(i) Primary batteries;

(ii) An approved Class 2 circuit transformer the secondary current of which under short-circuit does not exceed 10 amperes; or

(iii) A device having characteristics which will limit the current under normal operating conditions or under fault conditions to a value not exceeding 10 amperes, and approved for the purpose;

(b) Over 15 volts but not exceeding 30 volts. Circuits in which the open-circuit voltage exceeds 15 volts but is not greater than 30 volts shall have overcurrent protection of not more than 3.2-ampere rating, except that the overcurrent protection may be omitted if the current is supplied from:

(i) Primary batteries;

(ii) An approved Class 2 circuit transformer the secondary current of which under short-circuit does not exceed 5 amperes; or

(iii) A device having characteristics which will limit the current under normal operating conditions or under fault conditions to a value not exceeding 5 amperes, and approved for the purpose;

(c) Over 30 volts but not exceeding 60 volts. Circuits in which the open-circuit voltage exceeds 30 volts but is not greater than 60 volts shall have overcurrent protection of not more than 1.6-ampere rating, except that the overcurrent protection may be omitted if the current is supplied from:

(i) An approved Class 2 circuit transformer the secondary current of which under short-circuit does not exceed 2.5 amperes; or

(ii) A device having characteristics which will limit the current under normal operating conditions or under fault conditions to a value not exceeding 2.5 amperes, and approved for the purpose;

(d) Over 60 volts but not exceeding 150 volts. Circuits in which the open-circuit voltage exceeds 60 volts but is not greater than 150 volts shall have overcurrent protection of not more than 1-ampere rating, and in addition shall be equipped with approved current-limiting means other than overcurrent protection, which will limit the current, either under normal operating conditions or under fault conditions, to not more than 1 ampere.

(2) A device having energy-limiting characteristics may consist of a series resistor of suitable rating, or other similar device.

16-008 Low-Energy Power Circuits. For the purposes of this Section, circuits which are neither remote-control circuits nor signal circuits, but in which the current is limited in accordance with Rule 16-006, shall be classed as low-energy power circuits and shall be considered to be Class 2 circuits.

16-010 Extra-Low-Voltage Power Circuits. For the purposes of this Section, circuits such as valve operators, etc., which are neither remote-control circuits nor signal circuits, but which operate at not more than 30 volts where the current is not limited in accordance with Rule 16-006, and which are supplied from a transformer or other device restricted in its rated output to 1,000 volt-amperes and approved for the purpose, shall be classed as extra-low-voltage power circuits and shall be considered to be Class 1 circuits.

16-012 Safety Control Devices. Notwithstanding paragraph (b) of Rule 16-004, where the failure to operate of a remote control circuit to a safety control device will introduce a direct fire or life hazard, the remote control circuit shall be deemed to be a Class 1 circuit.

16-014 Circuits in Communication Cables. Remote-control circuits and signal circuits which use conductors in a cable assembly with other conductors forming parts of communication circuits are, for the purposes of this Code, deemed to be communication circuits and are covered by Section 60 of this Code

Class 1 Circuits

16-016 Methods of Installation for Class 1 Circuits. The conductors and equipment of Class 1 circuits shall be installed in accordance with the requirements of other appropriate Sections of this Code, except as provided in Rules 16-018 to 16-032.

16-018 Conductor Sizes. No. 18 and No. 16 AWG copper conductors may be used in Class 1 circuits:

(a) If installed in a raceway or a cable approved for the purpose; or

(b) If flexible cords in accordance with Rule 4-010.

16-020 Insulated Conductors for Class 1 Circuit Wiring

(1) Where conductors larger than No. 16 AWG are used in a Class 1 circuit, they shall be of any type shown in Table 19.

(2) Where fixture wires of No. 18 or No. 16 AWG are used in a Class 1 circuit, they shall be of types suitable for such use as indicated in Table 11.

16-022 Mechanical Protection of Remote-Control Circuits. Where mechanical damage to a remote-control circuit would result in a hazardous condition as outlined in Rule 16-012, all conductors of such remote-control circuits shall be installed in conduit, electrical metallic tubing, or be otherwise suitably protected from mechanical injury or other injurious condition such as moisture, excessive heat, or corrosive action.

16-024 Overcurrent Protection of Class 1 Circuit. Conductors of Class 1 circuits shall be protected against overcurrent in accordance with Section 14 of this Code, except:

(a) Where other rules of this Code specifically permit or require other overcurrent protection;

(b) Where the conductors are of No. 18 or No. 16 AWG, they shall be deemed to be protected when overcurrent devices rated or set at not more than 15 amperes are used;

(c) Where Class 1 circuits have main and "tap-off" circuits and the operating voltage does not exceed 30 volts, the "tap-off" circuits need not be individually protected against overcurrent, provided that the main circuit overcurrent device also affords protection for the "tap-off" circuits; or

(d) Where the current is limited in a Class 1 circuit by means of overcurrent protection, both the protection and its mounting shall be approved for that purpose.

16-026 Location of Overcurrent Devices in Class 1 Circuits

(1) In Class 1 circuits, the overcurrent devices shall be located at the point where the conductor to be protected receives its supply.

(2) Where the overcurrent device protecting a larger conductor also protects a smaller conductor, overcurrent devices may be dispensed with in the smaller conductor.

16-028 Class 1 Circuits Extending Aerially Beyond a Building. Class 1 circuits which extend aerially beyond a building shall comply with Rules 12-248 to 12-266, inclusive.

16-030 Grounding of Class 1 Circuits. Class 1 circuits shall be grounded in accordance with and when required by the provisions of Section 10.

16-032 Transformers Supplying Class 1 Circuits

(1) Transformer devices supplying Class 1 circuits shall be approved for the purpose.

(2) Where overcurrent protection is installed at the secondary terminals of the transfomer and the transformer is suitably enclosed, no overcurrent protection is required on the primary side other than the normal overcurrent protection of the branch circuit supplying the transformer.

(3) Transformer devices supplying Class 1 extra-low-voltage power circuits, where the operating voltage is limited to not more than 30 volts, shall be restricted in their rated output to not more than 1,000 volt-amperes.

(4) For the purpose of Subrule (3) a transformer shall be considered to have a 1,000 volt-ampere rating if the approximate temperature limit is reached at a 1,000 volt-ampere load.

Class 2 Circuits

16-034 Methods of Installation on Supply Side of Overcurrent Protection or Energy-Limiting Transformers or Other Devices for Class 2 Circuits

(1) In Class 2 circuits, the conductors and equipment on the supply side of overcurrent protection, transformers, or current-limiting devices shall be installed in accordance with the requirements of other appropriate Sections of this Code.

(2) Where the transformers or other devices are supplied from electric lighting and power circuits, the transformers or devices shall be protected on the supply side by an overcurrent device rated or set in accordance with Section 26 of this Code, but in no case exceeding 15 amperes.

16-036 Methods of Installation on Load Side of Overcurrent Protection, etc. for Class 2 Circuits

(1) In Class 2 circuits, the conductors on the load side of overcurrent protection, transformers, or current-limiting devices shall be insulated and separated from the conductors of electric lighting and power circuits.

(2) Conductors of Class 2 circuits not contained in grounded metallic raceways, conduit, or metallic-sheathed cable, shall be separated by at least 2 inches from any conductors of an electric light or power system unless:

(a) The electric light or power conductors are contained in a raceway; or

(b) Either system is encased in approved, non-metallic, flexible tubing, or in porcelain tubes or an equivalent device, in addition to the insulation on the conductors.

(3) The conductors in a Class 2 circuit shall not be placed in any raceway, compartment, outlet, junction box, or similar fitting with the conductors of:

(a) A Class 1 circuit; or

(b) Lighting and power circuits, unless the conductors of the two systems are separated by a suitable barrier.

(4) Subrule (3) shall not apply where the conductors of a power circuit are in the raceway, compartment, outlet, junction box, or similar fitting for the sole purpose of supplying power to the Class 2 circuit, except that no Class 2 conductor installed in a raceway compartment, outlet box, junction box, or similar fitting with such conductors of a power circuit shall show a green-coloured insulation, unless such Class 2 conductor is completely enclosed within a sheathed or jacketed cable assembly throughout the length that is present in such raceway or enclosure.

(5) The conductors of a Class 2 circuit may be run in the same shaft with conductors for lighting and power circuits where:

(a) The two systems are separated by at least 2 inches; or

(b) The conductors of either systems are encased in non-metallic flexible tubing.

(6) Where the conductors of a Class 2 circuit are installed in a hoistway, the conductors shall be installed in rigid conduit or electrical metallic tubing, or mineral-insulated or aluminum-sheathed cable shall be used; but, if the mineral-insulated or aluminum-sheathed cable has a non-metallic jacket over the metal sheath, the jacket shall be flame-retarding and moisture resistant.

(7) The kind of insulation for the conductors of Class 2 circuits on the load side of overcurrent protection, transformers or current-limiting devices shall be:

(a) For Class 2 circuits operating at 30 volts or less, acceptable for the particular application, but is not specified in further detail as reliance is placed upon current limitation to prevent dangerous currents;

(b) For Class 2 circuits operating at more than 30 volts, suitable for the voltage range and application, and approved for the purpose.

(8) Where 3 or more conductors are used, it is recommended that such conductors be grouped under a common covering except in the case of mineral-insulated cable.

(9) The equipment located on the load side of overcurrent protection, Class 2 transformers or current-limiting devices shall be:

(a) For Class 2 circuits operating at 30 volts or less, acceptable for the particular application;

(b) For Class 2 circuits operating at more than 30 volts, suitable for the voltage range and application, approved for the purpose, and arranged so that no energized metal parts are accessible to unauthorized persons.

(10) Where single conductors are used, they shall be of copper not smaller than No. 19 AWG.

16-038 Conductors in a Vertical Run. Where conductors of Class 2 circuits are in a vertical run in a shaft or partition, they shall:

(a) Have a fire-resistant covering capable of preventing the carrying of fire from floor to floor; or

(b) Be encased in tubing or other outer covering of non-combustible material; or

(c) Be located in a fireproof shaft having fire stops at each floor.

16-040 Class 2 Circuits Extending Beyond a Building. Where Class 2 circuits extend beyond a building and are run in such manner as to be subject to accidental contact with lighting or power conductors operating at a potential exceeding 300 volts between conductors, the conductors of the Class 2 circuit shall also meet the requirements of Section 60.

16-042 Overcurrent Protection and Mounting for Class 2 Circuits

(1) Where overcurrent protection is applied to Class 2 circuits in accordance with Rule 16-006, such protection and its mounting shall be approved for the purpose.

(2) Overcurrent protection of different ratings shall not be of an interchangeable type.

(3) The overcurrent protection may be an integral part of a transformer or other power-supply device approved for the purpose.

16-044 Grounding of Class 2 Circuits. Class 2 circuits shall be grounded in accordance with and wehn required by the provisions of Section 10.

SECTION 18—HAZARDOUS LOCATIONS

Scope and Introduction

18-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to locations in which electrical equipment and wiring are subject to the conditions indicated by the following classifications.

(2) This Section is supplementary to, or amendatory of, the general requirements of this Code.

18-002 Classification. Hazardous locations shall be classified according to the nature of the hazard, as follows:

(a) Class I locations are those in which flammable gases or vapours are or may be present in the air in quantities sufficient to produce explosive or ignitible mixtures;

(b) Class II locations are those which are hazardous because of the presence of combustible or electrically conductive dusts; or

(c) Class III locations are those which are hazardous because of the presence of easily ignitible fibres or flyings, but in which such fibres or flyings are not likely to be in suspension in air in quantities sufficient to produce ignitible mixtures.

18-004 Division of Class I Locations. Class I locations shall be further divided into two divisions as follows:

(a) Division 1, comprising Class I locations in which:

(i) Hazardous concentrations of flammable gases or vapours exist continuously, intermittently, or periodically under normal operating conditions;

(ii) Hazardous concentrations of flammable gases or vapours may exist frequently because of repair or maintenance operation or because of leakage; or

(iii) Equipment is operated or processes carried on of such nature that breakdown or faulty operation thereof could result in the release of hazardous concentrations of flammable gases or vapours and simultaneous failure of electrical equipment; and

(b) Division 2, comprising Class I locations in which:

(i) Flammable volatile liquids, flammable gases or vapours are handled, processed, or used, but in which the liquids, gases, or vapours are normally confined within closed containers or closed systems from which they can escape only as a result of accidental rupture or breakdown of the containers or systems or the abnormal operation of the equipment by which the liquids or gases are handled, processed or used;

(ii) Hazardous concentration of gases or vapours are normally prevented by positive mechanical ventilation, but which may become hazardous as the result of failure or abnormal operation of the ventilating equipment; or

(iii) The location is adjacent to a Class I Division 1, location, from which a hazardous concentration of gases or vapours could be communicated, unless such communication is prevented by adequate positive-pressure ventilation from a source of clean air, and effective safeguards against ventilation failure are provided.

18-006 Division of Class II Locations. Class II locations shall be further divided into two divisions as follows:

(a) Division 1, comprising Class II locations in which:

(i) Combustible dust is or may be in suspension in air continuously, intermittently ,or periodically under normal operating conditions in quantities sufficient to produce explosive or ignitible mixtures;

(ii) The normal or abnormal operation or the failure of equipment or apparatus might cause explosive or ignitible mixtures to be produced in, or in dangerous proximity to, electrical equipment or apparatus; or

(iii) Dusts having the property of conducting electricity may be present; and

(b) Division 2, comprising Class II locations in which combustible dusts are not normally in suspension in air or likely to be thrown into suspension by the normal or abnormal operation or the failure of equipment or apparatus in quantities sufficient to produce explosive or ignitible mixtures, but in which:

(i) Deposits or accumulations of dust may be sufficient to interfere with the safe dissipation of heat from electrical equipment or apparatus; or

(ii) Deposits or accumulations of dust on, in, or near electrical equipment may be ignited by arcs, sparks, or burning material from the electrical equipment.

18-008 Division of Class III Locations. Class III locations shall be further divided into two divisions as follows:

(a) Division I, comprising Class III locations in which readily ignitible fibres or materials producing combustible flyings are handled, manufactured, or used; and

(b) Division 2, comprising Class III locations in which readily ignitible fibres other than those in process of manufacture are stored or handled.

General

18-010 Electrical Equipment

(1) Where electrical equipment is required by this Section to be approved for the class of location, it shall also be approved for the specific gas, vapour, or dust that will be present.

(2) Such approval may be indicated by one or more of the following atmospheric group designations which have been established for the purposes of testing and approval:

(a) Group A, comprising atmospheres containing Acetylene;

(b) Group B, comprising atmospheres containing hydrogen, or gases or vapours of equivalent hazard such as manufactured gas;

(c) Group C, comprising atmospheres containing ethyl-ether vapours, ethylene, cyclopropane, or other gases or vapours of equivalent hazard;

(d) Group D, comprising atmospheres containing gasoline, hexane, naphtha, benzene, butane, propane, alcohol, acetone, benzol, lacquer-solvent vapours, natural gas, or other gases or vapours of equivalent hazard;

(e) Group E, comprising atmospheres containing metal dust, including aluminum, magnesium, and their commercial alloys, and other metals of similarly hazardous characteristics;

(f) Group F, comprising atmospheres containing carbon black, coal, or coke dust; or

(g) Group G, comprising atmospheres containing flour, starch, or grain dust, and other dusts of similarly hazardous characteristics.

18-012 Marking. Electrical equipment approved for use in hazardous locations shall be so marked to indicate the class and group, or the specific gas, vapour, or dust, for which the equipment has been approved.

18-014 Non-essential Electrical Equipment

(1) No electrical equipment shall be used in a hazardous location, unless it is essential to the processes being carried on therein.

(2) Service equipment, panelboards, switchboards, and similar electrical equipment shall, where practicable, be located in rooms or sections of the building in which hazardous conditions do not exist.

18-016 Rooms, Sections, or Areas. Each room, section, or area, including motor- and generator-rooms and rooms for the enclosure of control equipment shall be considered as a separate location for the purpose of determining the classification of the hazard.

18-018 Equipment Rooms

(1) Where walls, partitions, floors or ceilings are used to form hazard-free rooms or sections, they shall be:

(a) Of substantial construction;

(b) Built of or lined with noncombustible material; and

(c) Such as to ensure that the rooms or sections will remain free from hazards.

(2) Where a non-hazardous location communicates with a Class II or Class III location, the locations shall be separated by fire-resisting, substantially dust-tight, self-closing doors.

18-020 Surge Protection. A wiring system in a hazardous location shall be protected against surges by:

(a) Approved lightning arresters;

(b) The interconnection of both high- and low-voltage arrester grounding wires and dead metal of the wiring system; and

(c) Approved surge-protective electrical capacitors.

18-022 Mineral-Insulated Cable

(1) Where mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type is used in hazardous locations, the cable terminations shall be made by experienced workmen strictly in accordance with the cable manufacturer's instructions, which shall include an insulation resistance test before the cable is energized to assure that moisture has not entered the mineral insulation prior to the application of the pot seal, and that the conductors have not been short-circuited or grounded while the seal was being prepared.

(2) Where single conductor aluminum-sheathed cable or mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type is used in hazardous locations, it shall be installed in such a manner as to prevent sparking between cable sheaths or between cable sheaths and ground, and:

(a) Cables in the circuit shall be clipped or strapped together, in a manner which will ensure good electrical contact between sheaths, at intervals of not more than 6 feet, and the metal sheaths shall be grounded; or

(b) Cables in the circuit shall have the metal sheaths continuously covered with insulating material and the metal sheaths shall be bonded and grounded at one end only.

(3) Where mineral-insulated heating cable is used in hazardous locations it shall be specifically approved for the purpose and the hazardous location.

18-024 Motor Overheating Protection. Where 3-phase 3-wire motors are used in hazardous locations and the motor circuit is supplied by:

(a) Wye-delta connected transformers having the wye neutral point ungrounded or not connected to the circuit; or

(b) Delta-wye connected transformers, an overload protective device having three tripping elements, one in each lead, shall be provided, unless the motor is otherwise adequately protected against overheating.

18-026 Air Pressurized Electric Wiring Systems

By special permission, electrical equipment and associated wiring in Class I locations may be so constructed and arranged as to maintain a positive air pressure or inert gas pressure within the enclosures of the electrical equipment and associated wiring, in which case the provisions of Rules 18-032 to 18-094 of this Code need not apply, but such installations shall be made to the satisfaction of the inspection department.

18-028 Intrinsically Safe Electrical Equipment and Wiring

(1) Electrical equipment and associated wiring approved as intrinsically safe may be installed in any hazardous location for which it is approved, and the provisions of Rules 18-032 to 18-214 of this Code need not apply.

(2) Raceways for intrinsically safe wiring and equipment in Class I locations shall be properly sealed to prevent migration of gas or vapour into enclosures or raceways required to be explosion-proof, as well as to other locations.

(3) The conductors in an intrinsically safe circuit shall not be placed in any raceway, compartment, outlet, junction box, or similar fitting with the conductors of any other system, unless the conductors of the two systems are separated by a suitable barrier.

18-030 Cabletroughs and Ventilated Flexible Cableway. Cabletroughs and ventilated flexible cableway shall not be used to support cables in hazardous locations except where:

(a) The type of cable is approved in rules of this Section for use in the particular hazardous location;

(b) The type of cable is approved for use in cabletroughs and ventilated flexible cableway in accordance with Rules 12-426 and 12-462 respectively; and

(c) There can be no hazardous accumulation of combustible process dust or fibre in or upon the cable, the cabletrough, the ventilated flexible cableway, or the supports.

Class I Locations

Installation in Class I, Division 1 Locations

18-032 Transformers and Capacitors, Class I, Division 1

(1) Transformers and electrical capacitors which contain a liquid that will burn shall be installed in electrical equipment vaults in accordance with Rules 26-156 to 26-170, and:

(a) There shall be no door or other connecting opening between the vault and the hazardous area;

(b) The vault shall be so ventilated as to ensure the continuous removal of hazardous gases or vapours;

(c) Vent-openings or vent-ducts shall lead to a safe location outside the building containing the vault;

(d) Vent-openings and vent-ducts shall be of sufficient area to relieve pressure caused by explosions within the vault; and

(e) Every portion of a vent-duct within the building shall be constructed of reinforced concrete.

(2) Transformers and electrical capacitors which do not contain a liquid that will burn shall be:

(a) Installed in electrical equipment vaults conforming to Subrule (1); or

(b) Of explosion-proof type approved for Class I locations.

18-034 Meters, Instruments, and Relays, Class I, Division 1

(1) Where practicable, meters, instruments, and relays, including kilowatt-hour meters, instrument transformers and resistors, rectifiers and thermionic tubes shall be located outside the hazardous location.

(2) Where it is not practicable to install meters, instruments, and relays outside Class I, Division 1 locations, they shall be provided with explosion-proof enclosures approved for Class I locations.

18-036 Wiring Methods, Class I, Division 1

(1) The wiring method shall be threaded rigid metal conduit or mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type with termination fittings approved for the location.

(2) All boxes, fittings, and joints shall be threaded for connection to conduit or cable terminations, and shall be explosion-proof with boxes and fittings approved for Class I locations.

(3) Threaded joints shall have at least 5 full threads fully engaged, and running threads shall not be used for coupling lengths of conduit.

(4) Mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type shall be installed and supported in a manner to avoid tensile stress at the termination fittings.

(5) Where it is necessary to use flexible connections at motor terminals and similar places, flexible fittings of the explosion-proof type approved for the location shall be used.

18-038 Sealing, Class I, Division 1

(1) Seals shall be provided in conduit systems to prevent the passage of gases, vapours or flames from one portion of the electrical installation to another through the conduit.

(2) Passage of gases, vapours or flames through mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type is inherently prevented by construction of the cable, but sealing compound shall be used in cable termination fittings to exclude moisture and other fluids from the cable insulation, and shall be of a type approved for the conditions of use.

(3) Seals shall be located:

(a) In each run of conduit entering an enclosure for switches, circuit breakers, fuses, relays, resistors, or other apparatus which may produce arcs, sparks, or high temperatures and shall be as close as practicable to and in any case not more than 18 inches from the enclosure;

(b) In each run of conduit of 2-inch size or larger entering an enclosure, terminal box or junction-box within 18 inches of the enclosure or box; and

(c) In each run of conduit leaving a Class I, Division 1 location with no box, coupling, or fitting in the conduit run between the seal and the point at which the conduit leaves the location.

(4) Where seals are required, they shall conform to the following:

(a) Sealing compound shall be approved for the purpose, shall not be affected by the surrounding atmosphere or liquids, and shall not have a melting point of less than 93° C. (200° F.);

(b) In the completed seal, the minimum thickness of the sealing compound shall be not less than the trade size of the conduit, and in no case less than $\frac{5}{8}$ inch;

(c) Enclosures for connections or for equipment shall be provided with approved integral means for sealing, or sealing fittings approved for the location shall be used;

(d) Splices and taps shall not be made in fittings intended only for sealing with compound, nor shall other fittings in which splices or taps are made be filled with compound;

(e) Where there is a probability that liquid or other condensed vapour may be trapped within enclosures for control equipment or at any point in the raceway system, approved means shall be provided to prevent accumulation or to permit periodic draining of such liquid or condensed vapour; and

(f) Where the authority enforcing this Code judges that there is a probability that liquid or condensed vapour may accumulate within motors or generators, joints and conduit systems shall be arranged to minimize entrance of liquid, but if means to prevent accumulation or permit periodic draining are judged necessary, such means shall be provided at the time of manufacture, and shall be deemed an integral part of the machine.

18-040 Switches, Motor Controllers, Circuit-Breakers and Fuses, Class I, Division 1. Switches, motor controllers, circuit-breakers and fuses, including push buttons, relays, and similar devices shall be provided with enclosures, and the enclosure in each case together with the enclosed apparatus shall be approved as a complete assembly for use in Class I locations.

18-042 Control Transformers and Resistors, Class I, Division 1. Transformers, impedance coils and resistors used as or in conjunction with control equipment for motors, generators and appliances and the switching mechanism, if any, associated with them, shall be provided with explosion-proof enclosures approved for Class I locations.

18-044 Motors and Generators, Class I, Division 1. Motors, generators and other rotating electrical machines shall be of the explosion-proof type approved for Class I locations.

18-046 Lighting Fixtures, Class I, Division 1

(1) Fixtures for fixed and portable lighting shall be approved as complete assemblies for Class I locations and shall be clearly marked to indicate the maximum wattage of lamps for which they are approved.

(2) Fixtures intended for portable use shall be specifically approved as complete assemblies for that use.

(3) Each fixture shall be protected against physical damage by a suitable guard or by location.

(4) Pendent fixtures shall be:

(a) Suspended by and supplied through threaded rigid conduit stems, and threaded joints shall be provided with set screws or other effective means to prevent loosening;

(b) For stems longer than 12 inches, provided with permanent and effective bracing against lateral displacement at a level not more than 12 inches above the lower end of the stem, or provided with flexibility in the form of a fitting or flexible connector approved for the purpose and for the location not more than 12 inches from the point of attachment to the supporting box or fitting.

(5) Boxes, box assemblies or fittings used for the support of lighting fixtures shall be approved for the purpose and for Class I locations.

18-048 Utilization Equipment, Fixed and Portable, Class I, Division 1. Utilization equipment, fixed and portable, including electrically-heated and motor-driven equipment, shall be approved for Class I locations.

18-050 Flexible Cords, Class I, Division 1. Flexible cords may be used only for connection between a portable lamp or other portable utilization equipment and the fixed portion of its supply circuit and where used shall:

(a) Be of a type approved for extra hard usage;

(b) Contain, in addition to the conductors of the circuit, a grounding conductor;

(c) Be connected to terminals or to supply conductors in an approved manner;

(d) Be supported by clamps or by other suitable means in such a manner that there will be no tension on the terminal connections; and

(e) Be provided with acceptable seals at the places where the flexible cord enters a box, fitting or enclosure of the explosion-proof type.

18-052 Receptacles and Attachment Plugs, Class I, Division 1. Receptacles and attachment plugs shall be of the type providing for connection to the grounding conductor of the flexible cord, and shall be approved for Class I locations.

18-054 Conductor Insulation, Class I, Division 1. Where condensed vapours or liquids may collect on or come in contact with the insulation on conductors, such insulation shall be of a type approved for use under such conditions or the insulation shall be protected by a sheath of lead or by other approved means.

18-056 Signalling, Alarm, Remote-Control, and Communication Systems, Class I, Division 1

(1) Where all or part of the apparatus and equipment of signalling, alarm, remote-control, and communication systems of any voltage is contained in Class I, Division 1 locations, the apparatus and equipment shall be approved for Class I locations.

(2) The wiring of the system shall comply with Rule 18-036.

18-058 Live Parts, Class I, Division 1. No live parts of electrical equipment or of an electrical installation shall be exposed.

18-060 Grounding and Bonding, Class I, Division 1

(1) Exposed non-current-carrying metal parts of electrical equipment, including the frames or metal exteriors of motors, fixed or portable lamps or other utilization equipment, lighting fixtures, cabinets, cases, and conduit shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

(2) Wherever bonding is necessary, including the bonding of conduit in a non-hazardous location used to ground non-current-carrying metal parts in hazardous locations, bonding jumpers with proper fittings or other approved means shall be used, and the locknut and bushing or double-locknut types of contact shall not constitute proper bonding.

Installation in Class I, Division 2 Locations

18-062 Transformers and Capacitors, Class I, Division 2. Transformers and capacitors shall conform to Section 26 of this Code.

18-064 Meters, Instruments, and Relays, Class I, Division 2

(1) Where practicable, meters, instruments, and relays, including kilowatt-hour meters, instrument transformers and resistors, rectifiers and thermionic tubes, shall be located outside the hazardous location.

(2) Where it is not practicable to install meters, instruments, and relays outside Class I, Division 2 locations, they shall conform to the following:

(a) Meters, instruments, and relays in which are incorporated contacts for making or breaking current shall be provided with explosion-proof enclosures approved for Class I locations, but general-purpose enclosures may be used where the contacts are:

(i) Immersed in oil; or

(ii) Enclosed within a chamber hermetically sealed against the entrance of gases or vapours; or

(iii) In acceptable non-incendive circuits;

(b) Resistors, resistance devices, thermionic tubes, and rectifiers, which are used in or in connection with meters, instruments, and relays, shall be provided with explosion-proof enclosures approved for Class I locations, except that enclosures may be of the general-purpose type when such equipment is without make and break or sliding contacts (other than contacts used in conjunction with thermo-couples or in other non-incendive circuits) and when in the opinion of an inspector the maximum operating temperature of any exposed surface will not exceed 80 per cent of the ignition temperature in degrees Centigrade of the gas or vapour present;

(c) Transformer windings, impedance coils, solenoids, and other windings which do not incorporate sliding, or make and break contacts, shall be provided with enclosures which may be of the general-purpose type where vents adequate to permit prompt escape of any gases or vapours are provided; and

(d) Where an assembly is made up of components for which general-purpose enclosures are acceptable by this Rule:

(i) A single general-purpose enclosure may be provided for the assembly; and

(ii) Where such an assembly includes any of the equipment described in paragraph (b) the maximum obtainable surface temperature of any component of the assembly shall be clearly and permanently indicated on the outside of the enclosure, unless the complete assembly is approved for the location.

18-066 Wiring Methods, Class I, Division 2

(1) The wiring method shall be threaded rigid metal conduit, or mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type with termination fittings approved for Class I locations.

(2) Mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type shall be installed and supported in a manner to avoid tensile stress at the termination fittings.

(3) Where it is necessary to use flexible connections at motor terminals and similar places, flexible conduit may be used.

(4) Boxes, fittings and joints need not be explosion-proof except as required by Rule 18-068(4).

18-068 Sealing, Class I, Division 2

(1) Seals shall be provided in conduit systems to prevent the passage of gases, vapours, or flames from one portion of the electrical installation to another through the conduit.

(2) Passage of gases, vapours, or flames through mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type is inherently prevented by construction of the cable, but sealing compound shall be used in cable termination fittings to exclude moisture and other fluids from the cable insulation, and shall be of a type approved for the conditions of use.

(3) Seals shall be located:

(a) In each run of conduit entering an enclosure which is required to be explosion-proof, as close as practicable to, and in any case not more than 18 inches from, the enclosures; and

(b) In each run of conduit leaving the hazardous location with no box, coupling, or fitting in the conduit run between the seal and the point at which the conduit leaves the location.

(4) Where a run of conduit enters an enclosure which is required to be explosion-proof, every part of the conduit from the seal to the explosion-proof enclosure shall comply with Rule 18-036.

(5) Where seals are required, Rule 18-038 (4) shall apply.

18-070 Switches, Controllers, and Circuit Breakers Class I, Division 2. Where circuit breakers, controllers and switches are intended to interrupt electrical current in the normal performance of the function for which they are installed, they shall be provided with enclosures approved for Class I locations, unless general-purpose enclosures are provided and:

(a) The interruption of current occurs within a chamber hermetically sealed against the entrance of gases and vapours; or

(b) The current-interrupting contacts are immersed in oil, and the device is approved for locations of this class and division.

18-072 Isolating Switches, Class 1, Division 2. Isolating switches shall conform to the following:

(a) They shall be so interlocked with their associated current-interrupting devices that they cannot be opened under load; and

(b) They may have enclosures of the general-purpose type, provided they are unfused.

18-074 Fuses for Motors, Appliances, and Portable Lamps, Class I, Division 2. Where fuses are used in Class I, Division 2 locations for the protection of motors, appliances, and portable lamps:

(a) A standard plug fuse or cartridge fuse may be used if placed within an explosion-proof enclosure approved for the class of the location; or

(b) A fuse of a type in which the operating element is immersed in oil or other approved liquid, or is enclosed within a chamber hermetically sealed against the entrance of gases and vapours, may be used if approved for the purpose and placed within a general-purpose enclosure.

18-076 Sets of Fuses or Circuit Breakers for Fixed Lighting, Class I, Division 2.

(1) In this Rule, "sets of fuses" means a group containing as many fuses as are required to perform a single protective function in a circuit, but excluding fuses conforming to Rule 18-074.

(2) Where:

(a) Not more than 10 sets of approved enclosed fuses; or

(b) Not more than 10 circuit breakers which are not used as switches for the normal operation of the lamps, are installed in Class I, Division 2 locations for the protection of a branch circuit or a feeder circuit which supplies only lamps in a fixed position, the enclosures for the fuses or circuit breakers may be of the general-purpose type.

18-078 Control Transformers and Resistors, Class I, Division 2

(1) Where switching mechanisms are used in conjunction with transformers, impedance coils, or resistors, they shall comply with Rule 18-070.

(2) The enclosures for the windings of transformers or impedance coils may be of the general-purpose type but shall be provided with vents adequate to permit the prompt escape of gases or vapours which may enter the enclosure.

(3) Resistors shall be provided with explosion-proof enclosures approved as complete assemblies with the resistors for Class I locations unless the resistance is non-variable and in the opinion of an inspector the maximum operating temperature in degrees Centigrade will not exceed 80 per cent of the ignition temperature of the gas or vapour present.

18-080 Motors and Generators, Class I, Division 2.

(1) Motors, generators, and other rotating electrical machines, in which are incorporated arcing or spark producing components or integral resistance devices shall be of the explosionproof type approved for Class I locations unless the arcing or spark producing components or integral resistance devices are provided with enclosures approved for Class I locations.

(2) Motors, generators, and other rotating electrical machines which do not incorporate arcing or spark producing components or integral resistance devices may be of the open or non-explosionproof type.

18-082 Lighting Fixtures, Class I, Division 2

(1) Lighting fixtures shall conform to the following:

(a) Portable lamps shall conform to Rule 18-046 (1) and (2); and

(b) Fixed lighting:

(i) Shall be protected from physical damage by acceptable guards or by location;

(ii) Shall be approved as complete assemblies for Class I, Division 2 locations and shall be clearly marked to indicate the maximum wattage, voltage, and specific type designations of the lamps for which they are approved.

(2) Pendent fixtures shall be:

(a) Suspended by threaded rigid conduit stems or by other approved means;

(b) For stems longer than 12 inches, provided with permanent and effective bracing against lateral displacement at a level not more than 12 inches above the lower end of the stem, or flexibility in the form of a fitting or flexible connector approved for the purpose shall be provided not more than 12 inches from the point of attachment to the supporting box or fitting.

(3) Boxes, box assemblies, or fittings used for the support of lighting fixtures shall be approved for the purpose.

(4) Switches which are part of an assembled fixture or of an individual lampholder shall conform to Rule 18-070.

(5) Starting and control equipment for mercury-vapour and fluorescent lamps shall conform to Rule 18-078.

18-084 Utilization Equipment, Fixed and Portable, Class I, Division 2

(1) Electrically heated utilization equipment, whether fixed or portable, shall be approved for Class I locations.

(2) Motors of motor-driven utilization equipment shall conform to Rule 18-080.

(3) Switches, circuit breakers, and fuses forming part of or used in connection with utilization equipment shall conform to Rules 18-074.

18-086 Flexible Cords, Class I, Division 2. Flexible cords shall conform to Rule 18-050.

18-088 Receptacles and Attachment Plugs, Class I, Division 2. Receptacles and attachment plugs shall conform to Rule 18-052.

18-090 Signalling, Alarm, Remote Control, and Communication Systems, Class I, Division 2

(1) Switches and circuit breakers, and make-and-break contacts of push buttons, relays, and alarm bells or horns shall have explosion-proof enclosures approved for Class I locations, unless general-purpose enclosures are provided and current-interrupting contacts are:

(a) Immersed in oil; or

(b) Enclosed within a chamber hermetically sealed against the entrance of gases or vapours; or

(c) In acceptable non-incendive circuits.

(2) Resistors, resistance devices, thermionic tubes, and rectifiers used in a Class I, Division 2 location shall conform to Rule 18-064 (2) (b).

(3) Enclosures, which may be of the general-purpose type, shall be provided for lightning protective devices and for fuses.

18-092 Live Parts, Class I, Division 2. No live parts of electrical equipment or of an electrical installation shall be exposed.

18-094 Grounding and Bonding, Class I, Division 2

(1) Electrical equipment shall be grounded in the manner required by Rule 18-060.

(2) Where flexible conduit is used as permitted in Rule 18-066 (3), bonding jumpers with proper fittings shall be provided around such conduit.

Class II Locations

Installations in Class II, Division 1 Locations

18-096 Transformers and Capacitors, Class II, Division 1

(1) Transformers and electrical capacitors which contain a liquid that will burn shall be installed in electrical equipment vaults in accordance with Rules 26-156 to 26-170, and:

(a) Doors or other openings communicating with the hazardous area shall have self-closing fire doors on both sides of the wall, and the doors shall be carefully fitted and provided with suitable seals (such as weather stripping) to minimize the entrance of dust into the vault;

(b) Vent openings and ducts shall communicate only with the air outside the building; and

(c) Suitable pressure-relief openings communicating only with the air outside the building shall be provided.

(2) Transformers and electrical capacitors which do not contain a liquid that will burn shall be:

(a) Installed in electrical equipment vaults conforming to Subrule (1); or

(b) Approved as a complete assembly including terminal connections for Class II locations.

(3) No transformer or capacitor shall be installed in a location where dust from magnesium, aluminum, aluminum bronze powders, or other metals of similarly hazardous characteristics may be present.

18-098 Wiring Methods, Class II, Division 1

(1) The wiring methods shall be threaded rigid metal conduit, mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type with termination fittings approved for the location, or aluminum-sheathed cable with termination fittings approved for the location.

(2) Boxes, fittings and joints shall be threaded for connection to conduit or cable terminations, and boxes and fittings shall be approved for Class II locations.

(3) Mineral-insulated cable other than the lightweight type and aluminum-sheathed cable shall be installed and supported in a manner to avoid tensile stress at the termination fittings.

(4) Where it is necessary to use flexible connections, flexible connection fittings approved for the location, or flexible cord approved for extra-hard usage and provided with bushed fittings on each end approved for the location shall be used.

(5) Where flexible connections are subject to oil or other corrosive conditions, the insulation of the conductors shall be of a type approved for the condition or shall be protected by means of a suitable sheath.

(6) Where flexible cords are used, they shall incorporate a grounding conductor.

18-100 Sealing, Class II, Division 1. Where a raceway provides communication between an enclosure which is required to be dust-tight and one which is not, the entrance of dust into the dust-tight enclosure through the raceway shall be prevented by:

(a) A permanent and effective seal;

(b) A horizontal section not less than 10 feet long in the raceway; or

(c) A vertical section of raceway not less than 5 feet long and extending downward from the dust-tight enclosure.

18-102 Switches, Controllers, Circuit Breakers, and Fuses, Class II, Division 1. Switches, motor controllers, circuit breakers, and fuses, including push buttons, relays, and similar devices shall be provided with a dust-tight enclosure approved for Class II locations.

18-104 Control Transformers and Resistors, Class II, Division 1. Transformers, impedance coils, and resistors used as or in conjunction with control equipment for motors, generators or electric appliances and the overcurrent devices or switching mechanisms, if any, associated with them shall be provided with a dust-tight enclosure approved for Class II locations.

18-106 Motors and Generators, Class II, Division 1. Motors, generators, and other rotating electrical machines shall be approved for Class II locations.

18-108 Ventilating Pipes, Class II, Division 1

(1) Every vent pipe for a motor, generator, or other rotating electrical machine or for enclosures for electrical apparatus or equipment shall:

(a) Be of metal or of an equally substantial noncombustible material;

(b) If of metal, be not less than 0.0209 inch (No. 24 MSG) thick;

(c) Lead directly to a source of clean air outside a building;

(d) Be screened at the outer end to prevent the entrance of animals or birds; and

(e) Be protected against mechanical damage and corrosion.

(2) Every vent pipe and its connection to a motor or to a dust-tight enclosure for other equipment or apparatus shall be dust-tight throughout its entire length.

(3) The seams and joints of every metal vent pipe shall be:

(a) Riveted and soldered;

(b) Bolted and soldered;

(c) Welded; or

(d) Rendered dust-tight by some other equally effective means.

(4) No exhaust pipe shall discharge inside a building.

18-112 Lighting Fixtures, Class II, Division 1

(1) Fixtures for fixed and portable lighting shall be approved as complete assemblies for Class II locations and shall be clearly marked to indicate the maximum wattage of lamps for which they are approved.

(2) Fixtures intended for portable use shall be specifically approved as complete assemblies for that use.

(3) Each fixture shall be protected against physical damage by a suitable guard or by location.

(4) Pendent fixtures shall be:

(a) Suspended by threaded rigid conduit stems or chains with approved fittings or by other approved means which shall not include a flexible cord as the supporting medium, and threaded joints shall be provided with set screws or other effective means to prevent loosening;

(b) For rigid stems longer than 12 inches, provided with permanent and effective bracing against lateral displacement at a level not more than 12 inches above the lower end of the stem, or provided with flexibility in the form of a fitting or flexible connector approved for the purpose and for the location not more than 12 inches from the point of attachment to the supporting box or fitting; and

(c) Where wiring between an outlet box or fitting and the fixture is not enclosed in conduit, provided with a flexible cord approved for extra hard usage and suitable seals where the cord enters the fixture and the outlet box or fitting.

(5) Boxes, box assemblies or fittings used for the support of lighting fixtures shall be approved for the purpose and Class II locations.

18-114 Flexible Cords, Class II, Division 1. Flexible cords used shall:

(a) Be of a type approved for extra hard usage;

(b) Contain a grounding conductor in addition to the conductors of the circuit;

(c) Be supported by clamps or by other suitable means so there is no tension on the terminal connections; and

(d) Be provided with suitable seals to prevent the entrance of dust at the point where the cord enters a box or fitting which is required by this Section to be dust-tight.

18-116 Receptacles and Attachment Plugs, Class II, Division 1. Receptacles and attachment plugs shall be approved for Class II locations.

18-118 Signalling, Alarm, Remote-Control, and Communication Systems, Class II, Division 1

(1) Where all or part of the apparatus and equipment of signalling, alarm, remote control, and communication systems is contained in Class II, Division 1 locations, the apparatus and equipment shall be provided with dust-tight enclosures approved for Class II locations, except that:

(a) Devices which carry or interrupt only a voice current need not be provided with such enclosures; and

(b) Current-breaking contacts which are immersed in oil or enclosed in a chamber sealed against the entrance of dust may be provided with a general-purpose enclosure if the prevailing dust is electrically non-conductive.

(2) The wiring of the system shall comply with Rule 18-098.

(3) Any number of conductors may be placed in a raceway but the cross-sectional area of all conductors in the raceway shall not exceed 40 per cent of the area of the raceway.

18-120 Live Parts, Class II, Division 1. No live parts of electrical equipment or of an electrical installation shall be exposed.

18-122 Grounding and Bonding, Class II, Division 1

Electrical equipment shall be grounded in the manner prescribed by Rule 18-060.

Installation in Class II, Division 2 Locations

18-124 Transformers and Capacitors, Class II, Division 2

(1) Transformers and electrical capacitors which contain a liquid that will burn shall be installed in electrical equipment vaults in accordance with Rules 26-156 to 26-170.

(2) Transformers and electrical capacitors which contain a liquid that will not burn shall be:

(a) Installed in electrical equipment vaults in accordance with Rules 26-156 to 26-170; or

(b) Approved for Class II locations.

(3) Dry core transformers installed in Class II, Division 2 locations shall:

(a) Be installed in electrical equipment vaults in accordance with Rules 26-156 to 26-170, or

(b) Have their windings and terminal connections enclosed in tight metal housings without ventilating or other openings and operate at not more than 750 volts.

18-126 Wiring Methods, Class II, Division 2

(1) The wiring method shall be rigid metal conduit, mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type with termination fittings approved for the location, or aluminum-sheathed cable with termination fittings approved for the location.

(2) Boxes and fittings in which taps, joints or terminal connections are made shall be designed to minimize the entrance of dust, and shall:

(a) Be provided with telescoping or close-fitting covers, or other effective means to prevent the escape of sparks or burning material; and

(b) Have no openings, such as holes for attachment screws, through which, after installation, sparks or burning material might escape, or through which exterior accumulations of dust or adjacent combustible material might be ignited.

(3) Mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type and aluminum-sheathed cable shall be installed and supported in a manner to avoid tensile stress at the termination fittings.

(4) Where it is necessary to use flexible connections the provisions of Rule 18-098 (4), (5), (6) shall apply.

18-128 Sealing, Class II Division 2. Sealing of raceways shall conform to Rule 18-100.

18-130 Switches, Controllers, Circuit Breakers, and Fuses, Class II, Division 2

(1) Except as provided by Subrule (2), switches, motor controllers, circuit breakers and fuses, including push buttons, relays and similar devices shall be provided with tight metal enclosures which shall be designed to minimize the entrance of dust, and which shall:

(a) Be equipped with telescoping or close-fitting covers, or with other effective means to prevent the escape of sparks or burning material; and

(b) Have no openings, such as holes for attachment screws, through which, after installation, sparks or burning material might escape, or through which exterior accumulations of dust or adjacent combustible material might be ignited.

(2) In locations where dust from magnesium, aluminum, aluminum bronze powders, or other metals of similarly hazardous characteristics may be present, switches, motor controllers, circuit breakers and fuses shall have dust-tight enclosures approved for such locations.

18-132 Control Transformers and Resistors, Class II, Division 2

(1) Switching mechanisms, including overcurrent devices, used in conjunction with control transformers, impedance coils, and resistors shall be provided with enclosures conforming to Rule 18-130.

(2) Where not located in the same enclosure with switching mechanisms, control transformers and impedance coils shall be provided with tight metal housings without ventilating openings.

(3) Resistors and resistance devices shall have dust-tight enclosures approved for Class II locations, except that where the maximum normal operating temperature of the resistor will not exceed 120°C. (248°F.), non-adjustable resistors and resistors which are part of an automatically timed starting sequence may have enclosures conforming to Subrule (2).

18-134 Motors and Generators, Class II, Division 2

(1) Except as provided in Subrule (2), motors, generators, and other rotating electrical machinery shall be:

(a) Totally enclosed non-ventilated;

(b) Totally enclosed pipe-ventilated; or

(c) Totally enclosed fan-cooled.

(2) Where, in the judgment of an inspector, only moderate quantities of non-conducting, non-abrasive dust are likely to accumulate in a location and the equipment in the location is readily accessible for routine maintenance, there may be installed in the location:

(a) Standard open-type machines without sliding contacts, centrifugal or other types of switching mechanism, including motor overcurrent devices or integral resistance-devices; or

(b) Standard open-type machines which have the contacts, switching mechanisms, or resistance devices enclosed in accordance with Rule 18-130.

18-136 Ventilation Pipes, Class II, Division 2

(1) Vent pipes for motors, generators, or other rotating electrical machinery, or for enclosures for electrical apparatus or equipment, shall conform to Rule 18-108 (1).

(2) Vent pipes and their connections shall be sufficiently tight to prevent the entrance of appreciable quantities of dust into the ventilated equipment or enclosure, and to prevent the escape of sparks, flame or burning material which might ignite accumulations of dust or combustible material in the vicinity.

(3) Where metal vent pipes are used, lock seams and riveted or welded joints may be used and, where some flexibility is necessary, as at connections to motors, tight-fitting slip joints may be used.

18-138 Utilization Equipment, Fixed and Portable, Class II, Division 2

(1) Electrically heated utilization equipment, whether fixed or portable, shall be approved for Class II locations.

(2) Motors of motor-driven utilization equipment shall conform to Rule 18-134.

(3) The enclosure for switches, circuit breakers, and fuses shall conform to Rule 18-130.

(4) Transformers, impedance coils, and resistors forming part of or used in connection with utilization equipment shall conform to Rule 18-132 (2), (3).

(5) Where portable utilization equipment may be used in Class II, Division 1 locations and in Class II, Division 2 locations, it shall conform to Rule 18-110.

18-140 Lighting Fixtures, Class II, Division 2

(1) Lighting fixtures shall conform to the following:

(a) Portable lamps shall be approved as complete assemblies for Class II locations and shall be clearly marked to indicate the maximum wattage of lamps for which they are approved; and

(b) Fixed lighting, shall:

(i) Be protected from physical damage by acceptable guards or by location;

(ii) Provide enclosures for lamps and lampholders which shall be designed to minimize the deposit of dust on lamps and to prevent the escape of sparks, burning material or hot metal;

(iii) Be clearly marked to indicate the maximum wattage of lamps for which they may be used without exceeding a maximum exposed surface temperature of 165°C. (329°F.) under normal conditions of use.

(2) Pendent fixtures shall be:

(a) Suspended by threaded rigid conduit stems or chains with approved fittings, or by other approved means, which shall not include flexible cord as the supporting medium;

(b) For rigid stems longer than 12 inches, provided with permanent and effective bracing against lateral displacement at a level not more than 12 inches above the lower end of the stem, or provided with flexibility in the form of a fitting or flexible connector approved for the purpose not more than 12 inches from the point of attachment to the supporting box or fitting; and

(c) Where wiring between an outlet box or fitting and the fixture is not enclosed in conduit, provided with a flexible cord approved for extra hard usage.

(3) Boxes, box assemblies or fittings used for the support of lighting fixtures shall be approved for that purpose.

(4) Starting and control equipment for mercury vapour and fluorescent lamps shall conform to Rule 18-132.

18-142 Flexible Cords, Class II, Division 2. Flexible cords shall conform to Rule 18-114.

18-144 Receptacles and Attachment Plugs, Class II, Division 2. Receptacles and attachment plugs shall be:

(a) Of a polarized type which affords automatic connection to the grounding conductor of the flexible supply cord; and

(b) Designed so that the connection to the supply circuit cannot be made or broken while live parts are exposed.

18-146 Signalling, Alarm, Remote Control, and Communication Systems, Class II, Division 2. Where all or part of the apparatus and equipment of signalling, alarm, remote control, and communication systems is contained in Class II, Division 2 locations:

(a) Contacts which interrupt other than voice currents shall be enclosed in conformity with Rule 18-130;

(b) The windings and terminal connections of transformers and choke coils which may carry other than voice currents shall be provided with tight metal enclosures without ventilating openings; and

(c) Resistors, resistance devices, thermionic tubes, and rectifiers which may carry other than voice currents shall be provided with dust-tight enclosures approved for Class II locations, except that where the maximum normal operating temperature of thermionic tubes, non-adjustable resistors or rectifiers will not exceed 120°C. (248°F.), such devices may have tight metal enclosures without ventilating openings.

18-148 Live Parts, Class II, Division 2. No live parts of electrical equipment or of an electrical installation shall be exposed.

18-150 Grounding and Bonding, Class II, Division 2. All electrical equipment shall be grounded in the manner required by Rule 18-060.

Class III Locations

Installation in Class III, Division 1 Locations

18-152 Transformers and Capacitors, Class III, Division 1. Transformers and electrical capacitors shall conform to Rule 18-124.

18-154 Wiring Methods, Class III, Division 1

(1) The wiring method shall be rigid metal conduit, mineral-insulated cable other than the light-weight type with termination fittings approved for the location, or aluminum-sheathed cable with termination fittings approved for the location.

(2) Boxes and fittings in which taps, joints, or terminal connections are made shall:

(a) Be provided with telescoping or close fitting covers, or other effective means to prevent the escape of sparks or burning material; and

(b) Have no openings, such as holes for attachment screws, through which, after installation, sparks or burning material might escape, or through which adjacent combustible material might be ignited.

(3) Where it is necessary to use flexible connections, the provisions of Rule 18-098 (4), (5), and (6) shall apply.

18-156 Switches, Controllers, Circuit Breakers and Fuses, Class III, Division 1. Switches, motor controllers, circuit breakers, and fuses, including push buttons, relays and similar devices, shall be provided with tight metal enclosures designed to minimize entrance of fibres and flyings, and which shall:

(a) Be equipped with telescoping or close fitting covers, or with other effective means to prevent escape of sparks or burning material; and

(b) Have no openings, such as holes for attachment screws, through which, after installation, sparks or burning material might escape or through which exterior accumulations of fibres or flyings or adjacent combustible material might be ignited.

18-158 Control Transformers and Resistors, Class III, Division 1. Transformers, impedance coils, and resistors used as or in conjunction with control equipment for motors, generators, and appliances, shall conform to Rule 18-132, with the exception that, when these devices are in the same enclosure with switching devices of such control equipment, and are used only for starting or short-time duty, the enclosure shall conform to the requirements of Rule 18-156.

18-160 Motors and Generators, Class III, Division I

(1) Except as provided in Subrule (2), motors, generators, and other rotating electrical machinery shall be:

(a) Totally enclosed non-ventilated;

(b) Totally enclosed pipe-ventilated; or

(c) Totally enclosed fan-cooled.

(2) Where, in the judgment of an inspector, only moderate accumulations of lint and flyings are likely to collect on, in, or in the vicinity of a rotating electrical machine and the machine is readily accessible for routine cleaning and maintenance, there may be installed in the location:

(a) Standard open-type machines without sliding contacts, centrifugal, or other types of switching mechanism, including motor overload devices;

(b) Standard open-type machines which have contacts, switching mechanisms, or resistance devices enclosed within tight metal housings without ventilating or other openings; or

(c) Self-cleaning textile motors of the squirrel-cage type.

(3) Motors, generators, or other rotating electrical machinery of the partially enclosed or splash-proof type shall not be installed in Class III locations.

18-162 Ventilating Pipes, Class III, Division 1

(1) Vent pipes for motors, generators, or other rotating electrical machinery or for enclosures for electrical apparatus or equipment shall conform to Rule 18-108 (1).

(2) Vent pipes and their connections shall be sufficiently tight to prevent the entrance of appreciable quantities of fibres or flyings into the ventilated equipment or enclosure, and to prevent the escape of sparks, flame, or burning material which might ignite accumulations of fibres or flyings or combustible material in the vicinity.

(3) Where metal vent pipes are used, lock seams and riveted or welded joints may be used and, where some flexibility is necessary, tight-fitting slip joints may be used.

18-164 Utilization Equipment, Fixed and Portable, Class III, Division 1

(1) Electrically heated utilization equipment, whether fixed or portable, shall be approved for Class III locations.

(2) Motors of a motor-driven utilization equipment shall conform to Rule 18-192.

(3) The enclosures for switches, motor controllers, circuit breakers, and fuses shall conform to Rule 18-156.

18-166 Lighting Fixtures, Class III, Division 1

(1) Lighting fixtures shall conform to the following:

(a) Portable lamps shall:

(i) Be equipped with handles;

(ii) Be protected with substantial guards;

(iii) Have lampholders of the unswitched type with no exposed metal parts and without provision for receiving attachment plugs; and

(iv) In all other aspects comply with Rule 18-166 (1) (b).

(b) Fixed lighting shall:

(i) Provide enclosures for lamps and lampholders which shall be designed to minimize entrance of fibres and flyings and to prevent the escape of sparks, burning material, or hot metal;

(ii) Be clearly marked to indicate the maximum wattage lamp which may be used without exceeding a maximum exposed surface temperature of 165°C. (329°F.) under normal conditions of use.

(2) Lighting fixtures which may be exposed to physical damage shall be protected by a suitable guard.

(3) Pendent fixtures shall comply with Rule 18-140 (2).

(4) Boxes, box assemblies or fittings used for the support of lighting fixtures shall be approved for that purpose.

(5) Starting and control equipment for mercury vapour and fluorescent lamps shall comply with Rule 18-158.

18-168 Flexible Cords, Class III, Division 1. Flexible cords shall comply with Rule 18-114.

18-170 Receptacles and Attachment Plugs, Class III, Division 1. Receptacles and attachment plugs shall comply with Rule 18-144.

18-172 Signalling, Alarm, Remote-Control, and Communication Systems, Class III, Division 1. Signalling, alarm, remote-control, and communication systems shall comply with Rule 18-146.

18-174 Electric Cranes and Hoists, and Similar Equipment, Class III, Division 1. Where installed for operation over combustible fibres or accumulations of flyings, travelling cranes and hoists for material handling, travelling cleaners for textile machinery, and similar equipment shall conform to the following:

(a) Power supply to contact conductors shall be isolated from all other systems and shall be ungrounded, and shall be equipped with an acceptable recording ground detector which will give an alarm and will automatically de-energize the contact conductors in case of a fault to ground, or with an acceptable ground fault indicator which will give a visual and audible alarm, and maintain the alarm as long as power is supplied to the system and the ground fault remains;

(b) Contact conductors shall be so located or guarded as to be inaccessible to other than authorized persons, and shall be protected against accidental contact with foreign objects.

(c) Current collectors shall conform to the following:

(i) They shall be arranged or guarded to confine normal sparking and to prevent escape of sparks or hot particles;

(ii) To reduce sparking, two or more separate surfaces of contact shall be provided for each contact conductor; and

(iii) Reliable means shall be provided to keep contact conductors and current collectors free of accumulations of lint or flyings.

(d) Control equipment shall comply with Rules 18-156 and 18-158.

18-176 Electric Trucks, Class III, Division 1. Electric trucks shall be of an acceptable type.

18-178 Storage-Battery Charging Equipment, Class III, Division 1. Storage-battery charging equipment shall be located in separate rooms built or lined with substantial noncombustible materials so constructed as to adequately exclude flyings or lint, and shall be well ventilated.

18-180 Live Parts, Class III, Division 1. No live parts of electrical equipment or of an electrical installation shall be exposed, except as provided in Rule 18-174.

18-182 Grounding and Bonding, Class III, Division 1. Electrical equipment shall be grounded as prescribed by Rule 18-150.

Installation in Class III, Division 2 Locations

18-184 Transformers and Capacitors, Class III, Division 2. Transformers and capacitors shall conform to Rule 18-124.

18-186 Wiring Method, Class III, Division 2. The wiring method in Class III, Division 2 locations shall conform to Rule 18-154 except that in sections, compartments, or areas used solely for storage and containing no machinery, open wiring or insulators in accordance with Rules 12-034 to 12-056 may be used, provided that, where conductors are installed elsewhere than in roof spaces and remote from physical damage, they shall be protected as required by Rules 12-044 and 12-046.

18-188 Switches, Controllers, Circuit Breakers, and Fuses, Class III, Division 2. Switches, motor controllers, circuit breakers, and fuses shall conform to Rule 18-156.

18-190 Control Transformers and Resistors, Class III, Division 2. Transformers, impedance coils, and resistors used as or in conjunction with control equipment for motors, generators and appliances shall conform to Rule 18-158.

18-192 Motors and Generators, Class III, Division 2.

(1) Motors, generators, and other rotating electrical machinery shall be:

(a) Totally enclosed non-ventilated;

(b) Totally enclosed pipe-ventilated; or

(c) Totally enclosed fan-cooled.

(2) Motors, generators, or other rotating electrical machinery of the partially enclosed or splash-proof type shall not be installed in Class III locations.

18-194 Ventilating Pipes, Class III, Division 2. Ventilating pipes shall conform to Rule 18-108 (1).

18-196 Utilization Equipment, Fixed and Portable, Class III, Division 2. Fixed or portable utilization equipment shall conform to Rule 18-164.

18-198 Lighting Fixtures, Class III, Division 2. Lighting fixtures shall conform to Rule 18-166.

18-200 Flexible Cords, Class III, Division 2. Flexible cords shall conform to Rule 18-114.

18-202 Receptacles and Attachment Plugs, Class III, Division 2. Receptacles and attachment plugs shall conform to Rule 18-144.

18-204 Signalling, Alarm, Remote-Control, and Communication Systems, Class III, Division 2. Signalling, alarm, remote-control, and communication systems shall conform to Rule 18-146.

18-206 Electric Cranes and Hoists and Similar Equipment, Class III, Division 2. Electric cranes and hoists and similar equipment shall be installed as prescribed by Rule 18-174.

18-208 Electric Trucks, Class III, Division 2. Electric trucks shall conform to Rule 18-176.

18-210 Storage-Battery Charging Equipment, Class III, Division 2. Storage-battery charging equipment shall be located in rooms conforming to Rule 18-178.

18-212 Live Parts, Class III, Division 2. No live parts of electrical equipment or of an electrical installation shall be exposed, except as provided in Rule 18-206.

18-214 Grounding and Bonding, Class III, Division 2. Equipment shall be grounded in conformity with Rule 18-182.

SECTION 20—GASOLINE DISPENSING AND SERVICE STATIONS, GARAGES, BULK STORAGE PLANTS, FINISHING PROCESSES, AND AIRCRAFT HANGARS

20-000 Scope. This Section is supplementary to, or amendatory of, the general requirements of this Code and applies to the following installations:

(a) Gasoline dispensing and service stations—Rules 20-002 to 20-014;

(b) Commercial garages, repair and storage—Rules 20-100 to 20-114;

(c) Residential storage garages—Rules 20-200 to 20-206;

(d) Bulk storage plants—Rules 20-300 to 20-312;

(e) Finishing processes—Rules 20-400 to 20-412; and

(f) Aircraft hangars—Rules 20-500 to 20-522.

Gasoline Dispensing and Service Stations

20-002 General

(1) Rules 20-002 to 20-014 inclusive apply to electical apparatus and wiring installed in gasoline dispensing and service stations, and other locations where gasoline or other similar volatile flammable liquids are dispensed or transferred to the fuel tanks of self-propelled vehicles.

(2) Other areas used as lubritoriums, service rooms and repair rooms, and offices, salesrooms, compressor rooms and similar locations shall conform to Rules 20-100 to 20-114 with respect to electrical wiring and equipment.

20-004 Hazardous Areas

(1) The space within the dispenser up to 4 feet from its base and the space within 18 inches extending horizontally from the dispenser up to 4 feet from its base shall be considered a Class I, Division 1 location, and shall include the space below the dispenser which may contain electrical wiring or equipment.

(2) In an outside location, any area beyond the Class I, Division 1 area (and in buildings not suitably cut off) within 20 feet horizontally from the exterior enclosure of any dispensing pump, shall be considered a Class I, Division 2 location, which shall extend upward to a level 18 inches above driveway or ground level.

(3) In an outside location, any area beyond the Class I, Division 1 location (and in buildings not suitably cut off) within 10 feet horizontally from any tank fill-pipe shall be considered a Class I, Division 2 location which shall extend upward to a level 18 inches above driveway or ground level.

(4) Electrical wiring and equipment, any portion of which is below the surface of areas defined as Class I, Division 1 or Division 2 locations in Subrules (1), (2), or (3) shall be deemed to be within a Class I, Division 1 location which shall extend at least to the point of emergence above grade.

(5) Areas within the vicinity of tank vent-pipes shall be classified as follows:

(a) The spherical volume within a 3 foot radius from the point of discharge of any tank vent-pipe shall be considered a Class I, Division 1 location and the volume between the 3 foot to 5 foot radius from the point of discharge of a vent shall be considered a Class I, Division 2 location;

(b) For any vent that does not discharge upward, the cylindrical volume below both the Division 1 and Division 2 locations extending to the ground shall be considered a Class I, Division 2 location; and

(c) The hazardous area shall not be considered to extend beyond an unpierced wall.

(6) Areas within lubrication rooms shall be classified as follows:

(a) The area within any pit or space below grade or floor level in a lubrication room shall be considered a Class I, Division 1 location, unless the pit or space below grade is beyond the hazardous areas specified in Subrules (2), (3), and (5) in which case the pit or space below grade shall be considered a Class I, Division 2 location; and

(b) The area within the entire lubrication room up to 2 inches above the floor or grade, whichever is the higher, and the area within 3 feet measured in any direction from the dispensing point of a hand-operated unit dispensing volatile flammable liquids shall be considered a Class I, Division 2 location.

20-006 Wiring and Equipment Within Hazardous Areas. All electrical wiring and equipment within the hazardous areas defined in Rule 20-004 shall conform to Section 18 requirements except that where dispensing pumps are supplied by underground wiring:

(a) Steel-armoured lead-covered cable may be used in lieu of rigid metal conduit or mineral-insulated cable, provided that the cable armour terminates in a lead gland connector, the lead jacket terminates in the midpoint of an approved (conduit) seal and a union approved for the class and group connects the sealing fitting to the junction box of the dispensing pump; and

(b) Light-weight mineral-insulated cable may be used in accordance with Section 18 requirements for mineral-insulated cable.

20-008 Wiring and Equipment Above Hazardous Areas. Wiring and equipment above hazardous areas shall conform to Rules 20-106 and 20-110.

20-010 Circuit Disconnects. Each circuit leading to or through a dispensing pump shall be provided with a switching means which will disconnect all ungrounded conductors of the circuit from the source of supply simultaneously.

20-012 Sealing

(1) An approved seal shall be provided in each conduit run entering or leaving a dispenser or any cavities or enclosures in direct communication therewith.

(2) Additional seals shall be provided in conformance with Rules 18-038 and 18-068, and the requirements of Rules 18-038 (3) (c) and 18-068 (3) (b) shall include horizontal and vertical boundaries.

20-014 Grounding. All non-current-carrying metal parts of dispensing pumps, metallic raceways and other electrical equipment shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

Commercial Garages, Repair and Storage

20-100 Scope. Rules 20-100 to 20-114 apply to locations used for service and repair operations in connection with self-propelled vehicles in which volatile flammable liquids or flammable gases are used for fuel or power, and locations in which more than three such vehicles are, or may be, stored at one time.

20-102 Hazardous Areas

(1) For each floor at or above grade, the entire area up to a level 2 inches above the floor shall be considered to be a Class I, Division 2 location.

(2) For each floor below grade, the entire area up to a level of 2 inches above the bottom of outside doors or other openings which are at, or above, grade level shall be considered to be a Class I, Division 2 location; except that where adequate mechanical ventilation is provided, the hazardous location shall extend up to a level of only 2 inches above each such floor.

(3) Any pit or depression below floor level shall be considered to be a Class I, Division 2 location which shall extend up to the floor level.

(4) Adjacent areas in which hazardous vapours are not likely to be released such as stockrooms, switchboard rooms, and other similar locations having floors elevated at least 2 inches above the adjacent garage floor, or separated therefrom by tight curbs or partitions at least 2 inches high shall not be classed as hazardous.

20-104 Wiring and Equipment in Hazardous Areas. Within hazardous areas as defined in Rule 20-102, wiring and equipment shall conform to the applicable requirements of Section 18.

(1) All fixed wiring above hazardous areas shall be in accordance with Section 12 and suitable for the type of building and occupancy.

(2) For pendents, flexible cord suitable for the purpose and approved for hard usage shall be used.

(3) For connection of portable lamps, portable motors or other portable utilization equipment, flexible cord suitable for the purpose and approved for hard usage shall be used.

20-108 Sealing

(1) Approved seals shall be installed as required by Section 18, and the requirements of Rule 18-068 (3) (b) shall include horizontal and vertical boundaries.

(2) Raceways embedded in a masonry floor or buried beneath a floor shall be considered to be within the hazardous area above the floor if any connections or extensions lead into or through such area.

20-110 Equipment Above Hazardous Areas

(1) Fixed equipment which is less than 12 feet above the floor level and which may produce arcs, sparks, or particles of hot metal such as cutouts, switches, charging panels, generators, motors or other equipment (excluding receptacles, lamps and lampholders) having make and break or sliding contacts, shall be of the totally enclosed type or so constructed as to prevent escape of sparks or hot metal particles.

(2) Lamps and lampholders for fixed lighting which are located over lanes through which vehicles are commonly driven or which may otherwise be exposed to physical damage, shall be located not less than 12 feet above floor level unless of totally enclosed type or so constructed as to prevent escape of sparks or hot metal particles.

(3) Portable lamps shall comply with the following:

(a) They shall be of the totally enclosed gasketted type, equipped with handle, lampholder, hook and substantial guard attached to the lampholder or handle, and all exterior surfaces which may come in contact with battery terminals, wiring terminals or other objects shall be of non-conducting material or shall be effectively protected with an insulating jacket;

(b) The lampholders shall be of the unswitched type; and

(c) They shall not be provided with receptacles for attachment plug caps.

20-112 Battery Charging Equipment. Battery chargers and their control equipment, and batteries being charged shall not be located within the hazardous areas classified in Rule 20-102.

20-114 Electric Vehicle Charging

(1) Flexible cords used for charging shall be approved for the type of service, including extra hard usage.

(2) Connectors shall have a rating not less than the ampacity of the cord and in no case less than 50 amperes.

(3) Connectors shall be so designed and installed that they will break apart readily at any position of the charging cable, and live parts shall be guarded from accidental contact.

(4) No connector shall be located within the hazrdous area defined in Rule 20-102.

(5) Where plugs are provided for direct connection to vehicles, the point of connection shall not be within a hazardous area as defined in Rule 20-102.

(6) Where a cord is suspended from overhead, it shall be so arranged that the lowest point of sag is at least 6 inches above the floor.

(7) Where the vehicle is equipped with a plug which will readily pull apart, and where an automatic arrangement is provided to pull both cord and plug beyond the range of mechanical damage, no additional connector is required in the cable or outlet.

Residential Storage Garages

20-200 Scope. Rules 20-200 to 20-206 apply to a building or part of a building in which not more than three vehicles of the types described in Rule 20-100 are, or may be, stored, but which will not normally be used for service or repair operations on stored vehicles.

20-202 Non-Hazardous Location. Where the lowest floor is at or above adjacent grade or driveway level, and where there is at least one outside door at or below floor level, the garage area shall not be classed as a hazardous location.

20-204 Hazardous Location. Where the lowest floor is below adjacent grade or driveway level, the following shall apply:

(a) The entire area of the garage or of any enclosed space which includes the garage shall be classified as a Class I, Division 2 location up to a level 2 inches above the garage floor; and

(b) Adjacent areas in which hazardous vapours or gases are not likely to be released, and having floors elevated at least 2 inches above the garage floor, or separated therefrom by tight curbs or partitions at least 2 inches high, shall not be classed as hazardous.

20-206 Wiring

(1) Wiring above the hazardous locations shall conform to Section 12.

(2) Wiring in the hazardous locations shall conform to Section 18.

Bulk Storage Plants

20-300 Scope. Rules 20-300 to 20-312 apply to locations where gasoline or other similar volatile flammable liquids are stored in tanks having an aggregate capacity of one carload or more, and from which such products are distributed.

20-302 Hazardous Areas

(1) Areas containing pumps, bleeders, withdrawal fittings, meters and similar devices which are located in pipe lines handling flammable liquids under pressure shall be classified and comply with the following:

(a) Ventilated indoor areas shall be deemed to be Class I, Division 2 locations within a 5 foot distance extending in all directions from the exterior surface of such devices as well as 25 feet horizontally from any surface of these devices and extending upward to 3 feet above floor or grade level, provided that:

(i) Design of the ventilation systems takes into account the relatively high specific gravity of the vapours;

(ii) Where openings are used in outside walls they are of adequate size and located at floor level unobstructed except by louvres or coarse screens; and

(iii) Where natural ventilation is inadequate, mechanical ventilation is provided;

(b) Indoor areas not ventilated in accordance with Subrule (1) (a) shall be deemed to be Class I, Division 1 locations within a 5 foot distance extending in all directions from the exterior surface of such devices as well as 25 feet horizontally from any surface of the device and extending 3 feet above floor or grade level;

(c) Outdoor areas shall be deemed to be Class I, Division 2 locations within a 3 foot distance extending in all directions from the exterior surfaces of such devices as well as up to 18 inches above grade level within 10 feet horizontally from any surface of the devices.

(2) Areas where flammable liquids are transferred shall be classified as follows:

(a) Outdoor areas and indoor areas for which positive and reliable mechanical ventilation is provided, shall, where flammable liquids are transferred to individual containers, be deemed to be Class I, Division 2 locations within 3 feet of the vent or fill opening extending in all directions and as Class I, Division 2 locations within the area extending between a 3-foot and 5-foot radius from the vent or fill opening extending in all directions, and including the area within a horizontal radius of 10 feet from the vent or fill opening and extending to a height of 18 inches above floor or grade levels;

(b) Where positive and reliable mechanical ventilation is not provided for indoor areas in which flammable liquids are transferred to individual containers, such areas shall be deemed to be Class I, Division 1 locations.

(3) Areas in outside locations where loading and unloading of tank vehicles and tank cars takes place shall be classified as follows:

(a) The area extending 3 feet in all directions from the dome when loading through an open dome or from the vent when loading through a closed dome with atmospheric venting shall be deemed to be a Class I, Division 1 location;

(b) The area extending between a 3-foot and 5-foot radius from the dome when loading through an open dome or from the vent when loading through a closed dome with atmospheric venting shall be deemed to be a Class I, Division 2 location; and

(c) The area extending within 3 feet in all directions from a fixed connection used in bottom loading or unloading, loading through a closed dome with atmospheric venting, or loading through a closed dome with a vapour recovery system, shall be deemed to be a Class I, Division 2 location, except that in the case of bottom loading or unloading this classification shall also be applied to the area within a 10-foot radius from point of connection and extending 18 inches above grade.

(4) Areas within the vicinity of above ground tanks shall be classified as follows:

(a) The area above the roof and within the shell of a floating roof type tank shall be deemed to be a Class I, Division 1 location;

(b) For all types of above ground tanks:

(i) The area within 10 feet from the shell, ends and roof of other than a floating roof shall be deemed to be a Class I, Division 2 location; and

(ii) Where dikes are provided the area inside the dike and extending upward to the top of the dike shall be deemed to be a Class I, Division 2 location;

(c) The area within 5 feet of a vent opening and extending in all directions shall be deemed to be a Class I, Division 1 location; and

(d) The area between 5 and 10 feet of a vent opening and extending in all directions shall be deemed to be a Class I, Division 2 location.

(5) Pits and depressions shall be classified as follows:

(a) A pit or depression, any part of which lies within a Division 1 or Division 2 location shall, unless provided with positive and reliable mechanical ventilation, be deemed to be a Class I, Division 1 location;

(b) A pit or depression, any part of which lies within a Division 1 or Divsion 2 location shall, when provided with positive and reliable mechanical ventialtion, be deemed to be a Class I, Division 2 location;

(c) Any pit or depression not within a Division 1 or Division 2 location, but which contains piping, valves, or fittings shall be deemed to be a Class I, Division 2 location.

(6) Garages in which tank vehicles are stored or repaired shall be deemed to be Class I, Division 2 locations up to 18 inches above floor or grade level unless in the judgment of the inspector, conditions warrant more severe classification or treatment of the garage in question as a Class I, Division 2 location for more than 18 inches above floor or grade level.

(7) Buildings such as office buildings, boiler rooms, and other similar premises, which are outside the limits of hazardous areas as defined herein, and are not used for the handling or storage of volatile flammable liquids or containers for such liquids, shall not be considered to be hazardous locations.

20-304 Wiring and Equipment in Hazardous Areas. All electrical wiring and equipment in the areas referred to in Subrules (1) to (6) inclusive of Rule 20-302 shall conform to the requirements of Section 18.

20-306 Wiring and Equipment Above Hazardous Areas

(1) Wiring installed above a hazardous location shall conform to the requirements of Section 12 and be suitable for the type of building and the occupancy.

(2) Fixed equipment which may produce arcs, sparks, or particles of hot metal, such as lamps and lampholders, cutouts, switches, receptacles, motors, or other equipment having make and break or sliding contacts, shall be of the totally enclosed type or so constructed as to prevent the escape of sparks or hot metal particles.

(3) Portable lamps or utilization equipment and the flexible cords supplying them, shall conform to the requirements of Section 18 for the class of location above which they are connected or used.

20-308 Sealing

(1) Approved seals shall be installed in accordance with Section 18 and shall be applied to horizontal as well as vertical boundaries of the defined hazardous locations.

(2) Buried raceways under defined hazardous areas shall be considered to be within such areas.

20-310 Gasoline Dispensing. Where gasoline dispensing is carried on in conjunction with bulk station operations, the applicable provisions of Rules 20-002 to 20-014 inclusive shall apply.

20-312 Grounding. All non-current-carrying metal parts of equipment and raceways shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

Finishing Processes

20-400 Scope. Rules 20-400 to 20-412 apply where paints, lacquers or other flammable finishes are regularly or frequently applied by spraying, dipping, brushing or by other means, and where volatile flammable solvents or thinners are used or where readily ignitible deposits or residues from such paints, lacquers or finishes may occur.

20-402 Hazardous Areas

(1) The interiors of spray booths and their exhaust ducts, all space within 20 feet horizontally in any direction from spraying operations more extensive than touch-up spraying and not conducted within spray booths, all space within 20 feet horizontally in any direction from dip tanks and their drain boards, and all other spaces where hazardous concentrations of flammable vapours are likely to occur, shall be deemed to be Class I, Division 1 locations.

(2) All space within 20 feet horizontally in any direction from the open face of a spray booth, and all space within the room but beyond the limits for Class I, Division 1 as classified in Subrule (1) for extensive open spraying, for dip tanks and drain boards, and for other hazardous operations, shall be deemed to be Class I, Division 2 locations.

(3) Adjacent areas which are cut off from the defined hazardous area by tight partitions without communicating openings, and within which hazardous vapours are not likely to be released, shall be classed as non-hazardous unless deemed otherwise by the inspection department.

(4) Drying and baking areas provided with positive mechanical ventilation to prevent formation of flammable concentrations of vapours and provided with effective interlocks to de-energize all electrical equipment not approved for Class I locations, in case the ventilating equipment is inoperative, may be classed as non-hazardous.

20-404 Wiring and Equipment in Hazardous Areas

(1) All electrical wiring and equipment within the areas referred to in Subrules (1) and (2) of Rule 20-402 or in those adjacent areas deemed hazardous by the inspection department under Subrule (3) of Rule 20-402, shall conform to the requirements of Section 18.

(2) Unless approved for both readily ignitible deposits and the flammable vapour location, no electrical equipment shall be installed or used where it may be subject to a hazardous accumulation of readily ignitible deposits or residue.

(3) Illumination of readily ignitible areas through panels of glass or other transparent or translucent material is permissible only where:

(a) Fixed lighting units are used as the source of illumination;

(b) The panel is noncombustible and effectively isolates the hazardous area from the area in which the lighting unit is located;

(c) The lighting unit is approved for its specific location;

(d) The panel is of a material or is so protected that breakage will be unlikely; and

(e) The arrangement is such that normal accumulations of hazardous residue on the surface of the panel will not be raised to a dangerous temperature by radiation or conduction from the source of illumination.

(4) Portable electric lamps or other utilization equipment shall:

(a) Not be used within a hazardous area during operation of the finishing process;

(b) Be of a type approved for Class I locations when used during cleaning or repairing operations.

(5) Notwithstanding Subrule (4):

(a) Totally-enclosed and gasketted lighting may be used on the ceiling of a spray room where adequate and positive mechanical ventilation is provided; and

(b) Infrared paint drying units may be utilized in a spray room if the controls are interlocked with those of the spraying equipment so that both operations cannot be performed simultaneously, and if portable, the paint drying unit shall not be brought into the spray room until spraying operations have ceased.

(6) Spray booths shall not contain any electrical equipment unless such spray booths are of the high velocity type.

20-406 Fixed Electrostatic Equipment. Electrostatic spraying and detearing equipment shall be of an approved type and conform to the following:

(a) No transformers, power packs, control apparatus, or other electrical portion of the equipment except high voltage grids and their connections shall be installed in any of the areas referred to in Subrules (1) and (2) of Rule 20-402 or in those adjacent areas deemded hazardous by the inspection department under Subrule (3) of Rule 20-402,, unless of a type approved for the location;

(b) High voltage grids or electrodes shall be located in suitable noncombustible booths or enclosures provided with adequate mechanical ventilation, shall be rigidly supported and of substantial construction, and shall be effectively insulated from ground by means of nonporous, noncombustible insulators;

(c) High voltage leads shall be effectively and permanently supported on suitable insulators, shall be effectively guarded against accidental contact or grounding and shall be provided with automatic means for discharging any residual charge to ground when the supply voltage is interrupted;

(d) Where goods are being processed:

(i) They shall be supported on conveyors in such a manner that minimum clearance between goods and high voltage grids or conductors cannot be less than twice the sparking distance; and

(ii) A conspicuous sign indicating the sparking distance shall be permanently posted near the equipment.

(e) Approved automatic controls shall be provided which will operate without time delay to disconnect the power supply and to signal the operator in case of:

(i) Stoppage of ventilating fans;

(ii) Failure of ventilating equipment;

(iii) Stoppage of the conveyor carrying goods through the high voltage field;

(iv) Occurrence of a ground or of an imminent ground at any point on the high voltage system; or

(v) Reduction of clearance below that specified in paragraph (d); and

(f) Adequate fencing, railings or guards which are electrically conducting and effectively grounded shall be provided for safe isolation of the process; and signs shall be permanently posted designating the process zone as dangerous because of high voltage.

20-408 Electrostatic Hand Spraying Equipment. Electrostatic hand spray apparatus and devices used therewith shall be of approved types and shall conform to the following:

(a) The equipment shall be so designed that the maximum surface temperature of the equipment in the spraying area cannot exceed 150F under any condition;

(b) The high voltage circuits shall be intrinsically safe and not produce a spark of sufficient intensity to ignite any vapour-air mixtures, nor result in appreciable shock hazard upon coming in contact with a grounded object;

(c) The electrostatically-charged exposed elements of the hand gun shall be capable of being energized only by a switch which also controls the paint supply;

(d) Transformers, power packs, control apparatus, and all other electrical portions of the equipment, with the exception of the hand gun itself and its connections to the power supply, shall be located outside the hazardous area;

(e) The handle of the spray gun shall be electrically connected to ground by a metallic connection and be so constructed that the operator in normal operating position is in intimate electrical contact with the grounded handle in order to prevent build-up of a static charge on the operator's body;

(f) All electrically conductive objects in the spraying area shall be adequately grounded and the equipment shall carry a prominent permanently-installed warning regarding the necessity for this grounding feature;

(g) Precautions shall be taken to ensure that objects being painted are maintained in metallic contact with the conveyor or other grounded support, and shall include the following:

(i) Hooks shall be regularly cleaned;

(ii) Areas of contact shall be sharp points or knife edges; and

(iii) Points of support of the object shall be concealed from random spray where feasible and where the objects being sprayed are supported from a conveyor, the point of attachment to the conveyor shall be so located as not to collect spray material during normal operation; and

(h) The spraying operation shall take place within a spray area which is adequately ventilated to remove solvent vapours released from the operation and the electrical equipment shall be so interlocked with the ventilation of the spraying area that the equipment cannot be operated unless the ventilation system is in operation.

(1) All fixed wiring above hazardous areas shall conform to Section 12.

(2) Equipment which may produce arcs, sparks, or particles of hot metal, such as lamps and lampholders for fixed lighting, cutouts, switches, receptacles, motors or other equipment having make and break or sliding contacts, where installed above a hazardous area or above an area where freshly finished goods are handled, shall be of the totally enclosed type or so constructed as to prevent the escape of sparks or hot metal particles.

20-412 Grounding. All metallic raceways and all non-current-carrying metallic portions of fixed or portable equipment, regardless of voltage, shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

Aircraft Hangars

20-500 Scope. Rules 20-500 to 20-522 apply to locations used for storage or servicing of aircraft in which gasoline, jet fuels, or other volatile flammable liquids, or flammable gases, are used but shall not include those locations used exclusively for aircraft which have never contained such liquids or gases, or which have been drained and properly purged.

20-502 Hazardous Areas

(1) Any pit or depression below the level of the hangar floor shall be deemed to be a Class I, Division 1 location which shall extend up to the floor level.

(2) The entire area of the hangar including any adjacent and communicating areas not suitably cut off from the hangar shall be deemed to be a Class I, Division 2 location up to a level 18 inches above the floor.

(3) The area within 5 feet horizontally from aircraft power plants, aircraft fuel tanks or aircraft structures containing fuel shall be deemed to be a Class I, Division 2 location which shall extend upward from the floor to a level 5 feet above the upper surface of wings and of engine enclosures.

(4) Adjacent areas in which hazardous vapours are not likely to be released such as stock rooms, electrical control rooms, and other similar locations, may be classed as non-hazardous when adequately ventilated and when effectively cut off from the hangar itself by unpierced walls or partitions.

20-504 Wiring and Equipment in Hazardous Areas

(1) All fixed and portable wiring and equipment which is or may be installed or operated within any of the locations defined in Rule 20-502 shall conform to the requirements of Section 18.

(2) All wiring installed in or under the hangar floor shall conform to the requirements for Class I Division 1 locations.

(3) Wiring systems installed in vaults, pits, or ducts, shall be provided with adequate drainage and shall not be placed within the same compartment with any other service except piped compressed air.

(4) Attachment plug caps and receptacles in hazardous locations shall be explosionproof, or shall be so designed that they cannot be energized while the connections are being made or broken.

20-506 Wiring Not Within Hazardous Areas

(1) All fixed wiring in a hangar not within a location defined in Rule 20-502 shall be installed in metallic raceways or shall be Type MI except that wiring in a non-hazardous location as set out in Subrule (4) of Rule 20-502 may be of any type recognized in Section 12 as suitable for the type of building and the occupancy.

(2) For pendents, flexible cord approved for hard usage and containing a separate grounding conductor shall be used.

(3) For portable utilization equipment and lamps, flexible cord approved for hard usage and containing a separate grounding conductor shall be used.

(4) Suitable means shall be provided for maintaining continuity and adequacy of the grounding path between the fixed wiring system and the non-current-carrying metallic portions of pendent fixtures, portable lamps, and other portable utilization equipment.

20-508 Equipment Not Within Hazardous Areas

(1) In locations other than those described in Rule 20-502, equipment which is less than 10 feet above wings and engine enclosures of aircraft and which may produce arcs, sparks, or particles of hot metal, such as lamps and lampholders for fixed lighting, cut-outs, switches, receptacles, charging panels, generators, motors or other equipment having make and break or sliding contacts, shall be of totally-enclosed type or so constructed as to prevent escape of sparks or hot metal particles, except that equipment in areas described in Subrule (4) of Rule 20-502 may be of general purpose type.

(2) Lampholders of metal shell, fibre lined types shall not be used for fixed lighting.

(3) Portable lamps which are, or may be, used within a hangar shall be approved for Class I locations.

(4) Portable utilization equipment which is, or may be, used within a hangar shall be of a type suitable for use in Class I, Division 2 locations.

20-510 Stanchions, Rostrums, and Docks

(1) Electric wiring, outlets and equipment including lamps, on or attached to, stanchions, rostrums, or docks which are located, or likely to be located, in an area as defined in Subrule (3) of Rule 20-502 shall conform to the requirements for Class I, Division 2 locations.

(2) Where stanchions, rostrums, and docks are not located, or are not likely to be located, in an area as defined in Subrule (3) of Rule 20-502 wiring and equipment shall conform to Rules 20-506 and 20-508, except that:

(a) Receptacles and attachment plugs shall be of the locking type which will not break apart readily; and

(b) Wiring and equipment, not more than 1 inch above the floor in any position, shall conform to Subrule (1) hereof.

(3) Mobile stanchions with electrical equipment conforming to Subrule (2) hereof shall carry at least one permanently affixed warning sign reading as follows:

"WARNING—KEEP 5 FEET CLEAR OF AIRCRAFT ENGINES AND FUEL TANK AREAS."

20-512 Sealing

(1) Approved seals shall be installed in accordance with Section 18 and shall apply to horizontal as well as to vertical boundaries of hazardous areas.

(2) Raceways embedded in a masonry floor or buried beneath a floor shall be considered to be within the hazardous area above the floor when any connections or extensions lead into or through the hazardous area.

20-514 Aircraft Electrical Systems. Aircraft electrical systems shall be de-energized when the aircraft is stored in a hangar, and whenever possible, while the aircraft is undergoing maintenance.

20-516 Aircraft Battery-Charging and Equipment

(1) Aircraft batteries shall not be charged when installed in an aircraft located inside, or partially inside, a hangar.

(2) Battery chargers and their control equipment shall not be located or operated within any of the areas defined in Subrules (1), (2) and (3) of Rule 20-502 but may be located or operated in a separate building or in an area complying with Subrule (4) of Rule 20-502.

(3) Mobile chargers shall carry at least one permanently affixed warning sign reading as follows:

"WARNING—KEEP 5 FEET CLEAR OF AIRCRAFT ENGINES AND FUEL TANK AREAS."

(4) Tables, racks, trays, and wiring shall not be located within a hazardous area, and shall conform to the provisions of Section 26 pertaining to Storage Batteries.

20-518 External Power Sources for Energizing Aircraft

(1) Aircraft energizers shall be so designed and mounted that all electrical equipment and fixed wiring will be at least 18 inches above floor level and shall not be operated in an area as defined in Subrule (3) of Rule 20-502.

(2) Mobile energizers shall carry at least one permanently affixed sign reading as follows:

"WARNING—KEET 5 FEET CLEAR OF AIRCRAFT ENGINES AND FUEL TANK AREAS."

(3) Aircraft energizers shall be equipped with polarized external power plugs and with automatic controls to isolate the ground power unit electrically from the aircraft in case excessive voltage is generated by the ground power unit.

(4) Flexible cords for aircraft energizers and ground support equipment shall be approved for the extra hard usage and shall include a grounding conductor.

20-520 Mobile Servicing Equipment With Electrical Components

(1) Mobile servicing equipment such as vacuum cleaners, air compressors, air movers and other similar equipment having electrical wiring and equipment not suitable for Class I, Division 2 locations shall:

(a) Be so designed and mounted that all such wiring and equipment will be at least 18 inches above the floor;

(b) Not be operated within an area as defined in Subrule (3) of Rule 20-502; and

(c) Carry at least one permanently affixed warning sign reading as follows:
"WARNING—KEEP 5 FEET CLEAR OF AIRCRAFT ENGINES AND FUEL TANK AREAS."

(2) Flexible cords for mobile equipment shall be approved for extra hard usage and shall include a grounding conductor.

(3) Attachment plugs and receptacles shall be approved for the location in which they are installed, and shall provide for connection of the grounding conductor to the raceway system.

(4) Equipment shall not be operated in areas where maintenance operations likely to release hazardous vapours are in progress, unless the equipment is at least suitable for use in a Class I, Division 2 location.

20-522 Grounding. All metallic raceways, and all non-current-carrying metallic portions of fixed or portable equipment, regardless of voltage, shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

SECTION 22—LOCATIONS IN WHICH CORROSIVE LIQUIDS OR VAPOURS OR EXCESSIVE MOISTURE ARE LIKELY TO BE PRESENT

General

22-000 Scope. This Section applies to electrical equipment and installations in locations in which corrosive liquids, or vapours or excessive moisture are likely to be present, and is supplementary to, or amendatory of, the general requirements of this Code.

22-002 Category Definitions. Locations covered in this Section shall be classified as follows:

(a) "Category 1", meaning that the location is one in which moisture in the form of vapour or liquid is present in quantities which are liable to interfere with the normal operation of electrical equipment, whether the moisture is caused by condensation, or the dripping or splashing of liquid, or otherwise; and

(b) "Category 2", meaning that the location is one in which corrosive liquids or vapours are likely to be present in quantities which are likely to interfere with the normal operation of electrical equipment.

22-004 Application of Category Definitions. Where the expressions "Category 1" or "Category 2" do not appear in any Rule in this Section, the Rule shall be applicable to both categories.

Wiring and Equipment

22-006 Essential Equipment Only

(1) Only such electrical equipment as is essential for the processes being carried on therein shall be installed in Category 1 and Category 2 locations.

(2) Service equipment, motors, panelboards, switchboards and other electrical equipment shall, where practicable, be installed in rooms or sections of the building which are not Category 1 or Category 2 locations.

22-008 Type of Construction

(1) Where the electrical equipment is, or is likely to be, partially or wholly submerged, it shall be of a submersible type of construction.

(2) Where the electrical equipment is, or is likely to be, subjected to direct streams of liquid under pressure, it shall be of a water-tight type of construction.

(3) Where the electrical equipment is, or is likely to be, exposed to corrosive vapours, it shall be of a corrosion-resistant type of construction.

(4) Where the electrical equipment is, or is likely to be, exposed to splashing of water, it shall be of a splash-proof type of construction.

(5) Where the electrical equipment is, or is likely to be, exposed only to the falling or condensing of moisture, it shall be of a drip-tight type of construction.

(6) Where a protective coating on electrical equipment is, or may be, exposed to corrosive liquids or vapour, the coating shall be suitable for the corrosive condition.

22-010 Wiring Method in Category 1 Locations

(1) Where conductors are exposed to moisture in a Category 1 location they shall:

(a) If used in open wiring, be of types specified in Table 19:

(i) For open wiring in wet locations, or

(ii) For open wiring where exposed to the weather, provided that they are located out-of-reach from floors, decks, balconies or stairs; and

(b) If used in conduit, be of types specified in Table 19 for use in raceways for wet locations.

(2) Non-metallic sheathed cable may be used in a Category 1 location as limited by Rules 22-030 and 22-036 in a dairy barn, chicken house or other farm building but, unless of the type designation NMW, shall not be used elsewhere in Category 1 locations.

(3) Armoured cable may be used in a Category 1 location if of the type listed in Table 19 as suitable for direct earth burial.

(4) Split knobs or cleats shall not be used in a Category 1 location.

(5) Mineral-insulated cable may be used in a Category 1 location but, if the cable is secured to walls, it shall be spaced at least ¼ inch from the wall at each point of support.

(6) Aluminum-sheathed cable may be used in a Category 1 location, provided it has suitable corrosion-resistant protection where necessary.

22-012 Wiring Method in Category 2 Locations

(1) Where conductors are exposed to corrosive vapours in a Cateogry 2 location, they shall be:

(a) Of types specified in Table 19 as being acceptable for exposure to corrosive action and located out-of-reach from floors, decks, balconies or stairs, if used in open wiring; and

(b) Of types specified in Table 19 as being acceptable for exposure to corrosive action, if used in conduit.

(2) Excluding type designation NMW, non-metallic-sheathed cable shall not be used in a Category 2 location other than a dairy barn, chicken house or other farm building.

(3) Surface metal raceways, underfloor raceways, bare conductors, armoured cable except where permitted in Table 19 for exposure to corrosive action, wireways, busways, and split knobs shall not be used in Category 2 locations.

(4) Mineral-insulated cable may be used in a Category 2 location if the corrosive action is not of such a nature as to cause deterioration of the outer sheath.

(5) Aluminum-sheathed cable may be used in a Category 2 location provided it has suitable corrosion-resistant protection where necessary.

22-014 Drip Loops. Where open conductors or non-metallic sheathed cables enter or issue from a Category 1 or Category 2 location, the conductors shall pass through the wall of the location in an upward direction, and in the case of open conductors, shall be in non-combustible, non-absorptive insulating tubes.

22-016 Drainage and Sealing

(1) Where conduit is used, it shall be:

(a) Arranged so as to drain at frequent intervals to suitable locations;

(b) Equipped with approved fittings which permit the moisture to drain out of the system; and

(c) Installed so as to afford ½ inch clearance from the supporting surface.

(2) Where a conduit or aluminum-sheathed cable enters a cooler atmosphere from a warmer atmosphere, it shall be sealed off so as to prevent breathing, and subsequent condensation, and in such a manner that condensate will not be trapped at the seal.

(3) All conduits, metal enclosures, and fittings shall be protected by or be of acceptable corrosion-resistant material.

(4) Every joint in a conduit in a Category 1 location shall be water-tight.

(5) Approved enamelled conduit may be used in a Category 1 or Category 2 location.

22-018 Category 1 Locations, Exclusion of Moisture or Water

(1) Every cabinet and fitting in a Category 1 location shall be:

(a) Of splash-proof or drip-tight construction;

(b) Placed so as to prevent moisture or water from entering and accumulating within the cabinet or fitting; and

(c) Mounted so as to give at least ½ inch clearance from the supporting surface.

(2) Every screw and bolt used to secure electrical equipment in place shall be of corrosion-resisting metal.

22-020 Circuit Control. Every circuit in a Category 1 or Category 2 location shall, where practicable, be arranged so that the current-carrying conductors may be entirely cut off from the supply of electrical power or energy at a convenient point outside the location.

22-022 Lampholders

(1) Pendent lampholders shall be:

(a) Of the moulded composition weatherproof type; and

(b) Hung from stranded rubber insulated conductors of not less than No. 14 AWG.

(2) Where the pendent conductors exceed 3 feet in length, they shall be twisted together.

22-024 Fixtures

(1) Every lighting fixture in a Category 1 location shall be constructed so that water cannot enter or accumulate within the fixture.

(2) Every lighting fixture in a Category 2 location shall be totally-enclosed, gasketted, and shall be of a corrosion-resistant type of construction.

22-026 Receptacles

(1) Every receptacle and attachment plug for portable equipment shall be:

(a) Of the weatherproof type; and

(b) Provided with approved grounding terminals and conductors properly connected to ground.

(2) The flexible cord for portable equipment shall be of a type approved for extra hard uasge and shall contain an extra conductor for grounding purposes.

22-028 Exposed Metal Parts. Every exposed, non-current-carrying metal part of all fixed or portable electrical equipment, including appliances, fixtures, cabinets, and metal enclosures, shall be grounded by means of a grounding conductor, notwithstanding that the equipment is in metallic contact with water-pipes or other installations affording some measure of grounding.

22-030 In Barns or Stables. Where non-metallic sheathed cable other than Type NMW is used in barns or stables, it shall not be run:

(a) Directly over windows, doors or other openings in outside walls; or

(b) Where condensation is liable to form on the cable through marked differences in temperature, unless the cable is protected in the manner prescribed by Rule 22-036.

22-032 In Root Houses. Non-metallic sheathed cable other than Type NMW shall not be installed in root houses without special permission.

22-034 In Stair Wells or Ducts. Non-metallic sheathed cable other than Type NMW shall not be run:

(a) In stair wells; or

(b) Through ventilating ducts or similar openings between stables and lofts or other rooms above stables.

22-036 From Stable to Loft

(1) Where non-metallic sheathed cable other than Type NMW is run from a stable to a loft or room above the stable, it shall be run through a length of rigid conduit.

(2) The conduit shall be sealed at the upper end with an approved insulating compound.

(3) Wherever exposed to injury, as in a stair well, non-metallic sheathed cable shall be adequately protected.

SECTION 24—FLAMMABLE ANAESTHETICS

24-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to the installation of electrical wiring and equipment in areas in hospitals where flammable anaesthetics are stored or administered.

(2) This Section is supplementary to, or amendatory of, the general requirements of this Code.

24-002 Special Terminology. In this Section:

(a) "flammable anaesthetics" means gases or vapours such as cyclopropane, divinyl ether, ethyl chloride, ethyl ether, and ethylene, which may form flammable or explosive mixtures with air, oxygen, or nitrous oxide;

(b) "anaesthetizing locations" means areas in hospitals in which flammable anaesthetics are or may be administered to patients, including operating rooms, delivery rooms and anaesthesia rooms, and any corridors, utility rooms, or other areas which are or may be used for administering flammable anaesthetics to patients.

24-004 Hazardous Areas

(1) Any room or space in which flammable anaesthetics or volatile flammable disinfecting agents are stored shall be considered to be a Class I, Division 1 location throughout.

(2) Anaesthetizing locations in their entireties shall be considered to be Class I, Division 1 locations extending upward to a level 5 feet above the floor.

24-006 Wiring and Equipment Within Hazardous Areas

(1) In the areas defined in Rule 24-004, all fixed electrical wiring and equipment, and all portable electrical equipment, including flexible cords, lamps and other utilization equipment, operating at more than 8 volts between conductors, shall conform to the requirements of Section 18 of this Code for Class I, Division 1 locations.

(2) Where a box, fitting or enclosure is partially but not entirely within a hazardous area, the hazardous area shall be considered to be extended to include the entire box, fitting or enclosure.

24-008 Wiring and Equipment Above Hazardous Area

(1) Wiring above an area as defined in Subrule (2) of Rule 24-004 shall be installed in metal raceways, or shall be metal-sheathed or armoured cable.

(2) Equipment which may produce arcs, sparks or particles of hot metal, such as lamps and lampholders for fixed lighting less than 8 feet above the floor, cutouts, switches, receptacles, generators, motors, or other equipment having make and break or sliding contacts, shall be:

(a) Of the totally-enclosed type; or

(b) Provided with suitable guards or screens to prevent the escape of sparks or hot metal particles.

(3) Surgical and other lighting fixtures which may be capable of being lowered into the hazardous area shall be approved for Class I, Division 1 hazardous locations.

24-010 Circuits in Anaesthetizing Locations

(1) Except as provided in Subrule (6) hereof, each circuit within or partially within an anaesthetizing location shall be:

(a) Controlled by a switch having a disconnecting pole in each circuit conductor; and

(b) Supplied from an ungrounded distribution system which shall be electrically isolated from any distribution system supplying areas other than anaesthetizing locations and which may be obtained by means of:

(i) One or more transformers having no electrical connection between primary and secondary windings;

(ii) Motor generator sets; or

(iii) Suitably isolated batteries.

(2) Circuits supplying primaries of isolating transformers shall:

(a) Operate at not more than 750 volts between conductors, providing that a grounded metallic shield is used between primary and secondary windings where the primary voltage exceeds 300 volts; and

(b) Be provided with proper overcurrent protection.

(3) Secondary circuits of isolating transformers and circuits supplied from batteries, generators, or motor-generator sets shall:

(a) Operate at not more than 300 volts between conductors, except that circuits for general purpose outlets shall not operate at more than 120 volts between conductors;

(b) Be ungrounded; and

(c) Have an approved overcurrent device of proper rating in each circuit conductor.

(4) Isolating transformers, generators, motor-generator sets, batteries and battery chargers and their overcurrent devices shall be installed in non-hazardous locations and shall conform to the requirements of this Code for such locations.

(5) In addition to the usual control and protective devices, an ungrounded supply system for anaesthetizing locations shall be provided with an approved ground hazard indicator located in a non-hazardous location and so arranged that:

(a) A green or white signal lamp conspicuously visible to persons in the anaesthetizing location remains lit while the system is isolated from ground; and

(b) A red signal lamp, located adjacent to the green or white signal lamp, and an audible warning signal are energized when either or both conductors of the system become grounded through a resistance or a capacitive reactance of any value up to 120,000 ohms, with the current through the ground indicator to the ground not exceeding one milliampere for 120-volt circuits and two milliamperes for higher-voltage circuits.

(6) Branch circuits supplying only fixed lighting fixtures above the hazardous location other than surgical lighting fixtures or supplying only approved permanently installed x-ray equipment may be supplied by a conventional grounded system provided:

(a) Wiring for grounded and ungrounded circuits does not occupy the same raceways;

(b) The lighting fixtures and the x-ray equipment, other than the enclosed x-ray tube and the metal-enclosed high-voltage leads to the tube, are located at least eight feet above the floor or outside the anaesthetizing location; and

(c) Switches for the grounded circuits are located outside of the anaesthetizing location, except that remote control stations for remotely controlled switches may be within the anaesthetizing location, when the remote control circuit is energized from the isolated and ungrounded distribution system.

24-012 Extra-Low-Voltage Equipment and Instruments

(1) Electrical apparatus and equipment used within a hazardous area, and which has exposed current-carrying elements or which is frequently in contact with the bodies of persons, shall:

(a) Be designed to operate at 8 volts or less unless it is completely surrounded by a grounded metallic casing or sheath; and

(b) Have a power supply which is ungrounded and electrically isolated from all circuits of higher voltage.

(2) Where an extra-low-voltage unit is supplied from an individual transformer located within a hazardous area, the following shall apply:

(a) Flexible cords shall conform to Rule 18-050, except that a grounding conductor is not required in circuits operating at 8 volts or less;

(b) The core and case of the transformer shall be effectively grounded; and

(c) The transformer shall be approved for Class I hazardous locations.

(3) Where extra-low-voltage units within a hazardous area are supplied with energy from a common source, such as a transformer, motor-generator set, or storage battery, the following shall apply:

(a) The common source shall be installed in a non-hazardous location;

(b) Receptacles and attachment plugs, where located within a hazardous area, shall be approved for Class I hazardous locations;

(c) Plugs shall be so designed that they cannot be inserted into receptacles intended for a higher voltage; and

(d) Flexible cords shall conform to Rule 18-050, except that a grounding conductor is not required.

(4) Extra-low-voltage equipment and wiring, including flexible cords, shall be protected from dangerous overcurrent by:

(a) Suitable overcurrent devices installed in a non-hazardous location; or

(b) Inherent current limitation of the source of supply.

(5) Resistance or impedance devices may be used to control extra-low-voltage units but shall not be used to limit the maximum input voltage.

(6) Where an extra-low-voltage unit includes a switch or other make-and-break or sliding contact, or where it includes a resistor or resistance device which may under any operating condition reach a surface temperature exceeding 80 per cent of the autoignition temperature of the gas or vapour involved, the unit shall be approved for Class I locations.

24-014 Other Equipment

(1) Suction, pressure, or insufflation equipment involving electrical elements, and located or used within a hazardous area, shall be approved for Class I hazardous locations.

(2) X-ray equipment installed or operated in an anaesthetizing location shall:

(a) Be provided with approved means for preventing accumulation of electrostatic charges;

(b) Have all control devices, switches, relays, meters, and transformers totally enclosed, and where installed or operated within a hazardous area, such devices shall be approved for Class I hazardous locations; and

(c) Have high-voltage wiring effectively insulated from ground and adequately guarded against accidental contact.

24-016 Grounding. In any hazardous area, all metallic raceways, and all non-current-carrying metallic portions of fixed or portable equipment shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10, except as provided in Rule 24-012.

SECTION 26—INSTALLATION OF ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT

General

26-000 Equipment Used with Single Conductors. Single conductors whose ampacities are based on the free-air ratings of Table 1 or Table 3 shall not be connected to equipment containing fuses other than approved high rupturing capacity fuses without the approval of the inspection department.

26-002 Connection to Identified Terminals or Leads. Wherever a device having an identified terminal or lead is connected in a circuit having an identified conductor, the identified conductor shall be connected to the identified terminal or lead.

26-004 Equipment on Combustible Floors. A floor of combustible material directly under stationary or fixed electrical equipment with open bottoms shall be covered with a plate of steel which shall extend at least six inches beyond the equipment on all sides.

26-006 Outdoor Installations

(1) Outdoor installations of apparatus, unless housed in suitable enclosures, shall be surrounded by suitable fencing in accordance with Rules 26-172 to 26-200 of this Code or as may be otherwise directed by the inspection department.

(2) Overhead high-potential conductors shall have a vertical clearance from buildings of 15 feet.

(3) Outdoor equipment shall be grounded in an acceptable manner.

(4) High-potential isolating switches not of the metal-enclosed type which are assembled in the field shall be spaced according to Table 35.

(5) Horn-gap switches shall be mounted in a horizontal position and be capable of being locked in the open position.

26-008 Flammable Oil-Insulated Equipment, Indoors

(1) Electrical equipment containing liquids that will burn in air, in quantities of more than 5 gallons in one tank, or more than 15 gallons in a group of tanks, shall be located in an electrical equipment vault, except that for motor starters these oil quantities shall be doubled.

(2) Electrical equipment containing liquids that will burn in air in quantities of 5 gallons or less in one tank and 15 gallons or less in a group of tanks shall be installed in an electrical equipment vault or installed in a building or room of fire-resisting constuction, except that for motor starters these oil quantities shall be doubled.

(3) Electrical equipment as described in Subrule (2) and which is installed in a building or room of fire-resisting construction shall be:

(a) Provided with a metal pan or concrete curbing capable of retaining all the liquid above it;

(b) Isolated from other apparatus by segregation of adjacent cells by effective barriers, metal-enclosed equipment being considered as providing segregation; and

(c) Separated from other flammable oil-insulated equipment by such a distance that, if the oil in each piece of equipment was spread at a density of one quart per square foot, the areas so covered would not overlap, these areas being deemed to be circular if the tank (or group of tanks) is in an open area, semi-circular if the tank is against a wall, and quarter-sectorial if the tank is in a corner.

Isolating Switches

26-010 Installation of High-Potential Isolating Switches

(1) High-potential isolating switches shall be located so that they will be accessible to authorized persons only.

(2) High-potential group-operated isolating switches shall be:

(a) Interlocked with their respective circuit breakers so that the switch cannot be operated under load; and

(b) Provided with positive position indicators.

Circuit Breakers

26-012 Circuit Breakers, General

(1) Circuit breakers shall be of the trip-free type.

(2) Indication shall be provided at the circuit breaker and at the point of operation to show whether the circuit breaker is open or closed.

26-014 Indoor Installation of Circuit Breakers

(1) Circuit breakers installed indoors shall be located in compliance with the following:

(a) Circuit breakers rated at more than 15,000 volts shall be installed in a fire-resisting switch-room or motor room or in an electrical equipment vault in accordance with Rules 26-156 to 26-170;

(b) Flammable oil-insulated circuit breakers shall also be installed in accordance with Rule 26-008.

(2) Circuit breakers installed in electrical equipment vaults shall be operable without opening the door of the vault.

(3) The point of operating shall be so located with respect to the circuit breaker that the operator will be protected from injury due to faulty operation of the circuit breaker.

Fuses

26-016 Installation of Fuses

(1) Fuses shall be located so that:

(a) Their operation will not result in injury to persons or damage to property or other equipment;

(b) They can be readily inserted or removed; and

(c) They will be accessible to authorized persons only, when used on high-potential circuits.

(2) Where the potential exceeds 15,000 volts between conductors, fuses shall not be located indoors unless in a room of fire-resisting construction, whether or not they are in a metal enclosure.

Switchboards and Switchgear

26-018 Location of Switchgear. Switchgear, if not of the dead-front or enclosed type, and live parts on the rear of dead-front switchboards shall be inaccessible to unauthorized persons.

26-020 Guarding of Switchgear. Where live parts of switchgear are exposed to damage by falling objects, they shall be guarded.

26-022 Switchgear Clearance from Ceiling. Switchgear shall not be built up to a point within 3 feet of a ceiling of combustible material or a ceiling of plaster applied over a combustible base unless the combustible material or base is protected against damage from fire, by:

(a) Metal lath and cement plaster;

(b) ¼ inch rigid asbestos board; or

(c) Other acceptable means.

26-024 Clearance Back of Switchboard

(1) There shall be a space of not less than 3 feet between equipment on the back of a fixed switchboard and the nearest adjacent wall when such equipment is less than 7 feet from the floor.

(2) Ready means for ingress and egress to the space shall be provided at each end of the switchboard.

(3) Doors or gates of suitable material may be provided at these points for guarding purposes but they shall be capable of being readily opened from the inside without the use of a key or tool.

(4) The space behind switchboards shall be kept clear of foreign material and shall not be used for storage purposes.

26-026 Protection from Shock Hazard at Switchboards and Switchgear. Where live-front switchboards or switchgear operate:

(a) On ac, at potentials not exceeding 150 volts to ground or 750 volts between conductors; or

(b) On dc, at potentials not exceeding 300 volts to ground or 750 volts between conductors, insulating floors, mats, or platforms affording good footing, shall be provided and placed so that operators cannot readily touch live parts unless standing on such floors, mats or platforms.

26-028 Illumination at Switchboards. Adequate illumination for the reading of instruments, and necessary operation of controls shall be provided both in front of and behind switchboards as necessary.

26-030 Air Circuit Breakers on Switchboards. If air circuit breakers of an open type are mounted on the front of a switchboard, they shall be mounted in a single horizontal row with their tops not less than 5 feet above the floor or operating platform.

26-032 Conductor Covering at Switchgear

(1) Closely grouped conductors feeding to or from switchgear which do not have moisture-resisting, flame-retarding insulation on the individual conductors shall have an overall moisture-resisting, flame-retarding covering.

(2) Asbestos tape, if used for overall covering, shall be kept away from terminals and other live parts.

Rotating Electrical Machinery

26-034 Use of Wood for Insulating Rotating Machinery. If wood is used to insulate frames of rotating electrical machinery from ground, it shall be impregnated or thoroughly coated with a suitable moisture repellent.

26-036 Integral Protection of Rotating Machinery. A rotating electrical machine with an integral protective device shall be marked to indicate that it has such a protective device.

Transformers

26-038 Transformers, General

(1) Transformers shall be constructed so that all live parts are enclosed unless they are installed so as to be inaccessible to unauthorized persons.

(2) Transformers shall be protected from mechanical damage.

(3) Liquid-filled transformers shall be mounted so that there will be an air space of 6 inches between transformers, and between transformers and adjacent surfaces of combustible material except the plane on which the transformer is mounted.

26-040 Outdoor Transformer Installations. Where transformers, including their conductors, control, and protective equipment are installed outdoors they shall:

(a) Be inaccessible to unauthorized persons;

(b) Not obstruct fire fighting operations;

(c) If oil filled, be isolated with respect to combustibility of surroundings, and window and door exposure in accordance with Table 37;

(d) If isolated by elevation, have the bottom of their platform not less than 12 feet above the ground;

(e) If not isolated by elevation, have the entire installation surrounded by suitable fencing in accordance with Rules 26-172 to 26-200 of this Code, or as may be otherwise directed by the inspection department;

(f) If installed at ground level, be located on a concrete pad or be in a curbed area filled with coarse crushed stone;

(g) Not have open drains in the proximity of combustible construction or materials for the disposal of flammable liquid expelled from a transformer; and

(h) Have, conspicuously posted, suitable warning signs indicating the highest potential employed except where there is no exposed live part.

26-042 Transformers Mounted on Roofs

(1) Transformers having their cores immersed in a liquid which will burn in air, if installed on the roof of a building, shall be located in an electrical equipment vault in accordance with Rules 26-156 to 26-170, adequately supported by means of fire-resisting construction.

(2) Transformers having their cores immersed in a liquid which will not burn in air, if installed on the roof of a building, shall not be placed adjacent to doors or windows, nor within 15 feet of discharge vents for flammable fumes or dusts of a combustible or electrical conductive nature.

26-044 Liquid-Filled Transformers Indoors

(1) Flammable oil-insulated transformers located indoors shall be installed in accordance with Rule 26-008.

(2) Transformers located indoors and having their cores immersed in a liquid that will not burn in air shall be installed in a transformer vault unless:

(a) The transformer is protected from mechanical damage either by location or guarding;

(b) A pressure relief vent is provided where the rating exceeds 25 kva at 25 cycles or 37½ kva at 60 cycles;

(c) A means of absorbing gases generated by arcing inside the case, or a pressure relief vent connected to outdoors, is provided where the transformer is installed in a poorly ventilated location; and

(d) Where the voltage rating exceeds 15,000 volts, the transformer is installed in a room of fire-resisting construction accessible only to authorized persons.

26-046 Dry-Core, Open-Ventilated Type Transformers

(1) Transformers of the dry-core open-ventilated type shall be mounted so that there will be an air space between the transformer casing and adjacent surfaces, except floors, of:

(a) 12 inches, if the adjacent surface be of combustible material; or

(b) ¼ inch if the adjacent surfaces are of:

(i) Noncombustible material;

(ii) Combustible material adequately protected by noncombustible, heat-insulating material other than sheet metal; or

(iii) Combustible material shielded by grounded sheet metal with an air space of not less than 2 inches between the sheet metal and the combustible material.

(2) Dry-type transformers not of the sealed type shall not be installed below grade level unless adequate provision is made to prevent flooding.

(3) Dry-type transformers not of the sealed type shall be installed in such a manner that water or other liquids cannot fall on to the windings.

(4) Dry-type transformers, if mounted directly on a floor of combustible material, shall be provided with a floor plate of steel, with a sheet of asbestos or similar material on the underside, which shall extend at least 6 inches beyond the transformer on all sides.

26-048 Disconnecting Means for Transformers. A disconnecting means shall be installed in the primary circuit of each transformer or each bank of transformers operating as a unit.

26-050 Overcurrent Protection for Power and Distribution Transformers

(1) In this Rule, "transformer" means a single-phase transformer, a polyphase transformer, or a group of 2 or 3 single phase transformers used in lieu of a polyphase unit.

(2) Except as permitted in Subrule (3), each transformer shall have overcurrent protection, either individually or in the circuit feeding the transformer, consisting of an overcurrent device rated or set at not more than 250 per cent of the rated primary current of the transformer.

(3) As an alternative to the overcurrent protection referred to in Subrule (2), the following overcurrent protection may be provided:

(a) An overcurrent device connected in the circuit feeding the transformer with a rating:

(i) Not more than 600 per cent of the rated current of the transformer, for a transformer having an impedance voltage not more than 6 per cent; or

(ii) Not more than 400 per cent of the rated current of the transformer, for a transformer having an impedance voltage more than 6 per cent but not more than 10 per cent; and

(b) Either an overcurrent device connected in the secondary circuit rated or set at not more than 250 per cent of the rated secondary current of the transformer or a transformer equipped with coordinated thermal overload protection by the manufacturer.

26-052 Overcurrent Protection of Instrument Potential (Voltage) Transformers

(1) Except under the conditions of Subrules (2), (3), and (4), instrument potential (voltage) transformers shall have primary fuses rated not more than:

(a) 10 amperes for low-potential circuits; and

(b) 3 amperes for high potential circuits.

(2) Primary fuses shall not be installed where they would be connected in the grounded primary neutral connection of "Y" or "Open Y" connected potential (voltage) transformers.

(3) Primary fuses may be omitted:

(a) Where the transformers are protected by adequate power fuses or other adequate protective devices for clearing equipment failures; and convenient means are provided for disconnecting the transformers on the primary side;

(b) Where potential (voltage) transformers and meters, operating at low potential and installed in suitable enclosures, are used in place of self-contained meters; or

(c) Where both potential (voltage) and current transformers are supplied by the manufacturer in a single enclosure filled with an acceptable insulating medium, which may be air for use on low potential circuits if the enclosure is non-combustible, and where:

(i) The primary terminals outside the enclosure are common to both potential (voltage) and current transformers; and

(ii) The enclosures are installed outdoors if filled with an insulating medium which will burn in air.

(4) The installation of primary fuses in the centre (common) phase primary connection of "Open-delta" connected potential (voltage) transformers shall be subject to agreement between the supply authority and the inspection department.

26-054 Marking of Transformers. Each transformer shall be provided with a nameplate bearing the following marking:

(a) Maker's name;

(b) Rating in kva;

(c) Rated full-load temperature rise;

(d) Primary and secondary voltage ratings;

(e) Frequency in cycles per second;

(f) Liquid capacity, if of the liquid-filled type, in Imperial gallons;

(g) Type of liquid to be used, if it is to be filled with an approved liquid that will not burn in air; and

(h) Impedance voltage, if of the power or distribution type.

Capacitors

26-056 Capacitors Excepted. The requirements of Rules 26-054 to 26-070 shall not apply to capacitors which form component parts of factory assembled electrical equipment nor to surge protective capacitors.

26-058 Capacitors Installed Indoors. Flammable oil-insulated capacitors located indoors shall be installed in accordance with Rule 26-008.

26-060 Guarding of Capacitors. All live parts of capacitors shall be inaccessible to unauthorized persons.

26-062 Grounding of Capacitors. Non-current-carrying metal parts of capacitors shall be grounded.

26-064 Conductor Size for Capacitors

(1) The continuous current rating of capacitor feeder circuits and branch circuits shall be not less than 135 per cent of the rated current of the capacitor.

(2) Where a branch circuit supplies two or more capacitors the overcurrent device protecting the conductors of the branch circuit may be considered as protecting taps made thereto to supply single capacitors provided that:

(a) The tap is not more than 25 feet long; and

(b) Its conductors comply with Subrule (1) and also have an ampacity not less than ⅓ that of the branch circuit conductors from which they are supplied.

26-066 Overcurrent Protection. An overcurrent device, rated or set as low as practicable without causing unnecessary opening of the circuit, but not exceeding 250 per cent of the rated current of the capacitor except by special permission shall be provided in each ungrounded conductor of a capacitor feeder or branch circuit.

26-068 Disconnecting Means for Capacitor Feeders or Branch Circuits

(1) A disconnecting means having a continuous ampacity not less than 135 per cent of the rated current of the capacitor shall be provided in each ungrounded conductor of the capacitor feeder or branch circuit.

(2) The disconnecting means shall be within sight of and not more than a distance of 30 feet from the capacitors unless the disconnecting means can be locked in the open position.

26-070 Special Provisions for Motor Circuit Capacitors. A capacitor connected on the load side of a motor circuit disconnecting means shall be subject to the following special provisions:

(a) Individual disconnecting means for the capacitor need not be provided;

(b) If connected on the load side of the motor overcurrent device, individual overcurrent protection for the capacitor need not be provided;

(c) The rating of the disconnecting means and the overcurrent device and the size of the motor circuit conductors need not be greater than would be required without the capacitor;

(d) The continuous current ratings of the conductors connecting the capacitor to the motor circuit shall be in accordance with Rule 26-064 and shall be not less than one-third that of the motor-circuit conductors;

(e) If connected on the load side of the motor overload device:

(i) The rating of the capacitor shall not exceed the value required to raise the no-load power factor of the motor to unity; and

(ii) The rating or setting of the overload device shall be reduced to a value corresponding with the current obtained with the improved power factor.

26-072 Transformers used with Capacitors. The kva rating of a transformer used with a capacitor shall be not less than 135 per cent of the capacitor kva rating.

26-074 Drainage of Stored Charge of Capacitors

(1) Capacitors shall be provided with a means of draining the stored charge.

(2) The draining means shall be such that the residual voltage will be reduced to 50 volts or less after the capacitor is disconnected from the source of supply:

(a) Within one minute in the case of capacitors rated at 750 volts or less; and

(b) Within 5 minutes in the case of capacitors rated at more than 750 volts.

(3) The discharge circuit shall be:

(a) Permanently connected to the terminals of the capacitor or capacitor bank; or

(b) Provided with automatic means of connecting it on removal of voltage from the line.

(4) The discharge circuit shall not be switched or connected by manual means.

(5) Motors, transformers, or other electrical equipment capable of constituting a suitable discharge path, connected directly to capacitors without the interposition of a switch or overcurrent device, constitute a suitable discharge path.

Storage Batteries

26-076 Scope. Rules 26-078 to 26-086 apply to the installation of lead-acid, nickel-cadmium, and nickel-iron batteries of both the floating-service station type and the charge-discharge industrial type.

26-078 Location of Storage Batteries

(1) Storage batteries shall be kept in battery rooms or enclosures used for no other purpose when:

(a) The aggregate capacity at the 8-hour discharge rate exceeds 5 kilowatt hours; and

(b) The batteries are in open jars or tanks.

(2) Where there are exposed live parts of 45 volts or higher, batteries shall be kept in a room or enclosure accessible only to authorized personnel.

(3) Storage batteries shall not be subjected to ambient temperatures:

(a) Exceeding 45° C. (113° F.); or

(b) Below the freezing point of the electrolyte.

26-080 Ventilation of Battery Rooms

(1) Storage battery rooms or areas shall be thoroughly ventilated.

(2) Adequate means shall be adopted for sufficient diffusion and ventilation of the gases from the battery to prevent the accumulation of an explosive mixture.

26-082 Cell Mounting. Battery cells shall be mounted in wooden or steel trays or on racks as follows:

(a) The tray or rack shall be level;

(b) The tray or rack shall be protected against corrosion from the battery electrolyte;

(c) The cell mounting surface of the tray or rack shall be covered with an insulating material having a dielectric strength of at least 1,500 volts;

(d) Racks shall be of sufficient strength to carry the weight of the battery;

(e) Battery cells having glass or plastic containers shall rest on a resilient surface; and

(f) Battery cells shall be spaced a minimum of $\frac{3}{8}$ inch apart to allow for normal expansion of containers due to temperature change.

(1) The wiring method used in storage battery oroms shall be:

(a) Bare conductors which shall not be taped;

(b) Open wiring;

(c) Rigid conduit or electrical metallic tubing subject to the following:

(i) The conduit or tubing shall be of corrosion-resisting materials or be suitably protected from corrosion;

(ii) The end of the raceway shall be tightly sealed with sealing compound, rubber tape or other acceptable material, to resist the entrance of electrolyte by spray or creeping;

(iii) The conductor shall issue from the raceway through a substantial glazed insulating bushing;

(iv) At least 12 inches of the conductor shall be free from the raceway where connected to a cell terminal;

(v) The raceway exit shall be located at least 12 inches above the highest cell terminal to reduce electrolyte creepage or spillage entering the raceway or conduit;

(d) Mineral-insulated cable provided it is adequately protected against corrosion where it may be in direct contact with acid or acid spray; or

(e) Aluminum-sheathed cable provided it has suitable corrosion-resistant protection where necessary.

(2) Varnished-cambric-insulated conductors shall not be used in storage battery rooms.

26-086 Lighting Fixtures and Switches. Lighting fixtures and switches in storage battery rooms shall be of the totally-enclosed, gasketted type if unsealed jars or tanks are used.

Lightning Arresters

26-088 Use and Location of Lightning Arresters

(1) Lightning arresters shall be installed in every distributing substation in locations where lightning disturbances are of frequent occurrence and no other adequate protection is provided.

(2) Lightning arresters installed for the protection of utilization equipment:

(a) May be installed either inside or outside the building or enclosure containing the equipment to be protected;

(b) Shall be isolated by elevation, enclosed or made otherwise inaccessible to unauthorized persons.

26-090 Indoor Installations of Lightning Arresters

(1) Where lightning arresters are installed in a building, they shall be located well away from all equipment other than that which they protect and from passageways and combustible parts of buildings.

(2) Where lightning arresters containing oil are installed in a building, they shall be separated from other equipment by walls conforming to electrical equipment vault construction requirements in accordance with Rules 26-156 to 26-170.

26-092 Outdoor Installations of Lightning Arresters. Where arresters containing oil are located outdoors, means of draining or absorbing oil shall be provided by:

(a) Ditches or drains; or

(b) Paving the yard in which the arrester is contained with cinders or other absorbent material to an adequate depth.

26-094 Choke Coils for Lighting Arresters. Where choke coils are used in connection with a lightning arrester, the coils shall be installed between the lightning arrester tap and the apparatus to be protected.

26-096 Connection of Lightning Arresters. The connection between arrester and line conductor shall be:

(a) Of copper wire or cable or some approved equivalent;

(b) Not smaller than No. 6 AWG;

(c) As short and as straight as practicable with a minimum of bends; and

(d) Free of sharp bends and turns.

26-098 Insulation of Lightning Arrester Accessories. The insulation from ground and from other conductors for accessories such as gap electrodes and choke coils shall be at least equal to the insulation required at other points of the circuit.

26-100 Grounding of Lightning Arresters. Lightning arresters shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

Resistance Devices

26-102 Location of Resistance Devices. Resistance devices, including wiring to the resistance elements, shall be installed so that danger of igniting adjacent combustible material will be reduced to a minimum.

26-104 Conductors for Resistance Devices. Insulated conductors used for connection between resistance elements and controllers, unless used for infrequent motor starting, shall conform to the following:

(a) As indicated in Table 19 as being suitable for the temperature involved and in no case less than 90°C. (194° F.);

(b) Conductors having an approved flame-retarding outer covering may be grouped where the potential between any two conductors in the group does not exceed a maximum of 75 volts.

26-106 Uses of Incandescent Lamps as Resistance Devices

(1) Incandescent lamps may be used:

(a) As protective resistors for automatic controllers; or

(b) By special permission, as resistors in series with other devices.

(2) Where incandescent lamps are used as resistors, they shall:

(a) Be mounted in porcelain receptacles on incombustible supports;

(b) Be arranged so that they cannot be subjected to a voltage greater than that for which they are rated;

(c) Be provided with a permanently attached nameplate showing the wattage and voltage of the lamp to be used in each receptacle;

(d) Not carry or control the main current; and

(e) Not constitute the regulating resistance of the device.

Electric Heating and Cooking Appliances

26-108 Location of Non-Portable Appliances. Non-portable electric heating and cooking appliances shall be installed so that the danger of igniting adjacent combustible material is reduced to a minimum.

26-110 Rating of Portable Appliances. The input to portable electric hearing and cooking appliances for use on nominal 115-volt branch circuits protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at not more than 15 amperes shall not exceed 1,500 watts at 115 volts.

26-112 Separate Built-in Cooking Units

(1) Separate built-in cooking units without integral overcurrent protection shall be provided with the necessary overcurrent protection in a separate panel as required by the specifications to which they were originally approved.

(2) Tap circuit conductors feeding individual separate built-in cooking units from a single branch circuit shall have an ampacity of not less than the ampere rating of the unit or heating element which they supply as determined from Tables 1 to 4, whichever is applicable.

(3) Where tap circuit conductors feed individual separate built-in cooking units having integral overcurrent protection the ampacity of the tap circuit conductor shall, in addition to complying with the requirements of Subrule (2), be not less than that of the single branch circuit supplying them unless the tap circuit is not over 25 feet long in which case the ampacity may be ⅓ that of the single branch circuit conductors.

26-114 Supply Connections for Appliances

(1) Electric heating and cooking appliances shall have only one point of connection for supply.

(2) The point of connection for a separate built-in cooking unit without integral overcurrent devices may be in a separate panel incorporating the necessary overcurrent devices for the individual heating elements.

(3) Appliances such as ranges and clothes dryers may be cord-connected using a separable connector or an attachment plug and receptacle.

(4) Notwithstanding Subrule (3) hereof, as of and from July 1st, 1971, where a clothes dryer is installed in a residential occupancy, the following provisions shall apply:

(a) An approved general purpose receptacle having a rating not less than the demand load of the clothes dryer and at least 30 amperes, 230 volts, 4-wire rating shall be installed for the supply of electrical energy to such clothes dryer;

(b) The clothes dryer shall be cord-connected to the receptacle referred to in paragraph (a) by means of an approved general purpose cord and attachment plug cap having the same rating as such receptacle;

(c) Where a cable is installed to supply a clothes dryer, it shall terminate in a box containing a receptacle meeting the requirements of paragraph (a) of this Subrule.

(5) Notwithstanding Subrule (3) hereof, as of and from July 1st, 1971, the following provisions shall apply to free-standing electric ranges in residential occupancies:

(a) An approved general purpose receptacle having a rating not less than the demand load of the electric range to be supplied therefrom and at least 50 amperes, 230 volts, 4-wire rating shall be installed for the supply of electric energy to such electric ranges;

(b) The electric ranges shall be cord-connected to the receptacle referred to in paragraph (a) by means of an approved general purpose cord and attachment plug cap having the same rating as such receptacle;

(c) Where a cable in installed to supply electric ranges, it shall terminate in a box containing a receptacle meeting the requirements of paragraph (a) of this Subrule.

26-116 Appliances Exceeding 1,500 watts

(1) Every electric heating and cooking appliance rated at more than 1,500 watts shall be supplied from a branch circuit used solely for one appliance except that more than one appliance may be connected to a single-branch circuit provided that the following is used:

(a) A multiple-throw manually-operated device which will permit only one such appliance to be energized at one time; or

(b) An automatic device which will limit the total load to a value which will not cause operation of the overcurrent devices protecting the branch circuit.

(2) Every electric heating and cooking appliance rated at more than 1,500 watts shall be controlled by an indicating switch which may be in the circuit or on the appliance except that:

(a) If the rating of the appliance does not exceed 30 amperes, an attachment plug and receptacle may be used instead of a switch; and

(b) If the appliance has more than one individual heating element each controlled by a switch, no main switch need be provided.

(3) For the purpose of this Rule, two or more separate built-in cooking units together with their overcurrent devices shall be considered as one appliance.

26-118 Signals for Heated Appliances. Where glue pots, soldering irons, or appliances intended to be applied to combustible materials are used in other than private dwelling occupancies:

(a) Each appliance or group of appliances shall be provided with an indicating switch and a red pilot light; or

(b) Each appliance shall be equipped with an integral temperature limiting device, in which case, the pilot light may, by special permission, be omitted.

26-120 Installation of Storage-Tank Water Heaters

(1) Electric storage-tank water heaters, other than those having a tank open to the atmosphere, shall be controlled by means of a temperature-regulating device and shall also be provided with secondary protection which will open if the water attains a temperature of 96° C. (205° F.).

(2) The temperature regulating device referred to in Subrule (1) shall regulate the temperature of the water so that it does not exceed 90° C. (194° F.).

(3) Electric storage-tank water heaters shall be located so that the electric supply connections, service covers, and nameplate markings will be accessible after completion of the building structure.

(4) Every electric storage-tank water heater shall be supplied from a branch circuit used solely for the heater.

26-122 Infra Red Drying Lamps. The following requirements shall apply to the installation of infra red drying lamps:

(a) Branch circuits shall be protected in accordance with Section 14;

(b) Lampholders of the medium-base, unswitched, procelain type or other types approved for the service, may be used with lamps rated at 300 watts or less;

(c) Screw-shell lampholders shall not be used with lamps rated at more than 300 watts unless especially approved for the purpose;

(d) In industrial occupancies, lampholders may be operated in series on circuits of more than 150 volts to ground where adequate spacings for the higher circuit voltage are provided.

26-124 Ventilated Drying and Baking Areas. Drying and baking areas, provided with positive mechanical ventilation adequate to prevent the formation of inflammable concentrations of vapours, and provided with effective interlocks to de-energize all electrical equipment (other than equipment approved for Class I hazardous locations) in case the ventilating equipment is inoperative, may be classed as non-hazardous if the code-enforcing authority so judges.

Receptacles

26-126 Location of Receptacles

(1) There shall be installed in each room of residential premises not occupied seasonally only at least three receptacles constructed to accommodate parallel blade caps, provided that:

(i) living rooms shall contain at least four receptacles constructed to accept parallel blade caps;

(ii) dining rooms shall contain at least two receptacles constructed to accept parallel blade caps, except in multi-family dwellings of six units or more, where one such receptacle may be used in each dining room.

(2) There shall be installed in each room of residential premises occupied seasonally only, the following number of receptacles constructed to accommodate parallel blade caps:

(i) 2 receptacles in each room having up to 100 square feet of floor area;

(ii) 3 receptacles in each room having from 100 to 150 square feet of floor area;

(iii) 4 receptacles in each room having over 150 square feet of floor area.

(3) The receptacles referred to in Subrules (1) and (2) shall, insofar as practicable, be placed equal distances apart.

(4) Receptacles shall not be placed in ironing cabinets, cupboards, wall cabinets, nor in like enclosures, except where they are intended for use with specific appliances, other than heating and cooking appliances which are located within the enclosure.

(5) Each single family residence and each residence of row housing used for year-round habitation shall have at least one receptacle constructed to accommodate parallel blade caps installed so as to be readily accessible for the use of appliances which, of necessity, are used outdoors.

(6) A receptacle shall be installed at counter height in each bathroom, in a location difficult of access from the bath.

26-128 Appliance Receptacles

(1) There shall be installed in each kitchen of a residential occupancy:

(a) At least three split receptacles where the occupancy is a single-family dwelling as defined in Rule 6-042; and

(b) At least two split receptacles where the occupancy is a suite of a multi-family dwelling.

(2) The split receptacles in Subrules (1) (a) and (1) (b) shall each be supplied by a three-wire circuit to which no other outlets are connected.

(3) At least two of the split receptacles required by Subrule (1) (a) and one of the split receptacles required by Subrule (1) (b) shall be installed in the working area of the kitchen above counter level.

(4) Where two split receptacles are installed above the working counter they shall be separated a distance of at least six feet, where practicable.

(5) Where a separation of six feet between receptacles is not practicable, they may be grouped.

(6) All of the receptacles required by Subrule (1) shall be located so as to be readily accessible.

(7) There shall be installed in each area of a residential occupancy used as a laundry room or utility room, a receptacle supplied by a circuit to which no other outlets are connected.

(8) In this Rule, residential occupancy includes residences used either on a permanent or seasonal basis.

26-130 Receptacles

(1) Receptacles shall be constructed so that no outlet section will accommodate both parallel and tandem blade caps.

(2) Where receptacles constructed to accommodate parallel blade caps or receptacles constructed to accommodate tandem blade caps are installed, they shall be of the 3-pole type which will also accommodate caps with a U-shaped or round grounding pin.

(3) Receptacles constructed so as to accommodate parallel blade caps shall be rated 125 volts, 15 amperes.

(4) Receptacles constructed so as to accommodate tandem blade caps shall be rated 250 volts, 15 amperes.

(5) Receptacles connected to circuits having different voltages, frequencies or types of current (ac or dc) on the same premises shall be of such design that attachment plugs used on such circuits are not interchangeable.

(6) Receptacles shall not be of the screw base type.

(7) Receptacles with exposed terminals shall be used only in fittings, metal troughs, and similar devices.

(8) Receptacles located in floors shall be enclosed in floor boxes approved for the purpose.

(9) Where a receptacle is installed in a location where there is more than normal risk of injury or loss of life through shock:

(a) The receptacle shall have an extra contact for grounding; and

(b) The receptacle and cap shall be polarized.

(10) Where grounding type receptacles as described in Subrule (2) are used in existing installations to replace the ungrounded type, the grounding terminal shall be effectively connected to ground and one of the following methods may be used:

(a) By bonding to grounded metallic raceway or cable sheath;

(b) By connection to the system ground by means of a separate grounding conductor; or

(c) By bonding to an adjacent grounded metallic cold water pipe.

26-132 Three-Wire Receptacle Branch Circuits

(1) Where receptacles are connected to three-wire branch circuits:

(a) The receptacles shall be of an approved type having separate terminals for the connection of the ungrounded conductors; and

(b) The branch circuit shall comply with Rule 14-000.

(2) Duplex receptacles having one section which will accommodate parallel blade caps and the other section which will accommodate tandem blade caps shall be connected only to 3-wire branch circuits that:

(a) Comply with Rule 14-000; and

(b) Are protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at not more than 15 amperes.

26-134 Receptacles for Appliances

(1) Receptacles connected to branch circuits for the supply of equipment shall be rated not less than the minimum ampacity of the branch circuit conductors as required by the rules in Section 8.

(2) Receptacles installed for the connection of appliances rated at 125/250 volts such as ranges and clothes dryers shall be of the 3-pole 4-wire grounding type.

Arc Lamps

26-136 Location of Arc Lamps

(1) Outdoor arc lamps, attached to a bulding and supplied from the interior installation, shall be suspended at least 8 feet above the ground level.

(2) Indoor arc lamps shall be hung out of reach or shall be protected in an acceptable manner.

26-138 Conductors to Arc Lamps

(1) Leads to arc lamps shall have an ampacity of approximately 150 per cent of the normal current of the lamp.

(2) The leads shall be stranded where:

(a) The size exceeds No. 14 AWG; and

(b) The lamp suspension provides for raising and lowering.

26-140 Overcurrent Protection for Arc Lamps. An overcurrent device shall be provided for each arc lamp or series of lamps.

26-142 Resistors or Regulators

(1) Resistors or regulators shall be enclosed in incombustible cases and located away from readily combustible material.

(2) Incandescent lamps shall not be used as resistors or regulators.

26-144 Globes and Spark Arresters

(1) Arc lamps other than those of the enclosed arc type shall be equipped with globes and spark arresters.

(2) Globes shall be guarded by wire netting having a mesh of not more than 1¼ inches.

Heating Equipment

26-146 Scope. Rules 26-148 and 26-150 apply to circuits supplying electric power for the operation of heating equipment whose individual input does not exceed 400,000 Btu per hour, and which uses solid, liquid or gaseous fuels, but do not apply to portable heating equipment.

26-148 Supply Connections for Heating Equipment

(1) All electric power for the heating unit and associated equipment operating in connection therewith shall be obtained from a single branch circuit which shall be used for no other purpose.

(2) For the purpose of this Rule, circulating pumps, and similar equipment need not be considered as associated equipment, provided that such equipment is not essential for the safe operation of the heating unit.

(3) The branch circuit may be tapped as necessary to supply the various pieces of associated equipment, but there shall be no overcurrent protection supplied in the tap to any piece of assocated equipment the operation of which is essential to the proper operation of the heating unit, unless the control equipment is of such a nature that the heating unit will be shut down if the associated equipment fails to function due to the operation of the overcurrent device.

26-150 Disconnecting Means. Suitable disconnecting means shall be provided for the branch circuit.

26-152 Heating Equipment Rated At More than 400,000 Btu Per Hour

(1) Heating equipment whose individual input exceeds 400,000 Btu per hour, and which uses solid, liquid or gaseous fuels, shall be installed in accordance with Subrules (2) and (3).

(2) All electric power for the heating unit and associated equipment operating in connection therewith shall be obtained from a single feeder or branch circuit which shall be used for no other purpose.

(3) A suitable disconnecting means shall be provided for the feeder or branch circuit.

26-154 Mechanical Protection of Conductors. All branch circuit or tap conductors within 5 feet of the floor shall be adequately protected from mechanical injury.

Electrical Equipment Vaults

26-156 General

(1) For purposes of rules pertaining to the construction of electrical equipment vaults, the single word vault(s) shall be understood to have the same meaning as electrical equipment vault(s).

(2) Vaults shall not be used for storage purposes.

(3) Vaults, when required by the rules of this Code, shall be constructed in accordance with the following Rules 26-158 to 26-170.

26-158 Vault Size. Vaults shall be of such dimensions as to accommodate the installed equipment with at least the minimum clearances specified in the pertinent Sections of this Code.

26-160 Walls, Roofs and Floors

(1) Walls shall consist of:

(a) Reinforced concrete not less than 6 inches thick;

(b) Hard burned clay brick or solid concrete block not less than 8 inches thick; or

(c) Hollow concrete block of the cinder, clay, Haydite or calcareous aggregate type, all not less than 12 inches thick.

(2) Roofs or ceilings shall consist of reinforced concrete of adequate strength for the conditions, but in no case shall they be less than 6 inches thick.

(3) Floors shall consist of reinforced concrete of adequate strength for the conditions, but in no case shall they be less than 6 inches thick, except that where they are at excavation level, they may be of reinforced concrete not less than 4 inches thick.

(4) Walls, roofs or ceilings, and floors shall be adequately anchored together in a manner designed to resist dislodgement by explosion.

(5) Walls, floors, roofs or ceilings which form part of the building proper, and which comply with the foregoing requirements, shall be acceptable, all or in part, for standard vault construction.

(6) Load bearing partitions shall not form walls of a vault.

(7) Other types of fire-resisting construction may be accepted by special permission provided they have adequate strength for the application and a fire resisting rating of not less than 2½ hours.

26-162 Pipes and Ducts. Any pipes or ducts not necessary for fire protection or proper operation of the electrical installation shall not enter or pass through a vault.

26-164 Ventilation

(1) In a vault where self-cooled transformers or other equipment is installed, sufficient ventilation shall be provided so as to prevent the ambient air temperature exceeding 40° C. (104° F.).

(2) In a vault ventilated directly from an outdoor area by natural ventilation without the use of ducts, and where the transformers are the principal source of heat, the combined net area of inlet and outlet openings shall be not less than 3 square inches per kva of transformer capacity with a minimum of 1 square foot, except that:

(a) Where transformers in the power class are installed, ventilation requirements may be based on the actual full-load losses; and

(b) When one or more transformers are installed for emergency purposes only, and are not normally energized, they need not be considered in determining ventilation requirements.

(3) The inlet for fresh air shall lead from an outdoor area and shall terminate at a point not more than 3 feet above the floor level of the vault.

(4) Ventilation openings shall be covered by durable gratings, screens, louvres, or the equivalent, according to the treatment required to avoid unsafe conditions.

(5) Ventilating ducts shall be constructed of noncombustible materials, other than aluminum, and shall be constructed and installed to the satisfaction of an inspector.

(6) Where mechanical ventilation is installed, it shall be arranged so that:

(a) The vault ventilation is separate from the main building system;

(b) The vault temperature is thermostatically controlled;

(c) The ventilating fan is located so that it may be serviced without danger to personnel;

(d) A high temperature alarm is provided;

(e) The fan is cut off automatically in the event of fire; and

(f) A filter is provided in the air inlet if there is a possibility of dirt being drawn in.

(7) Where a ventilation duct or opening may pierce a vault enclosure into the building proper, or into an adjoining cut-off fire section or other building:

(a) The duct or opening shall be provided with a ⅜-inch steel plate automatic fire damper at the point where it emerges from the vault;

(b) The damper shall be mounted in a No. 10 MSG steel damper box provided with a hand hole for damper servicing;

(c) The damper box shall be bolted or be otherwise firmly secured to the vault structure so that, in the event of duct collapse, the damper will continue to function as a fire cut-off;

(d) The damper shall be mounted on the vault side of the opening, if it be of the swing type, so that pressure due to fire in the vault will tend to keep the damper closed;

(e) The automatic damper releasing device or system, such as a fusible link or other automatic fire detector, shall be of an approved type, arranged to close automatically only on the occurrence of fire within the vault, and not on temperature rise due to overheated equipment;

(f) Automatic dampers shall be designed and constructed so as to minimize the possibility of accidental closing;

(g) Damper hinge pins shall be of suitable nonferrous metal with ample clearance to prevent binding at hinge joints; and

(h) Dampers shall be checked for operation at least annually.

26-166 Drainage

(1) A vault shall be provided with a drain or other means which will carry off an accumulation of oil or water in the vault.

(2) Where local by-laws prohibit the draining of oil into the public sewage system, the drain may empty into a covered sump or pit, provided the cover is noncombustible and a trap is provided between the drain and the sump or pit to prevent flame travel to the latter.

(3) The floor shall slope downwards towards the drain with a minimum pitch of ¼ inch per foot.

26-168 Doors

(1) A doorway giving access to a vault shall be provided with an approved fire door except, with the permission of an inspector, doorways giving direct access to the outdoors.

(2) The use of a fire door in openings giving access to a vault from an outdoor area may be waived at the discretion of the inspection department.

(3) Each fire door shall be provided with hardware approved for use with that particular door.

(4) All doorways communicating with the building proper, or which may communicate fire to other property, shall be provided with a concrete sill of sufficient height to confine within the vault all the oil from the largest transformer or other piece of equipment installed therein, and in no case shall it be less than 4 inches in height.

(5) Doors shall open outward from the vault.

(6) Each door shall be provided with a substantial lock or padlock, and shall be kept locked so that unauthorized persons will not have access to the vault.

26-170 Illumination

(1) Each vault shall be provided with an adequate lighting system, controlled by one or more switches located near the entrance.

(2) Lighting fixtures shall be located so that they may be relamped without danger to personnel.

(3) Each vault shall have a grounding type receptacle, installed in accordance with Rule 26-130 (9) and located in a convenient location inside the vault and near the entrance.

Fences

26-172 General. Rules 26-174 to 26-200 apply to fences for guarding electrical equipment, especially transformers, when located outdoors.

26-174 Clearance to Equipment. The clearances between the fence and the frame or enclosure of any electrical equipment shall be not less than 8 feet, except that:

(a) Where live parts are exposed and the space is limited, a clearance of not less than 3½ feet may be permitted provided that the height of the fence enclosure is increased in accordance with Rule 26-176;

(b) Where all live parts within the fence enclosure are totally enclosed, the clearances may be reduced to not less than 3½ feet.

26-176 Height of Fence. The fence, excluding barbed wire, shall be not less than 6 feet high and, if the clearance is less than 8 feet as permitted by paragraph (a) of Rule 26-174, and if the equipment within the enclosure is not totally enclosed, the height of the fence shall be increased by one foot for each foot of reduced clearance.

26-178 Barbed Wire. The fence shall be topped with not fewer than 3 strands of barbed wire.

26-180 Setting of Posts

(1) Posts shall be set at a depth of 3½ feet for end, gate, and corner posts and 3 feet for line posts wherever ground conditions will permit.

(2) Where ground conditions will not permit this depth, extra bracing or concrete footings shall be provided.

(3) Concrete footings may be required for metal posts in any case.

(4) The spacing between posts shall be 10 feet maximum.

(5) End, gate, and corner posts shall be adequately braced against strain.

26-182 Gates

(1) Gates shall preferably open outwardly but, if it is necessary that they open inwardly, the gates when open shall not come into contact with the frame or enclosure of any electrical equipment.

(2) Gates shall be adequately braced as necessary and double gates shall be used where the width of opening exceeds 5 feet.

(3) Centre stops shall be provided for double gates.

(4) Gates shall have provision for securing with padlocks.

26-184 Chain Link Fabric

(1) Chain link fabric shall be securely attached to all posts and gate frames.

(2) Chain link fabric shall be reinforced as necessary at top and bottom to prevent distortion.

(3) Chain link fabric shall extend to within 2 inches of the ground.

26-186 Use of Wood

(1) Wood is not permitted as a fence material in many localities and should not be considered unless it is known that the inspection department will permit its use.

(2) Where wood slats are permitted, they shall:

(a) Extend to within 2 inches of the ground;

(b) Be placed on the outside of the stringers; and

(c) Be spaced not more than 1½ inches apart, except that, where the frame or enclosure of any electrical equipment is less than 6 feet from the fence, no spacing will be permitted.

26-188 Posts

(1) Metal posts shall be:

(a) Of galvanized steel;

(b) 3-inch nominal pipe size (7.59 pounds per foot) for corner, end, and gate posts; and

(c) 2-inch nominal pipe size (3.65 pounds per foot) for line posts.

(2) Wood posts shall be not less than 6 by 6 inches nominal size, and shall be suitably protected against decay.

26-190 Chain Link Fabric. Chain Link fabric shall be:

(a) Made of galvanized steel wire not less than 0.144 inch in diameter;

(b) Have a mesh not greater than two inches; and

(c) Be not less than 6 feet in width.

26-192 Top Rails. Top rails shall be:

(a) Of galvanized steel;

(b) Of 1¼-inch nominal pipe size (2.25 pounds per foot); and

(c) Provided with suitable expansion joints where necessary.

26-194 Wood Stringers. Wood stringers shall be not less than 2 by 6 inches nominal size if two are used and not less than 2 by 4 inches nominal size if three are used.

26-196 Wood Slats. Wood slats shall be not less than 1 by 4 inches nominal size.

26-198 Use of Aluminum. Aluminum may be used for all metal parts.

26-200 Preservative Treatment

(1) Steel or iron parts shall be either hot dip galvanized or electro-plated with non-ferrous metal.

(2) Aluminum parts shall be suitably treated against corrosion where in contact with the earth or with concrete.

(3) Wood shall be impregnated, treated, or well painted before assembly and, where in contact with the earth or concrete, shall be impregnated or otherwise suitably treated against decay.

SECTION 28—MOTORS

General

28-000 Scope. This Section applies to the installation of electric motors including installation, wiring methods conductors, protection, and control and is supplementary to, or amendatory of, the general requirements of this Code.

28-002 Location. Motors shall be installed only in locations where ordinary conditions exist unless they are of types specifically approved for the location.

28-004 Ventilation

(1) Adequate ventilation shall be provided so as to prevent the development around motors of ambient air temperatures exceeding 40° C. for integral horsepower motors and 30° C. for fractional horsepower motors, or the motor shall be specifically marked as suitable for use in the particular higher ambient temperatures in which they will operate.

(2) In locations where dust or flying material will collect in or on motors in such quantities as to interfere with the ventilating or cooling of motors, and thereby causing dangerous temperatures, suitable types of enclosed motors which will not heat under prevailing conditions, shall be used.

28-006 Guarding. Exposed live parts of motors and controllers operating at 50 volts or more between terminals shall be guarded against accidental contact by enclosure or by location, except that stationary motors having commutators, collectors and brush rigging located inside of motor end brackets and not conductively connected to supply circuits operating at more than 150 volts to ground, may have live parts exposed.

28-008 Methods of Guarding. The following are considered to be acceptable methods of guarding motors by:

(a) Installation in a room or enclosure which is accessible only to qualified persons;

(b) Installation on a suitable balcony, gallery, or platform, elevated and arranged so as to exclude other than qualified persons;

(c) Elevation 8 feet or more above the floor;

(d) Guard rail if the motor operates at 750 volts, or less.

Wiring Methods

28-010 Stationary Motors

(1) The wiring method for stationary motors rated 1 horsepower or more at 110 volts or more shall be either rigid conduit, flexible conduit, electrical metallic tubing, armoured cable, mineral-insulated cable, or aluminum-sheathed cable, except:

(a) In private residences; or

(b) Where,

(i) Maintenance requires a speed of changeover that makes it impractical;

(ii) The overall size of conductors makes it impractical to enclose them in conduit;

(iii) The motor leads are adequately protected by other acceptable means; or

(iv) It is essential that noise or vibration of the motor is not transmitted.

(2) The wiring method for stationary motors rated less than 1 horsepower, or less than 110 volts, or which are installed in private residences, may be armoured cable, or, if not subject to mechanical injury, non-metallic-sheathed cable.

28-012 Portable Motors. Connections to portable motors may be made with flexible cord which shall have a serviceability not less than that of Type S cord unless the motor forms part of an approved motor-operated device.

Conductor Sizes

28-014 Conductors, Individual Motors

(1) The conductors of a branch circuit which supplies an individual motor (other than a motor used for short-time, intermittent, periodic, or varying duty) shall be of a size at least that specified in Table 26 for the full load current rating of the motor.

(2) For motors having full load current ratings larger than those included in Table 26, the size of the branch circuit conductors shall be selected from Tables 2 or 4, and the conductors shall have an ampacity at least equal to 125 per cent of the full load current rating of the motor.

(3) For motors used on short-time, intermittent periodic, or varying duty, the size of the branch circuit conductors shall be selected from Tables 2 or 4, and the conductors shall have an ampacity at least equal to the full load current rating of the motor multiplied by the percentage given in Table 27 for the duty involved, except that a lower percentage may be used for varying duty by special permission.

(4) Sub-circuit conductors, supplying individual motors from a single set of branch circuit overcurrent devices protecting two or more motors, may be selected in accordance with Subrule (1), provided that the sub-circuit conductors are not over 25 feet long and have an ampacity at least one-third that of the branch circuit conductors from which they are supplied.

(5) Sub-circuit conductors having a length of more than 25 feet, and supplying individual motors from a single set of branch circuit overcurrent devices protecting two or more motors, shall have an ampacity at least equal to that specified for the branch circuit conductors from which they are supplied.

28-016 Branch Circuit Conductors, Two or More Motors

(1) Branch circuit conductors supplying two or more morors shall be selected from Tables 2 or 4, and shall have an ampacity at least equal to the sum of the full load current ratings of all the motors in the group plus 25 per cent of the full load current rating of the largest motor in the group.

(2) Where only a part of the group of motors can operate at any one time, or where the motors are used on short-time, intermittent, periodic, or varying duty, special permission may be granted for the use of branch circuit conductors of an ampacity less than that specified above, provided that:

(a) The conductors have sufficient ampacity for the maximum load, determined by the size and number of motors and the character of their loads and duties; and

(b) The rating or setting of the branch circuit overcurrent devices is in accordance with the requirements of this Section for the size of the conductors used.

28-018 Feeder Conductors

(1) For a feeder supplying motor branch circuits only, the size of the feeder conductors shall be calculated in accordance with Rule 28-016 (1) or (2).

(2) Where a feeder supplies both motor loads and other loads, the ampacity of the conductors shall be calculated in accordance with Rules 28-014 and 28-016 plus the requirements of the other loads.

(3) The size of a tap from a feeder to a single set of overcurrent devices protecting a motor branch circuit shall be not less than the size of the feeder except that if the conductors of the tap are not over 25 feet long and have an ampacity at least one-third that of the feeder, the size of the tap may be calculated in accordance with Rules 28-014 and 28-016.

28-020 Secondary Conductors

(1) Conductors connecting the secondaries of wound rotor motors to their controllers shall be selected from Tables 2 or 4 and shall have an ampacity at least:

(a) 125 per cent of the full load secondary current of the motor if for continuous duty; or

(b) The percentage of the full load specified in Table 27 if for other than continuous duty.

(2) Ampacities of conductors connecting secondary resistors to their controller shall be at least that determined by applying the percentage in Table 28 to the maximum current which the devices are required to carry.

Protection, Overcurrent

28-022 Branch Circuit Overcurrent Protection

Each ungrounded conductor of a motor branch circuit shall be protected by an overcurrent device conforming to the following:

(a) For a branch circuit supplying a single motor except as provided in paragraph (b), the rating or setting of the overcurrent devices shall not exceed the maximum value specified in:

(i) Table 26 for the full load current rating of the motor; or

(ii) Table 29 for motors having full load current ratings larger than those included in Table 26 and for motor circuits protected by instantaneous circuit breakers;

(b) If the overcurrent protection specified in Table 26 or 29 will not permit the motor to start, the rating or setting may be increased to either a value not exceeding 400 per cent of the full load current rating of the motor or as permitted by Rule 28-032;

(c) For a branch circuit supplying two or more motors, the rating or setting of the overcurrent devices shall not exceed the maximum value permitted by Rule 28-026.

28-024 Feeder Overcurrent Protection.

(1) For a feeder supplying motor branch circuits only, the rating or setting of the feeder overcurrent devices shall not exceed a maximum value calculated by determining the size of the overcurrent devices permitted for the largest motor supplied by the feeder, and adding thereto the sum of the full load current ratings of all the other motors which may be in operation at the same time.

(2) Where a feeder supplies a group of motors, two or more of which are required to start simultaneously, and the feeder overcurrent devices as calculated in accordance with Subrule (1) are not sufficient to allow the motors to start, the rating or setting of the feeder overcurrent devices may be increased as necessary, to a maximum value not to exceed that which is permitted by Table 26 or 29 for a single motor having a full load current rating equal to the sum of the full load current ratings of the greatest number of motors which must start simultaneously, provided this value does not exceed 300 per cent of the ampacity of the feeder conductors.

(3) Where a feeder supplies one or more motor branch circuits together with other loads, the overcurrent protection required for the motor loads may be calculated in accordance with these Rules and added to the requirements for the other loads supplied by the feeder.

20-026 Grouping of Motors on a Single Branch Circuit. Two or more motors may be grouped under the protection of a single set of branch circuit overcurrent devices having a rating or setting calculated in accordance with Rule 28-024 (1), provided that the fire hazard is reduced by conforming to any one of the following:

(a) The rating or setting of the overcurrent devices does not exceed 15 amperes;

(b) All the controls of the motors to be grouped are specifically approved for group fusing, and the rating of the branch circuit fuses does not exceed the maximum value permitted for the lowest rated overload device involved;

(c) The motors are used on a machine tool or a woodworking machine, and:

(i) The control equipment is arranged so that all contacts which open motor primary circuits are in enclosures, either forming part of the machine base or for separate mounting, having a wall thickness not less than 0.0667 inch (14 MSG) for steel, $\frac{3}{32}$ inch for malleable cast iron, or $\frac{1}{8}$ inch for other cast metal, having hinged doors with substantial catches, and having no openings to the floor or the foundation on which the machine rests; and

(ii) The rating or setting of the overcurrent devices does not exceed 200 amperes at 250 volts or less, or 100 amperes at voltages from 251 to 750;

(d) All the motors are operated by a single controller approved for the purpose, as provided for in Rule 28-048 (1) (d); or

(e) Special permission is granted for the grouping of motors which form part of the co-ordinated drive of a single machine or process, wherein the failure of one motor to operate creates a hazard unless all the other motors in the group are stopped.

28-028 Overcurrent Protection for Large Motors. Where motors have a full load current rating larger than those given in Table 26, the rating or setting of the overcurrent devices shall be calculated in accordance with Table 29.

28-030 Size of Fuse Holders. Where fuses are used for motor branch circuit or feeder protection, the fuse holder shall not be of a smaller size than required to accommodate the fuse specified by Table 26, except that where fuses having time delay appropriate for the starting characteristics of the motors are used, fuse holders of smaller size may be used.

28-032 Instantaneous Circuit Breakers. Where instantaneous circuit breakers which are strongly affected by the initial peak inrush to the motor are used, a setting higher than 700 per cent may be allowed if the circuit breaker forms part of an approved combination motor starter.

Protection, Overload

28-034 Overload Protection Required. Each motor shall have individual overload protection except in the case of:

(a) A manually started motor rated at 1 horsepower or less, which is on a branch circuit having overcurrent protection rated or set at not more than 15 amperes or on an individual branch circuit having overcurrent protection as specified in Table 26, if it may be readily determined from the starting location that the motor is running;

(b) A motor constructed so that it cannot be overloaded; or

(c) A motor whose operating requirements are such that it is impracticable to obtain proper overload protection.

28-036 Types of Overload Protection. Overload devices shall be in accordance with one or more of the following requirements:

(a) A separate overload device which is responsive to motor current, rated or set at values not greater than those specified in Table 26, and which may combine the functions of overload and overcurrent protection if it is capable of properly protecting the motor both under overload and short-circuit conditions;

(b) A protective device, integral with the motor, responsive to motor current or to both motor current and temperature, and specifically approved for use with the motor which it protects;

(c) A protective device responsive to motor temperature only and arranged to cut off power to the motor or to actuate a warning signal, which device may only be used in conjunction with paragraph (a) or in lieu thereof under the conditions of paragraph (c) of Rule 28-034.

28-038 Automatically Started Motors. An automatically started motor having a rating of 1 horsepower or less shall have overload protection conforming to one of the following conditions:

(a) A current responsive device as required by paragraph (a) of Rule 28-036 which will interrupt the current to the motor under prolonged overload equal to 125 per cent of the full load current rating of the motor;

(b) A protective device conforming to the requirements of paragraph (b) of Rule 28-036;

(c) A combination of protective devices as specified in paragraphs (a) and (c) of Rule 28-036, with the temperature responsive device so arranged that the motor will be disconnected from the source of supply if the temperature exceeds a safe limit, unless the conditions of paragraph (b) of Rule 28-034 obtain, or it is part of an approved assembly in which the motor is not normally subjected to overload and which is also equipped with other safety controls which protect the motor from damage due to stalled-rotor current and on which a nameplate, located so as to be visible after installation, indicates that such protective features are provided.

20-040 Number and Location of Overload Protective Devices

(1) The number and location of current responsive overload devices shall, unless otherwise required by the inspection department, be as follows:

(a) If fuses are used, one in each ungrounded conductor;

(b) If devices other than fuses are used, the number and location of tripping elements shall be as specified in Table 25.

(2) Notwithstanding Subrule (1), where there is more than normal risk of damage to a three-phase motor when a single-phase condition occurs in the primary of the supply transformer, suitable protection shall be installed to prevent such damage.

28-042 Shunting of Overload Protection During Starting. Overload protection may be shunted or cut out of the circuit during the starting period provided that the device by which the protection is shunted or cut out cannot be left in the starting position and provided that the overcurrent device is in the motor circuit during the starting period.

Protection, Undervoltage

28-044 Undervoltage Protection Required. Motors shall be disconnected from the source of supply in case of low voltage by one of the following means unless it is evident that no hazard will be incurred through the lack of such disconnection:

(a) When automatic re-starting is liable to create a hazard, the motor control device shall provide low-voltage protection;

(b) When it is necessary or desirable that a motor stop on failure or reduction of voltage and automatically re-start on return of voltage, the motor control device shall provide low-voltage release.

Control

28-048 Control Required

(1) Motors shall be provided with equipment for starting and stopping them which shall conform to the following:

(a) For a single-phase portable motor of ⅓ horsepower or less, 125 volts or less, a plug and receptacle rated at not more than 15 amperes 125 volts and not rated in horsepower may be used;

(b) For a motor controlled by a manually-operated general-purpose alterating-current switch complying with Rule 14-068, the switch need not be marked in horsepower but its ampere rating shall be at least 125 per cent of the rated load current of the motor;

(c) For a 2-wire portable motor of not more than ⅓ horsepower at not more than 125 volts, a single-pole motor-circuit switch rated in horsepower not less than the motor rating may be used;

(d) For two or more motors which are required to operate together, a single controller approved for such service may be used;

(e) For a motor where the controller is specifically approved for use with that motor, it need not be rated in horsepower;

(f) For all other cases, a motor shall be provided with individual equipment rated in horsepower not less than the motor rating.

(2) Where additional or supplementary control equipment is provided, such equipment, if required to start or stop the motor, shall conform to the applicable paragraphs of Subrule (1).

(3) The motor controller need not open the circuit in all conductors to the motor unless it serves also as the disconnecting means.

28-050 Starters having Different Starting and Running Positions

(1) Manual motor starters having different starting and running positions shall be constructed so that they cannot remain in the starting position.

(2) Magnetic starters having different starting and running positions shall be constructed so that they cannot remain in the starting position under normal operating conditions.

28-052 Location of Control

(1) Every motor shall be controlled from a point within sight of and not more than 30 feet from the motor and the machinery driven by the motor.

(2) Where the controller is not within sight of the motor, a manually operable switch shall be installed within sight of, and not more than 30 feet from, the motor, such switch to be capable of disconnecting all ungrounded conductors supplying the motor either directly or by means of a remotely controlled device capable of preventing the motor from being started from any other location.

Disconnecting Means

28-054 Disconnecting Means Required

(1) Every motor and its controller shall be provided with a disconnecting means which:

(a) Will open all ungrounded conductors to the controller and motor; and

(b) Is located within sight of the controller, except that in a commercial or industrial premises where a permanent trained electrical maintenance staff is available, a disconnecting means capable of being locked in the open position may be installed out of sight of the motor and its controller with the permission of an inspector.

(2) The disconnecting means referred to in Subrule (1) shall conform to one of the following:

(a) An approved attachment plug and receptacle may serve as disconnecting means for a portable motor;

(b) A manually-operated, across-the-line type of starter may serve as both starter and disconnecting means;

(c) An isolating switch or a general use switch used as an isolating switch may be used as a disconnecting means for motors of more than 50 horsepower;

(d) In all other cases the disconnecting means shall consist of a motor circuit switch, a circuit breaker, or equivalent approved device capable of safely establishing and interrupting the stalled rotor current of the motor.

28-056 Single Disconnecting Means for a Group of Motors. A single disconnecting means may serve two or more motors which are grouped on a single branch circuit.

28-058 Rating of Disconnecting Means. The disconnecting means shall have a rating not less than the following:

(a) A motor circuit switch for a single motor shall have a horsepower rating not less than that of the motor it serves;

(b) A circuit breaker or isolating switch for a single motor shall have a current rating not less than 115 per cent of the full load current rating of the motor it serves;

(c) A fused motor circuit switch serving a group of motors under the protection of a single set of fuses need not have a rating greater than that required to accommodate the proper size of fuse;

(d) An unfused motor circuit switch serving a group of motors under the protection of a single set of fuses need not have a rating greater than that required if a fused switch were used;

(e) A disconnecting means serving a group of motors on a single circuit, shall have:

(i) A horsepower rating not less than that of the largest motor in the group, if a motor circuit switch is used; and

(ii) A current rating not less than 115 per cent of the full load current rating of the largest motor in the group plus the sum of the full load current ratings of all the other motors in the group which may be in operation at the same time.

28-060 Disconnecting Means on Portable Machinery. Motor driven machinery of a movable or portable type for industrial use shall have a motor circuit switch or circuit breaker mounted on the machine and accessible to the operator.

SECTION 30—INSTALLATION OF INTERIOR LIGHTING EQUIPMENT

General

30-000 Scope. This Section is supplementary to, or amendatory of, the general requirements of this Code and applies to:

(a) The installation of interior lighting fixtures, lampholders, pendents, rosettes, incandescent filament lamps, electric discharge lamps; and

(b) The wiring and electrical equipment used in conjunction therewith.

30-002 Voltage

(1) Circuit voltages shall not exceed 150 volts to ground, except that in industrial and commercial establishments where a trained maintenance staff is available, the voltage may exceed 150 volts to ground but shall not exceed 600 volts to ground for lighting branch circuits supplying fixtures that are equipped with:

(a) Mogul-base screw-shell lampholders only; or

(b) Lampholders of other types approved for the application which are located at least 8 feet above floor level and which do not have switch control as an integral part of the fixture.

(2) The voltage between conductors used for incandescent lighting shall not exceed 150 volts in dwelling occupancies.

Location of Lighting Equipment

30-004 Near or Over Combustible Material

(1) Lighting fixtures installed where combustible material is liable to be stored shall be equipped with shades or guards so as to limit the temperature to which the combustible material may be subjected to a maximum of 90°C. (194° F.).

(2) Fixtures and lampholders installed under the conditions of Subrule (1) shall be of the unswitched type.

(3) Where lighting fixtures or lampholders are installed over readily combustible material, every fixture and lampholder shall be controlled by an individual wall switch, but a wall switch may control more than one fixture or lampholder if every fixture and lampholder is located at least 8 feet above floor level, or located or guarded so that the lamps cannot be readily removed or damaged.

30-006 Near Flammable Material. Switches and lampholders installed under the conditions of Rule 30-004 (1) shall have no exposed wiring.

30-008 In Show Windows

(1) No lighting fixture having exposed wiring other than a fixture of a chain suspension type shall be used in a show window.

(2) No lampholder having a paper or fibre lining shall be used in a show window.

(3) Exposed flexible cord or fixture wire shall not be used to supply permanently installed lighting fixtures in show cases or wall cases.

30-010 In Clothes Closets

(1) Every lighting fixture installed in a clothes closet shall be installed on the ceiling or on the front wall above the door of the clothes closet, unless mounted on the trim or sidewall of the doorway and approved for the application.

(2) Electric fixtures of the pendent type shall not be installed in clothes closets.

30-012 Near Grounded Metal or In Damp Locations. The exposed non-current-carrying metal parts of lighting fixtures and electrical equipment used in connection therewith in basements, bathrooms, kitchens, or other places in which they are in proximity to grounded metal objects, or where dampness may exist, shall be:

(a) Installed out-of-reach; or

(b) Grounded.

Installation of Lighting Equipment

30-014 Live Parts

(1) Lighting fixtures, lampholders, and rosettes shall be installed so that no live part is exposed to contact while they are in use.

(2) Where lampholders and switches have exposed accessible terminals, they shall not be installed in metal fixture-canopies or in open bases of portable lamps.

30-016 Supports

(1) Every lighting fixture, lampholder and rosette shall be securely supported.

(2) Where a lighting fixture weighs more than 6 pounds or exceeds 16 inches in any dimension, it shall not be supported by the screw shell of the lampholder.

(3) Where a lighting fixture weighs more than 25 pounds, it shall not be supported directly by an outlet box which is mounted on a bar hanger.

(4) Where a lighting fixture weighs more than 50 pounds, it shall be supported independently of the outlet box.

30-018 Conduit Attachments. Where a lighting fixture is attached to a conduit system or other grounded support it shall be connected thereto both mechanically and electrically.

30-020 Outlet Boxes to be Covered

(1) Every outlet box used with lighting equipment shall be provided with a cover or covered by a fixture-canopy, lampholder, rosette, or other device.

(2) Where any part of a combustible wall or ceiling is exposed between the edge of a fixture-canopy or pan and an outlet box, the part of the wall or ceiling shall be covered with non-combustible material.

30-022 Wiring Space

(1) Every fixture canopy and outlet box shall be installed so as to provide adequate space for conductors and connections.

(2) Every lighting fixture shall be so constructed and installed that conductors in the fixture and outlet box are not subjected to temperatures greater than those for which the conductors are approved.

30-024 Recessed Fixtures

(1) The recessed portion of every recessed lighting fixture enclosure shall be at least ½ inch from combustible material at every point other than at a point of support.

(2) Every recessed lighting fixture shall be so installed that adjacent combustible material is not subjected to temperatures in excess of 90° C. (194° F.).

(3) Where a lighting fixture is recessed in fire-resisting material in a building of fire-resisting construction, the fire-resisting material may be subjected to temperatures of not more than 150° C. (302° F.), but the fixture shall be plainly marked as approved for the service.

30-026 Connections

(1) Every lighting fixture shall be installed so that the connections between the fixture conductors and the branch circuit conductors may be inspected without disconnecting any part of the wiring, unless the connection employs a plug and receptacle.

(2) Lighting fixtures weighing more than 10 pounds shall be installed so that the branch circuit wiring connections and the grounding connections will be accessible for inspection without removing the fixture supports.

(3) Branch circuit conductors within 3 inches of a ballast within the ballast compartment shall have a maximum allowable conductor temperature rating of not less than 90° C. (194° F.).

30-028 Fixture as a Wireway

(1) Lighting fixtures shall not be used as a raceway for circuit conductors unless the fixtures meet the requirements for approved raceways, except that the conductors of a 2-wire, a 3-wire, or a 4-wire branch circuit supplying the fixtures may be carried through:

(a) An installation of fixtures approved for end-to-end assembly to form a continuous raceway; or

(b) Fixtures which are connected together by approved wiring methods.

(2) Ballasts located within lighting fixtures referred to in Subrule (1) shall be deemed to be sources of heat and the conductors supplying the fixtures shall:

(a) Have a voltage rating not less than 600 volts;

(b) Have a temperature rating not less than 90°C. (194° F.);

(c) Be not smaller than No. 14 AWG; and

(d) Be of a type listed in:

(i) Table 19, as being suitable for use in raceways; or

(ii) Table 11, as being suitable for use in accordance with this Rule, provided the conductors do not extend beyond the fixtures through raceways more than 6 feet long.

30-030 Polarization of Fixtures. Every lighting fixture shall be wired so that all screw-shells of its lampholders are connected to the same fixture or circuit conductor or terminal which shall be identified.

30-032 Combustible Shades and Enclosures. Every lighting fixture having a combustible shade or enclosure shall be installed so as to provide an adequate air space between the lamps and the combustible shade or enclosure.

30-034 Minimum Height of Low Fixtures

(1) Where a rigid lighting fixture or lampholder is located at a height of less than 7 feet above the floor and is readily accessible, the fixture or lampholder shall be protected from mechanical injury by a guard.

(2) A short flexible drop light or fixture may be used in place of the rigid fixture in Subrule (1) as determined by location.

30-036 Lighting Fixtures Exposed to Flying Objects. Where lighting fixtures are installed in gymnasiums or similar locations where the lamps are normally exposed to damage from flying objects, the lamps shall be guarded by one of the following means:

(a) Metal reflectors which effectively protect the lamps;

(b) Metal screens; or

(c) Enclosures of armoured glass or suitable plastic material.

30-038 Canopy Switches. Canopy switches shall only be attached to lighting fixtures and fixture canopies having knockouts suitably constructed and located for the accommodation of such switches, or they may be located in the chain.

30-040 Lighting Equipment in Damp Locations or Near Grounded Metal

(1) Where lampholders or fixtures are installed in damp locations or within 8 feet vertically or 5 feet horizontally of laundry tubs, plumbing fixtures, steam pipes or other grounded metal work or grounded surfaces, the lampholders or fixtures shall be controlled by a wall switch, except as permitted in Subrule (2).

(2) A lampholder having an outer shell of insulating material, or a lighting fixture, installed under the conditions of Subrule (1), may have an integral switch if the operating means for the switch is suitably insulated from live parts and, if of the pullchain type, conforms to Rule 30-082.

(3) Switches (including wall switches) for controlling lampholders or fixtures covered by Subrules (1) and (2) shall not be located within reach of a person in a shower or bathtub.

30-042 Basement Stair Lighting. Lamps which light basement stairs shall be controlled by a switch located at a convenient point above the stairs.

Wiring of Lighting Equipment

30-044 Wiring of Fixtures

(1) All electrical wiring on or within a lighting fixture shall be:

(a) Neatly arranged without excess wiring;

(b) Not exposed to mechanical injury; and

(c) Arranged so that it is not subjected to temperature above those for which it is approved.

(2) No joint or tap shall be located within an arm or stem of a lighting fixture.

30-046 Conductor Size. No conductor for a lighting fixture shall be smaller than No. 18 AWG.

30-048 Conductor Insulation. Every lighting fixture shall be wired with conductors having insulation suitable for the voltage and temperatures to which the conductors may be subjected.

30-050 Conductors on Movable Parts

(1) Stranded conductors shall be used on chain fixtures and other movable parts of lighting equipment.

(2) Conductors shall be arranged so that the weight of the lighting fixture or the movable parts does not place undue tension on the connections.

(3) All conductors which supply movable parts of lighting equipment shall be protected against mechanical injury.

30-052 Pendent Conductors for Incandescent Filament Lamps

(1) Where pendent lampholders having permanently attached leads are used with other than festoon wiring, they shall be hung from separated stranded rubber- or thermoplastic-insulated pendent conductors which are connected directly to the circuit conductors but supported independently thereof.

(2) Where thermoplastic-insulated pendent conductors are used in locations where they may be subjected to temperatures lower than 14° F. (minus 10° C.) they shall be of a type approved for the purpose.

(3) Where the pendent conductors supply heavy-duty or medium-base screw-shell lampholders, they shall be not smaller than No. 14 AWG.

(4) Where the pendent conductors supply intermediate or candelabra-base lampholders other than approved Christmas-tree and decorative lighting-outfits, the conductors shall be not smaller than No. 18 AWG.

(5) Where the pendent conductors are longer than 3 feet, they shall be twisted together.

30-054 Wiring of Recessed Fixtures

(1) Conductors having insulation suitable for the temperature encountered shall be used for wiring recessed fixtures.

(2) Recessed fixtures having terminal connections which operate at temperatures higher than 60° C. (140° F.) shall have circuit conductors according to one of the following:

(a) Branch-circuit conductors having insulation suitable for the temperature encountered may be run directly to the fixture;

(b) Tap connection conductors having insulation suitable for the temperature encountered shall:

(i) Extend at least 4 feet but not more than 6 feet from the fixture; and

(ii) Be run in a suitable metal raceway from the fixture terminal connection to an outlet box placed not less than 1 foot from the fixture.

(3) Pre-wired recessed fixtures shall be accessible in accordance with Rule 12-286 and if access is through an opening from below, the following requirements shall be met:

(a) The electrical components of the fixtures, including the socket, the leads to the socket, and the connections in the junction box must be capable of extraction through the opening for service; and

(b) The cover of the junction box must be capable of removal by a hand tool held below the ceiling.

30-056 Wiring of Ceiling Outlet Boxes

(1) Branch circuit conductors having insulation suitable for 90° C. (194° F.) shall be used for the wiring of all ceiling outlet boxes intended for use with lighting fixtures.

(2) For purposes of compliance with this Rule, the ampacity of 90° C. wire shall be limited to the ampacity of 60° C. wire.

30-058 Wiring of Show Window Fixtures

(1) Where show window lighting fixtures are closely spaced, they may be connected to asbestos-insulated conductors within the show window.

(2) The connection of show window lighting fixtures to the circuit conductors shall be in a junction box.

(3) The junction box shall be maintained at a sufficient distance from the lighting fixture to ensure that the circuit conductors are not subjected to temperatures in excess of their rating.

Grounding of Lighting Equipment

30-060 General Grounding Requirements. Where required, every non-current-carrying metal part of lighting fixtures and lighting equipment shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

30-062 Grounding with Metallic Wiring Systems. Where a metal lighting fixture is installed on an outlet wired with grounded metal raceway or grounded armoured cable, the fixture shall be grounded.

30-064 Grounding with Non-Metallic Wiring Systems

(1) Where a metal lighting fixture or plate is installed on an outlet wired with knob-and-tube wiring or non-metallic sheathed cable on a circuit operating at not more than 150 volts to ground, the fixture or plate shall be grounded if:

(a) Grounding is required by Rule 30-068;

(b) It is mounted on a metal lath ceiling or wall; or

(c) It is mounted on a metal ceiling or wall.

(2) Where grounding would be required in the case of metal fixtures and plates and where a wiring system does not afford a ready means for grounding the exposed non-current-carrying metal parts of fixtures or lampholders, lighting fixtures made of insulating material or lampholders having shells of insulating material shall be used.

30-066 Grounding of Equipment over 150 Volts to Ground

(1) Where a metal lighting fixture or a transformer enclosure is on a circuit operating at more than 150 volts to ground, the fixture or enclosure shall be grounded.

(2) Where exposed metal parts, other than those referred to in Subrule (1), of lighting equipment on circuits operating at more than 150 volts to ground are not insulated from ground and from other conducting surfaces and are accessible, they also shall be grounded.

(3) Where lamp-tie-wires, mounting screws, clips and decorative bands on glass lamps on circuits operating at more than 150 volts to ground are at least 1½ inches from the terminals of the lamp, they need not be grounded.

30-068 Grounding of Fixtures, Lampholders, and Face Plates Near Grounded Surfaces

(1) Metal face plates and the non-current-carrying metal parts of fixtures and lampholders shall, except as permitted in Subrule (2), be grounded:

(a) If installed in damp locations; or

(b) If installed in bathrooms, shower rooms, kitchens, or other locations within 8 feet vertically or 5 feet horizontally of laundry tubs, bathtubs, shower baths, plumbing fixtures, steam pipes or other grounded metal work or grounded surfaces.

(2) Lampholders installed under the conditions of Subrule (1) in other than a bathroom, shower room, or kitchen may have exposed ungrounded metal operating means if the means conforms to the requirements of Rule 30-082 and the lampholders have outer shells of insulating material.

Rosettes and Lampholders

30-070 Lampholders. Lampholders of the screw-shell type shall be installed for use as lampholders only.

30-072 Lampholder Rating with Incandescent Lamps

(1) Every medium-base lampholder shall have a rating of 660 watts, 250 volts.

(2) Where medium-base lampholders are not of special heat-resisting construction, they shall not be used with incandescent lamps rated in excess of 300 watts.

(3) Where medium-base lampholders are used with incandescent lamps rated at 300 watts, the lamps shall be provided with a heat-deflecting disc or equivalent device.

(4) Mogul-base lampholders shall not be used with incandescent lamps rated at more than 1,500 watts.

30-074 Connections to Lampholders. The identified grounded supply conductor shall be connected to permanently connected lampholders at the screw-shell binding post, which shall be identified.

30-076 Pin-Type Lampholders. Lampholders having pin-type terminals shall be used only for temporary wiring.

30-078 Conductor Mechanical Protection. Where a metal lampholder is attached to a flexible cord, the inlet for the flexible cord shall be equipped with an insulating bushing but if the lampholder is provided with a side outlet, a metal grommet may be used.

30-080 Switched Type Lampholders. Where lampholders of the switched type are used on unidentified 2-wire circuits tapped from the ungrounded conductors of multi-wire circuits, the switching devices of the lampholders shall disconnect both conductors of the circuit simultaneously.

30-082 Switched Type Lampholders. On switched type lampholders employing pull-type mechanisms, the operating means shall be:

(a) Cords made of approved insulating materials;

(b) Cords of approved insulating materials, or chains with links of approved insulating material, connected to metal chains as close as possible to where the chains emerge from the enclosure; or

(c) Metal chains without insulating links provided that the lampholder is approved as not requiring insulating links.

30-084 Lampholders in Wet or Damp Locations

(1) Where lampholders are installed in wet or damp locations, they shall be of the weatherproof type.

(2) Where lampholders installed in wet or damp locations are of insulating material, they shall be capable of resisting mechanical shock.

30-086 Approved Rosettes

(1) Fusible rosettes shall not be used.

(2) Separate rosettes which make possible a change in polarity shall not be used.

30-088 Rosettes in Wet or Damp Locations. Where rosettes are installed in wet or damp locations, they shall be of the weatherproof type.

30-090 Portable Handlamps

(1) Where a lampholder of the portable handlamp type is supplied through a flexible cord, the lampholder shall be of moulded composition or other type approved for the purpose.

(2) Every portable handlamp shall be equipped with a handle of moulded composition or other approved material.

(3) Where portable handlamps are subject to mechanical damage or may come in contact with combustible material, they shall be equipped with a substantial guard attached to the lampholder or to the handle.

Electric-Discharge Lighting Systems Operating at 1,000 Volts or Less

30-092 Rules for Discharge Lighting Systems, 1,000 Volts or Less. Rules 30-094 to 30-106 apply to electrical equipment used with electric-discharge lighting systems operating at 1,000 volts or less.

30-094 Oil-Filled Transformers. Transformers of the oil-filled type shall not be used.

30-096 Direct-Current Equipment. Fixtures shall not be installed on a direct-current circuit unless they are equipped with auxiliary equipment and resistors designed for direct-current operation, and the fixtures are so marked.

30-098 Voltages, Dwelling Occupancies. Where equipment has an open-circuit voltage of more than 300 volts, it shall not be installed in dwelling occupancies unless the equipment is designed so that no live parts are exposed during the insertion or removal of lamps.

30-100 Fixture Mounting

(1) Where fixtures are to be installed on combustible low-density cellulose fibreboard, the fixtures shall have thermally protected ballasts.

(2) Combustible low-density cellulose fibreboard is considered to include sheets, panels, and tiles which have a density of 20 pounds per cubic foot or less, and which are formed of bonded plant fibre material, but does not include solid or laminated wood, nor fibreboard which has a density in excess of 20 pounds per cubic foot.

30-102 Auxiliary Equipment not Integral with Fixtures

(1) Where the reactors, electrical capacitors, resistors, and other auxiliary equipment are not installed as part of the lighting fixture assembly, they shall be enclosed in an accessible permanently installed metal cabinet.

(2) Adequate provision shall be made for the dissipation of heat from enclosed auxiliary equipment and the conductors supplying the auxiliary equipment.

(3) The metal cabinet shall be installed as close as possible to the lamps.

(4) Where display cases are not permanently installed, no part of a secondary circuit shall be included in more than one case.

30-104 Control

(1) The fixtures and lamp installations shall be controlled by a switch or circuit breaker.

(2) Where a switch is used, it shall:

(a) Have a current rating of not less than twice the current rating of the lamps or transformers:

(b) Be of a type approved with the assembly;

(c) Be a manually-operated general-purpose alternating-current switch complying with Rule 14-068; or

(d) Be a snap switch having an "F" rating complying with Rule 14-066; or

(e) Be a manually operated specific-use ac switch complying with Rule 14-070.

(3) Where a circuit breaker is used, it shall comply with the requirements of Rule 14-058.

30-106 Branch Circuit Capacity

(1) Where lighting branch circuits supply fixtures employing ballasts, transformers or auto-transformers, the load on the branch circuits shall be computed on the basis of the total amperes of the units and not on the watts of the lamps.

(2) The aggregate capacity of fixtures connected to a lighting branch circuit shall not exceed 80 per cent of the branch circuit overcurrent protection.

Electric-Discharge Lighting Systems Operating at More Than 1,000 Volts

30-108 Rules for Discharge Lighting Systems, More than 1,000 Volts. Rules 30-110 to 30-130 apply to electrical equipment used with electric-discharge lighting systems operating at more than 1,000 volts.

30-110 Voltages, Dwelling Occupancies. Where equipment has an open-circuit voltage of more than 1,000 volts, it shall not be installed in dwelling occupancies.

30-112 Control

(1) The fixtures and lamp installations shall be controlled singly or in groups by an externally operated switch or circuit breaker which opens all ungrounded primary conductors.

(2) The switch or circuit breaker shall be:

(a) Installed within sight of the fixtures or lamps; or

(b) Provided with a means for locking it in the open position.

(3) The switch shall:

(a) Have a current rating of not less than twice the current rating of the transformer or transformers controlled by it;

(b) Be of a type approved for the purpose;

(c) Be a manually-operated general-purpose alternating-current switch complying with Rule 14-068; or

(d) Be a snap switch having an "F" rating complying with Rule 14-066; or

(e) Be a manually operated specific-use ac switch complying with Rule 14-070.

(4) The circuit breaker shall comply with the requirements of Rule 14-058.

30-114 Transformer Rating

(1) Every transformer and ballast shall have a secondary open-circuit voltage of not more than 15,000 volts, except that every transformer and ballast of the open-core-and-coil type shall have a secondary open-circuit voltage of not more than 7,500 volts.

(2) The secondary current rating shall be not more than 240 milliamperes, except that, where the secondary open-circuit voltage exceeds 7,500 volts, the secondary current rating shall not be more than 120 milliamperes.

30-116 Liquid Filled Transformers. Transformers of the liquid filled type shall not be used unless they are filled with a liquid which will not burn in air.

30-118 Transformers, Secondary Connection

(1) The high-voltage windings of transformers operating at more than 1,000 volts shall not be connected in series or in parallel, but where each of two transformers has one end of its high-voltage winding grounded and connected to the enclosure, the high-voltage windings may be connected in series to form the equivalent of a mid-point grounded transformer.

(2) The grounded ends of the high-voltage winding shall be connected by an insulated conductor not smaller than No. 14 AWG.

30-120 Location of Transformers

(1) Transformers operating at more than 1,000 volts shall be accessible.

(2) The transformers shall be installed as near to the lamps as practicable.

(3) The transformers shall be located so that adjacent combustible materials are not subjected to temperatures in excess of 90° C. (194° F.).

30-122 Wiring Method

(1) The secondary conductors shall be luminous-tube-sign cable approved for the purpose and for the voltage of the circuit.

(2) Not more than 20 feet of cable shall be run in metal raceway from a single, or from either side of a mid-point grounded, transformer.

(3) The conductors shall be installed in conformity with Section 34.

30-124 Transformer Loading. Where the lamps are connected to a transformer, they shall be of such length and characteristics as not to cause a condition of continuous over-voltage on the transformer.

30-126 Lamp Supports

(1) Lamps operating at more than 1,000 volts shall be supported in the manner required by Section 34.

(2) The lamps shall not be installed where they are exposed to mechanical injury.

30-128 Lamp Terminals and Lampholders

(1) Parts which must be removed for lamp replacement shall be hinged or fastened by an approved means.

(2) Lamp terminals and lampholders shall be designed so that the tubing can be replaced with the minimum exposure of bare live parts during re-lamping.

(3) The designs referred to in Subrule (2) need not afford protection against "Space Discharge" shocks as tubes are replaced by trained maintenance staff.

30-130 Marking. Every fixture and every secondary circuit of tubing having an open-circuit voltage of more than 1,000 volts shall be clearly and legibly marked in letters and figures not less than one inch high with the words "CAUTION . . . VOLTS", the rated open-circuit voltage being inserted in figures, in the space between the words.

SECTION 32—OUTDOOR LIGHTING INSTALLATIONS

General

32-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to temporary or permanent outdoor lighting equipment, for either decorative lighting or illumination of outdoor areas, where protection of the system and safety from shock hazard is the main concern and the fire hazard is of a secondary nature.

(2) This Section covers only that portion of the installation which is outside of buildings.

(3) The requirements of this Section are supplementary to or amendatory of the general requirements of this Code.

Permanent Outdoor Floodlighting Installations

32-002 General

(1) Rules 32-004 to 32-042 apply to permanent, outdoor installations of floodlights of 300 watts or larger, using mogul-base lampholders, where the floodlights are mounted on poles or towers.

(2) These Rules are based on the understanding that authorized persons may replace lamps but all other maintenance will be done by qualified persons.

32-004 Service Equipment

(1) Service equipment shall comply with Section 6 for low-potential installations, and with Section 36 for high-potential installations.

(2) Where indoor equipment is installed outdoors, it shall be installed in an acceptable weatherproof enclosure.

32-006 Wiring Methods, Underground

(1) Wiring underground shall be run:

(a) Where acceptable, in rigid steel or rigid aluminum conduit;

(b) In non-metallic underground conduit;

(c) As lead-sheathed armoured cable, mineral-insulated cable, or aluminum-sheathed cable; or

(d) As conductors or cable assemblies acceptable for direct earth burial as indicated in Table 19 or, by special permission, for service entrance below ground as indicated in Table 19.

(2) Conductors in conduit shall be of types indicated in Table 19 as being suitable for use in wet locations.

(3) Conductors buried directly in the earth shall be installed in accordance with Rule 12-006.

(4) Suitable corrosion-resistant protection shall be provided for aluminum-sheathed cable and aluminum conduit; and also for mineral-insulated cable, if used where materials coming in contact with the cable may have a deteriorating effect on the sheath.

32-008 Wiring Methods, on Poles

(1) All electrical equipment on the pole shall be controlled by a switch which can be locked in the "Off" position, and each pole shall be provided with a prominent sign warning against climbing the pole until the switch is "Off" unless all conductors and live parts other than those used for pole top wiring are guarded against accidental contact in one of the following ways:

(a) The conductors are run in rigid or flexible metal conduit, as mineral-insulated cable, or up the centre of steel, aluminum or hollow concrete poles;

(b) The conductors and live parts are kept at least three feet from the climbing ladder or climbing steps;

(c) Barriers are provided between conductors or live parts, or both, and the climbing ladder so as to prevent likelihood of contact by the climber.

(2) Conductors run up the centre of poles shall be supported so as to prevent injury to the conductors inside the pole and as to prevent undue strain on the conductors where they leave the pole.

(3) Where vertical conductors, cables and grounding conductors are within 8 feet of locations accessible to unauthorized persons, they shall be provided with a covering which gives acceptable mechanical protection.

(4) On wood poles, for grounding conductors from lighting arresters, the protective covering specified in Subrule (3) shall be of wood moulding or other insulating material giving equivalent protection.

32-010 Pole Top Distribution Panelboards. Where there is more than one branch circuit on a pole top, the feeders shall be run to a distribution panelboard which shall be either weatherproof or installed in a weatherproof enclosure, except that the panelboard may be omitted where there are only two branch circuits on a 115/230-volt circuit with common neutral and where there are only three branch circuits on a 120/208 volt, 115/208-volt, 3-phase, 4-wire circuit.

32-012 Fusing of Pole Top Branch Circuits. Pole top branch circuits shall be fused at not more than 100 amperes.

32-014 Pole Top Branch Circuit Wiring. Pole top branch circuit wiring, exclusive of leads approved with the floodlights to which they are connected, shall be run:

(a) As lead-sheathed cable or rubber- or thermoplastic-insulated moisture-resistant types of conductors installed in rigid conduit;

(b) As mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable; or

(c) By special permission, as insulated or uninsulated open wiring provided that:

(i) The wiring is supported on suitable insulators;

(ii) The wiring is controlled by a switch which can be locked in the "Off" position; and

(iii) The pole is provided with a prominent sign warning against climbing it until the switch is "Off".

32-016 Joints

(1) Open taps and joints may be made in pole top open wiring provided the joint or tap is given insulation equivalent to that on the conductors joined.

(2) There shall be no joints or splices concealed within conduit.

32-018 Location of Transformers. Transformers shall comply with the following:

(a) If mounted on floodlight poles, all live parts shall be guarded as required by Rule 32-008;

(b) If mounted on poles, the bottom of the transformer shall be at least 16 feet above locations accessible to unauthorized persons;

(c) If located on platforms on the ground, they shall be completely enclosed so as to prevent access by unauthorized persons or they shall be surrounded by a protecting fence which shall comply with the requirements of Rules 26-172 to 26-200.

32-020 Primary Fusing of Transformers. Each transformer shall be protected against overcurrent in accordance with Section 26.

32-022 Secondary Overcurrent Protection of Transformers. Overcurrent protection on transformer secondary feeders is permissible but not mandatory.

32-024 Switching of Floodlights. Switches controlling floodlights shall comply with the following:

(a) A switch on the primary side of a transformer shall be capable of making and interrupting the full load on the transformer;

(b) Switches controlling floodlights from the secondary side of a transformer shall have a current rating not less than 125 per cent of the current requirements of the floodlights controlled;

(c) Switches shall be capable of being operated without exposing the operator to danger of contact with live parts, either by remote operation or by proper guarding;

(d) Switches shall be capable of being locked in the "Off" position.

32-026 Grounding of Systems at 300 Volts or Less. Systems operating at potentials of 300 volts or less between conductors shall be grounded.

32-028 Grounding of Systems Above 300 Volts. Systems operating at potentials above 300 volts may be grounded at the discretion of the supply authority and in accordance with the requirements of the inspection department.

32-030 Material for Grounding Conductors. Grounding conductors shall be of material as specified in Rule 10-096.

32-032 Grounding Methods

(1) A grounded secondary system shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

(2) The secondary grounded circuit conductor may be grounded by an interconnection to the primary grounded circuit conductor provided;

(a) The primary is grounded at the transformers; and

(b) Interconnection is made only at the transformer.

32-034 Grounding and Bonding of Non-Current-Carrying Metal Parts

(1) All non-current-carrying metal parts within 8 feet of locations accessible to unauthorized persons shall be grounded.

(2) Except for isolated metal parts such as crossarm braces, bolts, insulator pins and the like, non-current-carrying metal parts of electrical equipment at the pole top shall be bonded together and, if within reach of any grounded metal, shall be grounded.

(3) Non-current-carrying metal parts of electrical equipment bonded together may be grounded to the grounded circuit conductor provided there is not more than one point of interconnection on each pole.

(4) The size of grounding or bonding conductor shall be as specified in Rule 10-012.

32-036 Installation of Lightning Arresters. Where lightning arresters are installed, they shall be in accordance with Rules 10-132 and 10-134 with the addition that a common grounding conductor and common electrode system may be used for grounding primary and secondary neutrals and lightning arresters.

32-038 Types of Equipment Permitted. Floodlights, secondary wiring, conduit, conduit fittings, and distribution panelboards shall be approved, and other electrical pole top equipment shall be of acceptable types.

32-040 Climbing Steps. Where it is necessary to climb the pole to replace lamps, permanent climbing steps shall be provided and the lowest permanent step shall be not less than 12 feet above locations accessible to unauthorized persons.

32-042 Safety Platforms. Where floodlights are mounted more than 30 inches from the centre line of the pole, suitable safety platforms shall be provided and shall be equipped with a railing or equivalent device for the protection of persons replacing lamps.

Open Wiring for Permanent Outdoor Lighting

32-044 General. Rules 32-046 to 32-066 apply to open wiring for permanent outdoor lighting other than floodlighting where the circuits are run between buildings, between poles, or between buildings and poles.

32-046 Conductors. Conductors shall be stranded, not less than No. 12 AWG, and shall be:

(a) Of a type suitable for open wiring where exposed to the weather as specified in Table 19;

(b) Of the rubber-insulated type suitable for open wiring where exposed to the weather as specified in Table 19, when lampholders of a type which puncture the insulation and make contact with the conductors are used; or

(c) Of the moisture-resistant rubber-insulated type suitable for open wiring where exposed to the weather as specified in Table 19, if cabled together and used with messenger cables.

32-048 Use of Insulators

(1) Conductors shall be securely attached to insulators at each end of the run if a messenger is not used and at intermediate points of support if there are any.

(2) Insulators at the ends of runs shall be of the strain type unless the conductors are supported by messenger cables.

(3) Split knobs shall not be used.

32-050 Height of Conductors. Conductors supplying lamps in parking lots, used-car lots, drive-in establishments, and similar commercial areas shall be maintained so that the conductors or the bottom of a lamp fed from the conductors, whichever is lower, shall have a clearance of not less than 12 feet above grade at any point in a run, except that where a driveway or thoroughfare exists this clearance shall be not less than 16 feet.

32-052 Spacing from Combustible Material. Conductors and lampholders shall be maintained at a distance not less than 3 feet from any combustible material except for branch circuit conductors at the point of connection to buildings or poles.

32-054 Spacing of Conductors. Conductors shall be separated at least 12 inches from each other by means of insulating spacers at intervals of not more than 15 feet unless the conductors are secured to and supported by messenger cables.

32-056 Lampholders

(1) Lampholders shall be of weatherproof types with moulded insulating bodies.

(2) Lampholders shall be of types having either:

(a) Permanently attached leads; or

(b) Terminals of a type which puncture the insulation and make contact with the conductors.

(3) Lampholders having permanently attached leads shall have the connections to the circuit wires staggered where a cabled assembly is used.

32-058 Protection of Lampholders. Lampholders may be connected to branch circuits protected by overcurrent devices rated or set at not more than 30 amperes provided that the lampholders are:

(a) For incandescent lamps;

(b) Of the unswitched type; and

(c) Rated not less than 660 watts.

32-060 Use of Messenger Cables

(1) Messenger cables shall be used to support the conductors:

(a) If lampholders having permanently attached leads are used, and the span exceeds 40 feet; and

(b) In all cases where lampholders having terminals which puncture the insulation are used.

(2) Messenger cable shall be securely attached at each end of the run and shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

(3) Conductors shall be permanently attached to the messenger in a method acceptable to the inspection authority.

32-062 Construction of Messenger Cables

(1) Messenger cables shall be of galvanized steel, copper-coated steel or stainless steel and shall be of stranded construction with not less than seven strands.

(2) Galvanized steel shall have a coating of not less than 0.15 ounce per square foot.

(3) The effective ultimate strength of a messenger cable shall be not less than three times the calculated maximum working load, including loading due to ice loads and wind loads, and in no case shall the individual strands be less than:

(a) 0.046 inch in diameter in the case of galvanized or copper-coated wire; or

(b) 0.0438 inch in diameter in the case of stainless steel wire.

32-064 Maximum Size of Lamps. The size of lamps used shall be not in excess of that for which the particular lampholder is approved and in no case more than 150 watts.

32-066 Branch Circuit Loading and Protection

(1) Branch circuits shall be protected by overcurrent devices rated at not more than 30 amperes.

(2) The total load on a branch circuit shall not exceed 80 per cent of the rating or setting of the overcurrent devices.

Temporary, Outdoor, Decorative Lighting Installations

32-068 General. Rules 32-070 and 32-072 apply to temporary, outdoor, decorative lighting installations.

32-070 Lampholders. Lampholders for use with temporary, outdoor, decorative lighting equipment which may be sold to the general public shall:

(a) Comply with Rule 32-056; and

(b) If of the type having terminals which puncture the conductor insulation in order to make contact with the current-carrying conductors be designed so that they cannot be removed, once installed without rendering them incapable of being re-used.

32-072 Conductors. Conductors shall be stranded, not less than No. 18 AWG and shall be of the outdoor Christmas tree cord types as covered in Table 11 or of the rubber-insulated cable types suitable for open wiring where exposed to the weather as covered in Table 19.

SECTION 34—SIGNS AND OUTLINE LIGHTING

34-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to signs and outline lighting wherein the sources of light are:

(a) Incandescent lamps;

(b) Fluorescent lamps;

(c) High potential luminous discharge tubes.

(2) The requirements of this Section are supplementary to or amendatory of the general requirements of this Code.

General Requirements

34-002 Construction. Signs and incandescent outline lighting equipment constructed wholly or in part by electrical contractors in the field shall conform in construction to the requirements of the specifications to which they were originally approved.

34-004 Disconnecting Means. Each outline lighting installation, and each sign other than the portable type, shall be provided with an externally operable disconnecting means which shall:

(a) Open all ungrounded conductors;

(b) Be suitable for conditions of installation such as exposure to weather; and

(c) Be within sight of the sign or outline lighting it disconnects, or elsewhere if capable of being locked in the open position.

34-006 Rating of Disconnecting Means and Control Devices. Switches, flashers and similar devices controlling transformers and ballasts shall be either of a type approved for the purpose, or have a current rating not less than twice the current rating of the transformer or ballasts.

34-008 Subdivision of Wiring

(1) Wiring shall be subdivided into branch circuits if the load exceeds 12 amperes.

(2) The maximum number of outlets per circuit on marquees shall not exceed 30.

34-010 Branch Circuit Protection

(1) The maximum permissible load for each branch circuit shall not exceed 12 amperes.

(2) The overcurrent device for each branch circuit shall not protect any other circuit.

34-012 Location. Signs and outline lighting shall be located so that:

(a) Any person working thereon is not likely to come into contact with overhead conductors;

(b) No part of the sign or its support will interfere with normal work operations performed on electrical and communication utility lines;

(c) No part of the sign or its support is in such proximity to overhead conductors as to constitute a hazard; and

(d) No part of the sign, other than its support, is less than 7 feet above grade except by special permission.

34-014 Supporting Means. Poles, masts, or other objects specifically designed for use as supports for signs shall be subject to approval by the inspection department.

34-016 Grounding. Signs, troughs, tube terminal boxes and other metal frames shall be grounded in accordance with Section 10.

34-018 Protection of Sign Leads

(1) Where sign leads pass through the walls or partitions of the sign structure, they shall be protected by incombustible absorption-resisting bushings.

(2) Where sign leads are run as open wiring they may be cabled.

34-020 Conductors

(1) The conductors for signs shall be of types indicated in Table 19 as being suitable for open wiring or wiring in raceways, in damp or wet locations.

(2) The conductors for outline lighting shall be run:

(a) In rigid conduit;

(b) In metal troughs;

(c) As armoured cable of the lead-sheathed type or the type having a thermoplastic outer covering;

(d) As mineral-insulated cable;

(e) As aluminum-sheathed cable; or

(f) In electrical metallic tubing.

(3) Surface raceways shall not be used.

High-Potential Luminous-Discharge-Tube Signs and Outline Lighting

34-022 Enclosures for Transformers and Regulating Coils. Enclosures for transformers and regulating coils shall be well ventilated and designed so as to minimize the emission of flames or sparks in case of burning.

34-024 Protection of Uninsulated Parts. Doors or covers accessible to the general public, and which give access to uninsulated parts of indoor signs or outline lighting, shall be either provided with interlock switches which on the opening of the doors or covers disconnect the primary circuit, or shall be fastened so that the use of other than ordinary tools will be necessary to open them.

34-026 Transformer Voltage

(1) The rated secondary open circuit voltage of transformers shall not exceed 15,000 volts.

(2) In end-grounded transformers, rated secondary open circuit voltage shall not exceed 7,500 volts.

34-028 Open Core-and-Coil Type Transformers. Open core-and-coil type transformers shall only be used indoors.

34-030 Transformers Used Outdoors. Transformers used outdoors shall be of the weatherproof type or shall be enclosed in the sign body or in a separate weatherproof box.

34-032 Transformer Accessibility. Transformers shall be accessible.

34-034 Transformer Overcurrent Protection

(1) Each transformer shall be protected by an overcurrent device except that two or more transformers may be protected by one overcurrent device if their combined load does not exceed 12 amperes.

(2) Where additional overcurrent devices for the individual protection of transformers in signs are used, they shall be placed either inside or outside the sign structure.

(3) Where exposed to the weather, overcurrent devices protecting transformers shall be of the weatherproof type.

34-036 Transformer Secondary Connection

(1) The high-potential windings of transformers shall not be connected in parallel.

(2) The high-potential windings of transformers shall not be connected in series, except that two transformers may have one end of each of their high-potential windings grounded and connected in series to form the equivalent of a midpoint-grounded transformer, provided that the grounded ends of the high-potential windings are connected by an insulated conductor not smaller than No. 14 AWG.

34-038 High-Potential Wiring Methods

(1) High-potential conductors shall be installed on insulators, either open or concealed, or in rigid or flexible conduit, or in electrical metallic tubing.

(2) High-potential conductors may be run from the ends of gas tubes to the grounded midpoint of transformers which have terminals at the midpoint.

(3) The connections between the high-potential terminals of the transformer of the midpoint-grounded type and the line ends of gas tubes shall be as short as possible.

(4) There shall be no sharp bends in high-potential conductors.

(5) Bare high-potential conductors shall be installed only inside grounded metal enclosures.

(6) Where subject to mechanical injury or where within reach from ground, roof or window, high-potential conductors shall be enclosed in raceways or be suitably guarded.

34-040 High-Potential Conductor Insulation and Size

(1) Insulated conductors shall be not smaller than No. 14 AWG and shall be of luminous-tube-sign types, as indicated in Table 19, suitable for the voltage of the circuit.

(2) Uninsulated conductors shall be solid and not smaller than No. 10 AWG.

34-042 Open High-Potential Conductors, Indoors

(1) Open wiring shall be mounted on noncombustible, non-absorptive insulators.

(2) Insulators of porcelain shall be glazed on all exposed surfaces.

(3) A separation of at least 1½ inches shall be maintained between conductors and between conductors and other objects.

34-044 Concealed High-Potential Conductors on Insulators, Indoors

(1) Concealed high-potential conductors on insulators shall be separated from each other and from all objects other than the insulators on which they are mounted by a spacing of not less than 1½ inches.

(2) Concealed high-potential conductors shall be installed in channels lined with noncombustible material and used for no other purpose, except that the primary circuit conductors may be in the same channel.

(3) The insulators shall be of noncombustible, non-absorptive material.

34-046 High-Potential Conductors in Show Windows and Similar Locations. If high-potential conductors hang freely in the air, as in show windows and in similar locations away from combustible material, and if not subject to mechanical injury, as in some show window displays, they need not be protected.

34-048 High-Potential Conductors in Raceways

(1) High-potential conductors in contact with grounded metal of raceways shall be lead covered, unless the insulation is resistant to tne effects of corona.

(2) If the conductors are covered with lead or other metallic sheathing, this covering shall extend beyond the end of the conduit or electrical metallic tubing and the surface of the cable shall not be injured where the covering terminates.

(3) The insulation on all conductors shall extend at least 4 inches beyond the end of the lead or raceway except for conductors at grounded midpoint terminals.

(4) Not more than 20 feet of cable from a single transformer shall be run in rigid or flexible metal conduit or electrical metallic tubing.

34-050 Installation of Open High-Potential Conductors, Outdoors

(1) Open high-potential conductors outdoors shall be mounted on noncombustible, non-absorptive insulators.

(2) Insulators of porcelain shall be glazed on all exposed surfaces.

(3) A separation of at least 2 inches shall be maintained between conductors and between conductors and other objects, except as permitted in Subrule (5).

(4) Conductors shall not be located where exposed to mechanical injury.

(5) If guarded, a space of not less than 1½ inches shall be maintained between conductors and the enclosure, unless the enclosure is non-conducting and noncombustible.

SECTION 36—HIGH-POTENTIAL INSTALLATIONS

General

36-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to installations operating at potentials in excess of 750 volts.

(2) The supply authority and the inspection department must be consulted before proceeding with any such installation.

(3) This Section is additional to the requirements of this Code for installations at potentials of 750 volts or less.

(4) This Section does not apply to any high-potential installation covered by any other Section of this Code.

(5) This Section does not affect construction details of factory fabricated assemblies approved under Part II of this Code.

36-002 Guarding. Live parts of electrical equipment shall be inaccessible to unauthorized persons.

36-004 Warning Notices

(1) A permanent legible warning notice shall be placed in a conspicuous position at electrical equipment vaults, equipment rooms, areas or enclosures, carrying the wording:

"DANGER—HIGH VOLTAGE"; or "DANGER— ... VOLTS".

(2) Permanent legible signs shall be installed at isolating equipment warning against operating it while carrying current, unless the equipment is interlocked so that it cannot be operated under load.

(3) Suitable warning signs shall be erected in a conspicuous place adjacent to fuses, warning operators not to replace fuses while the supply circuit is energized.

Wiring Methods

36-006 Service or Other Conductors

(1) Bare conductors may be used only:

(a) Outdoors;

(b) In central stations;

(c) In sub-stations;

(d) In motor and generator rooms; and

(e) In transformer and electrical equipment vaults in accordance with Rules 26-156 to 26-170.

(2) Insulated conductors used underground shall be mechanically protected by:

(a) Armouring;

(b) Enclosing in conduit or the equivalent; or

(c) Other acceptable protective covering.

(3) Insulated conductors used indoors in other than sub-stations or transformer and electrical equipment vaults in accordance with Rules 26-156 to 26-170, shall only be installed in conduit or otherwise protected in an acceptable manner.

(4) For the purpose of Subrule (3), insulated conductors shall not be considered as being indoors where they are in conduit enclosed within a wall or under a floor so that:

(a) The conduit is surrounded by not less than 2 inches of concrete or masonry; and

(b) The location of the conduit is indicated by acceptable permanent markers set in the walls, floor or ceiling.

(5) Insulated wires or cables shall be sheathed in metal or other acceptable moisture-resistant covering if in other than dry locations.

(6) Conductors enclosed in armour of magnetic material shall be installed in accordance with Rule 12-136.

(7) Where insulated conductors are not enclosed and are spaced at less than minimum clearances for bare conductors, and are subject to arcs or heat caused by short circuits in nearby conductors, the insulation shall be flame-retarding or have a flame-retarding outer covering.

(8) Where the coverings are of a conducting nature they shall be stripped back from the terminals sufficiently to prevent leakage of current.

(9) Service conductors shall have a mechanical strength not less than that of No. 6 AWG hard drawn copper.

36-008 Shielding of Rubber-Insulated Conductors

(1) Rubber-insulated conductors without metallic sheath for permanent installation, operating at circuit voltages above 2,000 volts phase-to-phase shall be of a type having metallic shielding over each insulated conductor.

(2) Shielding need not be provided for rubber-insulated polychloroprene-jacketed conductors directly buried in soil and operating at circuit voltages not exceeding 3,000 volts phase-to-phase.

(3) Where the circuit voltage does not exceed 5,000 volts phase-to-phase, and rubber-insulated conductors are installed on insulators or in metallic raceways and bound together, in switch rooms, transformer vaults, metal-enclosed switchgear assemblies, and similar permanently dry locations where the conductor run does not exceed 50 feet, shielding need not be provided.

(4) Subject to Rule 10-034, metallic covering, metallic shielding, metal armour, metal conduit and metal fittings shall be bonded together and grounded.

36-010 Supporting of Bare Conductors. Bare conductors shall be mounted on suitable insulating supports capable of withstanding the short circuit stresses liable to be imposed by the supply system.

36-012 Spacing of Bare Conductors

(1) Bare conductors, and insulated conductors unless enclosed in or in contact with grounded metal, other than those within or at the point of connection to apparatus or devices shall be spaced to provide a clearance under all operating conditions in accordance with Tables 31 and 32 between:

(a) Live parts of opposite polarity; and

(b) Live parts and all other structural parts other than the conductor supports.

(2) Where the conductors mentioned in Subrule (1) are connected to apparatus or devices having terminal spacings less than those shown in Tables 31 and 32, the conductors shall be spread out so as to attain the required spacings at the first point of support beyond such terminals.

36-014 Guarding of Live Parts

(1) Bare conductors, insulated conductors unless enclosed in or in contact with grounded metal, and other bare live parts shall be:

(a) Accessible only to authorized persons; and

(b) Isolated by elevation or by acceptable barriers.

(2) Where the conductors or live parts referred to in Subrule (1) are isolated by elevation, the elevations and clearances maintained shall be as specified in Tables 32, 33 and 34 except that the elevations and clearances for conductors crossing railway and communication lines and overhead systems crossing highways and other locations accessible to vehicles or vessels shall meet the requirements of an inspector designated by the inspection department for the purpose of this Subrule.

(3) For a given span, clearances specified in Tables 32 and 34 shall be increased by one per cent of the amount by which the span exceeds 175 feet.

36-016 Terminating Facilities. Suitable terminating facilities shall be provided to protect cables from harm due to moisture or mechanical damage.

36-018 Joints in Sheathed Conductors or Cables

(1) Splices or taps in sheathed conductors or cables shall have the conductor or cable covered with insulation and shall have shielding, when used, electrically and mechanically equivalent to that on the conductors or cables joined.

(2) For conductors or cables having a metallic or conducting sheath, provision shall be made for continuity of the sheath over the splice or tap unless the joint is made in a suitable splicing box which maintains the continuity of the grounding circuit.

36-020 Elevator Shafts

(1) High-potential conductors shall not be installed in elevator shafts.

(2) The conductors may be installed in conduit embedded in the masonry walls of the hoist-way but the conduit shall be surrounded throughout the entire length of its run by not less than 2 inches of masonry or concrete.

Control and Protective Equipment

36-022 Service Equipment Location. Service equipment shall be installed in a location satisfactory to the supply authority and the inspection department and, in the case of a building, shall be at the point of service entrance.

36-024 Rating and Capacity. Circuit breakers, fuses and switches shall be of types and ratings acceptable to the inspection department and the supply authority.

36-026 Overcurrent Protection, Services. Each service shall be provided with overcurrent protection, complying with the following, in all ungrounded conductors:

(a) If the protective equipment is installed outdoors, one of the following shall be used:

(i) Circuit breakers of adequate interrupting capacity and rating, with trip settings approved by the supply authority;

(ii) Fuses of adequate rating and interrupting capacity preceded by suitable group-operated visible break load-interrupting devices capable of making and interrupting their full load rating and which may be closed with safety to the operator with a fault on the system;

(iii) Fuses of adequate rating and interrupting capacity preceded by a group-operated visible break air-break switch capable of interrupting the magnetizing current of the transformer installation and which may be closed with safety to the operator with a fault on the system and so interlocked with the transformer secondary circuit breaker to prevent its operation under load;

(b) If the protective equipment is installed indoors, one of the following shall be used:

(i) The protection outlined in paragraph (a) (i) of this Rule;

(ii) The protection outlined in paragraph (a) (ii) of this Rule by special permission and where satisfactory to the supply authority, provided that the load-interrupting devices and the fuses are separated and interlocked so that the operator cannot gain access to fuses with the load-interrupting devices closed;

(iii) The protection outlined in paragraph (a) (iii) of this Rule by special permission and where satisfactory to the supply authority, provided that the fuses are separated and interlocked so that the operator cannot gain access to them unless the switch is open and the switch is interlocked so that it cannot be operated under load.

36-028 Overcurrent Protection Other than Services

(1) Each operating unit of apparatus, other than transformers, the protection of which is specified in Section 26, each feeder and each branch circuit shall be protected by a circuit breaker of adequate rating and interrupting capacity except as otherwise provided for by this Rule.

(2) Fuses of adequate rating and interrupting capacity may be used for the protection of:

(a) Individual feeders or branch circuits at the point where they receive their supply;

(b) Motors as specified in Section 28; or

(c) Apparatus of other types by special permission.

36-030 Overcurrent Protection of Instrument Transformers

(1) Instrument potential transformers shall have overcurrent protection as required by Rule 26-052.

(2) A suitable disconnecting means shall be provided on the supply side of fuses used for the protection of instrument potential transformers.

36-032 Disconnecting Means, Services

(1) At least one group-operated isolating switch shall be placed on the supply side of each service circuit breaker, except where equipment of the draw-out type or group-operated load-interrupting devices are installed, and shall:

(a) Visibly disconnect all ungrounded conductors of the service; and

(b) Be interlocked so that it cannot be operated under load.

(2) In cases where the possibility of feed-back exists, group-operated isolating switches shall be installed to meet this condition.

36-034 Disconnecting Means, Other than Services

(1) An isolating switch or equivalent equipment shall be placed on the supply side of each circuit breaker and shall be interlocked with the circuit breaker so that the switch cannot be operated under load.

(2) In cases where the possibility of feed-back exists, group-operated isolating switches shall be installed to meet this condition.

(3) Where conductors fed directly by an outdoor station enter a building, either:

(a) A load-breaking device shall be installed indoors at the entry of the conductors to the building; or

(b) A load-breaking device at the outdoor service shall be capable of being tripped or operated from within the building.

36-036 Emergency Exits

(1) Each room or space and each working space about equipment shall have suitable means of exit which shall be kept clear of all obstructions.

(2) If the plan of the room or space and the character and arrangement of equipment are such that an accident would be liable to close or make inaccessible a single exit, as in the case of long narrow rooms, platforms, passageways, spaces behind switchboards, or wire and pipe tunnels, a second exit shall be provided.

36-038 Station Ground Electrode

(1) Every station shall be grounded:

(a) By means of a driven ground electrode consisting of at least 4 ground rods at least 10 feet long and ¾ inch in diameter, spaced at least 1 rod apart, and interconnected by means of a soft-drawn copper conductor of at least No. 2/0 AWG in the form of a loop around the equipment grounded to it, when the electrode is in close proximity to the equipment; or

(b) By means of a buried ground electrode, subject to the approval of the inspection department.

(2) Where a ground electrode is remotely located to the station equipment, two grounding conductors of soft drawn No. 2/0 AWG copper shall connect the ground electrodes to the station equipment to ensure continuity, and the grounding arrangement shall be subject to the approval of the inspection department.

(3) Where a substation receives its supply from a main station or switching centre on the same premises, and the main station or switching centre has a ground electrode as required in Subrule (1), all parts of the substation which are required to be connected to a ground electrode shall be connected to the main substation or switching centre by means of a soft-drawn copper conductor not less than No. 2/0 AWG.

(4) Where the copper conductor referred to in Subrule (3) may be subject to mechanical damage or to inadvertent disconnection, every station shall have a ground electrode as described in Subrule (1) as well as the copper conductor described in Subrule (3).

(5) Notwithstanding Subrule (4) hereof, all substations not enclosed in a building shall be provided with both a ground electrode as described in Subrule (1) hereof and a copper conductor as described in Subrule (3) hereof.

36-040 Connection of Lightning Arresters to the Station Ground Electrode

(1) A lightning arrester shall be connected to the station ground electrode by a conductor at least:

(a) No. 4 AWG where the arrester is rated at less than 10 kilowatts;

(b) No. 2 AWG where the arrester is rated at from 10 kilowatts to 30 kilowatts;

(c) No. 2/0 AWG where the arrester is rated at from 30 kilowatts to 69 kilowatts.

(2) Lightning arrester gronnding conductors shall be as short as practicable.

(3) Where a lightning arrester is installed for the protection of high voltage cable, the lightning arrester grounding conductor shall be connected to all metallic potheads and the metallic sheaths or armour of the cables.

36-042 Other Connections to the Station Ground Electrode

(1) The following metallic items forming part of the station shall be grounded to the station ground electrode by grounding conductors of the type and size specified:

(a) A metallic watermain inside the station boundaries by a copper conductor not less than No. 2/0 AWG;

(b) A line sky-wire by the copper equivalent of the sky-wire;

(c) A neutral conductor by the copper equivalent of the neutral conductor;

(d) A supporting leg of a metal structure by a copper conductor of not less than No. 2/0 AWG;

(e) A gradient control mat by a copper conductor not less than No. 2/0 AWG;

(f) Non-current-carrying metal parts of:

(i) Transformers, generators, motors, circuit breakers, reclosures, instrument transformers and switchgear by copper conductors not less than No. 2/0 AWG;

(ii) Frames of gang-operated switches and fuse cutout boxes by copper or aluminum conductor not less than 2/0 AWG unless such items are mounted on metal structures on which all structural joints within 8 feet of grade are bonded;

(iii) Cable sheaths, raceways, pipework, screen guards, switchboards and potential transformers by copper conductors not less than No. 4 AWG;

(iv) Meter and relay cases by copper conductors not less than No. 10 AWG; and

(v) Any exposed metal frame of the building or structure, and any other exposed metal work on buildings or structures within or forming part of the station enclosure, by copper conductors not less than No. 2/0 AWG.

(2) The grounding connections required by Subrules (1) (a), (1) (b) and (1) (c) shall be made by means of a removable link which will permit isolation of the grounding conductor from the station ground electrode for testing purposes.

36-044 Gradient Control Mats

(1) A permanent gradient control mat of substantial galvanized steel construction shall be installed at the handle of the operating mechanism of every gang-operated switch installed outdoors and not enclosed in metal.

(2) The gradient control mat shall:

(a) Be positioned so that the operator will not be required to step from the mat during the operation of the switch;

(b) Be placed upon the ground where it is visible at all times;

(c) Have dimensions of not less than,

(i) 48 inches by 54 inches where the switch mechanism has a reciprocating action; or

(ii) 48 inches by 72 inches where the switch mechanism has a rotating action;

(d) Be connected to the station ground electrode by two separate No. 2/0 AWG soft-drawn copper conductors.

(3) The operating rod of the switch mechanism shall be grounded to the gradient control mat by connecting the operating rod to a grounding conductor on the handle base or adjacent structure by a No. 3/0 AWG extra-flexible, 425-strand, copper conductor and by connecting the grounding conductor to the gradient control mat by a No. 2/0 AWG soft-drawn copper conductor.

36-046 Grounding of Wire Fence Enclosures of Outdoor Stations

(1) Fence enclosures of outdoor stations shall be grounded independently of the station ground electrode by means of a No. 2/0 AWG soft-drawn copper conductor buried to a depth of 6 inches to 8 inches around and outside the fence and, where practicable, 3 feet from the fence-line.

(2) The grounding conductor referred to in Subrule (1) shall be connected to the fence at intervals not exceeding 40 feet by tap conductors of No. 2/0 AWG soft-drawn copper conductor.

(3) The tap conductors referred to in Subrule (2) shall be interwoven through the fence fabric and connected to the top rail and each strand of barbed wire.

(4) A tap conductor shall be located at each hinge gatepost and bonded to the gate frames by No. 3/0 AWG extra-flexible conductor.

(5) The top rail of the fence shall be bonded at every joint by means of a No. 2/0 AWG copper conductor jumper.

(6) The fence or the fence grounding conductor referred to in Subrule (1) shall be connected to the station ground electrode on opposite sides of the station where the fence, or the gate when open, is within 5 feet of the station ground electrode, the gradient control device, or any other equipment or structures connected to the station ground electrode.

(7) Where a building or structure forms part of the station enclosure, or is within 5 feet of the fence, exposed metal work on the exterior of the building within 5 feet of either the station fence or the station equipment shall be bonded to the fence electrode in 2 places on opposite sides of the station by No. 2/0 AWG copper conductors.

SECTION 38—PASSENGER AND FREIGHT ELEVATORS INCLUDING DUMBWAITERS AND ESCALATORS

38-000 Scope. This Section applies to the installation of electrical equipment for passenger and freight elevators, including dumbwaiters and escalators, and is supplementary to or amendatory of the general requirements of this Code.

38-002 Voltage Limitations

(1) No part of any electric circuit having a circuit voltage in excess of 300 volts shall be used on any car or control circuit, except that higher voltages may be used for frequencies of 25 through 60 cycles alternating current or for direct current, provided that the current in the system cannot, under any conditions, exceed 8 milliamperes for alternating current or 30 milliamperes for direct current.

(2) Electric circuits in machine rooms or penthouses for the operation of motors and brakes shall have a potential not in excess of 750 volts, provided that if it exceeds 300 volts, all control and signal circuits shall be insulated from the power circuits.

(3) Electric circuits fed from motor generators, rectifiers or control transformers shall be grounded as required in Section 10.

38-004 Isolation of Live Parts. All live parts of electrical apparatus in hoistways, at the landings or in or on the cars of elevators and dumbwaiters, or in the wellways or at the landings of escalators shall be enclosed to protect against accidental contact.

38-006 Insulation of Conductors

(1) Conductors from the control panel to the main circuit resistors not located within the control panel shall be of a type suitable for use in raceways as indicated in Table 19 and shall be suitable for operation at a temperature of not less than 90° C., have a rating not less than 600 volts, and be flame-retardant.

(2) Except for conductors in travelling cables, all wiring in hoistways and in or on cars of elevators, and in the machine rooms of elevators, dumbwaiters and escalators, shall be flame-retardant, moisture-resistant, and suitable for use at 600 volts as indicated in Tables 11 and 19.

38-008 Travelling Cables. Travelling cables used as flexible connections between elevator or dumbwaiter cars and their hoistways shall be of Type E or EO elevator cable, or other equivalent approved type, except that Type EO or other equivalent approved type shall be used in damp locations.

38-010 Conductor Sizes

(1) In travelling cables the minimum size conductors shall be:

(a) For lighting circuits, No. 14 AWG except that smaller conductors may be used in parallel provided that the ampacity is equivalent to at least that of No. 14 AWG; and

(b) For operating, control and signal circuits, No. 18 AWG.

(2) In all operating, control and signal circuits the minimum size conductors shall be No. 18 AWG.

38-012 Branch Circuits for Lighting. In passenger elevators, a separate lighting branch circuit shall be provided for each car, and the overcurrent device protecting this branch circuit shall be located in the elevator machine room.

38-014 Wiring Methods in Hoistways, Machine Rooms and Escalator Wellways

(1) Conductors located in hoistways, machine rooms and escalator wellways, except travelling cables, shall be installed in rigid conduit, electrical metallic tubing or wire troughs, except that flexible conduit or armoured cable not exceeding 5 feet in length may be used between riser and limit switches, interlocks, push-buttons and similar devices.

(2) Except by special permission, only such electrical wiring, conduit and cables used directly in connection with the elevator or dumbwaiter may be installed inside the hoistway, including wiring for:

(a) Signals;

(b) Communication with the car;

(c) Lighting and ventilating the car; and

(d) Fire detecting systems for the hoistway.

(3) Mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable may be used if located so that there is no liability of damage to the sheath.

38-016 Wiring Methods on Cars

(1) Conductors and travelling cables on elevators and dumbwaiter cars shall be run in rigid conduit, electrical metallic tubing or wireways, except that:

(a) Short runs of flexible conduit or armoured cable may be used where they are securely fastened in place and not exposed to oil or grease;

(b) Short runs of Type S cord may be used as the flexible connection between fixed wiring on the car and the switch on the car door or gate, provided that the cord is securely fastened in position and so located as not to be subject to mechanical injury; and

(c) Mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable may be used if located so that there is no liability of damage to the sheath.

(2) Where conductors may be in contact with oil or grease, they shall have oil-resistant insulation.

38-018 Wiring Methods Between Motors, Machine Brakes, Generators and Control Panels

(1) Conductors of circuits between motors, machine brakes, generators and control panels may be run without additional protection, provided that:

(a) The conductors are not over 6 feet long;

(b) The conductors are supported at intervals of not more than 3 feet;

(c) The conductors are not located so as to be subject to mechanical injury or to temperatures in excess of 60° C. (140° F.);

(d) The group is taped or corded; and

(e) The tapes or cords are coated with insulating paint.

(2) Where motor generators are used with elevator motors and both are located adjacent to or underneath the control equipment and are provided with extra-length terminal leads, the leads may be connected directly to the controller or motor generator terminal studs, and the provisions of Rule 4-004 in respect of ampacity shall not apply, but no lead shall be longer than 6 feet.

38-020 Wiring Methods on Sidewalk Elevators. Where the top-terminal-landing opening is in the sidewalk or other area exterior to the building, the following special requirements apply:

(a) All electrical wiring shall be installed in rigid conduit or electrical metallic tubing except that:

(i) Lead-sheathed armoured cable, not exceeding 5 feet in length, may be used as permitted in Rule 38-014 (1); and

(ii) Mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable may be used if located so that there is no liability of damage to the sheath;

(b) All boxes and fittings in the hoistway shall be weatherproof;

(c) All electrical equipment in or on the car shall be weatherproof;

(d) Travelling cables, where used between the car and the hoistway wiring, shall be Type EO;

(e) Slack rope, switches where required, lower normal-terminal and lower final-terminal hoistway limit switches, and pit stop switches shall be located as far above the bottom of the pit as practicable.

38-022 Grouping of Conductors. Conductors of elevator operating, control, signal, telephone and lighting circuits may be run in the same raceway or travelling cable provided that all conductors are insulated for the maximum voltage found in the cable or raceway system.

38-024 Number of Conductors in Raceways

(1) Where conductors are installed in conduit or electrical metallic tubing, the conduit or tubing shall not contain a greater number of conductors than specified in Rule 12-162.

(2) In other types of wireways, conductors shall not occupy more than 20 per cent of the cross-sectional area of the raceway.

38-026 Raceway Supports. Supports for raceways in hoistways or escalator wellways shall be securely fastened to the guide-rail, hoistway or wellway construction.

38-028 Fittings

(1) Where conduit or electrical metallic tubing is installed in the open, split fittings or clamp fittings may be used provided the conduit or tubing does not contain feeders.

(2) Where conductors leave raceways, the provisions of Rules 12-272, 12-274 and 12-276 shall apply.

(3) No terminal fitting shall be installed less than 6 inches from the floor in machine rooms.

38-030 Suspension of Travelling Cables

(1) Where travelling cables exceed 100 feet in length, such cables shall be so supported that the weight is carried directly by the reinforcement strands of the cable assembly.

(2) Where travelling cables do not exceed 100 feet in length and are so constructed that the weight of the cable is not carried by the individual conductors, the cables may be suspended by suitable spools.

38-032 Hazardous Locations. In hazardous locations, travelling cables shall terminate in cabinets approved for the class and group of the location and shall enter such enclosures through heavy-duty rubber-bushed threaded connector bushings which have been designed for this use.

38-034 Mechanical Protection. Wherever the travelling cables in swinging may come in contact with projections or corners of the building construction in the hoistway, such as 'I' beams, ledges and the like, such irregular surfaces shall be made smooth by covering with heavy gauge sheet metal or by other acceptable means.

38-036 Disconnecting Means

(1) Disconnecting means shall be provided for the opening of all ungrounded conductors of:

(a) The drive motor and its control circuits in each elevator, dumbwaiter, and escalator operating individually or as one of a group;

(b) The signal dispatch and scheduling circuitry, common to a group of elevators, dumbwaiters, or escalators; and

(c) Lighting branch circuits supplying elevator cars and hoistways and such circuits shall be controlled by disconnecting means, other than those required by paragraphs (a) and (b) hereof.

(2) Each disconnecting means shall be an externally operated switch or circuit breaker, equipped with means for locking it in the open position.

(3) Means shall be provided on the switch or circuit breaker to indicate the disconnected position.

(4) The disconnecting means shall be located in a group in the machine room at the lock-jamb side of the entrance door unless available wall space or other construction features make it impractical to do so.

(5) Where the location of a disconnecting means required by Subrule (1) (a) is such that it is out of sight from either the machine or motor generator, a supplementary switch or circuit breaker, as outlined in Rule 28-052, shall be installed.

(6) Each disconnecting means shall be plainly marked to indicate the machine or circuit that it controls.

38-038 Overload Protection of Motors. Each elevator, dumbwaiter and escalator drive motor, or the drive motor of the motor-generator set which supplies current to the drive motor, shall be protected so that, in the event of excessive current due to single phase operation or due to mechanical cause, the current to the motor will be cut off before damage can occur to the winding.

38-040 Phase Protection of Motors. Each drum type electric elevator having electrically-operated brakes and on which the lifting cables are positively anchored to the hoisting drums and driven by a poly-phase motor shall be provided with devices which will prevent starting the motor if:

(a) The phase rotation is in the wrong direction; or

(b) There is a failure in any phase.

38-042 Overcurrent Protection of Operating, Control and Signal Circuits

(1) Overcurrent protection for operating and control circuits shall be provided in accordance with Section 14.

(2) Overcurrent protection for signal circuits shall be provided in accordance with Section 16.

38-044 Installation of Machines. Elevator, dumbwaiter or escalator machines, controllers, and auxiliary equipment shall be installed in a space which is secured against unauthorized access.

38-046 Installation of Control Panels

(1) At controllers there shall be a working space of not less than 24 inches clear of live parts behind each controller and not less than 30 inches of working space clear of live parts in front of each controller.

(2) There shall be a clear access of 18 inches in width from the front to the rear of the controller and if there are any exposed current-carrying parts in this area, they shall be protected by barriers.

(3) If the controllers are enclosed in cabinets with swinging doors or removable sections, the prescribed working space dimension shall apply when the doors are opened or a section removed, and this will not prohibit the installation of totally enclosed wall-mounted controllers.

(4) Controllers may be mounted on, over, or against the machine provided that there is reasonable access to the controller.

(5) Auxiliary equipment may be placed in front or rear of the controller, provided that the installation of such equipment will not reduce the space requirements of Subrule (1).

(6) Enclosed escalator controllers may be installed with less working space than required in Subrule (1), provided the controller can be readily removed for maintenance purposes.

38-048 Bonding of Raceways. Raceways attached to cars shall be bonded to grounded metal parts of the car with which they come in contact.

38-050 Grounding of Equipment

(1) For electric elevators, dumbwaiters and escalators, the frames of all motors, machines, controllers and the metal enclosures for all electrical devices in or on the car or in the hoistway or wellway shall be grounded.

(2) For elevators or dumbwaiters other than electric, if any electrical conductors are attached to the car, the metal frame of the car shall be grounded if normally accessible to persons.

(3) All hand-operated metallic shifting ropes or cables shall be grounded.

38-052 Methods of Grounding

(1) Equipment mounted on members of a grounded structural metal frame of a building shall be deemed to be grounded.

(2) Metal car frames supported by metal hoisting cables attached to or running over sheaves or drums of elevator machines shall be deemed to be grounded when the machine is grounded in accordance with Section 10.

38-054 Power Rectifiers for Direct Current Elevators. Where dry plate rectifiers or other types of rectifiers which are incapable of absorbing electrical energy are used to transform alternating current to direct current for the operation of a direct current elevator motor or motors, means shall be provided to absorb a sufficient amount of the energy regenerated by the elevator motor or motors to prevent an elevator from attaining at any time under overhauling load conditions a speed of more than 125 per cent of its speed in the up direction with its rated load in the car.

38-056 Lighting of Machine Rooms

(1) Permanent provision of adequate artificial light shall be made in machine rooms of power elevators.

(2) Illumination shall be not less than 10 foot-candles at floor level.

(3) The machine room lighting switch shall be within easy reach of the entrance to the machine room.

(4) Where practical, the elevator service switch and the lighting switch shall be located on the lock-jamb side of the machine room entrance door, and both these switches shall be of the enclosed type.

38-058 Hoistway Pit Lighting

(1) A permanent lighting fixture shall be provided in all pits which shall provide an illumination of not less than 5 foot-candles at the pit floor.

(2) A light switch shall be provided and shall be located so as to be accessible from the pit access door.

SECTION 40—ELECTRIC CRANES AND HOISTS

40-000 Scope

(1) This Section covers such features of the installation of electrical equipment providing circuits for electric cranes, hoists, and monorails which are additional to or amendatory of the general requirements of this Code.

(2) This Section does not cover equipment and wiring of cranes, hoists and monorails which are assembled and erected in the field and which shall comply with the specifications to which the equipment was originally approved.

40-002 Supply Conductors. The size of conductors supplying main contact conductors, or supplying the equipment directly where there are no main contact conductors, shall be not less than that required by Rule 28-014 or 28-016, as applicable, together with additional capacity for other than motor loads where such provision is necessary.

40-004 Conductor Protection

(1) Conductors supplying main contact conductors shall be in rigid conduit, electrical metallic tubing, armoured cable, mineral-insulated cable or aluminum-sheathed cable except as otherwise provided for in Rule 40-018.

(2) Conductors supplying the equipment directly shall comply with Subrule (1) unless a flexible connection is required in which case an acceptable armoured or unarmoured cable or flexible cord, with take-up devices where necessary to prevent damage to the cable or cord and to keep it clear of the operating floor, may be used.

40-006 Overcurrent Protection. Conductors supplying main contact conductors or supplying the equipment directly where there are no main contact conductors shall be provided with overcurrent protection in accordance with the requirements of Rule 28-022 for the motor load plus an allowance in accordance with Rule 14-058 for any other loads if the size of conductors has been increased to provide capacity for the other loads.

40-008 Disconnecting Means. Suitable means which will disconnect all ungrounded conductors of the circuit simultaneously shall be:

(a) Provided within sight of the main contact conductors or within sight of the equipment if there are no main contact conductors; and

(b) Accessible and operable from the ground or from the floor over which the equipment operates.

40-010 Main Contact Conductors

(1) Bare main contact conductors shall have an ampacity not less than that of the conductors supplying them and, if wire is used in no case shall they be smaller than:

(a) No. 4 AWG if the length of contact conductor is 60 feet or less;

(b) No. 2 AWG if the length of contact conductor is greater than 60 feet, unless the intermediate insulating supports are of a clamp type which is capable of providing some strain relief.

(2) Bare main contact conductors may be of hard drawn copper or aluminum wire or may be of steel or other suitable metal in the form of tees, angles, T-rails, or other rigid shapes.

(3) Approved enclosed contact systems may be used.

40-012 Spacing of Main Contact Conductors

(1) Bare main contact conductor wires shall be supported so that:

(a) They will be separated, centre-to-centre:

(i) Not less than 6 inches, for other than monorail hoists, if installed in a horizontal plane;

(ii) Not less than 3 inches, for monorail hoists, if installed in a horizontal plane; or

(iii) Not less than 8 inches, if installed in other than a horizontal plane; and

(b) The extreme limit of displacement will not bring them within less than 1½ inches of the surface wired over.

(2) Rigid main contact conductors shall be supported so that there will be an air space of not less than 1 inch between conductors, between conductors and adjacent collectors, and between conductors and the surface wired over.

40-014 Supporting of Main Contact Conductors

(1) Bare main contact conductor wires shall be secured at each end to strain insulators, and shall be supported on insulating supports placed at intervals not exceeding 20 feet except that, where building conditions make the above impossible, the interval between insulating supports may be increased to a maximum of 40 feet if the separation between contact conductors is increased proportionately.

(2) Rigid main contact conductors shall be secured to insulating supports spaced at intervals of not more than 80 times the vertical dimension of the conductor, but in no case greater than 15 feet.

40-016 Joints in Rigid Contact Conductors. Joints in rigid main contact conductors shall be made so as to ensure proper ampacity without overheating.

40-018 Use of Track as a Conductor. Monorail, tramrail or crane runway tracks may be used as a main contact conductor or as a supply circuit conductor for one phase of a three-phase alternating-current system if:

(a) The power for all phases is obtained from an isolating transformer;

(b) The voltage does not exceed 300 volts;

(c) The rail serving as a conductor is effectively grounded, preferably, at the transformer, with permissive additional grounding by the fittings used for the suspension or attachment at the rail to the building structure; and

(d) Any joints in the rail meet the requirements of Rule 40-016.

40-020 Elevation or Guarding of Contact Conductors. Bare ungrounded contact conductors shall either be elevated to not less than 15 feet above ground or other working surface which is available to other than qualified persons, or be guarded so that persons on the ground or other working surface cannot inadvertently make contact with bare current-carrying parts.

40-022 Contact Conductors Not to Supply Other Equipment. Contact conductors shall not be used as feeders for any equipment other than that essential for the operation of the cranes, hoists or monorails which they supply.

40-024 Grounding

(1) All exposed non-current-carrying metal parts shall be grounded.

(2) Metal-to-metal contact between wheels and tracks shall be sufficient for grounding purposes.

(3) Tracks shall be grounded as required by Rule 10-042 or 40-018.

(4) Flexible supply cords permitted in Rule 40-004 (2) do not require a grounding conductor provided the track is properly grounded.

SECTION 42—ELECTRIC WELDERS

General

42-000 General. The requirements of this Section apply to electric welder installations and are additional to or amendatory of the requirements of other Sections of this Code insofar as these installations are concerned.

42-002 Special Permission. Where, in the opinion of the inspection department, the additional requirements of this Section are not required, they may be waived by special permission.

42-004 Severe Duty Cycle. Where, in the opinion of an inspector designated by the inspection department for the purpose of this Rule, the duty cycle is such as to require it, welders shall be treated on an individual basis.

Transformer Arc Welders

42-006 Supply Conductors

(1) The supply conductor for an individual transformer arc welder shall have an ampacity of not less than:

(a) 100 per cent of the rated primary current for an automatically operated welder; or

(b) 80 per cent of the rated primary current for a manually operated welder.

(2) The supply conductors for a group of automatically operated transformer arc welders shall have an ampacity equal to the sum of:

(a) 100 per cent of the rated primary current of the two largest welders in the group;

(b) 85 per cent of the rated primary current of the third largest welder in the group;

(c) 70 per cent of the rated primary current of the fourth largest welder in the group; and

(d) 60 per cent of the aggregate rated primary current of all remaining welders in the group.

(3) The supply conductors for a group of manually operated transformer arc welders shall have an ampacity equal to the sum of:

(a) 80 per cent of the rated primary current of the two largest welders in the group;

(b) 68 per cent of the rated primary current of the third largest welder in the group;

(c) 56 per cent of the rated primary current of the fourth largest welder in the group; and

(d) 48 per cent of the aggregate rated primary current of all remaining welders in the group.

(4) At the discretion of the inspection department, percentage values lower than those given in Subrules (2) and (3) are permissible in cases where the work is such that a high operating duty cycle for individual welders is impossible.

42-008 Overcurrent Protection for Transformer Arc Welders

(1) Each transformer arc welder shall have overcurrent protection rated or set at not more than 200 per cent of the rated primary current of the welder, unless the overcurrent device protecting the supply conductors meets this requirement.

(2) Each ungrounded conductor shall have overcurrent protection rated or set at not more than 200 per cent of the allowable ampacity of the conductor as specified in Tables 1, 2, 3 or 4, except that the next higher rating or setting may be used where:

(a) The nearest standard rating of the overcurrent device is less than the rating or setting otherwise required by this Rule; or

(b) The rating or setting otherwise required by this Rule results in too frequent opening of the overcurrent device.

42-010 Disconnect Means

(1) A disconnect means shall be provided in the supply connection of each welder which is not equipped with a disconnect mounted as an integral part of the welder.

(2) The disconnect means shall be a switch or circuit breaker and its rating shall be not less than necessary to accommodate overcurrent protection as specified under Rule 42-008.

Motor-Generator Arc Welders

42-012 Conductors, Protection and Control of M-G Arc Welders. The rules of Section 4, Conductors, and 28, Motors, shall apply to motor-generator arc welders except that:

(a) The motors may be marked in amperes only; and

(b) Where the controller is built-in as an integral part of the motor-generator set, the controller need not be separately marked provided the necessary data is on the motor nameplate.

Resistance Welders

42-014 Definitions. In Rules 42-016 and 42-018:

(a) "rated primary current" means the kilovolt-ampere rating of the welder as shown on the nameplate thereof multiplied by 1,000 and divided by the rated primary voltage shown on the nameplate of the welder;

(b) "actual primary current" means the current drawn from the supply circuit during each welder operation at the particular heat tap and control setting used; and

(c) "duty cycle" means the ratio of the time during which the welder is loaded to the total time required for one complete operation.

42-016 Supply Conductors for Resistance Welders. The ampacity of supply conductors shall be as follows:

(a) Where an individual seam resistance welder or an individual automatically-fed resistance welder is operated at different times at different values of primary current or duty cycle, the supply conductors shall have an ampacity of not less than 70 per cent of the rated primary current of the welder;

(b) Where an individual manually-operated non-automatic resistance welder is operated at different times at different values of primary current or duty cycle, the ampacity of the supply conductors shall be not less than 50 per cent of the rated primary current of the welder;

(c) Where an individual resistance welder operates at known and constant values of actual primary current and duty cycle, the supply conductors shall have an ampacity of not less than the value obtained by multiplying the actual primary current by a factor of 0.71, 0.63, 0.55, 0.50, 0.45, 0.39, 0.32, 0.27 or 0.22 for duty cycles of 50, 40, 30, 25, 20, 15, 10, 7.5 and 5 per cent or less respectively;

(d) Where there is a group of resistance welders, the supply conductors shall have an ampacity of not less than:

(i) The sum of the values obtained from paragraph (a), (b) or (c) for the largest welder in the group; and

(ii) 60 per cent of the values so obtained for all of the other welders in the group.

42-018 Overcurrent Protection for Resistance Welders

(1) Every resistance welder shall have overcurrent protection rated or set at not more than 300 per cent of the rated primary current of the welder unless the overcurrent device protecting the supply conductors gives equivalent protection.

(2) Every ungrounded conductor of a resistance welder shall have overcurrent protection rated or set at not more than 300 per cent of the allowable ampacity of the conductor as specified in Tables 1, 2, 3 and 4, except that the next higher rating or setting may be used where:

(a) The nearest standard rating of the overcurrent device is less than the rating or setting required by this Rule; or

(b) The rating or setting required by this Rule results in too frequent opening of the overcurrent device.

42-020 Control of Resistance Welders. Every resistance welder shall have installed in its supply circuit a switch or circuit breaker, rated at not less than the rating of the conductors as determined by Rule 42-016, whereby the welder and its control equipment can be isolated from the supply circuit.

42-022 Nameplate Data for Resistance Welders. Every resistance welder shall be provided with a nameplate giving the maker's name, primary voltage, frequency, rated kilovolt-amperes at 50 per cent duty cycle, maximum and minimum open-circuit secondary voltage, short-circuit secondary current at maximum secondary voltage, and the specified throat and gap setting.

SECTION 44—THEATRE INSTALLATIONS

General

44-000 Scope. This Section applies to electrical equipment and installations in buildings or parts of a building designed, intended, or used for dramatic, operatic, motion picture, or other shows, and it is supplementary to or amendatory of the general requirements of this Code.

44-002 Travelling Shows. Electrical equipment used by a travelling theatrical company, circus or other travelling show, whether or not the performance is held within a theatre, shall not be used for the initial performance of any series of performances until a permit has been obtained from the inspection department.

44-004 Motion Picture Studios and Projectors. Motion picture studios and projectors shall comply with the requirements of Section 48.

44-006 Sound Reproduction. Sound reproducing equipment shall comply with the requirements of Section 66.

Installation

44-008 Wiring Method

(1) Wiring shall be in rigid conduit, or steel electrical metallic tubing, or as mineral-insulated cable except that:

(a) Other wiring methods may be permitted for temporary work;

(b) Flexible cord or cable may be used where permitted by this Section; and

(c) Flexible conduit, lead-sheathed armoured cable or aluminum-sheathed cable may be used by special permission.

(2) Surface raceways shall not be used on the stage side of the proscenium wall.

44-010 Number of Conductors in Raceways. For border or stage pocket circuits or for remote-control circuits:

(a) The number of conductors run in rigid conduit or electrical metallic tubing shall not exceed that shown in Rule 12-162; and

(b) Conductors run in auxiliary gutters or metal wireways shall have a total cross-sectional area not exceeding 20 per cent of the cross-sectional area of the gutter or wireway.

44-012 Conductor Insulation for Field Assembled Fixtures. Foot, border, proscenium and portable strip light fixtures assembled in the field shall be wired with conductors having insulation suitable for the temperature at which the conductors will be operated and in no case less than 125° C. (257° F.).

Stage Switchboards

44-014 Stage Switchboards to be Dead Front. Stage switchboards shall be:

(a) Of the dead-front type; and

(b) Protected above with a suitable metal guard or hood extending the full length of the board and completely covering the space between the wall and the board to protect the latter from falling objects.

44-016 Guarding Stage Switchboards

(1) Where a stage switchboard has exposed live parts on the back of the board, it shall be enclosed by the walls of the building, by wire mesh grills, or by other acceptable methods.

(2) The entrance to the enclosure shall have a self-closing door.

44-018 Supply Service

(1) Every theatre other than a moving picture theatre which is not regularly used by theatrical companies shall have two extra service boxes installed in it for the proper and convenient supply of current to extra equipment.

(2) The boxes shall be suitably located with one box at each end of the stage.

(3) The boxes shall be connected in a permanent manner to the main service or to a separate source of supply.

(4) The boxes shall have a capacity of not less than 400 amperes when connected to a 110-volt, 2-wire supply circuit and 200 amperes when connected to a 110/220-volt, 3-wire supply circuit.

(5) The boxes shall be equippped with fuses and quick-break switches or approved equivalent devices.

44-020 Switches. Switches shall be of the enclosed type and externally operated.

44-022 Pilot Lamp on Switchboards

(1) A pilot lamp shall be installed within every switchboard enclosure.

(2) The pilot lamp shall be connected to the circuit supplying the switchboard so that the opening of the master switch does not cut off the supply to the lamp.

(3) The lamp shall be on an independent circuit protected by an overcurrent device rated or set at not more than 15 amperes.

44-024 Fuses. Fuses on switchboards shall be:

(a) Of either the plug or cartridge type; and

(b) Provided with enclosures in addition to the switchboard enclosure.

44-026 Overcurrent Protection. All circuits leaving the switchboard shall have an overcurrent device connected in each ungrounded conductor.

44-028 Dimmers

(1) Dimmers shall be connected so as to be dead when their respective circuit switches are open.

(2) Dimmers which do not open the circuit may be connected in a grounded neutral conductor.

(3) The terminals of dimmers shall be provided with approved enclosures.

(4) Dimmer faceplates shall be arranged so that accidental contact cannot readily be made with the faceplate contacts.

44-030 Control of Stage and Gallery Pockets. Stage and gallery pockets shall be controlled from the switchboard.

44-032 Conductors

(1) Conductors within the switchboard enclosure shall be of the stranded asbestos-covered type enclosed in metal troughs or otherwise properly supported and securely fastened in position.

(2) The conductors shall have an ampacity of not less than that of the switch or overcurrent device to which they are connected.

(3) Holes in the metal enclosure through which conductors pass shall be bushed.

(4) The strands of the conductor shall be soldered together before they are fastened under a clamp or binding screw.

(5) Where a conductor of No. 8 AWG or of a larger size is connected to a terminal:

(a) It shall be soldered into a lug; or

(b) An approved solderless connector shall be used.

Portable Switchboards on Stage

44-034 Construction of Portable Switchboards

(1) Portable switchboards shall be placed within enclosures of substantial construction but may be arranged so that the enclosure is open during operation.

(2) Enclosures of wood shall be completely lined with sheet metal not less than 0.0209 inch (No. 24 MSG) thick, suitably protected against corrosion.

(3) There shall be no live parts exposed within the enclosure except those on dimmer faceplates.

44-036 Supply for Portable Switchboards

(1) Portable switchboards shall be supplied by means of flexible cord or cable, Type K, S, SO or ST, terminating within the switchboard enclosure in an externally-operated, enclosed, fused master switch.

(2) The master switch shall be arranged so as to cut off current from all apparatus within the enclosure except the pilot light.

(3) The flexible cord or cable shall have a sufficient ampacity to carry the total load current of the switchboard.

(4) The ampere-rating of the fuses of the master switch shall not be greater than the total load current of the switchboard.

Stage Equipment—Fixed

44-038 Circuit Loads. Footlights, border lights and proscenium side lights shall be arranged so that no branch circuit supplying such equipment will carry a load exceeding 15 amperes except that, where heavy-duty lampholders only are used, such circuits may conform to the provisions of Rule 14-082.

44-040 Footlights

(1) Where footlights are wired in rigid conduit or steel electrical metallic tubing, every lampholder shall be installed in an individual outlet box.

(2) Where footlights are not wired in rigid conduit or steel electrical metallic tubing, the wiring shall be installed in a steel trough.

44-042 Wiring to Arc Pockets. Where the wiring to arc pockets is in rigid conduit or steel electrical metallic tubing, the end of the conduit or tubing shall be exposed at a point approximately 12 inches away from the pocket, and the wiring shall be continued in flexible conduit in the form of a loop at least 2 feet long, with sufficient slack to permit the raising or lowering of the box.

44-044 Cable for Border Lights

(1) Flexible cord or cable for border lights shall be of Type K, S, SO or ST.

(2) The flexible cord or cable shall be fed from points on the gridiron or from other acceptable overhead points but shall not be fed from side walls.

(3) The flexible cord or cable shall be arranged so that strain is taken from clamps and binding screws.

(4) Where the flexible cord or cable passes through a metal or wooden enclosure, a metal bushing shall be provided to protect the cord.

(5) Terminals or binding posts to which flexible cords or cables are connected inside the switchboard enclosure shall be located so as to permit convenient access to them.

44-046 Receptacles in Gallery Pockets. At least one receptacle having a rated capacity of not less than 30 amperes shall be installed in the gallery of theatres where dramatic or operatic performances are staged.

44-048 Receptacles and Plugs

(1) Receptacles intended for the connection of arc lamps shall:

(a) Have a rated capacity not less than 35 amperes; and

(b) Be supplied by conductors not smaller than No. 6 AWG.

(2) Receptacles intended for the connection of incandescent lamps shall:

(a) Have a rated capacity not less than 15 amperes; and

(b) Be supplied by conductors not smaller than No. 12 AWG.

(3) Plugs for arc and incandescent receptacles shall not be interchangeable.

44-050 Curtain Motors. Curtain motors shall be of the enclosed type.

44-052 Flue-Damper Control

(1) Where stage flue dampers are released by an electrical device, the circuit operating the device shall, in normal operation, be closed.

(2) The circuit shall be controlled by at least 2 single-pole switches enclosed in metal boxes with self-closing doors without locks or latches.

(3) One switch shall be placed at the electrician's station and the other at a place designated by the inspection department.

(4) The device shall be:

(a) Designed for the full voltage of the circuit to which it is connected, no resistance being inserted;

(b) Located in the loft above the scenery; and

(c) Enclosed in a suitable metal box with a tight self-closing door.

Stage Equipment—Portable

44-054 Fixtures on Scenery

(1) Fixtures attached to stage scenery shall be:

(a) Of the internally-wired types; or

(b) Wired with flexible cord or cable approved for hard usage.

(2) The fixtures shall be secured firmly in place.

(3) The stems of the fixtures shall be carried through to the back of the scenery and shall have a suitable bushing on the end thereof.

44-056 String or Festooned Lights

(1) Joints in the wiring of string or festooned lights shall be staggered where practicable.

(2) Where the lamps of string or festooned lights are enclosed in paper lanterns, or shades or other devices of combustible material, they shall be equipped with lamp guards.

44-058 Flexible Conductors for Portable Equipment. Flexible conductors for arc lamps, bunches or other portable equipment shall be Type K, S, SO or ST cord or cable, but for separate miscellaneous portable devices operated under conditions where the conductors are not exposed to severe mechanical injury, reinforced cords Type SV, SVO, PWP, SJ, SJO or SJT may be used provided that they are protected by an overcurrent device rated or set at not more than 15 amperes.

44-060 Portable Equipment for Stage Effects. Portable equipment for stage effects shall be of a type especially approved for the purpose and shall be so located that flames, sparks or hot particles cannot come in contact with combustible material.

Dressing Rooms

44-062 Pendents in Dressing Rooms. Pendent lights in dressing rooms shall be wired with armoured cable or with flexible cord approved for hard usage as listed in Table 11.

44-064 Receptacles in Dressing Rooms

(1) Every dressing room shall contain at least one receptacle constructed to accommodate parallel blade caps.

(2) All receptacles constructed to accommodate parallel blade caps in dressing rooms shall be controlled from the switchboard.

44-066 Lamp Guards in Dressing Rooms. All lights in dressing rooms shall be equipped with locked, open-end, wire guards.

Aisle Lights—Moving-Picture Theatres

44-068 Aisle Lights in Moving-Picture Theatres. Circuits for aisle lights located under seats may supply 30 outlets provided that the size of lamp bulb which can be used with each outlet is limited by barriers or the equivalent to 25 watts or less.

Grounding

44-070 Grounding

(1) All metal raceways shall be grounded.

(2) All metal frames and enclosures of equipment including border lights other than the frames and enclosures of portable equipment operating on grounded circuits at not more than 150 volts to ground shall be grounded.

Construction

44-072 Metal Work

(1) The metal work for footlights, borders, proscenium sidelights and strips shall be not less than 0.0309 inch (No. 20 MSG) thick.

(2) The metal work for bunches and portable strips shall be not less than 0.0209 inch (No. 24 MSG) thick.

44-074 Ventilation for Mogul Lampholders. Where the lighting devices are equipped with mogul lampholders, the lighting devices shall be constructed with double walls and with adequate ventilation between the walls.

44-076 Mechanical Protection of Lamps in Borders, etc. Borders, proscenium sidelights and strips shall be constructed so that the flanges of the reflectors or other suitable guards protect the lamps from mechanical injury and from accidental contact with scenery or other combustible material.

44-078 Clearances at Terminals. The terminals of lampholders shall be separated from the metal of the trough by at least ½ inch.

44-080 Connections at Lampholders. Conductors shall be soldered to the terminals of lampholders unless other suitable means are provided to obtain positive and reliable connection under severe vibration.

44-082 Suspended Fixtures. Borders and strips shall be so suspended as to be electrically and mechanically safe.

44-084 Pendent Lights Rated More than 100 Watts. Where a pendent lighting-device contains a lamp or group of lamps of more than 100 watts capacity, it shall be provided with a guard of not more than ½ inch mesh so arranged as to prevent danger from falling glass.

SECTION 46—EMERGENCY SYSTEMS

General

46-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to the installation, operation and maintenance of emergency systems and unit equipment intended to supply illumination and to emergency systems intended to supply power in the event of failure of the normal supply where such systems are required by any governmental or other agency having jurisdiction.

(2) References to exit lighting systems refer to exit lights from emergency sources only.

(3) The requirements of this Section are supplementary to or amendatory of the general requirements of this Code.

46-002 System Voltage, 50 Volts or Less. Where an emergency system operates at 50 volts or less, it shall also conform to Section 56.

46-004 Method of Wiring. The method of wiring for emergency systems shall be rigid conduit, steel electrical metallic tubing or mineral-insulated cable, unless special permission is obtained for the use of flexible conduit or amoured cable.

46-006 Testing and Maintenance

(1) Every emergency system shall be tested at least once every month to ensure security of operation.

(2) Where batteries are used as a source of supply for emergency systems, the batteries shall be kept:

(a) In proper condition;

(b) Fully charged at all times; and

(c) In an adequately-ventilated battery room.

46-008 Location of Equipment

(1) No component of an emergency system shall be installed in a room which contains machinery using or used in connection with a combustible refrigerant.

(2) Storage batteries and generators for emergency systems shall be located within the building as to reduce as far as is possible the hazards of interference or damage to the equipment by fire, explosion or flooding within the building.

(3) Where the nature of the occupancy, construction and internal protection of a building warrants it, an inspector may require that the batteries or generators, or both, be located in a fire-resisting room segregated from other parts of the building by unpierced walls, floors and ceiling having a fire resistance rating of at least one hour with entrance to the room from:

(a) Outdoors; or

(b) Inside the building providing the opening is protected by an approved automatic fire door.

46-010 Instructions

(1) Complete instructions for the operation and care of the emergency system shall be posted on the premises in a frame under glass.

(2) The form of the instructions and their location shall be subject to the approval of the inspector.

46-012 Audible and Visible Trouble-Signal Devices

(1) Every emergency system shall be equipped with audible and visible trouble-signal devices which give warning of derangement of the current source or sources and which indicate when the emergency load is supplied from batteries or generators.

(2) Audible trouble signals may be wired so that:

(a) They can be silenced, but a red warning or trouble light shall continue to provide the protective function; and

(b) When the system is restored to normal, the audible signal will:

(i) Sound, thus indicating the necessity of restoring the silencing switch to its normal position; or

(ii) Reset automatically so as to sound for any subsequent operation of the emergency system.

Current Supply

46-014 Capacity. Emergency systems shall have adequate capacity and rating to ensure the satisfactory operation of all equipment connected to the system when the principal source of power fails.

46-016 Current Supply

(1) The current supply shall consist of:

(a) A service supply; and

(b) Where a stand-by supply is required:

(i) A storage battery having sufficient capacity to supply and maintain, at not less than 91 per cent of full voltage, the total load of the emergency circuits for at least ½ hour;

(ii) A generator driven by a dependable prime mover; or

(iii) By special permission, a separate service widely separated electrically and physically to minimize the possibility of simultaneous interruption of the supply.

(2) Automobile batteries and lead batteries not of the sealed glass-jar-type are not considered suitable under Subrule (1) and shall only be used by special permission.

(3) Where a generator is used, it shall be:

(a) Of capacity sufficient to carry the load; and

(b) Arranged to start automatically without failure and without undue delay upon the failure of the current supply of the principal equipment of the building.

Circuits

46-018 Wiring for Emergency Circuits. The wiring of emergency systems shall be kept entirely independent of all other wiring and equipment and shall not enter a fixture, raceway, box or cabinet occupied by other wiring except where necessary:

(a) In transfer switches; and

(b) In exit or emergency lighting fixtures supplied from two sources.

46-020 Appliances and Lamps. No appliance or lamp, other than those required for the emergency system, shall be supplied by the emergency circuits.

Control

46-022 Control

(1) The current supply for an emergency system shall be controlled by an automatic changeover switch accessible only to authorized persons.

(2) An additional switch may be installed:

(a) At the main source of supply or on the control panel of a special current-source; or

(b) Adjacent to the automatic changeover switch to control separately the lights which are not required during daylight hours.

(3) An automatic light-actuated device approved for the purpose may be used to control separately the lights on the exterior of the building which are not required during daylight hours.

(4) The emergency circuits shall not be connected to or controlled by any other devices.

(5) Where self-contained battery-operated emergency lighting units are used, the receptacle circuit supplying the device shall be interconnected to the general lighting circuit so that failure of this circuit will actuate the emergency lighting unit.

Overcurrent Protection

46-024 Overcurrent Protection

(1) No device other than the overcurrent device for current supply for emergency systems shall be placed ahead of the branch circuit overcurrent devices.

(2) The branch circuit overcurrent devices shall be accessible only to authorize persons.

46-026 Unit Equipment

(1) Rules 46-026 to 46-036 apply to individual unit equipment only.

(2) In these rules, "unit equipment" means individual self-contained equipment for emergency illumination consisting of a battery; battery charging equipment; one or more lamps; and a relaying device arranged to energize the lamps automatically upon failure of the normal supply to the lighting circuit which the emergency unit equipment is intended to protect, such relaying device being adapted automatically to de-energize the emergency lights and/or equipment on restoration of normal service.

46-028 Batteries

(1) Storage batteries whether of the acid or alkali type shall be of the type specifically designed for such service and be of the rechargeable type.

(2) Batteries shall be of suitable rating and capacity to supply and maintain at not less than 91 per cent of rated lamp voltage the total lamp load associated with the unit for a period of at least ½ hour.

46-030 Supply Connections. Unit equipment shall be connected by flexible cords or shall be permanently connected.

46-032 Remote Lamps. The wiring method between unit equipment and emergency illumination fixtures which are not a part of the unit shall be in accordance with Rule 46-018 and Section 12.

46-034 Testing and Maintenance. Unit equipment shall be tested and maintained in accordance with Subrules (1), (2)(a) and (2)(b) of Rule 46-006.

46-036 Instructions. Instructions for the operation and care of unit equipment shall be in accordance with Rule 46-010.

SECTION 48—MOTION PICTURE STUDIOS, PROJECTION ROOMS, FILM EXCHANGES INCLUDING FILM-VAULTS AND STORE HOUSES FOR PYROXYLIN PLASTIC AND NITROCELLULOSE X-RAY AND PHOTOGRAPHIC FILM

48-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to:

(a) Motion picture studios, projection rooms, exchanges, factories and laboratories; and

(b) Any building or portion of a building in which motion picture films, pyroxylin plastic and nitrocellulose X-ray and photographic films are manufactured, projected, developed, printed, rewound, repaired or stored;

and is supplementary to or amendatory of the general requirements of this Code.

(2) This Section does not apply where only slow-burning (cellulose-acetate or equivalent) film is used.

48-002 Wiring Method. The wiring method, unless specified otherwise in this Section, shall be rigid conduit, steel electrical metallic tubing, or mineral-insulated cable, except that portable cables or flexible cord may be used on studio stages and other locations where fixed wiring methods are impracticable.

48-004 Lamp Outlets. Lamp outlets on walls shall consist of lampholders mounted in outlet boxes and equipped with open-ends guards securely fastened to the cover of the box.

48-006 Pendent Lamps. Pendent lamps shall be suspended by means of reinforced cord, armoured cord or armoured cable, and shall be protected by guards or metal shades.

48-008 Portable Lamps. For portable lamps other than those used as properties in a motion picture set on a studio stage or similar location, the lampholders shall be:

(a) Unswitched;

(b) Of composition or metal-sheathed porcelain; and

(c) Provided with a guard hook and handle.

48-010 Flexible Cords. Type S, SO or ST cord shall be used on portable lamps and equipment.

48-012 Patching Table Fixtures. At film-patching tables all lighting fixtures, except lamps forming part of approved patching table equipment, shall be of the totally-enclosed gasketted type.

48-014 Motors and Generators. Motors and generators having brushes or sliding contacts, other than those used on studio stages or installed in accordance with Rule 48-032, shall be of approved dust-tight or enclosed types.

48-016 Storage Batteries. Storage batteries shall comply with the requirements of Rules 26-078 to 26-084.

48-018 Pyroxylin Plastic Storage Rooms. In rooms used for the storage of pyroxylin plastic no receptacle or attachment plugs shall be installed.

Film-Vaults

48-020 Equipment in Film-Vaults. No electrical equipment other than that necessary for fixed lighting shall be installed in film-vaults.

48-022 Film-Vaults Wiring Method

(1) The wiring method in film-vaults shall be rigid conduit or mineral-insulated cable only, with threaded joints at couplings, boxes and fittings.

(2) Conduit or cable shall not run directly from vault to vault, but only from the switch to the lighting fixture within the vault.

(3) Conduit shall be sealed off near the switch enclosure with a fitting and compound approved for the purpose.

48-024 Film-Vault Lighting Fixtures

(1) Lighting fixtures in film-vaults shall be of the explosion-proof type approved for use in Class 1, Group C hazardous locations and shall have metal cages or guards protecting the globes.

(2) The fixtures shall be located as close as practicable to the ceiling so as not to be liable to damage through handling of film containers.

48-026 Film-Vault Circuits

(1) Fixtures shall be controlled by a double-pole switch located outside the film-vault.

(2) A red pilot light shall be provided to indicate when the switch is closed and shall be located outside the film-vault.

(3) Wiring shall be arranged so that when the switch is off, all conductors within the film-vault will be dead.

Motion Picture Projection Rooms

48-028 Flexible Cords in Projection Rooms. Type S, SJ, SO, ST or K flexible cords shall be used on portable equipment in motion picture projection rooms.

48-030 Lamps in Projection Rooms. Incandescent lamps in projection rooms or boths shall be provided with an approved lamp guard unless otherwise protected by noncombustible shades or other enclosures.

48-032 Ventilation. All projection rooms shall be provided with exhaust ventilation fans sufficient to give a complete change of air every three minutes, and the fan shall be arranged so that it may be controlled from inside the projection room and from a nearby point outside the room.

SECTION 50—ELECTRICALLY-OPERATED PIPE ORGANS

50-000 Scope. This Section applies to:

(a) The electrical circuits and parts of electrically-operated pipe organs which are used to control sounding apparatus and keyboards of pipe organs;

(b) The blower motors for pipe organs;

(c) The lighting of pipe organ lofts;

and is supplementary to or amendatory of the general requirements of this Code.

50-002 Control Circuit Source of Energy. The source of electrical energy for the control circuit shall be:

(a) A self-excited generator;

(b) A primary battery; or

(c) A two-coil transformer type rectifier.

50-004 Control Circuit Voltage. The operating voltage of the control circuit shall be not more than 30 volts.

50-006 Control Circuit Conductors

(1) Control circuit conductors shall be cabled except:

(a) Conductors inside the organ proper, the organ sections and the organ console; and

(b) Common return conductor which may be run in contact with the cable or be placed under additional covering enclosing both cable and return conductor.

(2) Control circuit cable shall be of a type approved for the purpose.

(3) For the purpose of this Rule, cable means an assembly of insulated conductors.

50-008 Control Circuit Cables, Installation

(1) Control circuit cables shall be neatly and securely held in place.

(2) The cables may be attached directly to the organ structure without insulating supports.

(3) The cable shall not be placed in contact with other conductors.

50-010 Control Circuit Cables, Overcurrent Protection

(1) The control circuit shall be divided and protected at or near the source of current by enclosed overcurrent devices so that every conductor is protected by one or other of the overcurrent devices.

(2) The rating of overcurrent devices referred to in Subrule (1) shall not exceed:

(a) 15 amperes for control circuits not exceeding 15 volts;

(b) 10 amperes for control circuits exceeding 15 volts.

50-012 Blower Motor Signal Light. A remotely controlled organ blower motor shall be provided with a pilot lamp of the neon type located at the organ console.

50-014 Blower Motor Installation

(1) Every organ blower motor, unless of the totally-enclosed type, shall be installed in a room or compartment having walls and ceiling constructed so as to retard the spread of fire for at least 45 minutes.

(2) Sub-rule (1) shall be deemed to be complied with where:

(a) The construction of the walls is of 2- by 4-inch (trade size) wood studs with expanded metal lath on each side and ¾-inch thickness of gypsum and sand plaster;

(b) The ceiling is of the double metal lath and plaster type; and

(c) The door to the room or compartment is self-closing, and consists of at least two 1-inch layers of lumber with a membrane of asbestos paper weighing at least 30 pounds per 100 square feet placed between the layers.

50-018 Organ Loft Lighting

(1) The wiring method in organ lofts shall be rigid conduit, electrical metallic tubing, or run as mineral-insulated cable or as aluminum-sheathed cable.

(2) Organ lofts shall be illuminated by a fixture constructed so that particles from a broken lamp bulb will be contained within the fixture.

(3) Conductors used for illumination of organ lofts shall be completely enclosed within the conduit or fitting.

(4) A receptacle shall be provided in the organ loft for the supply of current to an approved portable lamp.

(5) Electric equipment installed in organ lofts shall be suitably enclosed in an approved box or cabinet or fitting.

SECTION 52—X-RAY INSTALLATIONS

52-000 Scope

(1) This Section applies to the installation of X-ray equipment operating at any frequency, and is supplementary to or amendatory of the general requirements of this Code.

(2) Nothing in this Section shall be construed as specifying safeguards against direct, stray or secondary X-ray radiation.

52-002 High-Voltage Guarding

(1) High-voltage parts shall be mounted within enclosures of grounded metal except when installed in separate rooms or enclosures where a suitable switch shall be:

(a) Provided to control the circuit supplying the X-ray equipment; and

(b) Arranged so that it will necessarily be open except while the door of the room or enclosure is locked from the outside.

(2) High-voltage parts of X-ray equipment may be mounted within enclosures of insulating material.

(3) Conductors in the high-voltage circuits shall be of the shock-proof type.

(4) Leads on fluoroscope tables shall be adequately insulated or be provided with barriers which will guard against inadvertent contact.

52-004 Milliameter. If a milliameter is provided it shall be:

(a) Connected, if practicable in the grounded lead; or

(b) Guarded if connected in the high-voltage lead.

52-006 Connections to Supply Circuit

(1) Permanently installed X-ray apparatus shall be connected to the power supply by means of a wiring method meeting the general requirements of this Code, except that apparatus properly supplied by branch circuits not larger than a 30-ampere branch circuit may be supplied through a suitable plug and heavy duty cable or cord.

(2) Transportable X-ray apparatus of any capacity may be connected to its power supply by suitable temporary connections and heavy duty cable or cord.

52-008 Disconnecting Means

(1) A disconnecting means of adequate capacity shall be provided in a location readily accessible from the X-ray control.

(2) For apparatus requiring a 115-volt branch circuit fused at 30 amperes or less, a plug and receptacle of proper size may serve as a disconnecting means.

52-010 Transformers and Capacitors

(1) Transformers and capacitors forming a part of an X-ray equipment shall not be required to conform to the requirements of Section 26 of this Code.

(2) Capacitors shall be provided with an automatic means for discharging and grounding the plates whenever the transformer primary is disconnected from the source of supply, unless all current-carrying parts of the capacitors and of the conductors connected therewith are:

(a) At least 8 feet from the floor, and are inaccessible to unauthorized persons; or

(b) Within enclosures of grounded metal or insulating material if within 8 feet from the floor.

52-012 Control

(1) For stationary equipment, the low-voltage circuit of the step-up transformer shall contain a circuit breaker which:

(a) Has no exposed live parts;

(b) Protects the radiographic circuit against fault conditions under all operating conditions;

(c) Is installed as a part of the equipment or directly adjacent thereto; and

(d) Is manually operable or else at least one other manually operable switch is provided in the low-voltage circuit of the step-up transformer, either as part of the equipment or directly adjacent thereto.

(2) Where in Subrule (1) the design of the step-up transformer is such that branch fuses having a current rating lower than the current rating of the circuit breaker are required for adequate protection for fluoroscopic and therapeutic circuits, they shall be added for protection of these circuits.

(3) For portable equipment, the requirements of Subrules (1) and (2) shall apply but the circuit breaker shall be located in or on the equipment except that no circuit breaker is required when the high voltage parts including the X-ray tube are within a single metal enclosure which is provided with a means for grounding.

(4) Medical X-ray equipment shall, in addition to complying with the requirements of Subrules (1), (2) and (3) as applicable, be provided with controlling means as follows:

(a) For the radiographic type, a timer shall be provided and controlled by a switch which shall be designed to open automatically except when held closed by the operator;

(b) For the fluoroscopic type, a switch shall be provided which shall be designed to open automatically except when held closed by the operator;

(c) For the therapeutic type, a timer shall be provided which is not of the repeating type.

(5) Industrial X-ray equipment of the radiographic and fluoroscopic types shall in addition to complying with the requirements of Subrules (1), (2) and (3) as applicable, be provided with a timer or a manual switch to open and close the circuit at the option of the operator.

(6) Where switches operated by foot pressure are used with industrial X-ray equipment, the contact button shall be provided with a shield to avoid accidental closing unless the equipment is of the fully enclosed shockproof type.

(7) Where switches operated by foot pressure are used with equipment for radiographic work, the foot switch shall return automatically to the X-ray off position when foot pressure is removed.

(8) Where more than one piece of equipment is operated from the same high-voltage circuit, each piece or each group of equipment as a unit, shall be provided with a high-voltage switch or equivalent disconnecting means.

52-014 Grounding. Non-current-carrying parts of tube stands, fluoroscopes and other apparatus shall be grounded in conformity with the requirements of Section 10.

SECTION 54—RADIO INSTALLATIONS

54-000 Scope

(1) This Section is supplementary to or amendatory of the general requirements of this Code and applies to:

(a) Equipment for the reception of radio and television broadcast transmission;

(b) Equipment employed in the normal operation of a radio station licensed by the Government of Canada as an experimental amateur radio station; and

(c) Wire television distribution systems.

(2) This Section does not apply to equipment and antennas used for broadcast transmission and for coupling carrier current to power line conductors.

(3) In Subrule (2) "broadcast" means one-way communication in other than wire television distribution systems.

54-002 Receiving Equipment and Amateur Transmitting Equipment Rules. Rules 54-004 to 54-034 apply to:

(a) Radio and television receiving equipment; and

(b) Amateur radio transmitting equipment.

Protectors

54-004 Lightning Arresters, Receiving Stations

(1) Lightning arresters shall be provided for each lead-in conductor to receiving stations from an outdoor antenna, except where the lead-in conductors are protected from the antenna to the point of entrance to the building by a continuous metal shield that is:

(a) Grounded; or

(b) Provided with a lightning arrester.

(2) Lightning arresters for receiving stations shall be located outside the building, or inside the building between the point of entrance of the lead-in and the radio set or transformer, and as near as practicable to the entrance of the conductors to the building.

(3) Lightning arresters for receiving stations shall not be located near combustible material nor in a hazardous location.

54-006 Lightning Arresters, Transmitting Stations. Each conductor of a lead-in to a transmitting station from an outdoor antenna shall be provided with a lightning arrester or other suitable means which will drain static charges from the antenna system except:

(a) Where protected by a continuous metallic shield which is grounded; or

(b) Where the antenna is grounded.

Grounding Conductors

54-008 Material for Grounding Conductor. The grounding conductor shall be of copper, aluminum alloy, copper-clad steel, bronze or other corrosion-resistant material unless otherwise specified.

54-010 Insulation of Grounding Conductor. The grounding conductors may be uninsulated.

54-012 Support for Grounding Conductor. The grounding conductors shall be securely fastened in place and may be directly attached to the surface wired over without the use of insulating supports.

54-014 Mechanical Protection of Grounding Conductor. The grounding conductor shall be protected where exposed to mechanical injury.

54-016 Grounding Conductor to be Run in a Straight Line. The grounding conductor shall be run in as straight a line as is practicable from the lightning arresters or antenna mast, or both, to the grounding electrode.

54-018 Ground Electrode. The grounding conductor shall be connected to a grounding electrode as specified in Section 10.

54-020 Grounding Conductors, Inside or Outside Building. The grounding conductors may be run either inside or outside the building.

54-022 Size of Protective Ground. The size of the protective grounding conductor for receiving and transmitting stations providing ground connection for mast and lightning arrester shall be in accordance with Section 10.

54-024 Common Ground. A single grounding conductor may be used for both protective and operating purposes, but must be installed so that disconnection of the operating ground will not affect the protective ground circuit.

54-026 Radio Noise Suppressors. Radio interference eliminators, interference capacitors or radio noise suppressors connected to power supply leads shall be of a type approved for the purpose and shall not be exposed to mechanical injury.

Transmitting Stations

54-028 Enclosure of Transmitters. Transmitters shall be enclosed in a metal frame or grille, or thoroughly shielded or separated from the operating space by a barrier or other equivalent means.

54-030 Grounding of Transmitters. All exposed metallic parts of transmitters including external metallic handles and controls accessible to the operating personnel and accessories such as microphone stands, shall be grounded.

54-032 Interlocks on Doors of Transmitters. All access doors of transmitters shall be provided with interlocks which will disconnect all voltages in excess of 250 volts when any access door is opened.

54-034 Amplifiers. Audio-amplifiers which are located outside the transmitter housing shall be suitably housed and shall be located so as to be readily accessible and adequately ventilated.

Wire Television Distribution Systems

54-036 Wire Television Distribution System Rules. Rules 54-038 to 54-086 apply to wire television distribution systems.

54-038 Material. The coaxial cable or other types of cable or wire used in wire television distribution systems ahall be acceptable for the purpose.

54-040 Supports. Where coaxial cable or other types of cable or wire are attached to, or supported on, buildings, the attachment or supporting fixtures shall be acceptable for the purpose.

54-042 Hazardous Locations. Where the circuits or apparatus within the scope of this Section are installed in hazardous locations, they shall also comply with the applicable rules of Section 18.

54-044 Provision of Protectors

(1) A protector acceptable for the purpose shall be provided on each wire television distribution circuit unless:

(a) The television distribution cable has an effectively grounded metallic sheath or effectively grounded outer conductor of a coaxial cable; and

(b) The metallic sheath of the televison distribution cable or outer conductor of a coaxial cable is connected to ground at entrances to buildings in accordance with Rules 54-076, 54-078, 54-080 and 54-082.

(2) The protector shall be located in, or on, the building served, as near as practicable to the point at which the cable or wire enters, but, in the case of an underground entrance fed from aerial cable or wires, the protector may be placed at the junction of the underground and the aerial conductors.

(3) The protector shall not be located in any hazardous location as defined in Section 18, nor in the immediate vicinity of flammable or explosive materials.

(4) If the entire street circuit is run underground, no protector need be provided unless that portion of the circuit between the street and the building is liable to accidental contact with electric lighting or power conductors operating at a voltage exceeding 300 volts between conductors.

54-046 Protection Requirements

(1) The protector shall be mounted on an incombustible, absorption-resistant, insulating base except that, where a number of conductors are grouped to serve a building, the protectors may be mounted on a grounded metallic frame.

(2) The protector shall consist of an arrester between each line conductor and the ground, and a fuse connected in each line conductor so as to protect the arrester, except that the fuses may be omitted under the conditions outlined in Subrule (4).

(3) The protector terminals shall be plainly marked to indicate "line", "equipment" and "ground".

(4) Fuses protecting the arrester may be omitted:

(a) On circuits entering a building through metal-sheathed cable, provided the metal sheath of the cable is grounded and the conductors in the cable are No. 24 AWG or smaller; or

(b) On circuits served directly by cables with grounded metal sheath or by insulated conductors, in accordance with Rules 54-062 and 54-064, extending from such cable to the building served, provided that the protector is acceptable for this purpose.

54-048 Arrangement of Inside Cables or Conductors

(1) Cables or conductors inside buildings shall be neatly arranged and secured in place in a convenient and workmanlike manner.

(2) The installation of such cables or conductors shall be in conformity with the provisions of Rules 54-050 to 54-052.

54-050 Insulation of Inside Cables or Conductors. The kind of insulation for the cables or conductors of the wire television distribution system, located as in Rule 54-048, shall be acceptable for the particular application, but is not specified in further detail as reliance is placed upon the grounding arrangements or protectors to prevent dangerous voltages and currents where the conductors are liable to contact with power conductors.

54-052 Separation of Inside Cables or Conductors from Other Conductors

(1) The cables or conductors of a wire television distribution system in a building shall be separated at least 2 inches from any conductor of an electric light or power system unless:

(a) One system is in grounded metallic raceways or metal-sheathed cable; or

(b) Both systems are permanently separated by a continuous, firmly fixed non-conductor, other than the insulation on the conductors, such as porcelain tubes or flexible tubing.

(2) The cables or conductors of a wire television distribution system shall not be placed in any outlet box, junction box, raceway or similar fitting or compartment which contains conductors of electric light or power systems or of Class 1 circuits (as defined in Rule 16-004) unless:

(a) The wire television cables or conductors are separated from the other conductors by an acceptable partition; or

(b) The power or Class 1 conductors are placed solely for the purpose of supplying power to the wire television distribution system or for connection to remote-control equipment.

(3) The cables or conductors of a wire television distribution system in a building shall not be placed in a shaft with the conductors of an electric light or power system unless:

(a) The conductors of the two systems are separated by at least 2 inches; or

(b) The conductors of either system are encased in non-combustible tubing.

(4) Clearances satisfactory to an inspector shall be maintained between wire television distribution cables or conductors and communication cables or conductors other than the clearance necessary to prevent conflict or abrasion, provided the wire television distribution cables or conductors and the communication cables or conductors adhere to standard clearances from power circuits as defined in this section and to the satisfaction of an inspector.

54-054 Inside Cables or Conductors in a Vertical Run. Where cables or conductors of a wire television distribution system in a building are in a vertical run in a shaft or partition, they shall:

(a) Have a flame-retarding covering capable of preventing the carrying of fire from floor to floor;

(b) Be encased in tubing or other outer covering of non-combustible material; or

(c) Be located in a fireproof shaft having fire stops at each floor.

54-056 Outside Overhead Cables or Conductors on Poles. Clearances acceptable to an inspector shall be maintained between overhead wire distribution cables or conductors mounted on the same poles as power or communication cables.

54-058 Outside Overhead Cables or Conductors on Roofs

(1) Wire television cables or conductors passing over buildings shall be kept at least 8 feet above any roof which may be readily walked upon, except that such clearance may be reduced or eliminated by special permission.

(2) Such special permission shall not be necessary where the building is a garage, or other auxiliary building of one storey.

54-060 Outside Cables or Conductors Requiring Protectors. Wire television distribution circuits which require protectors in accordance with Rule 54-044 of this Code, shall comply with Rules 54-062 to 54-068.

54-062 Insulation on Outside Single or Paired Conductors

(1) In a wire television distribution circuit requiring a protector, each conductor from the last outside support to the protector shall be covered, either individually or over the pair, with a substantial fibrous covering or equivalent protection and shall:

(a) Have 1/32-inch rubber insulation;

(b) Have rubber insulation which need not exceed 1/40 inch in thickness when such conductors are entirely within a block; or

(c) Be acceptable for the purpose, having rubber insulation of a thickness less than specfied above, or having other kinds of insulation.

(2) The word "block" as used in this Section of the Code shall be construed to mean a square or portion of a city, town or village, enclosed by streets and including the alleys so enclosed, but not any street.

54-064 Insulation of Outside Cables

(1) Conductors of wire television distribution circuits requiring protectors may have paper or other suitable insulation within a cable having:

(a) A metal sheath; or

(b) A rubber sheath of at least 1/32-inch thickness and covered with a substantial fibrous covering.

(2) Conductors of wire television distribution circuits requiring protectors, within a cable having a sheath other than specified in Subrule (1), shall be insulated as required by Rule 54-062, and the bunched conductors shall be covered with a substantial fibrous covering or equivalent covering.

54-066 Outside Cables or Conductors on Buildings

(1) Wire television distribution cables or conductors on buildings shall be separated from light or power conductors not in cable or conduit by at least 4 inches, unless permanently separated by a continuous and firmly fixed non-conductor in addition to the insulation on the conductors, such as porcelain tubes or flexible conduit.

(2) Wire television distribution cables or conductors exposed to accidental contact with light or power conductors operating at voltages exceeding 300 volts, and attached to buildings, shall be separated from woodwork by being supported on glass, porcelain, or other insulating material acceptable for the purpose, except that such separation is not required where cables or conductors acceptable for the purpose are used to extend circuits to a building from a cable having a grounded metal sheath or grounded outer coaxial cable conductor.

(3) Wire television distribution cables or conductors attached to buildings shall not conflict with the circuits of other communication systems attached to the same building, and sufficient clearances shall be provided that there will be no unnecessary interference to maintenance operations, and in no case should the conductors, cables, strand or equipment of one system cause abrasion to the conductors, cables, strand or equipment of the other system.

(4) Lead-in cables or conductors of a wire television distribution system, attached to buildings, shall be installed so that they cannot swing closer than:

(a) 24 inches to the conductors of circuits of 300 volts or less;

(b) 40 inches to the conductors of circuits of more than 300 volts.

54-068 Outside Cables or Conductors Entering Buildings. Where a protector is installed inside the building, the wire television distribution cables or conductors shall enter the building either through a non-combustible, non-absorptive insulating bushing, or through a metal raceway, except that the insulating bushing or metal raceway may be omitted where the entering conductors:

(a) Are in metal-sheathed cable;

(b) Pass through masonry; or

(c) Are acceptable for the purpose and are used to extend circuits to a building from a cable having a grounded metal sheath.

54-070 Lightning Conductors. A separation of at least 6 feet shall, where practicable, be maintained between cables or conductors of wire television distribution systems on buildings and lightning conductors.

54-072 Underground Ducts

(1) Underground wire television distribution cables or conductors shall not be placed in any duct which contains electric lighting or power conductors.

(2) Duct systems, including laterals, to be occupied by wire television distribution cables or conductors for public use should be separated, where practicable, from duct systems, including laterals, for supply conductors by not less than 3 inches of concrete, 4 inches of brick masonry, or 12 inches of well-tamped earth.

(3) Where wire television distribution conductors or cables occupy ducts terminating in the same manhole or handhole, the two classes of ducts should be separated as widely as practicable and, where practicable, shall enter the manhole from opposite sides.

(4) Wire television distribution cables and supply cables for public use occupying the same manhole should, where practicable, be maintained at opposite sides of the manhole.

54-074 Underground Block Distribution. Where the entire street circuit is run underground and the part of the circuit within the block is placed so that it is not liable to contact with electric lighting or power circuits of more than 300 volts:

(a) No protector as specified in Rule 54-044 is required, and Rule 54-064 shall not apply;

(b) The insulation requirements of Rules 54-062 and 54-064 shall not apply;

(c) Conductors or cables need not be placed on insulating supports as specified in Rule 54-066 (2); and

(d) Where the conductors or cables enter the building, no bushings as specified in Rule 54-084 are required.

54-076 Ground of Cable Sheath or Outer Conductor of a Coaxial Cable. Where cables, either aerial or underground, enter buildings, the metal sheath of the cable or outer conductor of a coaxial cable shall be grounded on the building premises as close to the point of entrance as practicable.

54-078 Grounding Conductor

(1) The grounding conductor for a cable sheath, outer conductor of a coaxial cable or protector, shall have rubber insulation not less than 1/32-inch in thickness, and shall be covered by a substantial fibrous covering except that conductors acceptable for the purpose, having less than 1/32-inch rubber insulation, or having other kinds of insulation, may be used.

(2) The grounding conductor shall be of copper.

(3) Protector grounding conductors shall be not smaller than No. 18 AWG.
